On her own side of the family, Mrs. Ponton described something of Benjamin Franklin, Ralph Waldo Emerson, and several other well known Americans, some of whom she amusingly described as "pirates and horse thieves."

Since one of her ancestors had served as an aide to General George Washington, her family had several heirlooms presented by Washington to his side.

Mrs. Ponton concluded by calling on her listeners to preserve their family records, such that is part of our history — "Ponton" and "Tone" and "Stoney Lonesome".

Mrs. Ponton was thanked on behalf of the historical society by Mrs. Howard Graham.

Prior to the address, a brief business meeting was held with society president Gerald Boyce in the chair.

Mr. Boyce reported on the progress for a local museum in the present Registry Office, and then introduced Mr. T. Dine Martin.

MEMBERSHIP GROWING

As chairman of the society's program committee, Mr. Martin outlined the program for 1960. He noted that the March meeting would hear Miss Beryl Campbell of Quinte Secondary School speak on Susanna Moodie's book "Life in the Clearings," and see Mr. Allan Dempsey's collection of slides of the Quinte district in the 1830's.

Society secretary Miss Helen Fralick reported that membership for 1960 had already passed the sixty mark, and Mr. Boyce called upon all present to become members, since the society depends solely on one dollar membership fees to finance its work.

This money is being used to build up a camera slide collection of historical scenes, persons and sites. This aspect of the society's work is being supervised by Mr. John Cody.

Mr. Boyce reported that a committee had been organized to investigate the possibility of publishing some of the society's records. He also noted that donations of historical materials have been made to about ten Canadian historical organizations in the Hastings County Historical Society.

At the end of the meeting in Sidney Hall, the beginning of the society were displayed.

Industrial Committee Wants To Buy Land From Dept.

A recapitulation of Belleville Industrial Committee activities for the year 1959, was given to city council yesterday evening by Alderman Jack Ireland, council representative on the committee.

At the same time, Alderman Ireland said the Industrial committee recommended that the city purchase some 200 acres of industrial property, fronting along Highway 401, now owned by the highways department. He said the department was holding the property by way of a "gentleman's agreement" for purchase by the city. The cost would be $150 per acre.

The 1960 budget for the Industrial Committee has been set at $11,210, this being the amount recommended for approval by the finance committee.

For the benefit of new members of council Alderman Ireland said the purpose of the Industrial Committee was to attract new industry to the city and during the year representatives of many potential industries were contacted.

Lack of service land as an industrial site had been a big drawback, and it was felt the purchase of the department of highways property south of 401 by the city could put the committee in a better position to attract industry to the city.

MARKED UP CONSIDERABLY

Membership of the Industrial Committee is made up of three representatives from the Chamber of Commerce, three members of council, together with the mayor and manager. Chamber representatives this year are Jack Vanover, who acts as chairman of the committee, Chamber president Enos David and Hugh Murray. Council representatives are Aldermen Walter Elliott, Lorne McDougall and Jack Ireland.

Alderman Ireland said the Industrial Committee also belonged to the Lake Ontario Development Association, an organization formed to promote industry and tourism in the area.

Tribute was paid to Mr. Vanover as the Committee chairman with Alderman Ireland noting that he was doing a "tremendous job for the city."

2nd Belleville Cubs, Rovers Hold 'Family Night'

Last Wednesday was Family Night for the Cubs, Scouts and Rovers of 2nd Belleville. A goodly number of parents and friends came to get a glimpse of what goes on behind the scenes, in the weekly meetings of the movement.

Scoutmaster Blaker welcomed the guests. The Cubs formed in a horseshoe, and gave a horseshoe, joining together in the Grand Howl. Assistant Scoutmaster Mrs. ASM Ingraham offered a prayer which was followed by the repeating of the Cub Promise and Law.

CUBS' DEMONSTRATION

The Cubs opened their portion of the demonstration with the grand howl, followed by a prayer, Cubmaster, or as she is sometimes called, Akela Kemp, introduced herself and assistants Sharon Boyd, Joan Bronskill; Baloo, Mrs. Betty Gibson, and Raeksha, Mrs. Lily Hambly.

The Cubs performed most admirably and with much poise as first aid was demonstrated. The second version of "Up the Cub-by Ladder" was then rendered, led to the parents how patience, co-operation and hard work and a wonderful sense of humor coupled with discipline, welds a group of individuals into a co-operative, enthusiastic pack of Cubs.

They showed that they must know the Cub law, salute, grand howl, Cub sign, Cub's own flag, how to play games fairly, how to tie a knot, how to take care of their bicycle, the rules of traffic, personal cleanliness and eventually how to semaphore alphabet. It was also shown how Cubs learn by doing when one of the Cubs offered a piano solo.

Scoutmaster Blaker brought his Scouts to attention and introduced Assistant Scout Gordon Ingraham but he also gave highly of assistants, Bailey and Honey, who were unable to be present.

He explained the details of Honor Patrol competition and of the Cub Patrol Leaders' Council, saying won the competition three weeks in a row, would have the opportunity to use the new "Patrol Box". This would, he hoped, spur the Cub patrols on to greater efforts.

Commissioner called six of his scouts to the front to be presented with badges: Swimmers badge — Douglas McArthur; Wm. Hutchings, Richard Herrington; Percy Goodeve, Glen Rabbitt; winter sports — Bruce Johnson.

Troop Leader, Terry Johnson, having earned swimmers, athletics, missioner, chemists and health badges bringing his total to 18, received the badges and the coveted "Gold Cord" symbol of this achievement. Terry already a Queen Scout.

SET UP CAMP

The Scouts proceeds to demonstrate their ability to set up camp completely with tent, camping utensils, etc. They also, proved to those of us not in uniform, that they are ably led by friction. With the Scouts around their campfire, Scoutmaster told of their long range plans for camping. In order to be self-sufficient, they need more tents and equipment. Two of these have already been working. For the Cubs' camp, floors would have to be provided. This appealed to the group committee to have a get-together and parents' party so the cubs could take advantage of camping facilities.

Group Commissioner, P. I. Alcorn, was introduced to the gathering.

Akela led the group in a hearty sing-song. Singing of the "Vesper Hymn" brought the evening to a close.

Much credit must be given to the "Akela" and the "Scoutmaster" for their splendid work and great service they are rendering to Belleville Scouting.

Before, during and after doughnuts were served by Mrs. Normington and the mothers of the Auxiliary.

City Hall Staff Said Seeking To Join Union

City hall employees at Belleville are on the verge of joining a public services employees union, and at least one meeting has been held recently toward this end.

The union was mentioned briefly at last evening's meeting of city council when Alderman Eugene Harrison asked if any members of the city hall staff had joined the union.

Alderman Leslie F. Reid, chairman of the council personnel committee, replied that it was his understanding employees were interested in joining the union.

He warned, however, that councillors must maintain neutrality in the matter as any interference would mean that the union would automatically receive certification.

Last week Mr. E. A. Gilcrest, representative of the National Union of Public Services Employees met with members of the city hall staff at Belleville.

The members are invited to join this unit and help to keep the spirit of comradeship here in the newly-furnished and decorated clubrooms. It was decided that with a certain amount of new members who have joined the organization, to hold an initiation ceremony Thursday, March 3rd. Arthur Gilbert and Thomas York were elected as unit representatives to the Belleville Darts Association Executive.

After the adjournment of the meeting, lunch was served by refreshment convenor Bill Salter and committee and a social hour was enjoyed by the members.

The Ladies' Auxiliary Valentine Dance was held in the auditorium and was attended by 160 members and guests. The hall was most suitably decorated and a very enjoyable evening was had by all attending. The proceeds of the dance were given to the fine work of entertainment chairman Bill Salter and his committee. Many thanks for every effort to make this the outstanding event that it was. The delectable rhythm of Hugo Kelly's band added to the pleasure of the evening.

Those words were true, how true we know,
We lost our best, our dearest friend,
Dear Mum, when we lost you.
Never remembered by daughter Ruth and Gordon.

GREEN. — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Margaret Green, who passed away February 16th, 1954.

Along the road to yesterday,
I often walk and dream of you,
And sit up in the still of night,
Together we once knew.
And in the memories I hold dear,
I seem to have a way,
Of bringing you back to meet you
On the road to yesterday.

Council Orders Hockey Team's Accounts Paid

Some of the debts incurred by the Belleville McFarlands Hockey Team during the championship of the city of Belleville, which ended up in the Ontario finals, will be paid.

Council voted to pay outstanding accounts amounting to $6,449.30, when it met last night in the 1959 city deficit.

A breakdown of the outstanding accounts ordered paid showed that a major portion or $4,425, was owed to Belleville Arena Ltd. with Alderman Don Whalen, chairman of the arena board, pointing out, in noting this was the equipment purchased by the team. Another account was to the Ontario Intelligencer for advertising and printing of program sheets and other accounts ranged down to $3.

The total of the accounts remaining unpaid when the city's hockey scandal came to light last May. Since that time, however, a number of contributions by individuals and firms, including generally that if the city had no legal responsibility for payment there certainly was a moral responsibility.

Court Sharron Valentine Party Much Enjoyed

Court Sharron Lodge No. 1682 of the Canadian Order of Foresters was the sponsor of one of the most colorful Valentine parties ever held at Tobe's Variety Gardens, with many novelty dances, modern dances and old time quadrilles.

A balloon dance delighted the guests, the participating couples dancing with the balloons between their foreheads, hands behind their backs. Finally they wound up with the balloons between their ankles and the winners of the prizes were Frank Ray and Joan Reid.

There was a beautiful door prize an was a fine assortment of spot dance prizes.

The Committee was rewarded with hearts done in red and white trim cakes, each square in size from one foot in length to five feet.

Everyone expressed appreciation for the fine time they had enjoyed.

City Delegates To Attend Realtors Meeting

The need for realtors to take a more active part in planning Canadian municipalities will be one of the dominant themes at the 38th annual convention of the Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards.

Clifford W. Rodgers of Toronto, who will give the presidential report during the convention, stated that realtors must add their experience to that of other professional groups with future communities. The three-day meeting opens February 21 in Niagara Falls.

Now that real estate has grown up" it is the duty of realtors to participate more fully in community activities, Mr. Rodgers said.

Officers of CAREB estimate that a record 1,000 realtors will attend the convention. The number last year in London was about 650.

CANADIAN SPEAKERS

Participating in the conference will be a number of U.S. and Canadian speakers, including Samuel G. Russell, a realtor from Denver, Colorado; W. Stanley Corrance, commercial and industrial specialist, and James A. Lowden of Montreal, president of the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards.

A. J. Richards, registrar of the real estate and business brokers act of Ontario, will also address the convention.

Hon. D. Thompson and Donald Whalen will attend the convention as delegates from the Belleville and District Real Estate Board.

to be studied by the legislature's standing committee on energy which, it said, could be amended.

The energy act, which contains a series of provisions for, provisions for inspection of energy operations, was called a "gas act in disguise" by Mr. Whitesides who said it omitted Ontario Hydro and nuclear energy.

Kenneth Bryden (CCF—Woodbine) said the bill should "provide ordinate all sources of energy in the province." He said the answer to a fuel consumer crisis is a public distribution system for natural gas, similar to Hydro.

The government has deliberately avoided including Hydro in the bill so as not to interfere with the traditional relationships between Ontario Hydro and the municipalities, Mr. Frost said.

In that event, said Financier Marvin Jack Taylor, concerning the activities of the club in sponsoring sports programs for the young people of the town.

Rotarian J. C. Collins reported on activities of the club which have to do with crippled children. He said that there are almost 100 crippled children within a round half a million members in 80 countries. Forty hundred new clubs were started in 50 countries last year. The 50th anniversary of the Trenton members wintered in the south every year and all attended Rotary meetings there thus spreading publicity and goodwill concerning the Trenton club. In the summer months, visiting Rotarians from the United States were always welcome at club meetings. He urged that some thought be given to city school buildings submitted by committee chairman Morley Lovelace was referred to the under the CNR level crossing at Sidney Street. Councillor Vern Lange, chairman of finance, estimated the cost to the town would be roughly $6,000. Including the interest charges on progressive payments in the agreement with the town will be reimbursed by the Board of Transport within 30 days, the town paying the interest for the 30-day interval.

The cost of the entire project, including the cost of moving public utility installations, is estimated at $194,000. The bulk of this sum will be paid by the federal Board of Transport and the provincial Department of Highways. Five per cent of the entire cost will be borne by the railroad. Trenton and the county of Hastings will share on a municipal cost of $12,000. In view of possible annexation of the built-up areas adjacent to the proposed subway, the town fathers council that the annexed area would be to share the cost at this time, but that the annexed area would be obligated to share the cost. Councillor Lange said he thought that the town's share could be taken out of current funds, possibly over a two-year period, thus eliminating interest on debentures.

It is expected that work on the project will commence early this spring, and that it will be completed by the spring of 1961.

Historical Society Will Be Asked for Names for Schools

The Hastings County Historical Society will be invited to recommend names for the two new public schools to be erected on East and West Bridge Street, members of the Belleville Public School Board at their meeting last night decided after authorizing a letter to go out to the historical body asking for the name suggestions with a historical significance in Belleville.

Inspector Ross Sallows delighted the guests, the participating couples dancing with the balloons between their foreheads, hands behind their backs. Finally they wound up with the balloons between their ankles and the winners of the prizes were Frank Ray and Joan Reid.

There was a beautiful door prize an was a fine assortment of spot dance prizes.

The Committee was rewarded with hearts done in red and white trim cakes, each square in size from one foot in length to five feet.

Everyone expressed appreciation for the fine time they had enjoyed.

Refer Request For Bus to Education Bd.

TRENTON — A Mr. W. G. Elworthy appeared before Trenton council last night to request that a school bus be supplied for pupils living in the Roscoe Avenue, Wilmot Street area. He said that there were 33 pupils attending Wilmot Street school from this area and that by next fall there would be 47 pupils. Mr. Elworthy said that his wife provided transportation for some of the students at a cost of $30 and that he was disturbed at the possibility of liability in case of accident, and that he and other residents of the area felt that the bus should provide a school bus.

He said that the residents had been very patient with council about the lack of sewers and sidewalks in this area, but that they felt the bus was a real need.

Mayor James MacDonald said that he had been reading the Belleville paper and knowing how far council could go in providing bus service.

Councillor D. R. Fraser said that he felt all written communications should be considered by a committee and not thrashed out in public. Councillor Collier H. C. Aziz asked, "What committee should this go under?"

"We'll send them to education," the mayor assured him. Councillor Aziz said that he did not thought the problem was one for the Board of Education as it concerned school buses.

After further discussion, the mayor advised Mr. Elworthy to write a petition to the school board and if the board members could not give him any satisfaction to return to council and a special committee would be appointed to deal with the matter.

Two Railways Decline to Give Town Locomotive

TRENTON—Councillors were disillusioned last night by communications from the Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Railway concerning the possibility that they would give a steam locomotive for display purposes. James Day had suggested that the town might acquire a locomotive, set it up as a monument to the railways and ask a service club to maintain it in good repair. Council had felt that future generations of Trenton residents would appreciate the reminder of the "good old days" when Trenton was a railroad centre.

The two railway companies have replied that the cost of purchasing, moving, maintaining and protecting the locomotive would be prohibitive. The railroads would come to a considerable expense in order to, declined reluctantly to donate a locomotive for the purpose to the town as they said that they could realize several thousands of dollars from the sale of it for scrap purposes. However, both companies indicated that if the town fathers were bent on carrying through the project they would be happy to sell them a locomotive.

After due discussion, council members decided that, considering the cost and the problem of boilermen, Trenton could do without the locomotive at this time and that a letter should be sent to Mr. Day, thanking him for his suggestion.

Town to Share In Subway Cost

TRENTON — At last night's meeting of Trenton council, it was decided that the town would share in the cost of a subway under the CNR level crossing at Sidney Street. Teamwork Key to Successful Hospital Administration

Members of Rotary Club Told

"Teamwork is the key to successful hospital administration", said Werner Daechsel, superintendent of the Belleville General Hospital, leading off a panel discussion on local hospital administration at the weekly meeting of the local Rotary Club yesterday afternoon. He was joined with Mr. Daechsel on the panel were Dr. Donald M. Scott, president of the Medical Staff Association of the hospital, and Miss Dorti Smith, superintendent of nurses and director of the training school.

Dr. Scott outlined the activities and duties of the medical staff to the Board of Governors in fulfilling its responsibility for the care of the patient in the hospital. He pointed out that the Board's main duty was moral and its responsibility for the care of the patients. "The medical staff assists the Board in this by ensuring that the physicians on staff were qualified and competent and that the work which they might be engaged in was carried out," he said in his panel member.

It was stated by Dr. Scott that the care of a patient is done by a team, whose efforts are directed by the doctor. The nurses play a major responsibility in this team effort, working with the various departments of the hospital which are concerned", he said.

Miss Smith outlined the various departments and division of the hospital's activities within the general organization of the local hospital in such a manner as to achieve a balanced administration. The balance must be achieved and maintained, it was stated, in order to provide the most efficient patient care. "The departments are indispensable", said Miss Smith, "although each may feel that it is the core of the organization, they all have their particular place in the effective patient care.

Mr. Daechsel outlined seven points which affect the administration of a hospital and how they influence the work of the administrator's decisions and policies.

MUST BE LOWEST COST

Cost was listed as the first of these points and the efficient hospital should offer the lowest possible cost for whatever service it can do to qualify when enters the picture" said Mr. Daechsel. "One of the best possible job must also be done."

There must be full consideration given to the persons involved in the work of the hospital, they should be adequately rewarded for their contribution to the hospital's efficiency and work, he stated. Also affecting a hospital's administration is that the public welfare must be considered above the individual engaged in the hospital. This latter part of hospital administration has to be correlated and fitted into the total plan, said the local hospital superintendent. It is the most institutional instinct of a hospital to keep going and expanding.

Administrative work can also be influenced by personal welfare and feelings said Mr. Daechsel and finally, it is also influenced by those who own the hospital. The importance of all these factors in hospital administration can be realized when Invitation to Recklessness?

"Almost any policy, no matter how fantastic, will have some support among the public," observes the Financial Times, in the course of an article opposing compulsory automobile insurance.

If we accept this view, there will, we suppose, be some support for the Times' contention that "the main objection to compulsory automobile insurance, and it is a serious one from both a social and economic point of view, is that such a law, in the very nature of things, acts as an encouragement to the reckless and irresponsible driver."

Most of us, though, would have supposed that whatever arguments can be advanced against compulsory insurance, and there are some reasonable ones, they would not include the contention that it would lead more drivers to live dangerously.

The Times, though, advances an argument which, on first glance, is plausible. "If a driver knows that a bad accident record will prevent him from obtaining insurance coverage and that becoming involved in an accident will result in his licence being suspended, he might be expected to exercise a modicum of caution in his driving," it argues.

Its view evidently is that, as long as the carrying of insurance is not compulsory, companies will be able to refuse to issue policies to drivers with bad records, and that this fact discourages reckless driving. On the other hand, if it is made compulsory for drivers to carry insurance, the Times presumes it will also become compulsory for companies to issue insurance to all drivers granted licences.

As we said, this argument seems plausible when first considered, but reflection will suggest that the man who is a reckless driver is not likely to confine his irresponsibility to that one activity but that it is likely to be characteristic of his general conduct. His irresponsibility is likely to include a disregard for the interests of others who may suffer through his failure to carry insurance and, as for his own interests, if he is reckless of his life and the lives of his passengers, is he likely to be overly concerned with his pocketbook? In most cases, we think, the answer is in the negative.

If follows that the only time inability to obtain insurance is likely to lessen the hazard from reckless drivers is when these drivers cannot obtain licences without proving financial responsibility, after licence suspensions. Some people, though, may feel that it is desirable that the government should have the sole authority to say who can and who cannot obtain a licence.

Compulsory car insurance would certainly not make reckless drivers careful, but we must beg leave to doubt that it would turn people who are now careful, for whatever reason, into reckless drivers. To believe otherwise would force us to reverse our conviction that the voluntary purchase of adequate car insurance is a sign of the responsible citizen.

This Is Sacrilege

Is nothing sacred? Things are going on at Chatham, Ontario, which should be investigated by the F.B.I., the Federation of Blueberry Idolators.

W. A. "Mac" McKenzie, head of the technical service section, the agricultural chemicals division of Canadian Industries Limited in Chatham, has been busy for the past nine years taming the blueberry. Soon, if his experiments bear fruit, people everywhere will be picking blueberries in their own back yards. Furthermore, the garden variety of blueberry will, it is said, be larger and have more flavor than the average Canadian wild blueberry bush. Larger we can believe. Tastier—come now, Mac, don't give us any of that stuff. You just haven't eaten any blueberry pie cooked from berries plucked from those North Hastings patches that I know. Plus reasonably light soil, loam or sandy loam with good drainage? And four inches of sawdust mulch can produce a better harvest than the rocks and swales north of Highway No. 7— why it's ridiculous, that's what it is.

Suggests Need Here Is Really for YWCA

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

In recent weeks I have been reading in your paper of plans for a Belleville "Y".

The old building on Campbell Street is just bursting at the seams.

If all the girls' and women's organizations that are discontinued I'm sure there would be plenty of room and a new building would not be necessary.

Queer Facts About Mars

Letter to the Montreal Gazette
By Ronald J. Anne, Montreal

On January 30 it was reported on TV news that Russian scientists believed that some of the people on this earth are the descendants of men from space travellers, and that intelligent life once existed on Mars. If such life did exist on Mars it has obviously existed and still does on other planets.

It is believed that the two moons of Mars are artificial; there is no scientific proof to support this claim. In 1877 Asaph Hall, an American astronomer, first saw the two moons of Mars.

The brightness of the two satellites is greater than that of Mars, and it has been found that Phobos has speeded up. This has been noted by Sharples in 1945 and Dr. I. S. Shlovsky in Russia. This satellite is only about 54,000 miles from Mars, well within the gravity pull of Mars, its diameter is about 10 miles; the diameter of the other satellite is about 7 miles, artificial objects cannot control their own paths especially within the gravity pull of a planet.

On Dec. 9, 1949, the noted astronomer from Japan Tsuneo Sakeki, observed a gigantic explosion on Mars, and also was observed from this that extended to a height of 30 miles and a diameter of 700 miles.

In recent years Dr. Silpher who was in charge of the studies of Mars, discovered new canals on Mars, one 1,000 miles long and perfectly straight. Many strange lights have been seen on Mars. In the winter of 1936 Prof. Robert Damion, an astronomer at Cambridge, was the visitor to my office close to Mars, a queer bluish light suddenly flare up. It lasted only a minute, but occurred at regular intervals. So powerful was the light that no one could read a book by it. It was also seen by astronomers at the Southern Observatory in 1928. On November 24, 1894, Professor Pickering at Lowell Observatory saw a very luminous body above the unilluminated part of the crescent. It was about 20 miles from Mars.

On Dec. 7, 1900, Pickering saw a luminous body for 70 minutes on the orb of Mars. He said it was not explainable. He thought he detected a code in the lights. There have been many theories that show the existence of intelligent life on Mars, and many more such incidents will be reported.

Because he happened to be kind to an elderly man, a Detroit steel worker is to receive $100,000. It proves again that it pays to help others.

Compact Cars Selling Well

Christian Science Monitor

The compact cars are really selling. That is the word from the automobile industry. The big-car stylists who grudgingly conceded a year or two ago that 10 per cent of the market might go for smaller cars are facing the fact that approximately 25 per cent of sales are now in that category and the proportion is rising.

Entering the field after the way had been broken by American Motors' Rambler and Studebaker's Lark, the Big Three are stepping up production of Ford's Falcon, General Motors' Corvair, and Chrysler's Valiant. These reportedly are cutting into sales of Chevrolets, Fords and Plymouth on one side and into foreign car popularity on the other.

So striking is the revolution in tastes that one maker is preparing two more lines of smaller-size models, one to be called dressed-up side and the other to match with the Rambler. Volkswagen and French Renault Dauphine in the economy market. Other auto manufacturers are adding to their compact lines.

This does not mean that regular and luxurious cars will disappear overnight. The hard-to-beat powerful car for distance cruising, the roomy car for sheer comfort, and the prestige model that will carry a Cub Scout troop or a load of furniture will still have their devotees and their purposes.

But what is developing apparently, as was forecast on this page, is a new kind of public buy-ers will have their choice of a wide range of car types and sizes, with the economy segment only in practical transportation will not have the status of sales-rooms and those who can afford to drive without looking at the price tag will still have that privilege.

Msgr. J. P. Sullivan, New Rector of St. Michael's, Given Warm Reception by Parish

The spacious auditorium of St. Michael's Academy was the setting for the formal welcome and reception of Right Reverend James P. Sullivan, D.D., P.P., newly appointed Pastor of St. Michael's Parish. Mrs. Herbert Brown, president of the branch, and council of The Catholic Women's League opened the formalities and greeted the large number of parishioners who had gathered to pay tribute to Belleville's newest son.

The address of welcome was given by Mrs. B. E. Burley, who was introduced by Mrs. Brown as being a life-long member of the Parish, a former president of the Catholic Women's League of St. Michael's, Past President of Kingston Archdiocesan Council, Parent Teacher Associations and Past President of The Kingston Archdiocesan Council of The Catholic Women's League of Canada. Mrs. Burley said, "It is a deep honor, to perform a very pleasant duty on behalf not only of the 300 members of the C.W.L. but all the members of St. Michael The Archangel Parish. Continuing, she said, "We realize the great personal sacrifice made by His Grace, Archbishop O'Sullivan when His Grace appointed as our new Pastor, one, whose fame has come before him.

"We know, Monsignor, the high regard in which you are held, not only by your former parishioners of St. Mary's Cathedral where you were rector, but the citizens of Kingston as a whole. As head of Catholic Charities for the Archdiocese, your work with various social and welfare agencies brought you in contact with people of many different faiths who also hold you in highest regard. As Chaplain of Regis College we know you were responsible for the expansion of facilities and developments which led to its affiliation with Queen's University as a teaching hospital. While Diocesan Director of Hospitals, St. Mary's of the Lake was extended and became a hospital with the chronically ill. Your activities for many years on the Kingston Separate School Board have given you a vast insight in educational problems that will be a great value in your new duties here. Your accomplishments and abilities were recognized by the Holy See, when you were made a Domestic Prelate and invested with the robes of a Monsignor in 1951.

RESPOND TO WELCOME

In responding to the address of welcome, Monsignor Sullivan said, "The observance of St. Valentine's Day has made manifest by the warm reception wherein you have taken me to your hearts. Since I arrived here two weeks ago, everyone has been most gracious — the Priests at the Rectory, the Sisters at the Convent, the pupils at the Academy and the people on the streets, but now representing as you do so many groups, you have made my welcome to St. Michael's and Belleville official. I can now say in Scriptural language, "I was a stranger and you took me in", in the best sense of the words. You planned this evening as a tribute to me and naturally I was flattered by the extravagant thoughts so beautifully expressed by Mrs. Burley in her address but I must turn the spotlight around and see it only as an expression of the friendliness for the people of this community noted. It has been my privilege to have had the opportunity of meeting, knowing and working with many of you, and together with you, share the accomplishments of which you are capable. I rejoice in the records of your organizations. The Catholic Women's League Council to which I am indebted, knight is the largest in the Archdiocese. Despite my urging, St. Mary's Cathedral was never able to surpass it. Your Catholic Lending Library, one of the many apostolic endeavors of Dr. Edith Peterkin is the only one that I know of in the Archdiocese and has great potential. The same unique record belongs to the Alhambra.

PROGRESSIVE BODIES

No Council of the Knights of Columbus has greater strength than yours and certainly no better or finer accomplishments. The Holy Name Society has objectives which are primarily spiritual but last Sunday evening it was my privilege to have dinner with a working unit of this organization which has done much to further materially parish projects. The Separate School Board under the chairmanship of Mr. Carl Casey and the guidance of Dr. T. J. Percy, is a progressive body with five modern schools to its credit. The late Dean Garvin became the Diocesan Director at the Parent-Teacher Association because the extent of your PTA units demanded that this honor go to Belleville. Few parishes have a Sodality which reaches in every way beyond the high school category, but St. Michael's has and will be represented at the Special Sodality Day to be held in Kingston next Sunday. When we think of your high school and Nicholson College, which is being built, I must acknowledge the work of the Sisters of Providence, who have carried on until now, and the efforts of the men and women who have taken the responsibility of improving this extension of your educational system. It will be without parallel for a community of this size in the province. You can then, why it delights me to be received so well by you and to be counted as one of you. I want you all to know how glad I am to be with you and how I share your desires for a greater St. Michael's."

EXECUTIVES PRESENTED

Following Monsignor Sullivan's response to the address of welcome, a solo, "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You," was rendered by Mr. Robert Barker, accompanied by Mrs. William Girard.

The executive members of the following Parish societies and organizations were presented to the new pastor: the Separate School Board, Holy Name Society, Knights of Columbus, Ham Carvan 1009, Order of the Alhambra, Parent - Teacher Associations of St. Michael's High School and St. Michael's Academy, Sodality of Our Lady, Nicholson Catholic College Committee, the Catholic Library Board, Altar Society, Benevolent Society, St. Michael's choir and ushers.

Earlier in the evening at a general meeting of the C.W.L., Monsignor Sullivan was presented with a token gift from the League by a former president and secretary of the Archdiocesan Council, Mrs. James E. Boyd.

Mr. Winter's announcement brought quick reactions from Ottawa, Elliot Lake and the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), which bargains for the Elliot Lake miners.

Murray Cotterill, public relations director for the steelworkers, urged federal government action to soften the blow. He said the government should adopt a union request that the $400 severance pay be waived as a bar to unemployment insurance.

In Ottawa, Opposition Leader Pearson, whose riding of Algoma East includes Elliot Lake, said the government has an obligation to alleviate the impending layoffs; but declined to specify what action should be taken.

In Elliot Lake, Robert C. Hart, chairman of the public School Board and district manager of Rio Tinto's management services, said the important thing now is the town has some certainty until 1966.

Walter Ross, area organizer for the steelworkers union, also welcomed Mr. Winters's regrets.

"But what do we do when a town folds up?" he asked. "It's going to hurt the workers, but we did not have any choice."

Elliot Lake was first mapped out in 1955 when geologist Selwyn Joubin's hunch about the area was proved by diamond drilling surveys. By 1959 eleven mills were processing 35,000 tons of ore a day from the richest uranium deposit in the Western world.

To populate the area a ultra-modern townsite of 10,000 sprang up under one of the most creatively - planned development programs ever applied to a non-company town in Canada. The Ontario government put the full resources of two departments to work on drawing up plans and zoning regulations to prevent Elliot Lake becoming a series of satellite communities.

Safari for Souls

With Billy Graham in Africa

BY TOM McMAHAN
Religion Editor, The State, Columbia, S.C.

KADUNA, Nigeria — An African mother sat in a little semi-circle of people on the grass clasping her suckling child to her bare breast with perfect grace and holding a Bible in the other hand as she sought to nourish spiritually some who had responded to the evangelist's challenge to turn from their sins to Christ.

For the first time perhaps, a platform guest at a Graham meeting slept during the sermon. It was the little son of a high government official who drove all night from his home, five hundred miles away, to preside as chairman of the meeting.

A high Moslem official confided to a friend that Graham's message was a fair representation of the Gospel he had ever heard. "It was wonderful," he commented.

Ten miles from the city, with beautiful buildings and palatial homes abound, Graham visited a tiny village whose principal item of commerce is rock. Nearby was a tiny church where forty people sometimes occupy six-inch high mud benches in a room ten feet by twelve feet. A brush arbor had been built and crude bridges stretched across ditches to welcome the evangelist's visit.

DEFIED THREATS

Some of the people who were crowded under the brush had walked twelve miles. All had defied threats when Jesus Christ was lifted up before the evangelist's preaching. On the way Graham was briefed on the people's calm refusal to stop worshipping Christ openly despite threats of the nearby Moslem Chief, and the poised cutlasses of a group of young toughs. "You can take our goods, burn our homes and kill us but you cannot take Christ from us," said one when the armed gang threatened him.

During the service the little terraced church sang in their own tongue, "There'll Be No Dark Valley When Jesus Comes." Some had faces whittered and with a kind of cosmetic. Many bore symmetrical tribal markings on their bodies. One man had a sore eye. Many had donned new clothes for the occasion.

In defiance of these enemies a sign was posted on the road proclaiming Graham, whom they considered a holy man.

As the evangelist re-entered Kaduna he saw a large herd of Brahma cattle driven by Fulmadi Culanis, whose cousins are the Moslem rulers of the region. These herdsmen live like Old Testament patriarchs and grow even have Jewish antecedents. "Their sacrifices resemble some described by the ancient Hebrews," Graham commented. One man rode on a heavily laden donkey following the herd, with a live chicken tied to its back.

The larger supper honoring Graham was attended by seventy missionaries and Nigerians. Among the guests was a British woman who is the only doctor in an eighty bed hospital. The day before, Doctor Theodora Mees performed twenty-one major operations. With delightful wit she told of patients who borrow others symptoms making a diagnosis difficult. "These people suffer patiently," she said, "many coming to the hospital only at the last resort after village barbers have hacked at outsized tumors and hernias."

"Dr. Graham flew from Kaduna in a small missionary aircraft in order to dedicate a one-hundred twenty thousand dollar hospital built by the Southern Baptists at the Katangoro colony. Landing strips in an area resembling Texas. The District Officer, eight-year-old Sardin of Sudan, reclining in his chair in the midst of the assembly with his shoes off, expressed thanks for the hospital, the only one within ninety miles. A Baptist leader cited government statistics showing that there was one trained doctor for every two hundred thousand in the Northern Region, compared with one for every thousand in America. A suicide evangelist, Grady Wilson, spoke to two hundred converts. Six farmers near here. Three-fourths of them, plus several guards, raised their hands to indicate their acceptance of Christ as Savior. "This is the greatest day since I have been here," said the British Warden under whose guidance convicts publish a quarterly magazine of unusual quality containing poems, stories and articles on religion, politics and education.

De Gaulle Has Direct Control Over Algeria

PARIS (CP) — President Charles de Gaulle Sunday took over direct control of Algerian affairs with the creation of a ministerial inner cabinet to deal with policy for the North African territory.

At the same time, Gen. Maurice Challe, supreme French commander in Algeria, ordered his troops to intensify operations against nationalist rebels in northern Algeria.

The army said 168 rebels were killed over the weekend during the weekend throughout Algeria.

sible. If they all take their allotted 40 minutes, it may take days for the issue to be stated in full.

On Thursday, for example, there may be room for only seven or eight speakers. There will be a good deal of pressure for a lot more time. Dozens of MPs—especially on the government side—have indicated they want to speak on the budget.

To avoid letting the bill drop to the bottom of the order paper, the government would have to impose the date for continued debate and the conditions under which it would be held.

It now is understood that the government proposes to ask the consent of the Commons to resume the discussion on the next private members' day, which is Monday. But CCF members usually object to any suggestion that would reduce the allotted time for private members' proposals.

The Liberals are understood to be preparing to insist that the debate be set over to some other day normally after the government business.

It would take only one dissenting voice to end the debate when the allotted time is reached Thursday night at 10 p.m. and there would be no chance of a vote.

Two executive meetings are planned and the March monthly meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Grant Hubble.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S. AUX.

St. Andrew's Evening Auxiliary W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. H. Beaumont, 60 Southview Avenue.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. H. Pickard.

Mrs. S. Hayes read a letter received from Chilis Indian student. It was decided to hold the next meeting in the form of an auction.

Mrs. A. Chaplain and Mrs. F. Sheffield presented an interesting reading on "Africa."

The Scripture was read by Mrs. H. Beaumont.

After the meeting was closed by Mrs. O. Wright, lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. H. Beaumont, Mrs. H. Pickard and Mrs. O. Wright.

Historical Paper, Books Read at W.I.

The February meeting of the Foxboro Women's Institute was held in the school auditorium. In the form of a supper meeting with Mr. Gerald Boyce, a history teacher at Moira Secondary School, as guest speaker. The husbands of the members were also guests.

After a most delicious repast the president opened the meeting in the usual manner and welcomed all the guests. Mrs. LaRue called on Mrs. M. B. Sheavy, who was in charge of the program for the evening.

Mrs. Sheavy gave a short historical sketch of Foxboro in its early days, and called on Mrs. J. B. Hayton who gave a reading, "A Gift from Heaven," by the late Edgar A. Guest.

Mrs. Carmen Bamber introduced Mr. Boyce, president of the Hastings County Historical Society, who gave a most interesting talk on the Society and some of its aims.

At present the members of the society number 100 and they are trying to establish a centre in the Old Registry Office there which have so far been collected the names of those buried, there are some old apple peelers churns and three of the original nails in the old Belleville court house."

1856 PAPER

Mr. Boyce had on display an old Belleville paper dated June 28th, 1856 and a first edition. He also read an extract from an old letter written at the time of the first settlers in Canada from the USA; also an extract from a book written by a Methodist minister of the early days.

Mr. Boyce also had with him a book, "Life on the Clearings," by Susanna Moody. This book was written in Belleville in 1836 and describes her life in the Belleville district, and describing old Belleville of 1840 as being a town of 1,500 souls.

CHARGE OF THE BRIGADE

From another book he had Mr. Boyce read the description of the school near Trenton which would in all probability have described any school of 100 years ago. The seats were benches on which the pupils sat; the smaller children seated on benches much too high for them. The older children only attended school in the winter and at times they caused a great deal of inconvenience.

Mr. Boyce concluded with the basic idea of the historical society, which is to help keep alive the things of today.

Mrs. W. Simmons thanked Mr. Boyce for his most interesting address and Mrs. Sheavy presented a gift on behalf of the Institute members.

After the meeting closed some of the husbands enjoyed a few games of euchre.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two lawyers. Each offers his opinion on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Barbara D. — was recently remarried and I feel that I am caught between the devil and the deep blue sea where the relationship between my son and his stepfather is concerned.

I was a widow for four years and I realize it's hard for the kids to adjust to having a new man in the house — especially for our oldest boy, Stan, 14. The younger boy and girl were the third dad from the start.

George has been just wonderful to them, but the boy is very cold to him. This hurts George terribly as he has tried to be a real pal to Stan. He loves the boy, but Stan has even said he wants to leave us and stay with his uncle.

Stanley B. — Before Mom married again she said if I couldn't get along with my new father she would let me spend all my weekends and vacations with my uncle. Now when I want to go there, she says she didn't mean every single weekend and vacation.

Mom says I haven't tried to like my stepfather, but she's wrong. I have tried. I don't want to be nice to me, but he gets on my nerves. He wants to take me fishing, to ball games and stuff like that and I'd rather be with my friends. He also complains to my mother if I don't want to go with him.

My uncle says he'd be willing to adopt me if Mom would let him. I'd be better off with him.

The Council: A number of factors are interfering with Stanley's adjustment in his stepfather and his family. One is that he is the boy's father's extreme effort to please and curry favor.

George, the stepfather, should be aware that although most of his attention, at this time, is being overwhelmed or engulfed by another person and he is decidedly suspicious or contemptuous of those who give up their natural REJECTION in an attempt to win a token of affection from us.

The adolescent boy like Stanley, particularly, is annoyed by the spectacle of a mature man trying to reach down to his level.

He wants a model toward whom he can reach. He doesn't need a father-pal so much as a real father. Any father, who, if he is sick or content with their children in their own boyhood, tend to overdo the "pal" role with their sons. The friendship between father and son is often a special sort — not at all the kind that exists between two men on an equal level.

A secondary factor in the way of this relationship is Barbara's anxiety about it. There is no reason for natural, spontaneous warmth and interest to develop and it is she continues to breathe down the necks of her husband and the boy. She must be silent and nature take its course here.

The third factor, and possibly the biggest one, is the uncle's effort to take over the boy. This is not only a highly questionable if not unethical practice, but Barbara should tell him she has no intention of giving up her son. Stanley should be told his place is with his mother and the visits to his uncle must be limited to what is appropriate in such a relationship.

Question Box

Question: The wedding is planned for four months hence. No invitations have gone out. The bridegroom thus receives Army orders for two years overseas to be stationed in a remote area. Should wedding with only family and friends present, in a case such as this, may the parents of the bride give a reception for the newly married couple before they leave for the foreign assignment?

Answer: Yes. Engraved announcements should be sent out on the day the ceremony takes place. To those who are to be invited to the reception, a small card may be enclosed, even though it may take place three weeks after the actual wedding. The wording on the card would be somewhat as follows:

Reception
Monday, March fourteenth from six to eight o'clock
The Midtown Hotel

Kindly respond
101 Poplar Drive

It is customary to repeat the name of the parents on this card, but their names are on the announcement itself. Be sure to include the address to which the acknowledgements are to be sent.

Question: If you are a bachelor, what should you do you incur when it comes to returning dinner invitations you have enjoyed?

Answer: A hostess seldom expects a bachelor to return in kind. If every effort has been made to be a helpful and pleasant guest, that's all she expects, or hopes for. Be sure, however, to telephone, send flowers or write a note of appreciation the day after the functions. Not to do so is inexcusable.

Question: What forms of entertaining come under the heading of semi-formal or informal parties?

Answer: Brunches, coffees, buffets, teas, cocktails and cocktail buffets and the so-called "semi-formal reception," which is in reality a cocktail buffet. Luncheons, dinners and informal evening get-togethers also come in this category. There are no rigid rules governing the issuing of invitations for these parties, such as there are for the formal. The main object is to make it clear to prospective guests, in a brief and courteous way, the kind of hospitality you are offering. A call on the telephone may do the trick, or a calling card, folded over informal card or note will also be correct. One thing to remember: Always handwrite your invitation, no matter how informal the party. Never type it.

Question: Will you please tell me the proper way to have a maid answer the telephone in my house? Should she say "Mrs. Green's residence" or "Mr. Green's residence"?

— Mrs. J. T. Y.

Answer: A maid, when answering the telephone, should say "Mrs. Green's residence," "Mr. Green's residence" or "The Green residence."

Question: Is there something special to watch out for when choosing greeting cards to send to your friends?

Answer: Yes. Regardless of the reason for selecting the card, avoid those that border on the vulgar. Unfortunately there are far too many of these on the stationer's shelves today. For some occasions, such as the birthday of a relative or close friend, a comic card may fit the bill with a certain shared experience. Just make sure the card isn't too comic or goes overboard in the good taste department! Criticism, certainly not amusement, will be the result if you do.

Says Painting in Evenings Helps to Balance Out Life

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Energetic Jane Haynes, a St. John's housewife whose paintings have won prizes, has been a welfare worker, interior decorator, army dispatch rider and fencing champion, and she's still in her 30s.

Now married to engineer Wynyard Haynes and with two small children, the pert British-born brunette still pursues a flock of ambitious projects.

"I love home-making," she says. "But I certainly don't go along with the idea you have to give up everything because of it. By painting in the evenings, I can balance out my life, give it more perspective."

Tireless and talented, she is engrossed in plans to design a complete ballet set. She always cherished a desire to become a ballet dancer "but I was too tall for the stage."

It was at Roedean School in England where Jane's talent was first recognized. A painting she did for War Weapons Week won a prize. During the Second World War she was a dispatch rider with the Air Transport Auxiliary at White Waltham airfield in southern England.

After the war, she worked as a welfare officer but found it "wasn't congenial." So she took up flower decoration, working at some of Britain's most fashionable hotels where she formed friendships among celebrities, including movie stars Betty Hutton and the late Tyrone Power.

She took up fencing while obtaining a social science degree from Edinburgh University. The year of her graduation she won the university fencing title.

But the urge to paint persisted, and Jane finally entered Wolverhampton College of Art where she won a diploma.

She says Canada's newest province is "unique and perfect from the artists' point of view." Her favorite painting, of Grand Bank harbor, won the annual Newfoundland Arts and Letters contest last year.

Critics called the painting "luminous in quality . . . with great impression of space and depth."

Jane won't part with it although she's had several offers to sell. "Complete strangers knock on my door and ask if they might see it," she says.

"Pork Barbecue in the fried oven 4" under burner until cheese melts and is bubbly. If desired, serve with a sauce of hot unsiftling mushroom soup.

"Pork Barbecue — the fried oven! It is served in restaurant's buns" was a request I received this week.

Obligately it reminded me that I don't give enough attention to sandwiches here.

Today then I have decided to give the matter my thinking the popular barbequed meat-in-a-bun and some other wholesome whole-meat sandwiches.

BARBECUED BEEF:

(For Bun Sandwiches)

Unroll a raw rolled rump or shoulder (or Porterhouse if you like) roast and spread the inside with Barbecue Sauce: Mix 1-2 cup catsup, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon tabasco sauce, 1-8 teaspoon chili powder, 1-2 cup water, 1-2 teaspoon mustard, 1 tablespoon brown sugar. Roll up again and tie securely. Broiler with salted and peppered flour and sear the outside in a little hot fat. Transfer to baking dish with cover, add 1-8 cup water or lemon juice, cover and bake at 300 deg. Fahr. about 3 hours (depending on quality of cut) basting frequently. 2 or 3 times. Serve thick hot slices between fresh bread or split buns.

BARBECUED PORK:

(For Bun Sandwiches)

Unroll a rolled shoulder of pork and sprinkle with Barbecue Sauce (see above under Barbecued Beef) and proceed exactly as for beef. Broil, turning once to toast both sides. Or heat in electric frying pan covered, turning until both sides are brown. Or toast both sides on griddle.

LAST-MINUTE SPECIAL:

Butter fresh toast and cover with slices of cooked chicken or ham. Cover these with thin slices of tomato. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top with thin slices of process cheese. Broil

Remove connective tissue from crabmeat and flake. Combine with eggs, olives, mayonnaise and seasonings. Mix well. Spread on side of each slice of bread evenly with butter. Make 8 sandwiches, spreading the filling on unbuttered sides of bread, making sure the buttered sides is out. Broil, turning once to toast both sides. RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Including tonight's hassles between the Blairless Whitby Dunlops and the McFarlands, and the Headless Bulldogs and the Chatham Maroons, there are exactly twelve games left to play in the Ontario Senior "A" league schedule.

In short it is a league-ending round-robin with the teams playing a home-and-home series to wind up the fixed season.

The McFarlands assume the role of giant-killers as Whitby, Windsor and Chatham battle for the win, place and show positions.

The Bellboys got away to a rousing start last Friday when they mussled the rat,loo-snarling Bulldogs of Lamirande Incorporated and if they maintain the pace, they are going to make it mighty interesting for some of the glory-seekers.

Whitby with 62 points and six games to play have a fairly tight hold on top spot but not one that cannot be shaken loose. A loss-string on the Dunnies' part and a win-streak on the part of Chatham and Windsor might change the picture.

The big series in these curtain-dropping ice dramas could be that between the Dogs and the Maroons. The Kitchener Dutchmen are "put" with 54 points and tied with the Bulldogs at the moment for second slot. However the Maroons are but three points in arears with a half-dozen games to play and unless almost total disaster strikes them, it is a pretty safe bet the Olympics squad will wind up in fourth place.

A defeat for the Dunnies and a victory for the Bulldogs tonight will cut the Dunnies' margin to six points while a victory for the Maroons, who have 51 points, will see the second-spot race lighter than a chorine's leotards.

The McFarlands close their western Ontario weekend safaris this Friday and Sunday when they trek down thataway to meet Chatham Friday night and Windsor Sunday afternoon. Their remaining away game is with Whitby on February 24. Their three home games see Whitby here tonight; Chatham here February 21 and Windsor two nights later. That winds up the seasonal ball of yarn.

Actually the Macs' remaining six games will constitute a hard-fought training grind for the upcoming playoffs, each of they are scheduled to meet the Dunnies in Whitby March 1 in the kickoff game of the round-robin series.

There will be nothing of an exhibitional nature in the-hair dozen tilts that constitute the final act of the senior league schedule. Each and every game with Whitby, Chatham and Windsor will be locked in the throes of a position-jockeying struggle in which the McFarlands will play an important part.

Whitby will be fighting desperation battles. Short four of their topflight players, due to Olympics commitments, the Dunnies are far from being pushovers as their "starter" record shows. They will be tough babies to beat, all eleven of 'em, and tonight's battle here will be one right down to the wire.

The Macs will be throwing all their punches in an effort to stay "up" for the playoffs, so don't miss it. The morale-lifting tonik of Maestro Wren Blair will be missing since he took off Sunday for Squaw Valley. Coach Ted O'Connor will be carrying the mental load tonight.

QUEEN'S HERE THURSDAY

Queen's Golden Gaels of the intercollegiate hockey union will be the guests of the McFarlands here Thursday night in an exhibition game arranged to aid the Quinte Association for Retarded Children.

Both clubs are giving their services free for such a cause and hockey fans should turn out in goodly numbers to lend their financial shoulders to the wheel.

The Gaels boast a strong club with not a few ex-senior "A" players on the roster. Belier known in these parts are Billy Colvin, who led the league in goal-getting a year ago and Kenny Linesman, a former Merchants star.

It is a long time since the tricolor of Queen's has been seen in a hockey role here. The club has a good record and is led by the strong all down the line. The Gaels should give the Macs a tough battle. Game at eight o'clock.

SPORTSMEN AHOY!

The Belleville Game and Fish Association is offering an excellent program at its regular meeting scheduled for the YMCA at eight o'clock tonight.

Mr. J. M. Taylor of the Tweed district staff of the Lands and Forests Department, is the guest speaker and will talk on "Hunting in the North Country." This in itself is worthy of the attention and presence of all hunters.

There will be films, too. One is on that important phase of hunting, "Gun Handling," another the colorful exciting Indianapolis Speedway Classic. Secretary Ken Yorke urges all sportsmen to be on hand.

Czechs, Swedes Hint Withdrawal Olympics Hockey

Ice Conditions 'Atrocious', Schedule Claimed Too Long, Germans Start Ski Hassle

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Controversy flared on two fronts and the injury list spiraled today with the Winter Olympic Games fast approaching their Thursday opening.

Most seriously hurt was Italian downhill ski racer Battista Pordos. In a fall into Squaw Creek he suffered a broken leg, broken arm, broken collarbone, lacerations of the head and contusions of the left kidney that caused internal bleeding.

The 20-year-old Pordos underwent surgery and doctors said recovery would take several months.

One of the disputes — two-pronged — centered on hockey, the other on weather that threatened to ruin alpine downhill skiing team.

CANCELLATION POSSIBLE

In Colorado Springs, Colo., Rudolph Ehrens, Swedish delegate to the International Ice Hockey Federation, declared hockey would not be played if conditions don't accept an 11-day schedule. At present a 10-day schedule with no hockey on opening day is planned.

Walter Brown of Boston, an IHF director, said they would meet with organizers today, adding, "that many games in 10 days takes too much out of your players."

While the controversy boiled Czechoslovakian Coach Mutzel Farda charged hockey playing conditions were "atrocious." He claimed ice in the indoor arena and the outdoor rink was bad.

There were hints that if conditions didn't improve, the Czechs might withdraw from the nine-team field.

The ski hassle involved the all-German team — a combination from West Germany and Communist East Germany.

Kerbert Kunze of West Germany protested Eberhard Riedel of East Germany and three West Germans.

CLAIM FASTER RECORD

Others on the West German athlete team claimed that their Fritz Wagnerberger, who was left off, had a better record than Riedel.

Hilde Hofherr of Austria suffered a dislocated thumb while practising on the women's slalom course and became a doubtful starter.

Pigtailed Traudl Hecher, the darling of the Austrian team, banged into a tree on the women's downhill course. Her skis were broken but she wasn't hurt.

Today the women make final downhill test runs while the men go down their giant slalom course. Test skating races also were scheduled.

Wins Dog Derby

QUEBEC (CP)—Emile Martel of Quebec City won the annual Quebec International dog - sled derby for the fourth time Monday, covering a three lap 100-mile course in eight hours, two minutes and 25 seconds. Charles Gilbert of Stittsville, Ont., finished fifth with a combined time of eight hours, 24 minutes and 10 seconds.

Jack Douglas Sprains Ankle In Practice

Douglas, 29, was expected to be fit to play when the Games open Thursday. A native of Trenton, he now lives in Kitchener-Waterloo by Chatham Maroons.

Meanwhile, Russia's Olympics team swamped Japan 12-1. It was in sharp contrast to Sunday's 15-15 draw with Canada, which almost turned into a riot. There were no incidents or penalties.

With Russia ahead 8-0 after the second period, the teams exchanged goalers and the Russians scored four more goals. Canada's team exchanged defencemen and Japan scored its only goal.

Pocket Breaks Four Teeth

MONTREAL (CP)—Henri Richard, speedy centre with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, returned to Montreal by air Monday from Chicago where he suffered four broken teeth in Sunday night's game against the Black Hawks.

Richard said he was struck in the mouth by a stick. He said he doesn't know whose stick hit him and that possibly it was an accident.

He visited a dentist immediately on arrival. He will be examined by club doctors today.

Three Suspended, Clubs Fined After Brawl

WINNIPEG (CP) — Players and teams who provoked a near-riot Sunday in a Manitoba Junior Hockey League game were hit by the league Monday with fines, suspension and a promise of stemer measures for any repetition.

With 52 seconds of overtime left to play Sunday afternoon, 29 players from both the Brandon Wheat Kings and Winnipeg Rangers benches swarmed to the ice. Only-player out of the fracas was Rangers' Don McKenzie who had been given a minor penalty and was in the dressing room.

Penalties totalled 412 minutes in Manitoba's record. The National Hockey League record is 210 minutes in a Toronto-Montreal game Dec. 9, 1936.

The league Monday fined both clubs $100 and suspended three players. All league clubs have been warned that any repetition will result in automatic team fines of $500.

Officials of both teams admitted they allowed their players to get too close to get into the fight, but claimed they acted in self-defence.

The fracas started with Brandon trailing 5-4 at the nine-minute mark of the overtime period.

The Wheat Kings pulled goalie Dave Holmes and sent out an extra forward, Brian Hartall, who scored eight seconds later. Mevers hadn't seen Holmes leave the ice and signalled no goal, but a fellow official informed him Holmes had been taken off and he let the goal stand.

When the two teams lined up for the faceoff following the goal, the fracas started.

Tessier Tops E.T.L. Scorers

OTTAWA (CP)—Orval Tessier of Kingston Frontenacs, scoring ace of the Eastern Professional Hockey League for the last nine games, picked up only three points last week but still holds a comfortable lead.

The 26-year-old native of Cornwall has 101 points on 46 goals and 55 assists in 55 games for a 14-point margin over runner-up Tom St. Marseille of Sudbury Wolves who added four points to his total.

Third place is playing-coach Cal Gardner of Kingston who managed only two points.

Three men who have landed the Montreal Royals net hold the goals-against average with a 2.92 average.

First-place Sudbury leads in the penalty department with 735 minutes while Dino Marcetta of Trois-Rivieres Lions is the league bad man with 153 minutes.

FINE DON JORDAN

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Welter weight boxing champion Don Jordan was pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk in an auto, and fined $125 Monday. Jordan was arrested Saturday after his auto smashed into two parked cars. He was not hurt.

Teeps' Maki Nudges Junior Points Leader

TORONTO (CP)—Chico Maki of St. Catharines Teepees again is threatening to take Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series scoring honors.

The right winger bucketed from nowhere to give Guelph's Jean Ratelle and Rod Gilbert a run for the money in the race to pick up 10 points in four games last week.

Maki won the award last season but slumped in the first few months this season. His team was equally below par. The Teepees were anchored in sixth place before Christmas but now are tied forthird with Toronto St. Michael's College Majors.

Official statistics released Tuesday, which include Sunday's games, show Gilbert has 82 points, Ratelle 80 and Maki 79.

Gilbert has scored 35 goals while averaging two points a game and Ratelle has 36 goals and 44 assists, Maki has 33 goals and 46 assists.

Wayne Connelly of Peterborough Petes is 72 points off the pace with 34 goals and 31 assists for 66 points. Tied with him for fourth place is St. Catharines Ray Cullen, the league's top goal scorer. Since Jan. 6 Cullen has registered 29 goals in 19 games to bring his total to 44 in 42 games.

Cullen's three goal performance Sunday against Toronto Marlboros gave him seven in four games during the week. Connelly had four goals and a hat-trick against St. Michael's and now has passed the 30-goal mark in his four seasons with the Petes.

Netminder Jerry Cheevers of the Mats still holds the goaltenders with a 3.07 average and his four shutouts still are tops.

COACH FINED

NEW YORK (AP) — Maurice Podoloff, president of the National Basketball Association, Monday fined Syracuse coach Paul Seymour $150 for unbecoming conduct in an argument with referee Sid Borgia. In a game at Madison Square Garden last Wednesday Seymour was banished after a rushing and shoving match with the referee. It was the third time he had been chased this season.

Hockey Hints

by Lloyd Percival

FAKE YOUR CHECK

Faking a check sets up the puck carrier for the checker just as a fake shot or shift helps the puck carrier "deke" by a checker. This is a trick not utilized enough.

The ideal time to use a fake check is when you are forechecking and the puck carrier has to move in a fairly confined space. The trick is to move your head and shoulders to one side as if you are going to stick or body check him on that side or as if you think he is going to move that way. As he moves away from your fake, come back and take him as he comes in to you. Faking a poke check will often set up a hock check and vice versa.

MAY MISS GAME

DETROIT (AP) — Goaltender Terry Sawchuk may stay behind when Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League leave for Thursday's game against Montreal Canadiens.

Sawchuk is in hospital where doctors are trying to learn the cause of pains in his legs. Three consultants said today they would have a report until Wednesday night.

The Detroit club is relying on Dennis Riggin, who was called up from Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League.

Ole Archie Ain't Got No Light Heavyweight Crown

NBC Lifts Bauble From Brow Because of Defence Inaction; Welter King Also in Line

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (CP)—The National Boxing Association has stripped ancient Archie Moore of his world light-heavyweight title —something a challenger never accomplished.

The NBA took the action Monday for what association president Anthony Macaroni said was Moore's inactivity. Arch was recently warned to sign for a defence by Feb. 15.

At his home in San Diego, Calif., Moore said: "It took an undertaker (Macaroni's occupation) to take the title away from me."

Then he went to bed and took sedatives on the advice of a doctor.

The NBA was also looking over the welterweight situation and contemplating a action against world king Don Jordan. However, Jordan's handlers announced in Los Angeles Monday night he will defend his championship against Cuba's Benny (Kid) Paret May 20 or 27.

HASN'T HEARD

Macaroni said he has not officially been notified of the proposed fight.

Jordan also must get clearance from the California commission or his title will be vacated, Macaroni said.

The NBA head said Jordan has been under suggestion by the California Commission since October for failure to appear before a commission doctor for a physical examination. He has been ordered to get cleared by the California commission by Friday—or else."

On the light heavy crown, won by Moore since Dec. 17, 1952, Macaroni said details on a successor will be worked out in a meeting in New York March 5-6. Any plans definitely will include Harold Johnson, the No. 1 challenger, Macaroni said.

WANTS HEAVY

"It is evident that Moore's plans are for a third chance at the heavyweight title, rather than to defend his title - pound crown," he added.

Moore is still considered the champion in California and New York, which do not belong to the NBA. Massachusetts, a NBA but non-NBA state, is scheduled to take action on Moore's status Friday.

Moore commented:

"I was the leading challenger for five years before I won the title, but the NBA never did anything about that. I couldn't get a championship fight."

He has challenged for the heavyweight title twice, losing by knockouts to Rocky Marciano in 1955 and Floyd Patterson in 1956.

Three Rinks Are Undefeated In School Curling Tourney

By LES HOLROYD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—Only three of the 11 competing rinks emerged with clean slates Monday after two rounds of the Canadian high school curling championships.

The round-robin bonspiel at the Noranda Arena featured some superb curling after the boys got over the jitters and settled down to first some easy shots in the early stages of the opening games.

Unbeaten rinks were from Northern Ontario, Saskatchewan, and Nova Scotia. The three all carried steadily and had little difficulty in registering their victories.

Nova Scotia took a 6-0 lead in the first two ends and went on to trounce Quebec 10-4. They also romped to an early lead in lacing Newfoundland 12-2.

DEFEAT ONTARIO

Against Prince Edward Island, Saskatchewan came on strongly to win 8-4, then led all the way with only Ontario's three on the last end closing the score to a respectible 11-9.

Northern Ontario was ahead 6-0 in their first game before Newfoundland counted 1 on the fifth end. From there the Dryden high school lads coasted to a 12-4 win. In the second round, Northern Ontario ran into stiff opposition from Manitoba before gaining a 13-7 victory.

In other first-round matches; Manitoba scored a four on the eighth end to beat Alberta 12-8 and Ontario defeated New Brunswick 10-6.

EXTRA-END MATCH

Alberta evened its record in a thrilling extra-end match winning 13-11 over Prince Edward Island. New Brunswick also got in the win column in the second round by downing British Columbia 13-9.

Behind the leaders with one loss in and one loss were Alberta, New Brunswick, Manitoba and Ontario. Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland were winless in two tries and Quebec and British Columbia, which drew the opening-day byes lost their only start.

The third - round draw has Northern Ontario playing Prince Edward Island and Ontario meeting Alberta while tonight Ontario goes against Northern Ontario.

Nine in Row

Juniors Drape Collar on Cobourg Seven in Third Features 11-0 Win

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Lambert-Rollins rods roughshod over Cobourg Rockets in the tune of 11-0 here last night to extend their winning streak to nine games, and at the same time, set the stage for another date on the CHA Eastern Junior "B" loop.

Belleville commanded play from beginning to end, outshooting the visitors by a wide margin in every period, to collect Billy Monson his first shutout of the season in the L-R nets. Monson, while not overworked, came up with the key saves when Cobourg did muster an attack.

Lenny Ferguson and plenty of bad bounces around the net kept the score down for two periods. It was 3-0 at the end of the first and 4-0 after forty minutes of play. Belleville whipped seven by Ferguson in the third to end the affair.

Penalties, as usual in junior action, were numerous and the least. Belleville collected 12 for, good for 30 minutes, compared to 7 for 14 minutes for Intrepid Rockets. A couple of fights marred the game, while a number of others threatened but never quite developed. Ron Hull tangled with Bob Douglas in the second heat, good for majors, while Jerry Haynes and Ken Highfield also took five-minute sentences for fighting at 4.48 of the third. Mavety also drew a high-sticking minor and Ted Douglas got a similar call for the same exchange.

Defencemen Jerry Mann and centres Gary Row-ssoman and Gary Goyer led Belleville's free-wheeling attack with four points apiece. Mann had a pair of goals and two assists in his usual production of the campaign, while Goyer and Rowbotham each scored once and earned three assists.

Jackie Elliott and Ralph Plane followed closely with a brace of goals and one assist apiece while Ron Hull and Moe Hunter had one and one. Dennie Kerruish triggered the other goal for the winner incidentally, at 4.39 of the first period, while Pat Association drew two assists. Single assists went to Don Forsythe, Larry Mavety, Denny Hull and Bucky Ethier.

Forsythe after Kerruish rapped the winner in a corner, Rowbotham then drove in Mann's drive from the point at 6.57 to close the period scoring. Mann lifted Rowbotham's rebound into a gaping net at 1.26 of the ringed second stanza and for the rest of the penalty-marred period the winners did everything but score.

Such was not the case in the third. Elliott's second after only 33 seconds of the period started the deluge. Hunter at 4.05, Hull at 5.28, Plane at 7.37, Mann at 11.32, Goyer at 14.25 and Plane again a 15.00 left Cobourg a wellbeaten club. The boys had little time to pick up nine of the 20 penalties. The clubs were still playing five a side when they left.

Cobourg: Ferguson, Arnew, Haynes, Macklin, Harris, Ewart, Douglas, Chase, Waghorn, Fenton, Tyler, Highfield, Brereton, McCarthy.

Belleville: Monson, Asselstine, Mann, Mavety, Row-botham, Elliott, Forsythe, D. Hull R. Hull, Plane, Goyer, Ethier, Kerruish, Hunter.

Referees — Tim Williams and Ted Hurst.

Pollock Puts High Value On Tremblays

MONTREAL (CP) — Manager-coach Sam Pollock of Hull-Ottawa Canadiens says he values defenceman Jean Claude Tremblay and winger Gilles Tremblay at $100,000 each.

"However, they're not for sale at any price," Pollock adds in a press release prior to tonight's Eastern Professional Hockey League game between the Canadiens and Montreal Royals.

Jean Claude, 21, a rugged rearguard, played 11 games with the NHL Canadiens this season, filling in for injured defencemen. He returned to Hull-Ottawa to score 22 goals in 40 games.

"I have never seen a young defenceman who could score with such ease," said Pollock.

New Director of Art Gallery Scuffed First Drawing in Starch on Floor of Laundry

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Charles Comfort, who scuffed his first drawings in starch on the floor of his grandmother's laundry 50 years ago, takes over next spring as director of Canada's National Gallery in Ottawa.

Between, he has emblazoned his name in color and slashed it in stone from Montreal, to Vancouver.

Now 59 and five times a grandfather himself, he is preparing for another tearing up of roots, such as has marked his career.

SCOTTISH BIRTH

He was born in Davidson's Mains, "within sight of the Firth of Forth," but lived his early years with his maternal grandmother in Hertfordshire, England.

His maternal grandfather was a stone-cutter. On his father's side, the grandfather was a dour clergyman of the United Free Church of Scotland.

He was 15 when his father decided to move the family of seven children to Canada.

"I was called home. I hadn't even seen some of my brothers and sisters. They teased me unmercifully for my English accent."

They settled in Winnipeg and the boy who won his first art award at eight began earning spending money as water-boy for a gang of Italian road workers.

KEPT 50 CENTS

"At 16 I was drawing on boxwood; bedsteads, dining - room suites, terrible stuff to be used in commercial wood-cut engravers. I got about $3 a week. 50 cents of which I kept for myself."

He left Winnipeg 36 years ago. He returned recently—now president of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts—to be "greeted as one of their own."

For 12 years he worked at commercial design in Toronto and stole time for creation of what has been called "bright cubist" terms works which mark his dramatic compositions on canvas."

In 1933 he became a charter member of the Canadian Group of Painters; in 1936 he was elected to the RCA. He began teaching at the University of Toronto in 1938.

On leave from the university, he covered the Italian campaign as a war artist. From this came his first book in 1956, called "Artist at War."

Pictures of Charles Comfort as a war artist show him with the three pips of a captain, later the crown of a major. They show him as a round-faced man with a heavy cigaret-holder.

Today the holder juts from between a shadow of a grey moustache and a shining white goatee which lends him a distinct resemblance to folk-singer Burl Ives.

He returned from the war to resume his associate professorship at the university. "I found a great pleasure and satisfaction in teaching, in watching the maturing of young minds".

John Alford, art historian and critic, has called him a "rational modern." a description he finds "an accurate one."

WIDE RANGE

He has been called eclectic—borrowing from many styles and periods—and has fought with people who haven't understood the views on modern art.

"It is easier to be a charlatan in the abstract expression," he believes. "But for people to call me as a traditionalist and possibly not sympathetic to contemporary art is to make the greatest possible mistake."

Western art is "in the classical Christian tradition." Young painters are "reluctant to identify themselves with the past, but they can no more divorce themselves from tradition than they can from the human race."

Of the gallery appointment, he says:

"I expect to continue their training in drawing and painting, and sculpture."

Got Raw Deal From A.A.U. Says Mathias

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Former Canadian champion Bob Mathias has just about given up hope of making a comeback with the U.S. team in the Summer Olympics at Rome.

But the two-time Olympic gold medal winner figures he's got a raw deal from the Amateur Athletic Union and says he would like to see the rules changed so other athletes won't get in the "professional" pickle.

Mathias, now a television actor, said he thinks the AAU is operating with a set of antiquated rules and needs new blood.

Mathias said the AAU evidently refused to let him try out for the U.S. Olympic team because he used his reputation as a track star to make a movie called The Bob Mathias Story in 1954.

"An amateur can appear in movies," Mathias said, "but his name can't be used to advertise a picture—he's be played up on billboards and things like that. My name, of course, was in the title of the picture we did.

"Personally, I don't think there should be any restrictions on track and field men except that they shouldn't be allowed to run for money. I feel like they're name is to some types of commercial endorsements."

Bentley Bros. Lead Oldtimers To Victory

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fans got a glimpse of former hockey stars Monday night as the Whites, led by six Bentley brothers, trounced the Blues 10-6 in the annual oldtimers' game.

Proceeds went to the British Columbia Benevolent Hockey Association and the 3,752 fans turned out.

The Bentleys formed a complete lineup and scored six goals. Max scored three, Doug two and Reg the other.

Other stars included defenceman Walter (Babe) Pratt and Les Patrick, who staged a "fight" in the last minute of play although both were playing for the Blues. They shook hands after it was a band played The Sidewalks of New York.

Argos Sign Wayne Bock

TORONTO (CP)—Wayne Bock Jr., former lineman with Chicago Cardinals in the National Football League, has been signed by Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four League, it was announced today.

The six-foot-four, 255 - pound tackle last played for the Cardinals in 1951. He played college football with University of Illinois and had a brief trial with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four in 1955.

Additional policies, Artistic integrity and very highest quality must mark any work considered for purchase.

Louise Comfort, whom he met at Winnipeg and who sat for one of his most striking portraits in 1937, hasn't had a chance to go to Ottawa to look over housing. She is confined to their cottage at Rosedale duplex, in a wheelchair from a car accident last June.

They have two daughters—both married to research physicists.

AT THE BELLE — Troy Donahue and Sandra Dee are teenage lovers in Warner Bros., "A Summer Place", now on view at the Belle. The film also stars Richard Egan, Dorothy McGuire and Arthur Kennedy, and is booked for an extended engagement at the Belle Theatre in Belleville. Matinee daily at 2.00, over at 4.25.

Mrs. Roosevelt Did Well As Guest on Sinatra Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has turned up in some unlikely spots in her travels, Possibly the most curious spot of all, however, was Monday night when the widow of the former president was a guest star on the Frank Sinatra Show (ABC).

There, in the company of singers Sinatra, Lena Horne, Mary Costa, dancer Juliet Prowse and comedians Barbara Heller, Mrs. Roosevelt smiled graciously, spoke appealingly of optimism and read the lyrics of the song High Hopes to a musical background.

Come to think of it, the thing I enjoyed most was Mrs. Roosevelt's rendering of the line, "oops, there goes another rubber tree plant, let me plant."

As Sinatra was on his best behaving, there was no slang, not even much conversation, and everyone sang familiar songs encouragingly and attractively.

As anticipated, Jack Paar was missing from the Jack Paar show Monday night but his spirit prevailed all. Maybe I'm just bored with the whole Paar walkout now, but I found the constant reference to it repetitious and tiresome.

Solemn, solid Hugh Downs, billed as "guest host," didn't try very hard to get ahead with entertainment but was more interested in trying on some more ends of the Paar story. And guest Alexander King was determined to lecture on the evils of censorship. If this is going to continue, we all will be catching up on some needed sleep for a couple of weeks anyway.

Must Inject New Talent Into Movies Says McQueen

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Can a television star become a top movie draw? Steve McQueen thinks so, and he may be right.

So far it has never happened. No star appearing weekly on the home screen has been able to become established as a box-office winner.

Yet here comes McQueen, the bounty hunter of Wanted Dead or Alive. He recently stole acting honors from Frank Sinatra in Never So Few. Now he's going to Mexico to co-star with Yul Brynner in The Magnificent Seven. Then Sinatra himself intends to direct Steve in The Execution of Private Slovik.

"I think it's mysterious that somebody from TV can't make it in pictures," says the colingcoky McQueen. "The movies have been at a standstill for the past two years. They've got to start moving."

"The only way tipy can do it is to inject some new talent into the business. The logical place to find new talent is in TV—not just actors, but directors and writers, too. There is better stuff being done in TV than in movies these days, anyway."

I wouldn't say that McQueen was beat, but he did arrange to meet in a Sunset Strip coffee house he favors. And he did drive up on a motorcycle, wearing sweater and tight pants. And he did talk volubly about all manner of things, delving into "motivations," etc.

"I'm a little bookie," he admitted. "I've always been that way. I have lived around Boxeniana virtually all my growing years. It's my way of life. I like it.

"I came off the farm—Slater, Mo. Net a poor farm, sort of middle-class. . . .

"I've raced cars up to 173 miles an hour, dented fenders on haystacks by rounding corners at 60. But I'm giving up racing. I have a wife, two children re-sponsibilities now; I've got a career to think of, a wife and baby. . . ."

Will Build Soccer Stadium

TORONTO (CP)—City council voted 19 to 3 Monday night to keep its promise to the International Soccer League and convert part of Stanley Park, near the Canadian National Exhibition grounds, into a soccer stadium.

Controversy over the soccer question started earlier this month when criticism in the Stanley Park area objected to soccer games. They agreed a halt to games at Fred Hamilton Park, the previous site.

Glamis is the birthplace of Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret. It now is the home of the Queen's cousin, the Earl of Strathmore.

Fire Started in the castle's unoccupied northeast wing. A fire chief said later that the moon where the fire started was gutted and five others were severely damaged by smoke and water. They contained old pieces of furniture.

The cause of the fire was not immediately known.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Amazing tests have proved that with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' examinations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make this astounding statement: "I do have ceased to be a problem!" And ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Research has found the reason why this inexpensive substance can do this. Now you, too, may have this relief at home without suffering embarrassment, pain or inconvenience.

Ointments and suppositories merely "mask" the pain. But this new healing substance relieves pain and itching—shrinks hemorrhoids—by an entirely different principle. It actually dissolves and absorbs the hemorrhoidal tissue. Relief comes so quickly, you'll marvel at the results.

This substance is now available in a new, greaseless, stainless ointment called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Entirely satisfactory or money refunded.

Australians Cannot See Limits to Present Wave Of Prosperity and Expansion

By TERENCE DOWNEY

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Australians, with a decade in which they matured behind them, look forward to the 1960s with a sense of adventure and a feeling they cannot see limits to the present wave of bubbling prosperity and expansion.

Ten years ago the country faced industrial troubles, lack of power, inflation and shortages of many essential goods.

Today some inflation remains but most of the other bogeys have been overcome. The population has soared to 10,000,000 with an influx of people from Britain and Europe, living standards have jumped to among the world's highest, production has boomed from record to record.

BROAD EXPANSION

A few statistics illustrate the general climate of expansion:

1. Electricity production has more than doubled in 10 years to reach 21,000,000,000 kilowatt hours in 1959.

2. Ingot steel output almost trebled in the same period to 3,195,000 tons.

3. Gross production more than trebled to reach £1,731,000,000 Australian equivalent to $3,464,596,500 at the official exchange rate of $2.15 to the pound. The number of factories jumped from 40,070 to 53,988.

4. Australia's exports went up from £542,700,000 to £813,300,000.

5. Half a dozen oil refineries have been built and plans are under way for a 43,000-ton super tanker.

OUTSIDE INVESTMENT

Some of the expansion has been due to overseas capital, especially British and American. From £68,100,000 in 1950, it rose year by year to £99,100,000 in 1958 and in the peak year, 1956, it was £118,700,000.

The expansion meant for most Australians a standard of living equalled only in North America.

Television began here only four years ago by late last year the country had more than 700,000 licensed receivers. Private car registrations leaped from 768,000 to 1,850,000 over the decade.

Though the finance companies have contributed their stimulus—gross debt now stands at £376,000,000—most Australians now regard such things as refrigerators and washing machines as essential and air conditioners are rapidly joining the list.

NUCLEAR FIELD

New directions in Australia's growth include atomic energy. Australia's nuclear age dawned with the discovery of uranium in large quantities in scattered parts of the continent. Nuclear tests took place within Australia, the nation has built its first nuclear reactor and the growing industry reversed the flow overseas of science graduates and in fact attracted foreign scientists here for post-graduate work.

While Australia's £375,000,000 Snowy Mountains hydro-electric scheme, with its seven major dams, 15 major power stations and reversing of rivers' courses, began to feed power into the national network, engineers were already talking of it being outdated by atomic power.

But perhaps the most significant trend in Australia today is the move away from a one-crop economy. For years Australians lived by wool—the nation was riding on the backs of its sheep, by far the dominant industry, it is no longer wool alone. The test came in 1958 when international recession sent the price of wool into a nosedive that would have spelled disaster for Australia a few years earlier. In fact the economy showed hardly a flutter.

Today the outlook for Australian lead and zinc exports—now rated third—is bright and the metals may well replace wheat in second place among the nation's exports.

Australians also have high hopes of seeing a domestic oil industry begun before too long. Prospectors' drills now are biting deep into the outback in an intensive search program.

Many Australians credit government stability under Prime Minister Robert Menzies for intelligent direction of the nation's boom. Menzies and his Liberal Country Party coalition were elected in 1950 and have held firm ever since.

The Labor Party, which ruled during the post-war years, is today split in a violent schism, in which charges of Communism, sectarianism and political heresy have reduced the party to a shaken body losing election after election, and providing little real opposition to Menzies.

CULTURAL REVOLUTION

Socially and culturally too, Australia is undergoing a revolution. The arrival of increasing numbers of non-British immigrants from Europe—"New Australians," as they are called — is gradually changing the social pattern from the somewhat antique British form it had assumed. Italian coffee served in a sidewalk cafe now can be found where the English tea room was once the rule.

Mayor Harry Jensen forecasts a £500,000,000 boom in major buildings in Sydney during 1960 as the move toward urbanization continues.

In the sporting world—sport is a subject of all-consuming interest to most Australians—the nation has a record unequalled for its population size. The Olympic Games brought Australia six gold medals in 1952 and 12 in 1956. There will be disappointment if the total is not greater at this

Must Give Parking Tickets To Drivers, Not Car Owners, Judge Rules, Causing Furor

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A judgment in Peterborough questioning that city's legal right to give parking meter tickets to registered automobile owners could dig into the wallets of Ontario municipalities.

County Judge John de N. Kennedy quashed a Peterborough parking meter conviction Monday, saying the city had no legal right to pass a by-law making automobile owners responsible for cars parked at parking meters. The Ontario Municipal Act only granted authority to make drivers of those cars responsible, he said.

Peterborough police have stopped issuing parking tickets to cars over-parked by time-limit at meters.

The act empowers municipalities to enact by-laws requiring "drivers" of vehicles parked on streets, highways or make use of the meters and pay the fee described in the by-law. Dlause of meters could mean a substantial drop in Ontario municipal revenue.

Police Here Will Continue To Ticket Cars

Belleville police will continue ticketing cars for overtime parking at city parking meters despite the ruling of a Peterborough judge that a city council has no right to pass a by-law requiring owners of vehicles to be responsible for paying money in meters.

Peterborough Judge John de N. Kennedy handed his ruling on the fact that the Ontario Municipal Act only gives a council the authority to require drivers of motor vehicles to use meters.

"We haven't experienced that in Belleville yet", was the comment of Police Chief Walter Probert when informed of the Peterborough ruling. "That would be a good question for the city solicitor to answer".

But City Solicitor E. Gus Porter had no comment on the matter.

BITTER ATTACK ON DIEFENBAKER HEARD IN HOUSE

Lucien Cardin Says He Repudiated Green

OTTAWA (CP)—Lucien Cardin is a mild-mannered, 40-year-old lawyer and navy veteran from Sorel, Que., who speaks precise but fluent English.

Without raising his voice once Tuesday, he delivered one of the harshest and bitterest attacks on Prime Minister Diefenbaker ever heard in the Commons.

The Liberal member for Richelieu-Verchores said he had never been so much contempt for Parliament as displayed by the prime minister.

He said he sometimes feels in the Commons that he is sitting in the Quebec legislature with a Union Nationale government in power.

GREEN HUMILIATED

Mr. Cardin accused Mr. Diefenbaker of unparalleled and unjustified repudiation and humiliation of Defence Minister Ralph Green by declaring Canada's disarmament proposals after the minister had declined to do so on the grounds that this would prejudice chances of reaching an East - West disarmament agreement.

Obviously, angry, he said Mr. Diefenbaker had been careful to make the disclosure on External Affairs Minister Lester Pearson had spoken. Mr. Pearson, during the debate, the fundamental reason for Parliament's existence.

Mr. Nicholls denied the charges when he concluded a three-day attack Tuesday during a 10-minute speech Tuesday night. The government legislation and will debate Thursday the proposed amendments to the retirement for murder.

Earlier in the evening, Queen Mother Elizabeth went to Buckingham Palace to have tea.

The Queen was reported by palace spokesmen to be "quite well." She has been signing state papers, reading and watching television.

PRINCESS EXCITED

"The princess was very excited," the pack's brown owl, Mary Mallet, reported. "She kept saying how much she is hoping to have a little sister."

The Queen's son, prince Charles, 11, remained at his exclusive Cheam boarding school 50 miles west of London.

When the baby is born, Sir Michael Adeane, the Queen's 50-year-old private secretary, will telephone the news to Rome Embassy Secretary Richard A. Butler. Then a bulletin signed by the Queen's doctors will be posted on the palace gates. The news should have braved near - freezing weather in the hope of being the first to read the notice when it is posted.

SEES HEADLINE QUEST

The prime minister was a "headline - hunter" who had "plotted down a few headlines" on an envelope and then said to him self, "It was a good day for me in the Commons."

Mr. Diefenbaker had not reduced Mr. Green's prestige in the Commons, Mr. Cardin declared, he was afraid the minister's pres-

Maternity Suite Now Occupied By Her Majesty

Doctors Anticipate No Complications at Birth

LONDON (CP)—Queen Elizabeth moved Tuesday night to the maternity suite arranged for her in Buckingham Palace after her doctors told her to expect her third baby "at any minute."

In what may have been their final prenatal examination, the doctors found the 33 - year - old monarch in the best of health. They anticipated no complications.

The Queen moved from her own apartment to the ground-floor Belgian suite, at the back of the palace, which has been converted into a royst maternity ward.

The suite is so named because King Leopold I of Belgium used it on visits to Queen Victoria, a relative by her marriage to Prince Albert. It has accommodations for the father-to-be, Prince Philip, and a lounge next to the room in which Dr. John H. Peel, the Queen's obstetrician, will deliver the baby.

NORMAL DUTIES GO ON

Meanwhile, the Queen was carrying on her regular duties. Prince Philip had one engagement today, to open a new addition of architecture in nearby Portland Place.

The Queen received Prime Minister Harold Macmillan for their regular Tuesday afternoon audience at Buckingham Palace, although he was willing to postpone the meeting.

The prime minister stayed for an hour and talked about the African four from which he returned Monday.

Earlier in the evening, Queen Mother Elizabeth went to Buckingham Palace to have tea.

Mr. K. Discusses Aid to Burma With Reds' Foe

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — A non-Communist Nikita Khrushchev discussed possible new Soviet economic aid to neutralist Burma in talks today with Burmese president U Win Maung and resurgent political leader U Nu.

A government source said the Soviet premier and the Burmese leaders also talked informally on relations between Burma and Communist China and the Chiang-fadis border dispute. Khrushchev was reported to have applauded an agreement Jan. 28 settling some disputed points on the Burma-China border and agreeing to negotiate the others.

Some Burmese observers felt that Khrushchev would not be in a handout mood on this visit, noting that the Communist National United Front party lost 43 of its 48 Parliamentary seats in the Feb. 6 elections. But others believed he would make a token offer to help Israil cut 42 pounds in an effort to show that Russian friendship is based on Burma's internal politics.

YOURS EARLIER GIFTS

Khrushchev turned down two Russian gift projects that reportedly from his 1956 visit: technological institute for 1,100 students being built just outside Rangoon and a 50-room hotel nearing completion in a Rangoon suburb.

At the technological institute he fired sharp, critical questions at the Burmese officials and seemed impatient at their replies. He is said to "enlightenment were needed in the concrete work, perhaps because of the lack of cement, and added that he had noticed "the same thing in India on Russian aid projects there."

Khrushchev appeared weary when he arrived Tuesday from Calcutta for the second visit of his fourweek Asian tour. The exuberance and energy he usually displayed on past trips was missing.

In India, meanwhile, the Indian government made public a 1,500-word communique signed by Khrushchev and Prime Minister Nehru after their talks over the weekend.

Nehru praised both Khrushchev and United States President Eisenhower for their efforts "leading to a relaxation of the international tensions" and endorsed Eisenhower's disarmament plan.

The Soviet-Indian communique also spoke of "satisfaction" that the May summit meeting in Paris will produce "a full measure of success."

The communique expressed hope the summit meeting would agree to end nuclear tests.

FARM POLICIES OF BOTH GOV'TS. UNDER CRITICISM

Goodfellow Called 'Trapeze Artist'

TORONTO (CP)—Amid a barrage of heckling from Progressive-conservative members, Hon. Whither (L — Bruce) Tuesday night charged the federal and Ontario governments with forcing down farm prices through inadequate policies.

Mr. Whicher told the legislature that the farmer's price for grade A eggs is now about 10 cents a dozen, while in 1958 it was 30 cents.

Chicken farmers are "going into the hole" at a rate of about 19 cents a dozen, he charged, telling that farmers are now growing a loss in hogs and poultry.

Mr. Whicher said Agriculture Minister Goodfellow should be replaced and called him "a champion trapeze artist on a rail fence."

POINTS TO FEUDS

He said Mr. Goodfellow's farm policies had resulted in feuds between hog farmers and between different factions in the trucking business.

Mr. Whicher said the apathy of the Frost government was apparent in that not one Northern Ontario Progress Conservative dared to speak on the situation at Elliot Lake discussed earlier Tuesday in the house.

Liberal and CCF members criticized the government for not showing any constructive policy towards the uranium industry.

Two Liberals from Northern Ontario spoke in the discussion. Mr. Whicher said at least eight PC members should have spoken in proportion to the membership of the legislature.

Irwin Haskett (PC — Ottawa East) said the government should act in the matter of hospital accommodation in Ottawa. He said he has seen unconscious people in cots in the corridors of English Radar Screen Big as Soccer Field Will Spot Russian Missiles at Launching

WASHINGTON (AP)—A supersonic radar screen able to spot Soviet missiles thousands of miles away will be set up in England for U.S.-British defence, the state department announced today.

The huge central screen—bigger than a football field set on its side—is to be built at a $120,000,000 cost, at Fylingdales Moor, Yorkshire. This is midway up the east coast of Britain, between London and Edinburgh.

Defence experts said this giant installation, plus two others now under construction in North America, will be able to provide speedy detection over a large area of the northern hemisphere of any missile headed that way.

The reported range of the high-power radar is about 3,500 miles. The electric eye can thus peer across the Arctic as the first missiles launched from Russia.

The two other stations in the chain now are being built at Thule, Greenland, and Clear, Alaska, for completion sometime late this year or in 1991. No estimate was given for the construction time of the station in Britain.

U.S. officials figure the construction cost at $90,000,000 for the United States and $27,000,000 for Britain. The British will command and operate the station.

400 feet long and 165 feet high. The total area of the installation is the four separate poles. Radio Corporation of America has the building job.

Information from the long-Fifty British and U.S. officers and men, plus 500 civilian technicians, will man the huge station.

The screen is expected to be capable of spotting missiles as far to some ballistic missile watchers already set up in Turkey to watch for Soviet ballistic control centres in England and the United States.

National Art Gallery Ready For Opening

OTTAWA (CP)—A new home for Canada's National Art Gallery, which already has grown up a new director and a more substantial bank account, opens tonight.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker will officially open the just-completed, $6,000,000 Lorne Building at a white-tie ceremony expected to be attended by upwards of 500 people.

The gallery moved its big collection of art works into the downtown building about two months ago from the Victoria Memorial Museum a mile away, where they had been housed since 1911. It affords three times the hanging space and five times the over-all space of the old premises.

The opening promises to be one of the bigger social events of the season here but it was impossible to get a firm reliable estimate of how many will attend.

Gallery officials showed off the new seven-storey art palace in downtown Ottawa Tuesday to a group of about 50 representatives of the daily press, radio, TV and art publications.

Mr. Comfort was asked whether he considered adequate the $150,000 purchasing account provided the gallery in recently - tabled government estimates. He replied that the grant appears adequate for the present but the same amount would not necessarily always be sufficient.

Will Call Board Chairman To Answer Berton's Claim

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister Daley said in the legislature Tuesday that Eugene Sparrow, chairman of the province's Workmen's Compensation Board, will be called before the legislature's standing committee to answer charges concerning statements by a Toronto newspaper columnist.

The statements, by Pierre Berton in The Star, concerned Mr. Sparrow's association with a firm which did business with the board.

The columnist named the firm as Business and Economic Service Ltd., and said Mr. Sparrow co-founded by Herbert J. Daly, the late husband of Mr. Sparrow's sister.

Earlier, Mr. Sparrow told reporters in Toronto that he had had a conference with Mr. Daley that he had nothing to hide.

The matter was raised in the legislature by CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald, who asked Mrs. Daly's brother-in-law, Mr. Daley, if he had any statement on it.

Outside the House, Liberal Leader Winterton said a Liberal cu of $1 Liberal members had decided to request the legislature and all Mr. Berton also.

Mr. Sparrow said the firm was formed before the board was set up in 1931, to handle industrial relations, labor management and executive personnel.

He and his wife subsequently became close friends of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Daly, Mr. Daly died in February, 1956 and Mrs. Sparrow died three months later.

Mr. Sparrow married Mrs. Daly May 13, 1957.

Mr. Daley said in the House that Mr. Berton's allegations were serious. He added that Mr. Sparrow is "a fine public servant" and "no one has had the greatest admiration."

The minister said that in July, 1954, the three-month contract between the board and Business and Economic Service was continued at the rate of $400 a month. Since then it was cancelled on a monthly basis as assigned by the board.

The company had continued to do work for the board and its present contract expired at the end of this year, he said, because of the board's relationship with the company as entirely an internal matter.

The minister referred to the Toronto Telegram and the Toronto Daily and the firm were conducting a survey in connection involving the United Kingdom Emergency Fund for Britain.

There was no difference this could make to the board, noting that Mr. Daly had been dead for four years. He said Mr. Daly had never been charged or convicted of any offences.

U.S. to Wager $5 Million On Canadian Atomic Plants

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States has decided to plank down a substantial wager on the Canadian atomic age by its developing atomic power plants.

Under an expanded program of co-operation announced Tuesday night, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission will put up $5,000,000 "specifically directed toward the heavy water reactors to be constructed in Canada."

The agreement was reached in meetings in Washington and was announced by Prime Minister of Canada Limited, a crown company.

It followed criticism in recent months by Canadian experts over Canada's decision to build atomic power plants using natural uranium as a fuel and heavy water as the control and heat-transfer agency.

They argued that systems using expensive enriched uranium and graphite as fuel and control were far more promising. There are such systems now being developed in the U.S. and Britain.

The U.S. has launched a broad research and development program on the use of heavy water in power reactors. Its Canadian spending will be expanded substantially.

J. L. Gray, president of Atomic Energy of Canada, said the U.S. decision "will be of great help" in development of a large-scale heavy water plant to be built by mid-1954 on Douglas Point on the shore of Lake Huron, nine miles north of Kincardine in Bruce County.

It also would contribute toward the development of a power plant expected to be built at Canada's second nuclear research centre on the Winnipeg River in Manitoba. This likely will be a power to-

Canada - Russia Game Will Be Carried on CBC

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC has been unable to get full television coverage of Olympic hockey games at Squaw Valley, Calif., but will carry broadcasts of center Nowian reported Tuesday.

He told the Commons that the Columbia Broadcasting System in the U.S. has obtained exclusive American TV rights for coverage of the games. But the CBC would get 15-minute television resumes of Olympic Games activity from the CBS starting Feb. 19.

The hockey game between Canada and Russia Feb. 24 will be carried live on the CBC Transcanada radio network, Mr. Nowlan said.

Jobless Pass Half-Million Mark But Remain Below Level Last Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Unemployment in Canada passed the half-million mark at mid-January, rising 134,- 000 during the five weeks to Jan. 13, the government estimated today.

Monthly survey figures placed those without jobs and looking for work as 504,000, compared with the post-war January high of 538,- 000 a year earlier.

The estimate for the previous month—at Dec. 12—was 370,000.

The total number with jobs in January fell to 5,009,000 from December's 5,861,000 but remained above the 5,538,000 figure of January, 1958.

Besides those without jobs, the bureau of statistics estimated 42,- 020 persons were on temporary layoff in January, about the same as a year earlier but up 7,000 from December.

A simultaneous announcement from National Employment Service said that at Jan. 14 there were 136,387 persons registered for work compared with 549,084 at Dec. 19 and 775,658 the previous January.

The increase of 134,000 in the estimated number of jobless between December and January compared with an increase of 98,- 000 a year earlier.

A government statement accompanying the statistics said that the latest increase was "larger than usual because of the smaller-than-usual seasonal decline in the labor force." No reason was ascribed for this.

The labor force in January stood at 6,303,000 compared with 6,076,000 the previous January and 6,231,000 in December.

January unemployment represented 8.1 per cent of the labor force, compared with 8.9 per cent

Trujillo Backed by Army, Masses Opposed by Middle Class, Church

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo is trying to stem the rising tide of discontent which has engulfed the Caribbean's oldest dictatorship.

Encircled by foes in Cuba, Venezuela and Puerto Rico, the 63-year-old dictator of the Dominican Republic is defiantly battling internal opposition which flared last month and nearly resulted in disaster.

Trujillo crushed a nationwide plot by a middle class group of lawyers, doctors and other professionals to assassinate him Jan. 21 at the opening of a cattle show. He retaliated with a wave of arrests.

But his action in jailing 1,500 to 2,000 persons drew fire from the Roman Catholic Church. In a strongly worded pastoral letter, the church protested there was a lack of human rights in the country and deplored the suffering of the families of those jailed.

Many of those jailed soon were released, but 120 so far have been sentenced to 30 years at hard labor. Others remain under the law, and fines totalling more than $1,000,000, all additional participating in the plot.

Dominican exiles in Havana, Caracas, San Juan and New York have been keeping up a drumfire of propaganda against Trujillo, apparently exaggerated. Correspondents of young professionals appeared largely a homegrown effort, however.

Observers say many of the exiles have been discredited at home. They say the middle class would like a transition to democratic government to avoid the possibility of a revolutionary regime patterned on Cuba's under Fidel Castro.

Trujillo still controls the key element in the situation—the mili-

Firemen were called to 151 Station Street yesterday evening to extinguish a fire in the attic of an addition to the house owned by a Mr. Piccione. The fire due to faulty wiring, was arrested in short order and little loss was sustained except for some water damage despite the use of a tarpaulins which the firemen used to protect the household furnishings.

There was also a grease fire on a stove at 33 Humewood Drive last night but fortunately no damage occurred.

This morning the local firefighters were up to quite a different task . . . rescuing a cat from a roof.

Work Started On New Ceiling For Chambers

After being virtually without a roof over their heads since last year, Belleville city councillors will soon have a new ceiling in the city hall council chambers.

Alderman Jack Deacon, chairman of city property, told councillors Monday evening that work on replacement of the chamber ceiling would commence this week and would be completed in about two weeks' time.

Late last year the plaster in the chamber ceiling fell and in the interests of safety the balance of loose plaster was torn out leaving the bare lath exposed.

Decision was to lower the ceiling and install a new one of acoustic materials.

Bruce M. Kerr Again Heads Fish, Game Club

Bruce M. Kerr has been re-elected for a second term as president of the Belleville and District Fish and Game Club.

Approximately 150 members of the club, some with their wives, attended last night's meeting of the fish and game club held at the YMCA. Guest speaker was J. F. Taylor, district forester at Tweed, who showed slides on wild life in the Algonquin Park-Madawaska-Petawawa area during a private fishing trip.

Mr. Taylor told his audience that the James Bay area was the dream world for fishing enthusiasts. He said the rivers teemed with big speckled trout and quotas could be secured quickly.

Showing of three other films, including those depicting the Indianapolis Speedway and stock car races in Daytona Beach, completed the evening's entertainment.

Membership in the fish and game club has now reached 184 and the membership drive will end at last night's meeting. Kelly's sport shop presented last night's display of guns and other sporting equipment.

Ald. Lynn Elliott of Kingston Outlines to Kiwanis Club How Bus Service Handled

Is public transportation a necessity or a luxury?

That was the question asked—Tuesday and left unanswered—when Alderman Lynn Elliott of Kingston chairman of the city's traffic and streets committee, outlined to the Belleville Kiwanis Club and representatives of city council some of the problems encountered by Kingston in its bid to provide subsidized public transportation.

"Sometimes the people of Kingston think it would be cheaper, especially on sundays and holidays, to hire taxis for everyone rather than operate bus service" he said.

Until 1946 a private company—Kingston City Bus Co. — operated in the city similar to the way the Bayside Bus Co. now operates Belleville. The company provided transportation with no assistance from the city.

However, the city and the company, a subsidiary of Colonial Coach Lines, entered a 10-year agreement when the firm found it uneconomical to continue operating unassisted. The contract provided that the city would pay the company a flexible amount for each cash-mile travelled in the city in return for which the company would turn over centage of its gross revenues to the city.

The only way the company could break the agreement — which it did eventually — was to pay the city $10,000 cash. At one point the city paid the company 32 cents a cash-mile. But because of a number of factors, including slack days and unprofitable routes, the company withdrew from the contract.

Some time after the company began operating on short-term agreements with the city, a new contract was drafted which provided that the city would pay the company for a minimum of 68,000 coach-hours a year. The current coach-hour rate of $1.79 is subject to change from time to time. Last year it cost the city $56,000 and public opinion on the wisdom of subsidizing the company on this basis split like a separate camps.

STUDY AGREEMENT

Ald. Elliot suggested Belleville city council should study "that minimum amount of hours that ought to be because you have to say it whether the buses are in service or whether they are in the garage".

Later in a question-and-answer period, Ald. Elliot admitted Kingston preferred the coach-hour agreement and would not like to return to a coach-mile contract.

Under a new exclusive agreement which prohibits competition, either party reserves the right to terminate the contract. But if the city is the terminator, it must purchase all equipment acquired by the company since January, 1957.

"I suggest you won't get any company to operate without this kind of exclusive contract", she said.

"Before you say city ownership is the only thing, I suggest you get a cost accountant on the job because there are so many imponderable problems involved".

She said Kingston had studied city ownership of public transportation and found that a "tremendous initial capital outlay" was impossible to avoid.

She added now that Kingston has embarked on a plan of subsidizing public transportation it intended to continue because to back out now would prove too costly.

Although subsidizing a private company for providing public transportation could not be considered wholly satisfactory, "I suggest you pay it until you have a real solution to the problem — and when you find one, we'll be delighted to hear from you".

Rod. A. Webb Speaks Against Trading Stamps

Rod. A. Webb, recently elected Progressive Conservative M.P. for Hastings-Frontenac to fill the vacancy left by the death of Hon. Sidney Smith, Canada's minister for external affairs, has won the approval of the Ottawa Citizen as "no pussy footer." The Citizen, generally considered a Liberal in outlook, made this observation after a speech in the House by Mr. Webb in which he attacked trading stamps. The text of Mr. Webb's speech follows:

Mr. Speaker, I listened with great interest this afternoon and this evening to the many speeches on the bill concerning trading stamps. At this time I should like to say a few words. In my remarks I shall take a little different approach to this problem than has been taken in the house today. I personally feel that it is of major importance to the people of Canada and that it should have earnest consideration of every member.

It has been suggested here today that the government should not in any part of it take any part in a case of this kind. I feel that it is of importance when one is dealing with the welfare and future of 200,000 people. Actually this figure is taken from the 1951 census and excludes tractors. Perhaps it is a very conservative estimate. It would has to do with over one million of our workers.

As members of parliament, Mr. Speaker, we must remember that it is the duty of the government, when one considers that every one of the small businesses are paying capital taxes, provincial taxes, federal taxes and income taxes, we should also remember the large number of people employed by various gasoline companies, resthouses and travellers whom they employ. We are continually hearing the roads, staying at our hotels, motels and summer resorts and who are each and every one buying their meals in the different restaurants and the food purchasing motor products. Every time the number of cars, trucks and railroads whose facilities are used for the delivery of this commodity in Canada. Not to be excluded is the large number of people employed in all those vehicles.

A major issue also is that almost every dollar of the money spent by the small merchants is extracted from the goods manufactured in Canada. Price is the best I do not want to like to point out that this is one of the ways which business money can be spread throughout the entire country, thus giving small business a chance for survival. Therefore I feel personally that trading stamps should be abolished.

No Parking On North Side Of Catherine St.

The moving vehicle won another victory over the parked vehicle in Belleville Monday night as city fathers voted for a parking ban on the north side of Catherine Street from Coleman to Cedar street.

Arguments of the motion pointed to the narrowness of the street and the fact that it is made narrower by winter snow and parked autos.

At best it was claimed when there were cars parked there was room only for two cars to pass while if cars just happened to be on both sides of the street, Catherine Street became a one-way thoroughfare at this point.

Parking already is prohibited on the south side of Catherine st, this point.

Resident registration was given by the Board to several people from the County and the Quinte-St. Lawrence residence in Kingston; rehabilitation training was given in one instance at the residence. Clothing, foot, eye examinations and glasses were provided. Among the services given were instruction from the home teacher in crafts, typing, Braille reading; talking book service, radio and battery repairs; white cane; electric alarm clocks; long list of eye services including prevention of blindness; and in one case a script writer was provided which will be a device for writing for those who are unable to learn Braille.

After a discussion regarding screen tests to be conducted among some eight hundred pupils from the public schools, it was decided to carry out this project, this is an eye examination which will be given by a public health nurse, as a preventive measure for potential eye defects.

Financial statements were read by the secretary, L. F. Reid. A report on the pre-Christmas sale of Blindcraft articles was given by Mrs. H. Rollins showing receipts of $146.00. This provided sales outlet for handicraft articles made by the blind for which they receive the full price. The sale was held at Ireland's Apparel and Furniture store. In Toronto, deputy solicitor J. Bruce Thom said: "I can only hope it would have some effect on the city's parking by-laws."

Frank Hall, chief of Metropolitan Toronto police, said cases like that in Belleville and Hamilton are issued to keep down the number of cars parked under the car's windshield wipers.

"I think it is a matter of how you look at it and I can comment on it any further than that."

A spokesman for the Windsor city solicitor's office said his department is confident municipalities derive authority to collect such fees as notices to car owners, whether or not they are drivers, from the Police Act and the Municipal Act.

He said Windsor motorists would be unaffected by the Peterborough decision.

Provincial police commissioner O. M. Biggar said he may depend on how the Peterborough by-law is worded. However, he said, he is not familiar with moving violations, rather than parking ones. "I don't think it will have too much effect on our operation."

Legal opinion for the attorney general's department said the municipalities have to have the full judgment before comment.

But later Attorney General Roberts told a reporter: "If the Peterborough by-law stands it could affect many municipalities in Ontario but I think it has a limited application."

Magistrate C. O. Bick, chairman of Metropolitan Toronto's police commission, said "if there is any question about the parking by-law it should be plugged in Metro." Mr. Bick said the Metro police will continue to issue parking tickets because the commission is not sure whether the judgment applies to Toronto.

Commenting specifically on the judgment's statement that parking offences must be charged to the car driver and not the owner, Magistrate Bick said: "We can't believe such a

Education Board Members Hear Advantages of Allowing Composite School Courses

Recreation Commission Asks Grant Increase

TRENTON — Howard Aziz, town council representative on the Trenton Recreation Commission, presented the recreation board's proposed 1960 budget to council on Monday night's meeting.

The commission has asked for an increase of $558.00 on the town's annual grant to assist in bring the grant up to $13,773.

Councillor Aziz said the increase would provide for a summer playground at North Trenton.

The request was given to the finance committee for consideration.

The budget allows for an increase of $100 to be added to the director's annual salary, bringing his salary up to the maximum, $4,500. William Workmen is the director of the recreation commission.

Other salaries included in the annual budget are those of the janitor, the office, lounge and storage at 67 Ontario St., lighting and other incidentals.

Other expenses are in connection with caretaking, casual labor and repair and renewal of equipment. The Department of Education contributes grants on a percentage basis for the directors, inspectors and part of his assistants and also a percentage for the maintenance and operating costs. The estimated provincial grant for 1960 is $3,245.80.

Included in the commission's annual program are playground activities, swimming classes in the RCAF pool, a gymnastics program carried out in summer and winter and a variety of craft work.

J. E. Parker is the chairman of the commission and secretary-manager, Bob Sager; secretary-treasurer, Syd Hammond and assistants Dr. J. V. Byrne, Councillor H. G. Aziz, Mrs. Elizabeth Bedford, Mrs. Ruth Boord of Education representative.

TRENTON — Mr. L. Johnston, inspector of secondary schools in the Trenton area and Mr. W. Ziegler, inspector of secondary schools in the Lindsay area met with members of the Board of Education here Tuesday night and discussed high school expansion in Trenton. Also present were Mr. Moran and Mr. Mikel of Frankford council.

Mr. Ziegler outlined the advantages of making the Trenton High School into a "composite" school which would accommodate 1,200 students and offer technical courses and complete commercial courses as well as a general academic course. He said the Ontario government would give additional grants on this type of school which would contain 12 additional classrooms, two shops and a cafeteria.

He said that if the school made into a "district" school with students coming from surrounding townships, the school would be in a more advantageous position to receive government grants.

RECEIVES COMPLAINTS

T. S. Ketchesan, chairman of the Trenton board, said he had received a number of complaints from parents of students who some distance to school. He mentioned that a delegation of parents had discussed the peculiem of transportation with town council on Monday night.

Mr. Ziegler said the government also gave a grant towards transportation of students.

Board member George Greer asked Wing Cmdr. F. J. Craig, RCAF board representative, if the air force planned to build a composite school to accommodate children of air force parents. Wg. C. Craig said the policy of the defence department was to allow children to attend local schools and that every alternative to building a school on defence property was given careful consideration.

Board member F. J. Aziz said that if the high school was built it would be a possible school many of the students from the new station would now attend Belleville schools would change over to the Trenton system.

Mr. Ziegler explained that a composite school would offer opportunities for students to learn a trade in the high school general course. These subjects he added would be taught along with standard subjects such as English, mathematics and science.

PLAN TYPES

It was decided that board representatives E. E. McIlwain, principal of Trenton High School, and Mr. Johnston would meet in Toronto to discuss the possibility of changing the high school into a composite school. Trenton board members had agreed upon a course of study.

Another alternative — that of building the senior public school into a junior high school consisting of Grades 7 to 9 — was discussed.

Mr. Ziegler said the upkeep of this type of school was more costly than the present arrangement. He said the school board would continue to consider the aspects of the case before committing themselves on the possibility of sending Frankford students to the Trenton school. Eighty students from Frankford now attend Belleville schools.

Mr. Moran and Mr. Mikel said they were interested in the idea of district school system, but would continue to consider the aspects of the case before committing themselves on the possibility of sending Frankford students to the Trenton school. Eighty students from Frankford now attend Belleville schools.

Eleven Classes Had Enrollment Of 195 Drivers

TRENTON — An important part of the 1959 report of the Trenton Public Library Board released this week by F. J. Taylor, Chief of Police, was the report of the Trenton Police Traffic Training School compiled by Sergeant Gordon Steenburg, Safety Officer for Trenton.

The training school, which was organized jointly between the Trenton Rotary Club, was officially opened by Magistrate R. Y. Wills, Q.C., on June 1st, 1959. The first class was held on June 2nd.

During the series of courses conducted over the next few months' period, lectures were given and films and slides were shown covering the following: Driving safety and rules of the road; examples of driving tests as made by means of testing machines which covered the following: Field of Vision, Color Vision, Distance Judgment, Visual Acuity, Reaction Time, Glare Vision, Night Vision and Glare Recovery.

Each student wrote an examination based on the topics covered in the lectures. At the end of the course, the students were advised of any defects shown by the testing machines and advised what action to take to overcome these defects.

From June 8th to December 16, eleven classes were held, consisting of two nights each.

The total number of persons enrolled in these courses was 195.

From this number only one person was involved in a accident and found at fault. Three persons, who had failed twice in class were charged with offences under the Highway Traffic Act.

Constable Roy E. Miller assisted Sergeant Steenburg with instructions.

Sergeant Steenburg also reported on the progress made by the Safety Program. During 1959, a total of 109 safety talks were given to various groups throughout the station CJBQ. Three films were shown to the students and safety pamphlets given to each child. Elmer, the Safety Elephant, sponsored by the Trenton Kiwanis Club is felt to be a great factor in the safety program.

Scouter's Basic "A" Course To Be Given

TRENTON — The Quinte Area Training Team will conduct a Scouter's Basic Training Course at Trinity Street United Church on March 2nd, 7th and 9th, Captain Ralph Hubbard, District Scoutmaster of the Air Force District will be assisted by Sgt. Ed Elliott, District Commissioner of Air Force Division, Assistant District Commissioner Phil Simmons and Assistant District Scoutmaster Ron Fox.

The first two nights will consist of formal instruction, while the third night practical training will be held with those in attendance acting as a Scout unit.

"Those completing the course will be awarded a certificate," said Mr. Nelson. It is necessary for troop Scouters before they can become warranted.

In addition to Scouters, group committeemen have been invited to attend.

Aim of the instruction courses is to improve the already fine training program for the boys of the Quinte area.

"Enrolment has been satisfactory to date," reports Sgt. Nelson, "but some vacancies do exist. Anyone interested in attending should contact their District Commissioner."

Trenton Council Briefs

TRENTON — Town council members passed a resolution endorsing the 1960 daylight saving time bylaw. Until conference at 12.01 a.m. on April 24th and standard time will be resumed 12.01 a.m. on October 30th.

The Municipal Service Company of Oakville had written to town council suggesting that the members on Trenton homes and business places be given a thorough check over. The company has grown since the original bulbs were first installed by this firm. The company pointed out that the cost of one fire due, perhaps by bad wiring, is sufficient to find the house quickly paid for the expenses." It was also pointed out that proper numbering would assist the police department in the compilation of assessment rolls. Councillor Aziz, seconded with Allan Smith, town assessor, on the subject.

Tenders were read for the sale of the town house, lots on West Byron Street, the applicant being C. Hill, Trenton Realtor. R. J. Whitley said that he thought town lots should be put up for sealed tenders to ease a fair chance to bid on them. He said that there should be a stipulated minimum price put on the lots. Councillor Whitley moved that the lots be put up for sealed tenders. Councillor Aziz seconded with the suggestion that the lots be placed on them by the town.

Councillor N. J. McNair, the chairman of public works, reported that the town engineer had done a "remarkable" job in keeping the streets clear and that every phase of his department was in good shape.

Councillor Whitley reported that he had been asked by a town council from a resident of Sinclair Street to have the sewer line extended to his property. He had asked the engineering department to look into the matter on the street, and that he had had no report concerning the matter. "I'm sick and tired of everybody passing the buck around here," said the councillor. Councillor Murray, Trenton's lately appointed police chief, pointed out that the engineering department had inspected the property in question and had come to the decision that the route suggested by Councillor Whitley was the proposed addition to the sewer system would cost $2,100, with an alternative route, which could be secured by an easement over another property, would cost only $800. At this point Mayor MacDonald suggested that council members meet on the following Monday night at council meetings to thrash out controversial subjects rather than introducing them at the regular meeting. Council members agreed that this would be a good idea.

Council members were agreed that the 1959 court of revision be appointed consisting of R. Fraser, Lloyd Worrall, Councillor Howard Aziz, Harold Blakely and Councillor C. Whitley re-appointed for the 1960 term.

Mayor MacDonald's previous suggestion of a change in the bylaw six "wards" (polling subdivisions), and to appoint one councillor from each ward was adopted by council members. Councillor Whitley suggested that Councillor D. R. Fraser, Ward 6, Councillor H. G. Aziz, Ward 5, Councillor N. J. McNair, Ward 4, Councillor Vacant, Ward 3, Councillor Douglas Whitley, from 1 to 2, Chamber of Commerce were appointed as delegates to the Lake Ontario Parks Association. O. W. Larry, clerk-treasurer, reported that the association is subsidized by the provincial government. He said that the association was instrumental in bringing the Lake Ontario Park to Prince Edward and that another of its functions was to foster tourism in this area.

Councillor D. R. Fraser and Mayor MacDonald were asked to represent town council at meetings of the Trenton Kinsmen Club. The society had asked for an additional annual grant from the town, which was refused. This, added to the existing grant of $1000, would bring the total grant up to $3344 a year and would cover the cost of the Kinsmen's award to the town by Miss Corbett, the society's representative. Miss Corbett's not only deals with unmarried mothers but also with children in care of foster parents but also helps keep families together by her astute advice and in some cases by material help. The request was referred to the finance committee for consideration.

Council members agreed to honour a request from the Trenton fire department for $50 to cover the expenses of a buffet lunch to be served at a meeting of the Mutual Aid Association in Trenton.

"I hope this has nothing to do with wages," said Councillor Whitley.

"For unions," added Councillor McNair.

It was decided to call for tenders from reputable large companies to supply gas and oil for the requirements of the public works department and other departments.

A committee was appointed to review the financial situation in the matter of several neglected properties from which the town is receiving no revenue. Mr. Larry suggested that even a nominal rental of $5 a month would help to cover costs in connection with these properties.

The prime minister's statement had been "off-hand political seeking."

Mr. Nesbitt said he believes the prime minister "hatched and scrambled an egg" without seriously considering the political implication.

Mr. Argue said Canada should give diplomatic recognition to Red China. He also proposed that Canada plead with France to forego further nuclear tests.

Agriculture minister Harkness (Macquetie) said Canadians are concerned particularly over world issues because of lack of unity being a fear of Canada's foreign policy leaders. He asked for an end to "political back-biting."

On the employment side, the decrease of 50,000 in those with jobs between December and January was greater than the 12,000 drop that occurred between the same months a year earlier.

However, the government said it was about the same as the average December-January change in the previous six years.

The main contributor to the decrease occurred in construction, the government said, and about half the monthly drop to less than usual.

Atomic Underground

General Charles de Gaulle has his A-bomb—and the rest of the world has a new headache. General de Gaulle, and Frenchmen of like mind, may see the Sahara atomic test as enhancing France's prestige and influence. More realistic, it seems to us, is the reaction at Ottawa, where a spokesman for Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the explosion "points up the urgency of pressing ahead with Geneva talks on banning nuclear tests." But we should be underestimating the peril if we took the Ottawa comment merely at its face value.

The real danger is not the effect on the world's atmosphere of a wholesale resumption of atomic tests, though this peril may be very real, but rather the fact that tests are but the prelude to the arming of nations with nuclear weapons. France plans more tests in the Sahara, is already considering an effort to build a hydrogen bomb which would be exploded in the Pacific.

What France can do, some other nations in the world can also accomplish. While the scientists of the three atomic powers, Russia, the United States and Britain, quibbled at Geneva we have arrived at the threshold of that frightful moment when the power to destroy the world would not be the exclusive property of a few major powers. First it was the U.S. which possessed this awesome power, then the U.S. and Russia, then the U.S., Russia and Britain, now the U.S., Russia, Britain and France. Tomorrow, unless steps are taken to prevent it, any two-bit dictator anywhere in the world will have the power to hold the rest of the world to ransom. The only effective way to prevent the development of such an intolerable condition is to ban atomic tests.

The atomic powers at Geneva have not done right by mankind. They cannot expect every nation to be governed by men as enlightened as those who rule Canada—to renounce all intentions of building nuclear weapons though the capacity to do so lies well within the nation's power.

Whatever may be the reason for the attitude of the U.S. in seeking a partial, rather than complete, ban on nuclear tests, the results are unsatisfactory. The U.S., while prepared to agree to a ban on above-ground and high altitude tests, wants small-scale underground tests excepted. Russia rightly says that it would be difficult to detect such tests they should not be included in the ban. Far more scientific knowledge than is possessed by any person not a physicist is required to judge the validity of the U.S. contention that such underground tests could be disguised. The practical results, though, are plain for even the most dense to see. Jacques Soustelle, former minister of atomic affairs in the de Gaulle government, says that France will conduct further tests, including underground explosions "which nobody could in good faith condemn." This remark is evidently based on the U.S. position at the Geneva talks. But Mr. Soustelle is wrong. Many people, in the best of faith, will condemn these underground tests, because they will enable other nations to build atom bombs.

Meanwhile there comes a frightening explanation of why the U.S. is so determined to exempt small-scale underground tests from any ban. William R. Frye, a newspaper correspondent at the United Nations headquarters, quotes one U.N. observer as declaring the U.S. is acting to "block out all Russia" and that the price for a cold-war settlement still includes ousting us from Berlin, we can be tough, too. We will block a total test ban, and make our position so reasonable you will be blamed for the deadlock. We will conjure up your worst nightmare—the West Germans, your bitterest enemies, with nuclear firepower. You had better think twice about Berlin."

If there is anything in this explanation for the U.S. position—and whether or not this was the result intended this could well be the result obtained—this is an extremely dangerous game. The world is armed with nuclear weapons, (whether developed itself because of the lack of a total ban on tests or whether provided by the U.S., a possibility raised by recent pronouncements in Washington) will do what all Khrushchev's cajoling and blustering has failed to accomplish—will transform some of the satellite countries into firm opponents of the western democracies. Much as the Czechs and the Poles may hate Communism, they hate the Germans more.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS
LIFE'S PROPER SEQUENCES

"He thought the world owed him a living."

We often hear this said about someone who does not stand particularly high in the estimation of ourselves or others. Do you realize it might be said with considerable truth of you and me? We frequently entertain the fantastic delusion that God is under obligation to make and keep us happy. If He does not do this, He has let us down. "How can I have faith in a God like that?" we say. We may not come right out and declare that it is God's obligation to make and keep us happy, but down in our hearts we do hold that belief.

Yet the experience of the race and the testimony of the Bible is that God is not a Santa Claus. God is not primarily put on this planet for a purpose, and it would appear that his purpose is to prepare us for a greater life after death. We are here to learn how to grow souls. Happiness? Fine, and may we all have some measure of it. But happiness is not and never can be the end and purpose of life. Put first things first and keep them there.

Historic Hastings

Lorenzo Dow's Writings

(Article 108 contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society)

From time to time in the early history of Ontario, missionaries and travellers visited the Province and left a written record of their travels.

One of these to come to light from time to time and shed light on the development at it existed a hundred or more years ago.

In his twenties, Dow became a travelling Methodist preacher and subsequently visited Canada on several occasions. His observations are of some interest.

"It had an oil cloth given to me and then took my departure for Upper Canada or I swam my horse across Black flat country, Black mountain, Black river, arrived at Kingston, through a Black wilderness, flat country, and so muddy that my horse could but just walk, and for upwards of seventy miles through the wild beasts of the desert.

"I visited several neighborhoods within forty miles of Kingston westward; I had several dollars offered me, which I refused, and the circuit preacher (who was supposed to ask, as he had been disappointed a number of consecutive times) told me he had his salary, and this he brought against me at a future day.

"I left the grave of an infant relation of mine, who had been buried about three years, but ended life on an island at the mouth of Lake Ontario; thus I see we must all die.

"I then, in 1820, Dow again crossed into Canada, this time crossing from Rochester. His observations, particularly on the working of the Indians, are of interest.

Automation In Foodland

Ottawa Journal

With fanfare and jubilation, an exhibition in London has marked the 150th anniversary of British canned food. In the matter of preserving food in tins, Britain holds second place neck with the British. Napoleon urged French scientists to devise means of preserving cooked food in tins for his armies. Not until the Napoleonic wars was a false finger against his men stealing food in lands they were occupying. Then, in peaceful countries like Spain, Portugal or Italy, the British imperial Guard might go hungry.

The London canned food exhibition included a fragment of meat which Captain Parry had cooked with tin cans during his trip in 1820s. It came from Donkin's second cook, Stephen Goodmondsey, a pillar and pioneer of the industry. There were on display 1,000 "authentic" canned goods, including canned plum pudding found in British troops during the Crimean War.

The versatile British food processors had pointers by the means stop their activities' at canned goods week. Viscount Montgomery opened the exhibition. Manchester's paper, the Guardian, was a "modest but comprehensive automatic canteen with a hot food machine packed meals with cut fruit and chips, sausage and mash and other popular dishes." Near this was a factory line with people to "revolutionize the slicing of salmon."

To-day them all was a formidable machine called The Wastrel produced by a man to dispose of all the mechanically cooked meals which prove too tough for human teeth. And once against a background of music which plays noodling for 37 no rs.

All, England, the land of roasts and greens!

Stay Healthy By Nibbling

Windsor Star

If you like to nibble between meals, you might wind up being healthier and live longer on three regular meals a day.

Dr. Ancel Keys, biochemist, Dr. Clarence Cohn, and his colleagues at the medical school say evening of the arteries was seven times greater in meat-eating subjects than those confined to nibble at will.

Nibblers scientists feel that hardening of the arteries may be due to a fatty substance, cholesterol, as the result of fat arteries. Dr. Cohn found that fatty food, when taken in frequent small feedings, is less fat. herien.

Snack lovers will welcome this good news. But they should be told that the secret of not nibbling they must be sure they have enough to eat between daily calorie intake." Just how many nibblers exercise that restraint!

BIRKENHEAD, B.C.

This is a river, a tributary of the Lillooet. It was so named by Hudon' Bay co. officiali in memory of the British transport Birkenhead, wrecked in the Cape of Good Hope in 1857. Although men and women and children saved, but 400 soldiers and sailors, true to British tradition, went down with the ship.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

February 17th, 1940.

Costumed in all the splendour of elegancy of beautiful Fairylandia and waltzing in perfect time to the harmonizing strains of melodious music, a galaxy of talented skaters danced their way right into the appreciative hearts of 1,500 persons at the Home Arena Thursday night as the Quinte Skating Club staged their Winter Ice Show. Mr. Archie Leslie, vice-president of the Quinte Skating Club acted as master-of-ceremonies for the evening's entertainment, while special mention was due to B. B. Sisler, Ken Smith, Gordon Dewsbury, Mrs. Georgia Smith, Miss Muriel Wardner, and Miss Mary Foster for their untiring efforts to make the Carnival a success.

"What to do with India" was the subject of an interesting talk by W. H. Hassell before the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon held at the Quinte Hotel on Tuesday. Sid Howell, member of the Belleville Club was son of the speaker introduced his father to the meeting. Mr. Howell stated that India was a peculiar country with its many languages and its complicated social system. Some of the people are highly intellectual and others live in complete poverty. The richest man in the world lives in India being an Indian Prince with an income of 50 million dollars a year.

Mrs. T. Hyland, Mrs. E. P. Smith and Miss Grace Appleton, were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. G. English of Guelph for the weekend.

40 YEARS AGO

February 17th, 1920.

Belleville and Quinte is at present experiencing the greatest snow blockade of years. Drifting snow into deep drifts a north-western gale developed last night and continued for the greater part of today. Traffic is tied up on the country roads and the few trains that reached here were very late. This afternoon a number of men were sent to the hospital to clear a road to that important institution, as it was practically impossible to get near the building. The storm has taught the city authorities a lesson namely, that one or more snow ploughs are a necessity, at present the city has not a snow plough. Tinkers and milk delivery men found it difficult to get about the city and in some sections no delivery were made. Ald. Charles Tinnan, chairman of public works did all possible to relieve the situation.

Railroads Are Safest

Chatham Daily News

Bent on the one side by motor vehicle and airplane competition and on the other by demands from their employees for pay which they cannot afford to pay, the railways seems to be in a parlous state.

Revenues are not keeping pace with operating costs.

Yet American figures indicate the railways have one tremendous potential asset — that of safety.

In the U.S., last year air plane crashes killed 284 passenger and crew members. It is the record to fatality rate of .73 per million passenger miles.

For the railways, the fatality rate was .27 per million passenger miles.

The higher fatality rate of motor and airplane traffic are not sufficiently high to discourage individuals who want to "get there and back" as quickly as possible. It may even be argued that the view of the immense amount of traffic handled by the railways, trucks and cars, fatality rate is a modest one.

But the figures are clear evidence that so far as safe travel is concerned, our old friend, the railways, still has the edge.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SLEEPING FACE DOWNWARD DOESN'T HELP A COLD

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about the merits (if any) of children sleeping on their faces when they have a cold . . . Mrs. F. B."

This is an idea that has gotten around more than it should. The theory is that you want to call it one) seems to be that since the most drains while the child has a cold, it is in a better position to facilitate the drainage.

First of all, the fore part of the nose, when there is a cold, is congested and stuffy, and no matter whether you lie face up or face down, much of the drainage has to work its way backward into the throat.

Remember that what we commonly refer to as the "nose" — the part that sticks out in front like a pit nose — is only a small part of the nasal area anatomically. The upper (or rearward, if you prefer) parts of the nasal systems are so located that there isn't a tremendous amount of difference whether you lie on the face or on the back.

Second, I would like to see the theory that will stay in one position long enough to drain. Any such position to be of very much use would have to be maintained for hours, and children and adults are likely to be asleep. Youngsters, like adults, move while they are asleep, and, as you squirm, twist. No single position that one can assume for hours ploughs are a necessity, at present the city has not a snow plough. Tinkers and milk delivery men found it difficult to get about the city and in some sections no delivery were made. Ald. Charles Tinnan, chairman of public works did all possible to relieve the situation.

In short, the idea of trying to get a child to sleep on his face is impractical and wouldn't be very useful even if it could be achieved. Just to be sure, a cold is a miserable thing to have. A child may be cross, fretful, around during sleep, but will spend most of the time in whatever position permits easiest milk.

Hard-Working German Myth

By The London Times Bonn correspondent

Many myths were buried in the debris of German defeat, but among the few that survived one of the biggest is that of the German capacity for hard work. It is questioned; it caused envy and even resentment elsewhere.

Now a brief statistical report has destroyed the myth of the patient, hard-working German who finds fulfilment only at the bench and would rather work anyhow shift than accept shorter management.

The unemployment figures for the week ending October 31 were 2,600,000 work between 44 and 45 hours and 4,600,000 at the 48-hour week. Three out of four no longer work on Saturdays.

Order books are full, but overtime pay cannot keep West Germans at the bench after five. The trade unions regard a short working week as an objective more important than higher wages. "On Saturday Daddy belongs to me," is the union's slogan. Labour's ideal is "quiet there and look" as quickly as possible. It may even be argued that the view of the immense amount of traffic handled by the railways, trucks and cars, fatality rate is a modest one.

But the figures are clear evidence that so far as safe travel is concerned, our old friend, the railways, still has the edge.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE JOY OF ANTICIPATION

The thrill that comes to travellers on their first trip to Europe, and other extraordinary treats, is largely the thrill that the days of before the actual trip is taken way. The delightful anticipation that people revel in. It's the Anticipation to which people look forward with the keenest interest. Their eyes see everything. A new world is opened up before their interest-seeking eyes. Then there is another thrill — the happy home coming — and no place like home — anywhere!

The wise traveller will keep his eyes sentered on the unusual and unfamiliar. He adds to the surprise spoils, all the time spent in making notes and plenty of thinking at the show places. What a mental feast, and how it teems with interests, for that idea of freedom in a happy land is created by the thinking person. We should dwell on these Anticipations, for they plant themselves like seeds in good earth, and our days when away from home.

Sights are often dramatic and eye openers, but the simple, homey things attract most, for the emotions are alive then. I am one of those who believe in reviving one's own country first. It's nearest to the heart. Many of us gain a new home in our heart after a visit to such a place as Hawaii, however.

Happy Travelling!

Napanee Valley S.C. Plans Camporee

DESERONTO — A meeting of the Napanee Valley District Scout Council was held on February 8th. President Doug Alkenbreck was in charge of the meeting which included one guest and the Provincial Field Commissioner.

The council was advised that the site for the Scout Camporee had not yet been booked but no difficulty was anticipated as the land is now under the control of the Department of Lands and Forests. It was agreed that the Camporee would be held June 24th to 26th.

The Cuboree will be held on Sunday, June 12th, in Deseronto, just west of Summerside Inn. There are some details still to be worked out.

Commissioner D. Alkenbreck stated that the response to leadership courses in neighboring centres was reduced because of the necessity to travel. The council will write the Scout Association for permission to hold a training program in this area during the winter of 1960.

The Scout Association advised that the Glendee East group be made a part of the Napanee Valley District.

VISITED NEARLY ALL GROUPS

District Commissioner Douglas McAllister gave a comprehensive report on his activities for the past two months. He had visited all groups except two and advised that most group leaders requested more assistance from group committees.

President Alkenbreck introduced a request for another Cub pack for Napanee. As a result, the council will entertain an application for recommendation subject to certain conditions.

K. Fraser reported on the Deseronto Group Committee and advised that they are endeavouring to add several to the committee.

Provincial Commissioner Art Jackson presented the quota sheets for each town. He also discussed the registration fees which fall due on the anniversary of the Charter dates. He reported the meeting to adhere strictly to instructions when filing insurance claims. Several forms were left with the district commissioner and the secretary.

A display of publicity material and a short discussion on the American Jamboree closed the meeting.

61/2- Foot Snake In Apartment Gives Man Scare

MONTREAL (CP)— Marc Rivard opened the door of his mid-town St. Norbert Street apartment Tuesday night—then ran for the building superintendent.

Police captured the reptile and turned it over to the SCPA.

How it got into Rivard's flat no one knows.

The snake was a sandy gray color with black diamonds and circles on its back. The species was not immediately known.

A one-day spiel will be held at the local rink in the near future for those players who did not participate in the annual "do." This will be a knockout draw.

CNR Officials Here in Dark About Rumors Peterborough Passenger Service to Cease

Canadian National Railways officials at Belleville yesterday were unable to confirm or deny a persistent rumor that their daily passenger and express train service between Belleville and Peterborough would be discontinued some time in the future.

At the same time, however, railway officials admitted they also had heard the rumor.

"I have heard the rumor," stated Mr. A. R. Wilson, superintendent of the Belleville division, "and I was rather surprised. Officially, however, I know nothing whatsoever of the matter."

Postal officials in Belleville have also been aware that the CNR mail train service to Peterborough was to be discontinued and there has been a suggestion that enquiries be made with the view of setting up a highway delivery should the rail service be discontinued.

Curling Notes

A unique competition is now in progress at the Curling Club and will run practically till the end of the season. In conjunction with the event will be another draw for all members of the club. The event now being staged is for vice skips with the men chosen on the teams to be leads. This will give the third men a chance to set up an end and try to make the crucial shots. It will also give the leads a chance to do a little work in the way of sweeping of which they have gone little during the winter. This will be a real test for the boys and a great deal of enthusiasm is being shown for the event.

In the report of the bonspiel recently held at the curling rink it was inadvertently omitted that the Deacon Brothers were the donors of the four Viyella shirts given to the winners of the fourth event in the spiel. Mr. Ernie Wright of Fort Henry and his rink were the winners of this event, defeating Frank Creegan's rink in a thrilling match, and were most happy with their prizes. The boys, after the presentation, had a draw for which color they would take. Fred B. Deacon made the presentations.

The next big event in the district will be the spiel being

"Is management a profession?" This question was the basis of an address by Professor Dermott Barrett of Queen's University at the monthly Sales and Advertising Club meeting last evening. The McGill graduate preluded his answer to this question with an examination of what a manager actually was, what duties and pressures he was subjected to and what training and ability was necessary in a good manager.

During the course of his speech Professor Barrett stated that managers are not only business men or people in business, but rather that they are people who run organizations and are in turn, creatures of organization. The speaker pointed out that in 1900 only 20 per cent of the country's population was hired or worked in large organizations. Now, he stated, the position is reversed with some 80 percent of Canada's population involved in large organizations.

He pointed out that successful management required the study and application of a theory in an analytical and scientific manner in much the same fashion as 'a professional man must study and apply a body of theory. The speaker noted that the first work, which approached the business of managing from a scientific slant occurred in about 1900 and a theory of process and technique in management was arrived at. This theory has remained fairly constant and sets out the steps of good management as being planning, organizing, directing, co-ordinating and controlling.

"As a group," Professor Barrett said, "managers are the directing and controlling force in our society." He added that although most people were unconscious of the fact that there had been a "managerial revolution" quietly going on over the past half century. Management, he concluded, is rapidly approaching that point at which it must be considered as a profession.

National Advertising Week was observed by the Sales-Ad people yesterday evening with a special program under the direction of Jerry O'Connor. Five local firms who indulged in various types of national advertising showed what they considered to be their best ad of the year. The types of advertising shown varied from point - of - sale display cards or stickers to full-page ads in national magazines. The firms showing examples of their advertising and explaining its use and design were Corby Distillery, Vagden Mills, Seven-Up, Deacon Brothers and Bata Shoe.

Frank Murray, manager of radio station CJBQ, was introduced as the Sales and Ad "Man of the Month" for February. The many guests present were introduced by Leo Laroque. Club president Bill Holway was chairman of the meeting.

Looking into the coming events those present were told about the coming Ladies Night on May 18th, the possibility of a speech and expression course, and about the club's curling bonspiel to be held in the near future.

Bay of Quinte Organists Hold Meeting Here

A meeting of the Bay of Quinte Centre of the Royal Canadian College of Organists was held at the home of Alec Gordon last Saturday.

The program was a decided contrast to the usual offerings in that it consisted of poems, and music devoted to the humorous side of a musician's life. One number in which all the members participated was a selection for toy band instruments.

Parents' Night Held at New School

DESERONTO — On February 10th the first Parents' Night to be held on the Tyendinaga Reserve was held at the new school in the evening. There was a goodly number of parents in attendance to meet the various school officials and the school committee.

In the absence of the school committee chairman, Albert A. Marsden, Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Cassie acted as chairman and the guests included H. H. Langford, Provincial School Inspector; Mr. Rodine, Regional Inspector of Indian Affairs; the Rev. Wrightson, Mohawk Chaplain and R. M. Hill, the Chief of the Band.

Chief Hill spoke briefly on the progress of education on Tyendinaga Reserve and compared the education provided today with that of 1901. In his opinion parents should encourage their children to do their utmost to achieve the higher educational standards. The chief also suggested that the school committee should be elected by the Band.

The members of the school committee were welcomed by the guests and the secretary, Mrs. Gladys Marsden, then reported on the activities of the committee since the organization. They have dealt chiefly with repairs to schools, training courses, naming the new school, the school bus system and the janitors.

READING LESSON DEMONSTRATED

A class from Central School, under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. L. Elliott, demonstrated a reading lesson.

The speaker of the evening, Mr. Rodine, introduced by Mr. H. Alton, principal of the new school, outlined briefly the vast changes in the educational field of Indian children. Comparing the increases in attendance and departmental expenditures he said that in 1949 the attendance at public schools was 5,000 and today some 19,000, the attendance at high schools was some 200 and professional graduates only 22 for an expenditure of $2,500,000. In 1939 the attendance at public schools was 29,000 and 1,400 went on to high schools and 400 to professional vocations but the expenditures was some $25,000,000.

HIGHER EDUCATION NEEDED

Mr. Rodine emphasized the need for higher education if the young people are to be successful in obtaining gainful employment. He advised that the Department is willing to assist Indian pupils to continue high school if they show they possess the necessary aptitude to absorb education. He was pleased at the number of parents attending the meeting. Their attendance showed their interest in the education of their children.

A demonstration in the study of science was given by a class taught by Mrs. E. Clench of the new school.

ROUND TABLE DISCUSSION

Following a short recess the meeting turned to a round table discussion on some items pertaining to the betterment of education on the Reserve. Following the suggestion of Chief Hill, Mr. Cassie introduced the subject of electing the school committee instead of having them appointed. A vote was called on this question and seven voted for appointment and 31 voted for election.

Transportation problems and school attendance were also discussed before the meeting adjourned.

St. Michael's Welcomes Rev. J.B. Sullivan

St. Michael's Parish Council of the CWL held its monthly meeting the evening of February 16th in St. Michael's Academy. Mrs. Herbert Brown presided. There were 86 members present and ten guests. Mrs. Brown graciously welcomed the Very Rev. Reverend J. B. Sullivan on behalf of the members.

Mrs. R. Ackerman, 1st vice-president, reported 800 members. Mrs. G. Gallagher gave the financial report. Mrs. McFadden, 2nd vice-president, urged more study groups. Anyone interested in starting a study group may contact Miss Molly Walker at the library on Tuesday evenings until 8.30 p.m.

Miss Molly Weller, 3rd vice-president, reported 30 members recited the rosary at the funeral home for Mrs. Hurst. She asked members not to forget the CWL Communion Sunday. Miss Weller spoke briefly on the Patrias, saying that she had the 1960 schedule for Retreats. She mentioned the meeting and the members that there were pamphlets on "What Is A Retreat."

Mrs. D. Brown, convenor of child welfare, stated that there were national health bulletins available.

Mrs. Bowers, convenor for Visiting the Sick, reported on five visiting meetings held and that they were preparing a program for "Visiting Day".

Mrs. Brown proposed longer hours in the library for the month of November. The new extended time will be 3 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Mrs. D. Brown, convenor of the reception for Very Right Reverend J. B. Sullivan, reported.

A special vote of thanks goes to Mrs. F. Donenico, Mrs. Moran and Mrs. A. Wilkinson, convenors of the dinner and refreshments served at the reception.

SAVING WOMEN

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—Ald. Ruth Donovan suggested a woman should be sent to a civil defence training course so that in event of a disaster there would be someone at city hall who would be trained to save the lives of women. Mayor Ivon J. Walker said: "Don't you think we men would be willing to save a few women?" The question was passed on to city manager R. G. Given.

Canadian Soprano Given Warm Welcome in Russia

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — When Canadian soprano Lois Marshall returned from her first Russian tour a year ago she said it was "absolutely marvellous." Now she has completed another and "this one was even better."

Her dark eyes sparkled as she recalled the reception given her in Moscow, Leningrad and Riga—where filled auditoriums roared for one encore after another.

"It was a great thrill to sing for them," she recalled. "They had a wonderful rhythmic clapping to show their approval and they screamed and even surged up the aisles to the foot of the stage."

CRITICS RAVE

When Miss Marshall last year became the first North American singer to tour the Soviet Union as a recitalist, Russian critics raved virtually every superlative to rave about her voice. She got the same treatment this time with additional bouquets from the audiences.

A few hours after her two-concert series was announced in Moscow she said she was sold out. Many of the ticketholders had heard Canadian singer on her earlier tour and this time they brought bouquets of flowers to her first Russian tour she was met with continual requests for Schubert's Ave Maria, but she didn't have the music with her. This she sang it at all seven performances and "they absolutely loved it."

She said the "complete uninhibition" of the audiences was the only real difference she noticed between Russia and the West. "Anything else would be very difficult to describe, but basically I think audiences are much the same."

RUSSIAN RECORDS

Miss Marshall, who lives in the Toronto suburb of Scarborough, and her accompanist, Weldon Kilburn, of Toronto, brought back about 45 long - playing Russian records. Some were gifts, others they bought. Miss Marshall got many gifts she had to have them shipped home.

After her one-month tour of Holland she will begin a five-month series of concerts in Australia and New Zealand. There will be 41 concerts in Australia alone, including an outdoor performance at the Adelaide Festival.

She said she will do five different programs in her concert series "to completely different things with orchestras." She left Canada Jan. 5 and won't be returning until mid-July—the longest and most strenuous tour she has ever undertaken.

"I know it will be tiresome," she says, "but I just love to sing."

CAME IN HANDY

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Arthur Foster, 84, received as a birthday gift 75 years ago an organ which she played as she and her husband celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary.

C.A.R.S. Aux. Plans Auction, Rummage Sale

Mrs. Enos David, president of the Auxiliary, presided at the February meeting, held at the home of Miss Hilda Collins, Moses Street. Reports of various committees were given by Mrs. J. A. Jarvis, Mrs. A. S. Robb, and Mrs. J. Layton.

A leaflet, prepared by the Society as a guide and to show better the functions and purposes of the Auxiliaries, was read by Mrs. Jarvis. Mrs. David advised that the Ontario Division of the Society was contemplating the setting-up of Work Shops in each district, the centre for this area would probably be held in Kingston.

Mrs. A. W. Hume has received some donations of furniture for the auction and rummage sale to be held in the Armouries in April. Articles for consignment for pick-up of any donations can be made by telephoning her at WO 2-2301. The committee for this annual project will be Mrs. Layton, Mrs. Robb, Mrs. Ackerman and Mrs. Jarvis.

The March meeting will feature a "bring and buy sale".

Refreshments were served by the hostess and a social hour enjoyed.

SHE KNOWS ANIMALS — Mary Fitzgerald, 28, first woman game officer in the Northwest Territories, knows a lot about the animals in Canada's North. Standing only four-foot-three, she went to Fort Smith, N.W.T., in 1956 as a stenographer with the northern affairs department. Now she is a commissioner of oats and a fur export officer as well as game officer. Here, she holds up skin of a fisher, one of the rare and protected animals of the territories' District of Mackenzie. Left is Joe Bryant, superintendent of game for the district. (CP Photo).

First Woman Game Officer Of Territories Knows Work

By JIM WHELLY

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)— "You don't know nothin' about trappin'," challenged Gabe Burke, a Metis trapper from the Fort Smith area.

Gabe then hurled a volley of questions on everything from fever to birds at the diminutive new game officer.

Mary Fitzgerald, four - foot-three, replied with an engaging grin and a flow of answers that left Gable satisfied she knew what she was talking about.

Miss Fitzgerald, 28, has picked up her experience in three years with the northern administration branch of the Northern Affairs department.

FIRST WOMAN

She came to the Northwest Territories-Alberta border community in 1956 as a stenographer. Recently she became the first woman game officer in the N.W.T., also receiving appointments as a commissioner of oaths and a fur export officer.

The duties of the game wardens patrolling the district would be more exciting," the tiny brunette said in an interview, "but I don't think they can find a uniform my size."

As a game officer, she issues bird, beaver and general hunting licences and beaver seals. After issuing export licences, she seals the packages of fur to prevent tampering with the contents.

"LITTLE OTTAWA"

Fort Smith, a community of 1,500 some 450 miles north of Edmonton, is the administrative centre of the N.W.T.'s Mackenzie District and is sometimes known as "Little Ottawa."

When Miss Fitzgerald took a vacation last year, like most northerners she decided to take in a man-sized bite of the "outside"—any area below the 60th parallel.

She visited France, Spain, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Luxembourg, Belgium, Holland, England, Wales and Ireland.

"I like Ireland best, being a Fitzgerald," she said on return. "But this is the country where I want to live."

JOHNSTOWN W. A.

JOHNSTOWN — The Johnstown W. A. ladies held their February meeting on Friday evening at Glen Miller Club House after the congregational meeting.

Mrs. C. J. Brunt opened the service. The Scripture, Galatians 1:1-5 was read by Mrs. Arnold Harry and the lesson thought given by Mrs. Everett Clapp.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Glenn Sickle on March 3rd with Mrs. Alec Vandervoort in charge of program. Three ladies will be on each lunch committee from now on.

A thank-you vote was received from Ruth Grant for the plant sent her from the W. A. Mrs. Grant is still taking therapy treatments at the hospital. She is improving slowly.

Mrs. Clapp will not be able to be missionary convener for some time so she asked to be relieved. Mrs. Arnold Harry consented to fill in for her.

PET PEEVES

We all have our own special list of pet peeves. Recently, just for the fun of it, I have been conducting a little survey relative to the pet peeves of those with whom I have come in contact. Some of them rather made me stop and think!

There's the neighbor who beats a path to your door, forever "borrowing", this, that or the other thing. Needless to say, nothing is ever returned.

The friends who "drop by" for a visit at odd hours without any warning. The courteous gesture is, of course, to telephone before making such a visit, (no matter how well you know the person).

The out-of-town friend who invites herself to spend the week-end and winds up by staying ten days. This is showing an unpardonable lack of consideration for those kind enough to put you up.

The Boss's wife who is continually calling his secretary, asking her to "pick up a spool of dark brown thread (or what have you) on her lunch hour." This is an inconsiderate habit that too many wives cultivate.

The person who completely takes over any and all conversation. Whether the topic be child raising, the condition of international affairs, or a discussion about the price of food, he knows it all. And hates help there who try to interrupt and express their opinion!

The middle-aged woman who greets every comment with an affected twitter, or giggle. Far from being attractive, this habit can cause extreme irritation to all listeners.

The parent who introduces her defenseless offspring, aged 12, as "her baby." Whether the child be a boy or girl, pride is bound to suffer under this indignity.

The salesperson who insists upon greeting her customers as "Honey," with pats of affection thrown in. The usual result of such tactics is that the customer won't buy the product even if she wants it!

The parents who make fun of everything a teen-age considers important. Obviously they forget that they were young once too!

The co-worker in your office who keeps up a steady humming (usually off key) or whistles cheerfully all day long. Repeated hints to desist fail on deaf ears and the nerve-wracking annoyance continues unabated.

And so it goes, on and on. We all have our own pet peeve and, if one really faces the issue, the irritation is caused by the thoughtless action of the other fellow. Perhaps it might be wise to make sure that you, yourself, are not the "other fellow" in the eyes of your friends!

Question: My daughter is getting married and I plan to have the reception in a big hotel. I would like to know who to tip after I pay the hotel caterers for their services. Also, how much to tip.

Answer: When you make your plans for the reception with the banquet manager of the hotel, the usual procedure is for him to add the tip (which will be divided up among those serving the party) to the total amount of the bill. Depending upon the procedure followed in a given hotel, the tip may be either fifteen or twenty per cent. Should the reception be a very large and expansive one, this percentage may be brought down to ten per cent.

THAT'S BLACKMAIL, DAD

PINNEBERG, Germany (AP) — A Pinneberg boy came home with the marks of a good caning by his teacher on the traditional spot. Enraged, the boy's father threatened the teacher with the same treatment if he thrashed the boy again. A judge instructed the father Monday that his letter constituted blackmail and fined him 30 marks.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Jim C. — She's jealous of other people's children.

Nancy C. — I am not. I just want peace.

Jim C. — My wife and I have been married eight years and have no children, although we would like to have a family.

Unfortunately, my wife has been pregnant several times but lost the babies. We have seen many doctors and there seems little likelihood of our becoming parents.

I come from a large family and am just crazy about kids. I can spend hours fooling around with nieces and nephews and the children of friends. My wife, Nancy, is against our spending a lot of time with these people who have children. I feel she is jealous and she shouldn't be that way. If we can't have children, why not enjoy other people's?

Nancy C. — Three years ago I wanted to adopt a child, but JIM WAS AGAINST IT. He said if we couldn't have one of our own we should forget it. Well, I'm willing to forget it, but what's the big deal for us about hanging around with our friends' children?

I think it's rotten of Jim to say I'm jealous. I wish the best in the world to our friends and relatives and their families, but I can only take so much of other people's kids.

If I had my own I'd have to put up with them all the time — noisy, cranky, etc. Since I haven't I want peace of mind.

The Council: Jim's desire to be with other people's children seems reasonable enough on the surface, yet in view of his refusal to adopt a child, it's a little peculiar. If he can get so much pleasure from his contacts with the children of others, why does he reject the possibility of bringing up another's child as his own?

This oddity in Jim's attitude, plus his crude accusation of jealousy, indicates that some hidden forces are at work. It seems to us that Jim's underlying motivation is to hurt his wife. He certainly doesn't seem to try to make her feel better about the fact that she has been unable to bear the desired children.

We do not know the causes behind Jim's desire to wound. Possibly he feels he has been cruelly treated by fate since he can't have a child of his own, or he may have a more deep-seated anger against life and women in general.

In any case, Nancy has had some pretty hard blows in losing unborn children several times and is in need of all the sympathy, affection and reassurance a husband can offer. Instead she gets just the opposite — a form of censure for having failed to please him.

Jim should try to recognize that he has deprived Nancy of a child enough by his actions and she should accept the fact that he has deprived him. His case is less excusable because he refused a child. Nancy did not refuse to bear one.

Jim shows he is more emotionally maladjusted to the situation than his wife is. It is he who must make the greater effort to change. Since he doesn't want a child enough to try to adopt one, he should accept the fact that he and his wife will probably have a childless marriage.

ST. JOHN'S W.A.

MADOC — St. John's W.A. held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. E. T. Nayler, on Tuesday evening with ten members present. The meeting was opened with prayer and the reading of Mrs. J. Betts, read the lesson.

Various reports were read and approved. This was followed with the election of officers:

President, Mrs. Elsie Tufts; vice-president, Mrs. Gladys Nayler; secretary, Mrs. Lois Nickle; treasurer, Mrs. Florence Oxley; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. Anne Griffin; "Little Helpers," Mrs. Mary Barton; C.W.A., Mrs. Betts, Mrs. L. Nickle; "Living Message," Mrs. Lela Griffin; cards, Mrs. Barton; extra-cent-a-day, Mrs. L. Storring.

The meeting was closed by Rev. Mr. Betts and an enjoyable half hour spent with Mrs. Nayler serving refreshments.

—Contacts with the children of friends and relatives may be pleasant, but they are necessarily limited in time and emotional scope. If Jim wants some of the emotional satisfaction of contributing to a child's welfare and development, he should look into the possibility of doing volunteer work for a church or civic group that has a program for this purpose. Nancy may also find an outlet in such work if she can feel it is unconnected with any rebuke on her husband's part.

STUFFED PORK CHOPS EASY TO PREPARE

Take thick (1-inch) pork chops, cut a horizontal slit from outer fat edge of each chop almost to the bone and fill the pocket with well-seasoned, dry bread stuffing. See Mary Moore's recipe today. Close the opening with a skewer to keep stuffing in; then brown chops 3 to 4 minutes on each side over moderate heat, pouring off excess fat. Finish cooking in 325 degree F. oven, allowing 10 to 25 minutes.

High Class Meals From Low Cost Chops

by Mary Moore

The casserole crowd is going, take to this like ducks to water. My first recipe makes a one-dish meal and calls for 6 1" thick loin pork chops. That is, there is one big chop for each member of the family — and no arguments.

The other recipe gives a stuffing for pork chops which presently are a drug on the meat market.

Underneath the chops in my first offering is a mysterious blend of tart apples and onions or tomatoes and eggplant if you wish.

WEDNESDAY

PORK CHOP CASSEROLE

6 1" thick loin pork chops, salt, pepper, 4 large tart apples, chopped but unpared, 4 medium onions, peeled and chopped, 1-4 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, juice of 1 lemon, 6 thin slices of lemon, 1-4 cup water.

Sprinkle chops with salt and pepper. Cut off a little fat from one chop and grease hot pan with it and brown the chops on both sides over high heat. In large casserole mix together raw the chopped apples and onions or peeled and chopped tomatoes and eggplant. Mix together the sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle half over raw vegetable and fruit. Arrange brown chops overlapping on top of raw vegetable and fruit, and sprinkle with remaining sugar and cinnamon mixture. Place a slice of lemon on each chop. Carefully pour excess fat from frying pan and the rinse it out with the 1-4 cup water and the lemon juice to dissolve the brown sediment in pan. Carefully pour this liquid around chops. Cover. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. 1 1-4 to 1 1-2 hours. Uncover during last 5 minutes. We served this with stuffed baked potatoes.

CEYLON TEA PICKER — This picker makes her contribution to one of Ceylon's major industries—tea. Among the Asian island's major exports, tea had higher prices on world markets last year although quantities shipped declined. Investment in machinery for processing tea dropped. Ceylon Is Nation Bewildered By Year of Political Drama But Hopeful of Next Decade

COMMONWEALTH 1960
By E. C. B. WIJEYESINGHE

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuter) — Ceylon today is a nation bewildered by a year of high political drama but hopeful of a great future for the decade of the 1960s.

Many see elections to be held in March as the crucial point in Ceylon's history as a modern independent state, a test which will decide whether democracy can be stabilized on this troubled island of 9,500,000 people.

During the last 3½ years, through several experiments with socialism the machinery of law and order went out of gear, and as a result of conflicting forces within the cabinet, democracy itself hung in the balance.

ELECTION MARCH 19

Prime Minister Wijeyananda Dahanayake, who took over on Bandaranaike's death, dissolved Parliament and called a general election for March 19. He fired 19 cabinet ministers.

The decision to hold an election had almost universal approval but it resulted in the unprecedented of a large number of mushroom political parties. There are 23, many with vague policies and few supporters.

The six leading contenders are the Democratic Party founded recently by Dahanayake himself, Bandaranaike's Freedom Party, the former ruling United National Party and three on the left: the Trotskyites, the Marxist United Front and the Communists.

Though the three right-wing parties profess to favor parliamentary socialism, all are against further nationalization and the prospect of them gaining a joint majority heartened the business community.

EXPORTS DECLINED

Ceylon's major exports — tea, rubber and coconut—were favored in the last year by higher prices in the world market, but the quantity of exports declined.

Rubber experienced a mild boom during the year but the climate for investment continued poor. Investment in tea machinery in some cases went down to 20 per cent.

By October of last year there was an overseas trade deficit of 212,00,00 rupees ($10,720,000), an all-time high. Facing a thumping budgetary deficit, the government slapped taxes on a number of items. Even arrack, the potent local brew made of fermented coconut milk or rice mash, went up by two rupees (72 cents) a bottle. One of the few bright spots was in earnings from dollar tourists, running at their highest in 10 years.

MANY STRIKES

While unemployment reached its peak figure labor was restive during the year and the loss of man-days by strikes proved to be against further nationalization and the prospect of them gaining a joint majority heartened the business community.

E. C. Drury Never Wanted To Enter Provincial Politics But Wound up as Premier

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — In a 70-year-old farmhouse in a grove of Norwegian spruce in Simcoe County, an 89-year-old man is writing his "memories."

E. C. Drury is using a modern ballpoint pen to put down the recollections of a farmer who didn't want to enter provincial politics but who wound up premier of Ontario.

It is the story of a man who twice fought for a House of Commons seat to give weight to his anti-protectionism views and twice failed.

The book will be the third for Ernest Charles Drury, for the farmer-politician long ago turned author.

"MY MEMORIES"

"I don't call it my autobiography, nor my memoirs," he says. "I call it my memories." Still have some very sprightly opinions to say of Sir Adam Beck and the Hydro and I may have something to say of treachery within the UFO."

Sir Adam was forming Ontario's hydro - electric complex while Mr. Drury's United Farmers of Ontario party was in power between 1919 and 1923.

"I have lived 82 years through many significant phases," he says. His book will be frank—probably biting with his incisive humor. "But I don't intend to vilify anyone."

Mr. Drury, long a widower, lives with a son and his family in the brick farmhouse built in 1870 by his father.

EARLY RISER

He rises at 5 a.m., bathes, then works at his upstairs desk in the silent house until breakfast. He can look out over 230 acres that have been in the Drury family since 1820.

"We have lived for four generations on the same land, and I hope we'll be here another 150 years." His hope could come true—his five children have given him 14 grandchildren and, so far, two great - grandchildren. Three of the boys are attending Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

Born Jan. 28, 1878, on the Crown Hill, Ont., farm of his ancestors, Mr. Drury got his elementary education at a "little red schoolhouse." He attended Barrie Collegiate Institute and graduated from OAC in 1900.

FARM AFFAIRS

He represented the Farmers' Association of Ontario on the tariff commission in 1905 and was master of the Ontario Grange in 1916. In the same year he was chosen first secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture.

He married Ella A. Partridge. He is a Freemason and a member of the United Church.

E. C. Drury was a Liberal until 1903 when Sir Wilfrid Laurier "went over to protectionism." Now he is "a liberal with a small l."

All his life he has fought the principle of protective tariffs—the subject of his first book in 1932 called Farm or Folly.

Today he says: "Communism and protectionism are the two worst evils in the world today—and I don't know which is worse."

RAN FOR PARLIAMENT

He was an unsuccessful candidate—as an Independent Liberal—in the election of 1917 and again in 1925 he ran unsuccessfully for the federal House, this time as a Progressive.

He was "appalled" at the task of forming a farmer government for the erstwhile strongly "old party" province when summoned by Lt.-Gov. Sir John Hendrie after the provincial general election of 1919.

The son of Ontario's first agriculture minister, E. C. Drury didn't even have a seat in the legislature.

"I knew we would be turned out the first time we went to the public," he says.

MINORITY GOVERNMENT

But he formed a government of 55 supporters—some of them labor—in the legislature of 111 seats. "Defeat was imminent on every division."

Mr. Drury wanted to broaden the UFO appeal, but was called "a traitor to the party."

"On the other hand, we were accused of class rule."

"We were four years without a majority and we did things—more, possibly, than we would have done if we had been able to. Perhaps we would have done if we had been able to have done more."

WRITES MEMORIES

Ernest Charles Drury, former premier of Ontario, relaxes at the family farmhouse near Barrie, Ont., where he is writing his third book—a collection of his "memories." The 82-year-old politician-turned-author headed the United Farmers of Ontario government between 1919 and 1923. He was the son of Ontario's first agriculture minister. A life-long opponent of protective tariffs, his first book in 1932 dealt with the subject. His second book, published last year, was about 18th-century Huron Indians in Ontario. Mr. Drury twice was unsuccessful in bids for a seat in the House of Commons, in 1917 and 1925. (CP Photo).

A royal commission he named on higher education recommended the development of the University of Western Ontario at London. His government introduced the mothers' allowance and brought in the Adoption Act and the Dependents' Arrears Act. It enlarged workmen's compensation legislation and provided new protection for children of unmarried mothers.

AGAINST IMPERIALISM

"I believe in such measures—but I do not believe in paternalism," he says.

His efforts led to reforms in reforestation and he put the unemployed to work on provincial highways during the sharp business recession of 1923.

"There's a forest named for me now in Simcoe County," he says. "I'd rather have that than Sir Adam Beck's memorial on University Avenue" in Toronto.

Two years ago he resigned as sheriff of Simcoe County after 25 years in office. Last year he retired as registrar of the Ontario Supreme Court here.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Despite the bad weather on Sunday morning, quite a number attended Church service with the Rev. W. Mac-Mullen giving the message.

At the time of writing all will be convinced that old Bruno certainly saw his shadow as "Valentine's Day" was one of the worst storms this winter. Following the snow storm the faithful road-men are again on duty ploughing roads which became drifted after the last week.

Glad to report Master Stephen Parks is improving after having his tonsils removed at the Belleville General Hospital. His little playmates will be glad to see him back at school.

A large number of Wallbridge W.I. members attended the W.I. meeting at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. McMullen on Thursday night.

Baby David Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hart, was taken to Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday. All hope he will soon be able to return home.

For 40 years, E. C. Drury has walked with a cane—ever since "I was butted by a ram; probably the best ram I ever raised. Since he was not financially responsible, unfortunately I couldn't sue."

BOOK ABOUT INDIANS

His second book—All for a Beaver Hat—was published last year and deals with the Huron Indians between 1615 and 1650 in the area which became Simcoe County.

Work on his third he interrupts twice a week to go into Barrie in the battered coupe he bought new but which now is old enough to vote.

There, he climbs the stairs at the Simcoe County courthouse to help in the complicated workings of bankruptcy court.

"I set a fee but left an imprint on the history of the province he never wanted to rule, he has left his mark on the old courthouse. His heavy cane has carved small grooves in each of the wooden steps he climbed and descended for 20 years.

Indian Horses With Spotted Coats Scarce

LANGLEY, B.C. (CP)—"There's no horse like the Appaloosa," says Joe Warren, who has some of these Indian horses with spotted coats on a 30-acre farm, part here, and more on a ranch at Lloydminster, Sask.

"They have speed, stamina and endurance," he says, "They can handle rough country. They are intelligent and affectionate."

All these attributes Warren has discovered in the last 10 years. Although he was a cowboy in his youth, and has bought and sold horses all his life, he wahn't sure of the name of the first spotted horse he bought in 1940.

The name comes from the Palouse River region south of Spokane, Wash., where the Nez Perce Indians long ago had a horse they called—of Palouse.

Almost alone among North American tribes, the Nez Perces practised selective breeding to get the spotted horse they wanted. They are now being bred back into popularity in North America, apparently cave originally from Spanish settlements in Mexico, through thefts by Indians of Western states.

The horse's distinctive markings are leather spots, mostly on the rump, but sometimes over the whole body. Breeders believe there may be a link with the ancient spotted horses of legend, the fabled unicorn and pre-historic caves of southern France.

But the markings are the last feature considered by cowboys and horse-show judges.

"They all have mottled skin and striped hooves," says Warren, "and they must not be tied with in front. They're mountain horses, and they have got to handle narrow trails."

As recently as the 1940s you got mink-fed money for an Appaloosa," says Warren. "Fifteen dollars was a good price." The first Appaloosa club was organized in the U.S. in 1938, and in 1950 the breed was recognized.

The Appaloosa Horse Club of Canada was established in 1954, and a club was formed in British Columbia last fall. The average price here now runs about $500.

Safari for Souls
With Billy Graham in Africa

By TOM McMAHAN
Religion Editor, The State, Columbia, S.C.

JOS, Nigeria — It was ten o'clock at night. Around the sports stadium little groups of people clustered around the flashlights and dim light bulbs. Tears streaming down the dusty face of an Ibo Tribesman as he realized the joy of total forgiveness.

Earlier in the evening more than twenty-five thousand people had jammed every seat and spread across most of the playing field at Enugu to hear the American evangelist talk in simplest terms about God, sin and salvation.

There was no invitation to come forward. Billy Graham simply asked those wanting to repent and trust Christ for the first time to remain after the crowd had gone. He urged them not to remain unless they were willing to give up their sins and follow Christ. Nearly nine hundred stood around the platform to receive instructions, then divided into scores of little congregations so missionaries, African pastors and divinity students could help them find their way to God.

Only a few miles away many other Ibos continue to worship idols. Recently a number of men were hanged for taking part in ritual murders. Some killers heard the Gospel for the first time in prison while awaiting their fate.

Two special trains brought hundreds to the Graham meeting in the capital of the Eastern Region of Nigeria, a clean, attractive city of seventy thousand with many modern buildings and almost no slums. One church sent twenty lorry loads seventy miles to the meeting. Others travelled two hundred miles or more.

STORY PROVES FALSE

As the Graham party left Enugu for the airport someone picked up a newspaper and pointed out a paragraph of a story headlined, "A Dandy Goes After Graham." The story filled from New York, said, "One of America's best-dressed women, Mrs. Eleanor Searle Whitney, is on her way, by way of India, to join Doctor Billy Graham in his evangelistic crusade in Africa, one of her household staff told reporters here."

That was news to the team certainly in that vein. Mrs. Whitney, who professed conversion during the Graham New York Crusade, talked with two of Graham's associates just before they left New York and inquired about the African tour schedule. She said she was planning a trip to India and might attend the meetings in Ethiopia or Egypt. There was no thought of her joining the campaign nor is there any such possibility.

Since her conversion, Mrs. Whitney has sponsored a Bible class which meets weekly in fashionable Long Island homes with an attendance sometimes exceeding three hundred. She has become a close friend of Billy Graham's sister, Mrs. Leighton Ford.

Mrs. Whitney moves in the top layer of New social circles and is active in charitable drives. She was married for seventeen years to Sonny Vanderbilt Whitney, one of the heirs of a great American fortune. He divorced her last year and quickly remarried.

Arriving at Jos tin mining centre, nestled among rugged mountains on the highest plateau of West Africa, the team members whisked from the airport to a large mission rest station school where they enjoyed an American-type lunch of pork chops, corn, mashed potatoes and pie alamode. It was a welcome interlude to the English style five-course meals.

Later they toured the primitive village where women wear only gee-string adorned with leaves as aprons. They climbed the rocky height to enjoy the breathtaking landscape dotted with scores of tiny clumps of mud huts. The guide was a veteran Australian woman missionary who walks twenty to thirty miles a day to the surrounding towns. The day before, a poisonous snake had been killed on her compound. She told how Christianity stamped out the practice of killing the second-born of all twins with slow poisoning and pointed out a church near the village where seven hundred worship on communion Sundays.

BARGOONBURGERS TASTY

Dr. Paul Maddox, former chief of chaplains of the American army in Europe, and Graham's personal secretary, motored to Jos ahead of the balance of the team. On the way he watched a missionary shoot a baboon which later was served in the form of baboonburgers in the nearby mission school. The rocky, sparsely-vegetated knolls around Jos sometimes fairly swarm with baboons.

Graham stayed at an English lodge called Hill Station, which is surrounded by boulders, among which nestle gorgeous flowering bushes and trees. As the sun rises through the cleft of the distant range of hills, scores of birds swoop and flit overhead. Mist and smoke rise from the towns on the plateau.

Some nearby villagers are primitive as any Africans — people who never big saucers in their lips and very little clothing.

But at seven o'clock in the morning African children swarm down the dusty paths to school with satchels on their heads. In a thousand villages near Jos there are tiny churches where hymns of praise rise to the living Christ. In many of them, Africans have cried to God all night recently for the success of Graham's Safari for Souls, now at the half-way point.

Britain Boosts Defence Budget; Work on Missile

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain Tuesday boosted its defence budget for the next fiscal year by £115,700,000. The increase brought the total outlay for defence for the 1960-61 year to £1,617,830,000.

The figures were disclosed by the government in an annual report to Parliament on defence.

The report said the increased expenditure was due partly to the transfer to the defence budget of some expenditures formerly borne by other departments.

The report said development of the Blue Streak, Britain's ballistic missile, was continuing but added that the government may decide not to rely exclusively on fixed-site missiles.

INVESTIGATE LAUNCHERS

The possibility of long-range missiles being fired from moving launchers, such as planes or submarines, also was being investigated, the report said.

The Blue Streak was widely reported to be a controversial issue in the cabinet and among defence chiefs. It was fathered by Duncan Sandys, now minister of aviation, when he was defence minister.

Treasury chief Derick Heathcoat Amory was said to be concerned at its cost — likely to amount to about £700,000,000 by the time it is in full service by 1965.

Harold Watkinson, who succeeded Sandys as defence minister, was believed to favor more mobile missiles.

CALLS TALKS

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has called a meeting of ministers for next weekend at his country residence, Chequers. Its main aim appeared to be to settle the arguments over defence.

Today's report also disclosed:

1. Arrangements are being made with the United States to provide a warning system for Britain against missile attack.

2. An order for the first all-British nuclear submarine is expected to be placed in the coming year.

3. The new aircraft carrier Hermes, equipped with the latest devices in air defence, is about to join the fleet.

Giant Pine Tree Cut

LINDSAY — "Three trees of that size would go a long way towards building the average modern home of today." So reports R. A. Quirk, sending supervisor of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests here following the harvesting of a forest giant in Bruton township.

The tree, a white pine, had an overall height of 120 feet and began life at least 150 years before Canada became a nation. Bert Hicks, jobber for the company which operated on the limits, said it was the best white pine he had ever cut. The trees measured 48 inches across the stump and produced five high-quality saw logs, three of 16 feet and two of 14-foot lengths before reaching the limbs. The logs had a total volume of 3,166 board feet.

In a few more years, Department experts said, the tree would have started to deteriorate for such trees, just as do garden products, begin to "go bad" if they are not harvested when ripe.

Question of Privilege in Use Coat of Arms on Pamphlet To Be Examined by Board

OTTAWA (CP)—Does unofficial publication of Commons debates, using the Canadian coat of arms and the name and title of the Commons Speaker, constitute a breach of parliamentary privilege?

After some initial disagreement, the Commons unanimously agreed Tuesday that the question should be examined by its committee on privileges and elections.

The issue arose when Murdo Martin (CCF — Timmins) complained that a breach of privilege and contravention of law was involved in a mailing campaign by a Toronto company designed to promote trading stamps.

He drew attention to a four-page pamphlet put out by Sperry and Hutchinson Company of Canada Limited which reproduced front page of Hansard—daily report of Commons debates—and the Hansard report of a Jan. 26 speech by Margaret Aitken (PC—York-Humber) opposing any move for a government ban on trading stamps.

DISGREE WITH PM

Mr. Martin's question of privilege produced disagreement between House Minister Fleming and Speaker Michener. Opposition Leader Pearson and CCF spokesmen, on the other hand, took issue with the prime minister's statement that no precedent exists for taking action on the basis of a complaint such as Mr. Martin's.

The prime minister suggested that in raising it Timothy Monday (PC—Carleton) "a purpose has been served by the publicity given the matter. Further publicity would only give it greater attention than was necessary."

Speaker Michener thought otherwise. The Hansard report is published under his authority and the public could use it freely so long as it was used fairly. There also was the possibility of abuse, on the face of it, in Mr. Sperry and Hutchinson's pamphlet seemed to be a breach of privilege.

Erhart Regier (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam) was more sympathetic to Mr. Diefenbaker's view "because he above all Canadians established the principle of action on this very issue of the protection of the rights and privileges of members of the House."

PEARSON SURPRISED

Mr. Pearson also confessed to surprise at Mr. Diefenbaker's comments. He thought Mr. Speaker's refusal to consent at calling the Sperry and Hutchinson president before the Commons committee had gone too far.

But he agreed it was proper for the privileges committee "to see whether in fact there has been a serious breach of privilege and whether the records of the House may have been used, whether by inadvertence or by design we do not know—to mislead the public."

Responsibility for the mailings was acknowledged in the Toronto Monday night by Byrne Hope Sanders, Toronto consultant for Sperry and Hutchinson Company of York. She said she thought Hansard was "public property."

The pamphlets, she said, were intended "to help create a climate of sincerity and atmosphere for discount trading stamps in Canada."

Mr. Pearson said the Commons Tuesday on Mr. Martin's question of privilege the matter's action was an infraction of the Unfair Competition Act as Mr. Martin had suggested, apart from Mr. Diefenbaker.

That, he said, was a matter for the courts to decide.

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP)—Three traffic fatality weeks were celebrated in North Battleford Tuesday as parking meters hooded for free parking. The last traffic fatality in this city of 9,000 was in 1956.

Want Licence Fees on Mobile Homes Increased

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities has resolved that military personnel on the establishment within a municipality be requested not to take part in local option liquor elections if their messes already have liquor licences.

The resolution, introduced by Reeve Hugh Winston of Scarborough Township, near Kingston, has asked the provincial government to amend the Liquor Licence Act to enforce the request.

Mr. Winston said the messes of Fort Henry, within the bounds of his municipality, served liquor as allowed under the act.

He said he believes most of the township's residents do not want liquor licences in the municipality. The Fort Henry personnel, however, had 1,100 votes which, under present regulations, they could cast in a local option election. There were only 1,800 votes in the township.

Delegates also passed a resolution calling for amendment to remove limitations on licence fees charged owners of mobile homes.

The resolution, if carried, would cover the cost of providing municipal services for a family in a trailer, it was argued.

The association also will ask the province to pass legislation which would make a municipality spokesman for amendment of all or part of an adjoining municipality liable for costs of the application.

Chester Little of Atwood was elected president. Vice-presidents are boils of Navan and J. M. Eckert of Seaforth were named vice-presidents.

THE BEST KIND OF BONFIRE — It's easy to see why these children are smiling—the burning building is their school. Flames destroyed the auditorium and several classrooms of the suburban Toronto school early Tuesday, before classes were to begin. Move to Put Winnipeg Area Under One Govt.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A move to put 450,000 people in the Winnipeg area under one government controlling essential services was to be proposed to the Manitoba legislature today for approval in principle.

The Manitoba government of Progressive Conservative Premier Duff Roblin planned to present for second reading a bill that would put Winnipeg in the same class as Toronto—an urban area under one government, headed by a chairman, with a chairman.

The government bill providing metropolitan government for half the people of Manitoba will provide essentially for:

1. A central planning agency for the whole metropolitan area.

2. Central control of essential common services.

AGRICULTURAL DEBATES

Agricultural topics were in the spotlight in three legislatures Tuesday.

In Saskatchewan, Liberal House Leader A. H. McDonald said the CCF government's agricultural programs have increased the farmers' burden. He criticized proposed crop insurance legislation as having prohibitive premium rates. He said any such plan should be Canada-wide.

Agricultural Minister George Hutton of Manitoba attacked the federal government's plan of deficiency payments for crops when he said placed farmers in "an untenable position."

In Ontario, Liberal Ross Whitesell charged the federal and Ontario governments, both Progressive Conservative, with forcing many farm prices through inadequate policies. He said egg producers and hog and poultry raisers all were suffering.

Premier Manning of Alberta introduced a bill to set up machinery for establishment of eye banks in the province. The bill will enable a person to will his eyes for use of others.

The Quebec legislature gave final reading to a bill authorizing appointment of a committee of experts to study how to establish hospital insurance in the province. A bill was also introduced to change Quebec's Motor Vehicle Act.

The bill proposes night-time visual limit reductions and would regulate the number of uniters carried by a truck or bus and the driver may drive. These regulations would be backed by fines and imprisonment to both drivers and owners.

Buick, Chrysler Will Cutback Production

DETROIT (AP) — Two car builders—Buick and Imperial—announced production cutbacks Tuesday as the auto industry's biggest customer for new cars climbed near the 800,000 mark.

Imperial said it would shut down its Detroit plant for one week starting Monday.

Buick said it will work some short weeks in March although no production cuts were planned for February.

RAISE MARRIAGE AGE

FRANKFURT, Ky. (AP)—The days a 16-year-old boy could marry a 14-year-old girl are over in Kentucky. Governor Bert Combs signed a bill Monday raising the minimum marriage age for men from 16 to 18 and women from 14 to 16.

Elliot Lake Community Will Fight to Last Gasp, Invites Cabinet Ministers to Town

ELLIOTT LAKE (CP) — This model mining community—its existence menaced by the imminent closing of district uranium mines—has decided to fight to the last gasp.

Some 3,200 uranium miners are scheduled to lose their jobs during the next 12 months as only two of six Rio Tinto mines in the district will be producing uranium by 1961, three will roll and a fourth will switch to copper.

Can-Met Uranium Mines Limited, employing between 800 and 1,000, will close this summer. Closings result from a United States decision not to renew uranium contracts of Canadian producers after 1962. The women of Elliot Lake will discuss the future of this community of 25,000 at a mass meeting today.

At the same time, the Elliot Lake and North Shore Emergency Co-ordinating Committee will meet to strengthen its executive and plan strategy.

TO INVITE MINISTER

The committee intends to invite Trade Minister Churchill and members of the federal government's committee on nuclear energy to visit here as soon as possible.

Invitations are also planned to the Opposition Leader Pearson, the district's representative in Ottawa, Andy Fulerton, and district member of the legislature, to meet the committee.

Mr. Pearson has expressed willingness to visit here Sunday, but will stay until Monday if Prime Minister Diefenbaker decides to come.

There has been criticism of the government's attitude to the district's problems.

CITES EXPORT VALUE

"It seems clear the government doesn't intend to help the position," said committee chairman Robert Hart, "but surely they realize that Elliot Lake has developed a potential export value of $300,000,000. We do not know why the government doesn't acknowledge it as an asset to us."

Jack Gauthier, an Elliot Lake pioneer, says the government should have warned the United States it would order removal of defence installations unless the U.S. continued buying Canadian uranium.

This community, represented by an investment in nearly $200,000,000, also faces added financial troubles. It has a municipal debt of between $13,000,000 and $14,000,000.

As empty store fronts line modern shopping plazas the Elliot Lake committee has urged that the one new building now being constructed—a $350,000 government post office.

STUDY ACCIDENTS

OTTAWA (CP)—A special research drive to cut aircraft accidents is being planned by the National Research Council, a proposal likely to be discussed by the council and the transport department's air services branch calls for the establishment of an accident research laboratory equipped to investigate the causes of all types of aircraft accidents. After the cause has been determined the laboratory will study ways to prevent similar mishaps.

Govt. Rejects Private Bill On Housing

TORONTO (CP)—The legislature's standing committee on private bills today rejected one bill and amended another on the grounds that both were contrary in part to the best interests of the public.

The committee rejected a bill sponsored by Rene Brunelle (PC—Cochrane North) which sought for the Kapuskasing High school board legislation to build and sell housing accommodation to teachers.

The amended bill was sponsored by John McNeil (PC—Elgin) and sought to incorporate the Ontario Institute of Professional Agrologists. The committee approved the incorporation but deleted from the proposed bill terms seeking to give the institute authority to allow only its members to use a professional designation of "registered professional agrologist" and to levy fines of $50 against anyone using the designation who was not a member.

AGAINST PUBLIC INTEREST

In both these instances, committee members said authority sought by the two groups would be against the public interest. The Kapuskasing proposal would allow a school board to get into the real estate business. The agrologists sought powers to discipline their members and prosecute criminals against members.

The committee deferred action on a proposed bill introduced by H. Simonett (PC—Frontenac-Addington) entitled "An Act respecting the Township of King, in the County of Addington" because of the municipality appeared to be in favor of it.

The committee approved four other bills which would:

Allow the township of Hamford to increase its council to seven members by increasing the number of councillors from six to seven.

Permit the Town of Orillia to have a by-law setting up a board to administer and control the Orillia Veterans Memorial Home;

Allow the village of Killaloe Station to change its status to a township to permit establishment of a municipally - owned hydro utility;

Authorize the incorporated synod of the Anglican diocese of Ontario to transfer land for church purposes.

GETS NEW JOB

TORONTO (CP)—Alan Jarvis of Ottawa, who resigned last year as director of the National Gallery, has been appointed national director of the Canadian Conference of the Arts conference committee, it was announced Monday by Arthur Gelber, president. "Our organization is planning a major conference of the arts to be held in Toronto in the spring of 1961," Mr. Gelber said. "The planning and organization of such a conference is a task for which Mr. Jarvis's abilities and background are admirably suited."

Should Enact Law to Make Buses Stop

HILLSBURGH (CP) — School buses should have to stop before proceeding over a railway crossing, traffic experts told a coroner's jury here Tuesday.

They were testifying at an inquest into the bus-train accident Jan. 28 which killed students Kareen Avery, 11, Donna Jackson, 13, Gundrun Koch, 15, and bus driver Calvin Leitch, 28.

Sixteen pupils who rode in the bus said Leitch did not stop. They slowed down but never stopped at the three level crossings on the bus route to Erin District High School.

No law requires school buses to stop at railway crossings.

Thomas Mahony, traffic safety officer with the department of highways, said legislation requiring buses to stop at crossings should be enacted.

Sgt. Kenneth Skerrett, a traffic safety expert from the Hamilton police department, recommended legislation requiring buses to stop at railway crossings and advocated a monitor system through which school bus students would assist in keeping order on buses. He urged a closer liaison among school boards, school bus operators and drivers.

GONE RESPONSIBLE

More than half a dozen witnesses agreed with Assistant Deputy Attorney-General Eric Silk that no formal body seemed responsible for ensuring proper maintenance and operation of school buses.

Hartley Brown, director of the enforcement branch of the Ontario department of transport, agreed there is need for a special organization to handle such responsibilities.

Two final witnesses from the department of transport were to be called today.

Three witnesses testified earlier that the train was travelling "very fast" towards the level crossing.

Bunker, operating the train because the regular engineer was on holidays, said Tuesday the bus when he was 125 feet from the crossing but didn't apply the brakes immediately because he thought it was slowing.

He said she pulled the emergency brake between 83 to 100 feet from the crossing.

RAPS CPR RULE

Mr. Silk condemned a CPR rule which prohibits the use of a tape-recorder in cases of accidents. Even a photographic record of accidents or estimates of speed.

Leo Lyons, operator of all Wellington County bus lines, said school buses in the county were required to stop at all level crossings and that provincial legislation should be enacted immediately to require all buses to come to a complete halt at railway crossings.

Mr. Lyons admitted he hadn't given Calvin Leitch, driver of the school bus striking test car checked to make sure he had a chauffeur's license but he said Leitch was thoroughly tested on only instructions for level crossings was to slow up and be careful.

PLANS FOR ARCTIC

OTTAWA (CP) — Soviet scientists this year will study the possibilities of using solar energy, explosives and other devices to unlock northern sea routes earlier from their icy covering. Details of the program of the Soviet Arctic and Antarctic Research Institute were set out in the Soviet news bulletin published by the Russian Embassy here.

Frost Claims Federal Govt. Should 'Pay the Bill' for Transfer Uranium Contracts

TORONTO (CP)—If the provincial government fails to take suitable action, Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer will form a committee of his own to investigate the problems of uranium-mining communities.

Mr. Wintermeyer made this statement Tuesday as the legislature discussed the bleak future of communities such as Elliot Lake, facing large-scale unemployment as a result of cancellation of United States uranium contracts.

Premier Frost, defending his government against Liberal and CCF attacks, said the federal government should "pay the bill" for any northern community affected economically by transfer of uranium contracts to another area under the delivery stretch-out program.

The Liberals called for a "crash program" to investigate the practicality of a 42-mile heavy water reactor now being built with a view to using more uranium.

The CCF group demanded the government launch a move to "disgorge" some of the profits from big mining companies in the Elliot Lake, Blind River and Bancroft uranium areas to aid the workers in need.

It was announced Tuesday that some 2,000 to 4,000 miners in Elliot Lake are to be laid off because of a drop in demand for uranium in United States.

Ontario is doing everything possible to develop a market for uranium for peacetime use, Mr. Frost said. And in regard to the uranium contracts are transferred to other areas the federal government has "definite commitments" to aid the persons affected.

"The government has made strong representations to the federal government to help these people," Mr. Frost said.

Mr. Frost was referring more specifically to Dyno mines of Bancroft which was bought recently by a large concern and the uranium contract transferred to a mine in Saskatchewan.

On a motion by Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer the legislature was adjourned to discuss the plight of communities such as Elliot Lake as a result of impending large - scale unemployment.

The House should call representatives from the government and mining interests to meet with residents of the affected areas before the legislature's session ends, Mr. Wintermeyer said.

He quoted authorities as saying Canada's heavy water moderated reactor can produce electrical power 20 per cent more cheaply than other fuels. He urged a crash program to determine whether there is enough uranium, coal or gas.

The government refused to discuss the uranium problem because of the short notice, but Mr. Wintermeyer said he would form a similar committee on his own to investigate the issue.

The Ontario government should also initiate a program to retrain the "pioneers of the north" who are being thrown out of work and press the federal government for unemployment benefits, Mr. Wintermeyer said.

Albert Wren (L—Kenora) said the Ontario government had been told as early as 1955 that the uranium industry would face adverse times and the government had not taken any action.

He said the Elliot Lake area has become "handcuffed to the wheel of American government policy" and Canada should send a bill for damages to Washington.

Arthur Reaume (L — Essex North) charged the government with condemning the residents of Elliot Lake by a board of supervisors that acted like "wooden soldiers."

If the residents had a chance to vote for a legislature council they would probably ride Energy Resources Minister Macaulay "out of town on a flatcar."

Ontario's great natural resources have been "sold down the river" to private promoters, said Ken Dryden (L — Toronto Woodbine).

The mining companies would take millions of dollars out of the uranium fields no matter what the situation, he said, but the people with homes and businesses would remain "stranded."

He said the federal government has to bring pressure and Ontario must "disgorge some of their profits to aid the stricken northern areas.

"We are debating the death penalty on a technicality," said Leo Troy (L — Nipissing), "when a crisis is developing here with the provincial and federal governments who encouraged the people to go there to live."

CCF Leader Donald C. Macdonald charged that the big mining companies had been guaranteed a future of their $250,000,000 investment by the federal government through uranium contracts with Eldorado.

"The workers have borne 100 per cent of the risk," Mr. MacDonald said.

The province is defending government policy, told the House that by 1960 Ontario Hydro will have produced 25,000,000 kilowatts of electricity, one third of which was developed from uranium.

Production of the 7,000,000 kilowatts of electricity is expected to cost $2,100,000,000, he added, but this huge sum of money would be required to produce this electricity, while the annual production total is now 15,-000 tons.

Mr. Macaulay said obstacles to using more uranium for hydro production are being overcome and a surplus of power that is now about 2,000,000 horsepower.

One bright spot for Canadian uranium is the development of a new type of reactor which uses uranium in its natural state. Mr. Macaulay said it could well be that foreign countries will prefer this type of reactor which will allow them to use their own supplies of natural uranium in preference to using the rich uranium in another kind of reactor.

He said the government has already asked federal authorities for special assistance for interested areas and a joint federal-provincial study to investigate the possibilities of establishing new industries in these areas.

Communist Theme in India Has Lost Some of Appeal

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

During Nikita Khrushchev's stay in India he has done his valiant best to disprove the old saw that the grievances of to-morrow's threat of today's discontent. It is unlikely that the Russian leader would have chosen to dwell so heavily on the evils of Western domination and exploitation if opposition had not been aware of India's restiveness over the encroachments of Communist China on its northern border.

His deprecation of the border tension without seeking to apportion the blame was all that could reasonably be expected of him on that subject.

"Jest a Second"

"Any friend of my wife is a friend of mine."

Judging by the reactions of the Indian press, the well-worn theme which served the Communists well five years ago at the Bandung conference has lost some of its appeal.

There have been pointed comments about Khrushchev's behavior and that of President Eisenhower, who played down the cold war issues and concentrated his Indian speeches on the theme of friendship between the two countries.

Meanwhile, India is resigned to the proposition that the Soviet build-up of her quarrel with China is, at least for the time being, a one-way affair. Russia is prepared to offer nothing more than the usual assortment of non-partisan goodwill.

It would be premature to assume that relations between Russia and China have reached the point where Khrushchev is powerless to influence the actions of his colleagues. He would probably find neo-Communist platform as the setting for a rebuke to a Communist power.

But the Russian leader's reticence, however understandable, has left many Indians with the firm conviction that Khrushchev cannot or will not back an uncommitted friend against a member of the club, regardless of the rights or the wrongs of the issue. For the neutralist Indians it is a discovery that cannot be wiped out by a score of anti-Western diatribes.

Multi-Racial Commonwealth Must Be Built in Africa

LONDON (CP) — Two newspapers, Labor and Liberal, Tuesday printed on the back pages, emphasized and underlined the speech of Africa from the rest of the Commonwealth.

Even in an article published Tuesday in an obscure journal the Colonial Service suggesting that South Africa may have to be "jettisoned" from the Commonwealth this year unless she modifies her apartheid racial policies. Its author, Commonwealth member of Parliament, Sir Godfrey Huggins, declared that the Commonwealth is multi-racial, or it is not worth preserving.

"My view is that the interests of the Commonwealth as a whole outweigh the claims of a country like South Africa within it. If we cannot have partners in a genuine multi-racial Commonwealth while one member of that Commonwealth pursues the policy of apartheid, then that one member may have to be jettisoned."

The other item involved the announcement by the Inter-African University African scholarship committee that it has had to withdraw an award to an African student because the South African government refused to allow the scholarship winner a passport.

In withdrawing the award after 14 months of negotiation the Cambridge committee commented that the South African action was a boycott academic intercourse "cannot fail to cause dismay in all the rest of the Commonwealth."

Sir Godfrey Huggins, Rhodesia's "wind-of-change" speech at Capetown and other recent approach shows by Colonial Ministry Macleod have made it plain Britain will not be deflected from seeing the native peoples ultimately play a full role in the government of Britain's African territories.

In the right-wing Daily Mail, Commonwealth Editor Derek Marquis Macmillan's African tour, Fairlie said he heard over and over again the same saying:

"Something is beginning to awaken in the world, at last on the move . . . apartheid is today widely questioned than ever before."

NASSER ON SUEZ

LONDON (Reuters) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic is writing his own 100,000-word account of the Suez crisis, says a Cairo publication, the London Daily Mail reported today. During a Cairo interview with the president, the newspaper said he intended to combat Anthony Eden "word by word" following the recent publication of the former premier's memoirs. Eden is Britain's prime minister during the crisis.

Eisenhower Asks Congress For $4,175,000,000 in New Funds for Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress Tuesday for $4,175,000,000 in new foreign aid funds to safeguard the free world against the "enormous power bloc of Communist imperialism."

The mutual security program is essential to world progress in freedom, he said in a special message to Congress.

The sum, nearly $1,000,000,000 more than Congress voted last year, would be split up in this way: $2,000,000,000 for weapons aid to allies and $2,175,000,000 for economic and technical assistance.

In appealing to the legislators to avoid drastic cuts of the program, Eisenhower said that without the billions of dollars in foreign aid voted by Congress in the last 14 years "the map of the world would be vastly different today because of Communism's continuing threat."

MENACE STILL REMAINS

Russia has regressed an interest in measures to reduce the dangers of war during the last year, Eisenhower said, but "the menace of Communist imperialism nevertheless still remains."

Eisenhower's foreign aid request, covering the year beginning July 1, included these three new features:

1. More economic and technical assistance for south Asia, including India and Pakistan.

2. An unspecified amount as the American contribution to a big fund the World Bank and the Western countries are setting up to promote a settlement of the India-Pakistan quarrel over the waters of the Indus River basin.

3. A new special assistance fund of $30,000,000 to finance an education and training program for African areas south of the Sahara Desert.

WEAPONS FOR ALLIES

In the military aid field, Eisenhower's $2,000,000,000 proposal sum included $400,000,000 recommended by his advisers for added modern weapons deliveries to Atlantic Pact allies.

Eisenhower said aid to Formosa represents an opportunity to provide the world with "a convincing demonstration that under free institutions a pace and degree of achievement can eventually be obtained in excess of that resulting under totalitarianism."

The economic aid request—$2,175,000,000 in precise figure—included these individual funds:

Defence support or special aid to nations maintaining big defence forces — $724,000,000; development loans at low interest rates—$700,000,000; technical assistance — $178,500,000 plus $33,500,000 as the American share for United Nations sponsored programs in that field and $1,500,000 for such programs through the organization of American states.

President's Message!

1959 may well prove to be a most important year in the history of the Belleville YMCA. It has been a year of outstanding accomplishment. Membership, program and attendance have been at an all time high. 2054 paid up members were registered during the year. Over 70,000 men, women and children passed through our doors. There are indications that this growth will continue in the future. The old building of 1911 can no longer meet the demands of our growing Belleville in the 60's. Such a record was made possible by the quality of the professional staff and the sacrifice of many citizens who gave of their time and experience and financial support to the YMCA program. To all these good people I wish to express on behalf of the complete Y membership my thanks and appreciation. We are grateful to the Belleville United Appeal without whose support it would have been impossible to meet varied needs of so many citizens, young and old.

Your YMCA Board, after considerable study and planning, purchased this past year a six acre site just east of Herchimer on Victoria Avenue, expecting to build a modern YMCA that will not only meet the needs of Youth of today, but will take care of our future generations. Plans are now under way to present to the people of the Quinte district "The Belleville YMCA Story" prior to a financial campaign in the near future. I am sure the citizens of this area will rise to the occasion and meet the challenge, as our fathers did fifty years ago when they gave us and our children a Youth Centre, which for two generations has enriched the lives of so many, actually thousands.

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE . . .

The Young Men's Christian Association is a world-wide fellowship united by a common loyalty to Jesus Christ for the purpose of building Christian personality and a Christian Society.

CHRISTIAN EMPHASIS . . .

The Christian purpose of the Y.M.C.A. has been kept active in our programs. It is this, which distinguishes the Y.M.C.A. from others in our city. Whether it be Y Study and prayer, devotions, Sermonettes, Induction Ceremonies, a Church Parade or individual contacts were specific Christian emphasis events. We have encouraged people to join and attend the church of their choice.

DAY CAMP . . .

For the second summer in a row the Y's Men's Day Camp at Oak Lake was an outstanding one. Boys and girls camps were full with 60 campers attending each camp and in both cases with a waiting list. Crafts, Nature Lore, Swimming, Hiking, Camp Crafts and Games featured the camp program.

Y RESIDENCE . . .

An 8862 bed-night occupancy was registered in the Y Residence. This is a "Home-Away-From-Home" Dormitory Service for new comers to town until they are established. The Residence consists of 27 single rooms.

LEADERSHIP TRAINING . . .

- 36 boy and girl members of the Leaders Corps met regularly each week to learn leadership skills in supervising Physical Education activities.
- Two leaders attended a two week Leader's Training Course at Geneva Park.
- A three day Camp-Leadership training was given to 15 camp staff prior to commencement of the Day Camp at Oak Lake.
- Belleville was host to 48 leaders from Peterborough, Oshawa and Sudbury for a 2 day leaders conference in the Spring.

TO KEEP HARBORS CLEAR — Experiments aimed at developing a new cheap system in breaking up harbor ice are being conducted on Lake Simcoe in Ontario.

Mr. Laurie, associate director of marine developments of Nassau and England, says a burp carries 1,000 cubic inches of air and a mass of bottom water to the surface with a lift of some 35 pounds.

In the Lake Simcoe tests, four guns are operating 400 feet apart in from 11 to 40 feet of water. They are melting winter ice at about the rate of 70 tons a day.

The system is being tried for work in the Antarctic. (CP Photo).

Woman Admits Responsibility For Mailing Copy

TORONTO (CP)—Byrne, Hope Sanders, Toronto consultant for the Sperry and Hutchinson Company of New York, said Monday night she was responsible for mailing out copy which included a reproduction of the Canadian coat of arms.

She said Sperry and Hutchinson of Canada Limited "is in the process of being incorporated" and has no president as yet.

She added that she was hired as a consultant by the American company "to help create a fair-weather atmosphere for discount stamps in Canada" and had been mailing out favorable comments on stamps clipped from magazines and newspapers. She included the masthead from the various publications.

Since Hansard has no masthead, "I thought it would be a good idea to run the front page, which includes the coat of arms."

"I thought Hansard was public property and I didn't realize I was doing anything illegal," she said.

OPERATE GALLUP POLL

Miss Sanders, with her brother Wilfrid, is co-owner of the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion, which operates the Gallup Poll in Canada.

Meanwhile, the Retail Merchants Association of Canada has charged that a recent Canadian Gallup Poll on the trading stamps issue "was not as independent and unbiased as would seem to be desirable in the public interest."

A bulletin issued by the consumers information bureau, a new division of the RMAC, implies that trading stamps emerged in a favorable light from the poll because of executive connections between the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion, a Toronto advertising agency and a New York trading stamp company.

The bulletin says Mr. Sanders is Canadian vice-president and managing director of J. Walter Thompson Company Limited, an advertising agency retained to conduct a national campaign on behalf of the stamps.

Mr. Sanders said Monday night the trading stamps became a big national issue and "my sister and I decided that if we didn't conduct a poll on stamps, people would say we had been influenced by other interests."

He said the poll asked only if stamps were available in the community and if any members of the family questioned were saving stamps.

Dinah Shore Likely to Get Another Chevrolet Contract

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Closed Set, Tuesday night's NBC star-time drama, was another of those aggressive-woman pieces which by now must have disillusioned the fans about glamorous Hollywood stars.

All the stock characters were there.

There was the movie queen, (Joan Fontaine) capable of acting like a flirtatious kitten, but really a selfish, vicious wildcat. There was the weak, idealistic director (John Ireland), forced by debts and failures to work for her. There was even the precocious child who hated his mother. And of course, there were the doting hangers-on.

The script started off in so many directions that it never really got anywhere. The whole thing was by turns reminiscent of Sunset Boulevard, When Ideals Sammy Run. The Children's Hour, and third - hand gossip about some real stars.

There was not one person in the play for the viewer to care about. Everybody—including the child—was either evil and cruel or stupid and gullible. The one enchanting idea in the show was a pool—with live fish—sunk in the middle of the star's dining room table.

That's classy living.

NBC and the Dinah Shore Show staff have been kept busy answering questions about whether Sunday's program actually was made in Rome. It was made in Hollywood.

Dinah's bosses and her producer, Henry Jaffe, are meeting this week with the show's sponsor in Detroit. Odds are that the sponsor will sign again, particularly since surveys show that the program leads almost all other shows in terms of sponsor identification.

Recommended tonight:

Circle Theatre, CBS, 10-11—from City Justice, concerning Pittsburgh's treatment of juvenile delinquency.

AT THE PARK — Dorothy Malone with Richard Widmark in a scene from the Technicolor and CinemaScope out-door attraction "Warlock", the kind of a motion picture that made the screen the greatest entertainment medium in the world; also co-starring are Henry Fonda, Anthony Quinn and Dolores Michaels. On the same program the funniest comedy team of times, "Laurel and Hardy" in the army comedy "Great Guns"—Both attractions open tomorrow at the Park Theatre.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Every morning, Norm Lane gulps a spoonful of liquid from a bottle labelled "for horses, cattle, swine and sheep." It doesn't surprise his wife, who says "that man would eat shavings if he thought they would help him."

And it wouldn't surprise anyone if Lane made it to his third Summer Olympic Games when the Olympic canoeing trials are held in Ottawa next August. It probably would be the first time that a professor, and a 40-year-old to boot, represented Canada in paddling.

Gary Hamilton Spectator Lautens described Lane as a "sort of Mr. Chips with paddle." He is a professor at McMaster University in Hamilton, chairman of the mathematics department and a specialist in geometry.

"I think I'll enter the Olympic trials this year," Lane told Lautens. "If these young athletes can't beat an old man like me, they should not go to the Olympic Games in Rome next August."

ALWAYS IN SHAPE

If health and fitness mean anything, he'll make it. His diet includes oatmeal porridge covered with honey, a dozen oranges daily, the liquid which he uses for games for energy. He doesn't drink or smoke, lifts weights of 90-to-100 pounds for about an hour a day and insists on 10 hours sleep nightly.

The Toronto-born son of a commercial artist, he won a third-place bronze medal for Canada in the 1948 Olympic Games in London and placed fifth in the 1952 Games at Helsinki. He missed the 1956 Olympics because of sickness during the trials.

The 180-pound father of four has a bachelor of arts degree from Queen's University in Kingston, Ont., and his MA and PhD from the University of Toronto.

He finds canoeing a help in research.

"Some mathematicians prefer mountain climbing or something like that," he told Lautens, "but I find that I can do some of my mental work and research, the theory part of it, while in a canoe. It relaxes me and frees my mind."

KELLY TRADE

Now that all the fuss about Detroit's trade of Red Kelly is over, Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll says the red-haired tobacco farmer from Simcoe, Ont. isn't the first National Hockey League star to be traded to another club despite frenzied cries of admiring fans.

Carroll points out that Eddie Shore was the idol of Boston when he was sent to the old New York Americans. Bruins fans were enraged when Tiny Thompson, a fine goalkeeper, was sold by Boston and there was a great to-do when Howie Morenz, one of the all-time idols of followers of Montreal Canadiens, was sent to Chicago.

Another was Charlie Conacher, Toronto Maple Leaf great and a member of the original Kid Line. He was sold to Detroit, then to New York and wound up his career coaching Chicago Black Hawks.

Hull Defeats Montreal 6-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hull-Ottawa Canadiens climbed into a last place tie with Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds in the Eastern Professional Hockey League Tuesday night, defeating Montreal Royals 6-3 in a league game at Montreal.

Montreal remained in second place with 58 points, four behind Sudbury Wolves.

Despite their lowly status Canadiens are now only one point behind fourth-place Valleyton Frontenacs and three behind third-place Trois-Rivieres Lions.

Canadiens ran up a three-goal lead early in the first period as Ralph Backstrom, Claude Cyr had had nights.

Royals scored two first-period goals and then hung on as the teams each counted once in the second.

Canadiens added two in the third period to sail away with the dull game watched by 2,100 spectators.

Bob Courey led Hull - Ottawa with two goals with Bob Ellett, Gilles Tremblay, Bill Carter and John Annable scoring one apiece. Kelly Burnett, Lulu Denis and Reggie Grigg scored for Montreal.

The win was Canadiens first of the season in Montreal. In five previous games they lost three and tied two.

RUSSIAN RECORD

MOSCOW (AP) — Janis Krasovskis has set a Russian indoor record for the pole vault, Tass reported Tuesday. Krasovskis cleared the bar at 14 feet, 7½ inches in a meet at Luvv. The old record was 14-5½.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A movie with Marilyn Monroe is getting to be quite a project, at 20th Century-Fox is finding out. It now requires 2 typewriters, a system.

The fabulous blonde's presence on the Let's Make Love set is unpredictable. For instance, last week her maid called the studio two days out of five and reported that Miss Monroe was not feeling well and could not report for work.

Even when she is on the set, her availability for shooting can be a question. Sometimes the company doesn't get the first shot until late morning or afternoon.

TWO SETS OF ACTORS

Two sets of actors stand by for duty. If Marilyn is present, her scenes are shot. If she is absent, scenes without her are made. The trouble is that the studio is running out of scenes without her.

This system can be wearing on the other actors. Tony Randall has reported to work days after day without performing. One day he got a four-hour nap. On another day, he did his first scene at 5 p.m.

The latter two have been sounding off about Marilyn's work habits lately. Cukor, who has directed such gals as Katharine Hepburn, Judy Garland and Greta Garbo, has a philosophically: "Things are never as bad as they seem. . . ."

Lightfoots Whip Trenton Flyers In Hoop Game

The Belleville Lightfoots Tuesday night trounced the Trenton Flyers 80-29 in a Bay of Quinte Basketball League fixture played at the Trenton R.C.A.F. Sports Hangar.

The Lightfoots took an early lead and were never headed, outscoring Trenton 29-15 in the first half. In the second half, led by Smith and Bennett with 15 and 10 points respectively, the Lightfoot team racked up 51 points while holding the Flyers to 14 points with a fine defensive display by Ablarde, Rodgers and Walmsley.

Statistically, the Lightfoots were 19 for 38 at the foul line, while the Flyers managed 7 in 18 attempts.

LIGHTFOOTS 80: Deacon 8, Masters 3, Rodgers 9, Savage 9, Smith 17, Bennett 16, Walmsley 10, Bovay 2, Ablarde 6.

Ole Archie Ready to Listen To Any Reasonable Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — Anyone have a good offer for Archie Moore, deposed by the National Boxing Association as world light-heavyweight champion? Old Arch is willing to listen.

Harry Markson, managing director of boxing at Madison Square Garden, said Thursday that unbeaten Von Clay of Philadelphia had agreed to terms for a fight with Moore. But Archie isn't biting—not yet.

Moore and his manager, Doc Kearns, said they still hope heavyweight king Ingemar Johansson of Sweden will bypass a title rematch with Floyd Patterson of New York and fight Archie.

Moore indicated he will not commit himself until Patterson and Johansson sign for a bout. This is expected in about two weeks.

If he is ignored by Johansson, Archie has the choice of several contenders, included are Harold Johnson, No. 1 NBA contender, Germah Willie Schoppner and Willie Pastrano of New Orleans.

Eddie Lebaron Swaps Cleats For Law Books

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eddie Lebaron, star quarterback of Washington Redskins, retired from the National Football League Tuesday to practice law in Midland, Tex.

A spokesman for the Redskins said Lebaron has signed a three-year contract as official talent scout for the Washington team in the southwestern part of the United States. Lebaron played for Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union in 1954.

He had been first string quarterback for Washington since 1952 with the exception of his year with Calgary.

The Lebaron record: games played, 80; passes thrown, 1,186; passes completed, 538; yardage from passes 8,051; touchdowns, 57.

Pocket, Bonin To Play On Thursday

There is a better than even chance that star centre Jean Beliveau will return but left winger Dickie Moore still suffers dizzy spells from a concussion he suffered Feb. 6.

Richard lost four teeth last Sunday. Bonin will be resting two weeks to the day after suffering an eye injury. Beliveau has been out with a groin injury.

The club announced that utility player Reg Fleming and forward Joe Hoekstra, called up 10 days ago, have been returned to Kingston, of the Eastern Professional Hockey League and Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League, respectively.

Canadiens recalled winger Billy Hicks from Rochester. He was sent down a month ago after a stomach injury.

Barons Shade Quebec Aces 4-3

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland Barons feel they are back in business in the American Hockey League race today. Earl Ingarfield seems to have regained his scoring touch after a two-week drought.

A goal by Ingarfield 33 seconds before the game ended gave the Barons a 4-3 win over Quebec Aces Tuesday night. It was his third goal of the game.

Linemate Fleet Glover drew assists on all three markers to take over scoring leadership by a two-point margin. Don Hogan scored the other Cleveland goal. Bob Barlow scored twice for the Aces. Obie O'Brien collected the other.

The Barons are within three points of fourth-place Providence Reds and Buffalo Bisons, and still have four games in hand over the Reds and three over the Bisons.

The only casualty of the game was Norm Corcoran who suffered a cut bicep in a melee behind Aces' net in the first period. It required 15 stitches.

Ingarfield was a ball of fire when he came to the Barons from Springfield last month, scoring seven goals and 12 assists through Jan. 31. He had failed to score since then.

Cannon Charges Rams With Fraud, Deceit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Louisiana State football star Billy Cannon, "King of the Bayou," charged Los Angeles Rams' suit to prevent his playing with Houston Oilers of the American Football League, Tuesday accused the Rams, a National Football League club, of fraud and deceit.

Cannon's lawyers filed a 13-page document charging that the Rams did not act in good faith when they signed him to a contract which he maintains is not valid.

Cannon said general manager Pete Rozelle of the Rams, new NFL commissioner, told him the Ram contract would not be in effect until after the Super Bowl game Jan. 1, and that it would not be valid until approved by the NFL commissioner.

Cannon said he returned $10,500 in cheques given him by the Rams without endorsing or cashing them.

Boucher Out Of Hospital

OTTAWA (CP)—Bob Boucher, high-scoring forward with Hull-Ottawa Canadiens of the Eastern Professional Hockey League, is out of hospital and says his injured right eye will be sufficiently improved for him to rejoin the team for playoffs if they make them.

The 31-year-old Boucher was injured three weeks ago in a game against Montreal Royals and now has 80-per-cent vision in his right eye. His doctor says interest and additional treatment will improve it further.

HAWKS RECALL MALONEY

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League Tuesday recalled centre Phil Maloney from Buffalo of the American Hockey League to replace injured Stan Mikita.

Maloney, who played 22 games with the Hawks at the start of the season, will play against the Rangers in New York tonight. Mikita suffered a fractured left hand Sunday night.

Denver Fans Elated Over 'Olympics' Mark

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Denver University hockey fans figure their Pioneers should do no worse than a tie for second place in the Olympics. They might even wind up the winner.

Since Denver isn't playing in the Olympics, this needs explaining.

The college team's exhibition record in 11 starts: Denver, 7; United States Olympic team 5; Denver All-Americans (West Germany) Olympics 1; "Denver 5, Sweden Olympics 3; Denver 2, Russian Olympics 2.

The collegians, all but one of them Canadians, met four Olympic teams for a record of three wins and two ties. They played the U.S. squad twice, winning one and tying one. Pre-Olympic tallies have Canada's Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, and Russia favored.

The only American on the Denver team goaltender Paul Dinapoli.

Denver's coach is Murray Armstrong, former National Hockey League player with Detroit Red Wings and the old New York Americans. He picks Canada unequivocally to win the Olympic crown.

East Germany Press Barred From Olympics

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Committee Thursday acted fast on its refusal to allow East German sports writers to cover a U.S. turf course record for 1½ miles Saturday at Santa Anita. He covered the distance in 2:24 4-5 in winning the feature race while carrying 122 pounds, to obliterate the former record of 1:47 3-5, set by Poona II.

The department noted that the law forbids entry of persons from Communist countries into the United States unless the state department finds it is in the best interest of the United States to admit them.

U.S. officials previously have said the Communist government appeared intent on doing a political hatchet job on the games rather than covering them from a sports standpoint.

BURDETTE IRATE

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—When John McHale, general manager of Milwaukee Braves, arrives here to discuss 1960 contract terms with Lew Burdette next week, he'd better be stocked with vocal ammunition. The Braves' righthanded pitching ace says he will either get an increase or he will sign only when Milwaukee's County Stadium freezes over. After a career high of 21 victories in 1959, Burdette expected an increase over his $18,000 salary but was offered a cut to $28,000.

Bench Suggests Hockey Teams Quit Sport

MIDLAND (CP) — Magistrate K. A. Cameron has reprimanded two hockey players for the way they play the game and suggested their teams give up the sport.

He was hearing the case of Ansley, Sr., 47, of Coldwater, charged with the assault of an opposing player, Allan Valley, by hitting him on the head with a stick during a game Feb. 1.

Magistrate Cameron reserved judgment on the case Monday for a week and said he would attend a game between the two teams—Coldwater and Victoria Harbor—Wednesday night to find out for himself how they play.

Insley claimed he struck Valley because Valley was roughing up his son, Art Insley, Jr.

"It's utterly ridiculous for mature people to act in this manner," Magistrate Cameron said. "Both teams should forget about playing hockey."

On the Track

TORONTO (CP) — Irish-bred Anita's Son, a colt owned by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Boyles of Toronto, has been rated the best three-year-old to run on Ontario tracks last season.

New Providence, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor, was rated second with a weight of 124 pounds.

Other ratings, in order: Winning Shot, 122 pounds; Sunday Sill and Sword Woman, 118 pounds; Wonder Where, 116 pounds.

Anita's Son wasn't eligible to run in Canada's triple crown races because of his birthplace. But he won six of his 11 starts in 1959 and won over New Providence in the $10,000 International Stakes at Fort Erie.

New Providence won the triple crown races—the Queen's Plate, the Prince of Wales Stakes and Breeders' Stakes—and set a Canadian earnings record with both teams totalling $79,477 last season.

McInnis had a .306 lifetime batting average in the majors, playing in 2,136 games.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

His blonde forelock streaming straight out front like the bowsprit on a Viking battle-wagon, or a lost-ager's spiral in reverse, Olympics' consultant Maestro Wren Blair was roundly booed after making a speech from mid-ice in Chatham the other night.

The Chatham faithful, of course, was in none too amiable mood after the Maroon management did a direct about-face in its voting on the controversial league round-robin playoffs that see all five teams in the fray.

So when Marse Blair mentioned the playoffs and why the round-robin decision was accepted by all but Windsor, he was greeted by boos, whistles, catcalls and verbal valentines that said in toto "we can give you anything but love, baby."

But the imperturbable Blair was unperturbed by the interruption. He flipped his forelock in a gesture of defiance—and as is the Blairian custom—kept on talking.

In explaining the round-robin decision, Blair pointed out that without the help of the teams in the league, "we could not have made up our Olympic hockey team."

"We need the best players possible in Canada to represent the country at the Olympics," he said while gravelly-voiced rock-'n-roll fans Freely'ed their disapproval. "To do that," he went on, without drawing a breath, "we have to disregard our own fight for playoff positions. Hockey should be viewed over a two-hour evening. We shouldn't be thinking of playoffs all the time."

And speaking of player help to the Olympics Dutchmen, who completed their Canadian tour without a defeat, or a tie, doesn't it seem passing strange that 95 per cent of the scoring was done by the "help" received from other clubs. The other five per cent, if you noted the records, came mainly from Butch Martin, veteran Dutchman star.

Bobby Attersley never played hockey in his life like the brand he came up with on the weekend. He led the club snipers with 13 goals in seven games. Perhaps blonde Bobby was paced by the starry Bobby Rousseau and Beachville Canadians who provided a mere half dozen, and looms as one of the stars for the upcoming Soapaw Valley tournament. Freddie Eicher also got credit for a half-dozen. Our own Moe Benoit played outstanding games behind the blueline. Offensively he scored a goal and an assist.

Blair believes the Dutchmen is as good an amateur club as could be assembled in Canada. Said he: "the individual stars on the team are average. The only thing puzzling me is, will the younger players stand up under the terrific pressure that always accompanies such tournaments, especially in the final games."

As has been mentioned in this column, Blair said, "There are no old pros like Sid Smith, Jean Paul Lamirande, Connie Brodeur, Rus Gagnon, Al Dewsbury or Charlie Burns, although Burns was not a pro when he played overseas with Whitby.

"By this," he added, "I do not mean that Kitchener's players are not good, quite the contrary, as I mentioned earlier, but any member of the recently completed world tournaments will tell you the unforeseen tension related to these games."

He goes on to predict, "if this club doesn't win this year, it is doubtful whether Canada will ever win again in the Olympics (not the world championships) because this is the best club of 'strictly amateurs' anywhere (ahem) in Canada."

QUEEN'S HERE

The Queen's University Golden Gaels and the McFarlands tangle in an exhibition duel here tomorrow night in aid of the Retarded Children's Association.

The Gaels rate highly in the intercollegiate hockey circles and should give the Macs a real run for the money. And speaking of money, your box office donation will go in its entirety to the kiddies' cause. Both teams are donating their services in an effort to help, so what say we get behind the effort and buy a ticket. By so doing you will not only have a good hockey tilt but will be helping these youngsters who are unfortunate through no fault of their own.

Davy Jones' Brilliant Play Sparks Macs to 4-0 Triumph; Two-Way Effort Earns Win

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The Whitby Dunlops laid their first egg on Belleville ice last night but it was the McFarlands that did the cackling.

Paced by the brilliant all-round play of Davy Jones, the Macs scored their first shut-out of the season with a 4-0 victory over the twelve-man gang from Blair's ballwick.

The slim winger in his best performance of the season sparked the win-hungry Macs with two goals and an assist. He missed three or four more by hitting the post or trying to work in too close. Lou Smrke and Ike Hildebrand scored the others.

The line of Jones, Smrke and Gribbons was the best on the ice, accounting for eight of the Macs' eleven scoring points. Smrke added two assists to his goal while Gribbons also helped with a pair. Payette and Crawford had singles.

The Dunlops' defeat coupled with Windsor's 8-3 win over Chatham enabled the Bulldogs to creep two points closer to the league leaders. The Dogs now have 56 points, six behind the Dunnies, Kitchener, now in third rpot, has 54 and Chatham 51. The Maroons meet the Dogs again tonight. All teams have five games to play.

HILDEBRAND OUT!

Ike Hildebrand will be lost to the McFarlands for at least two weeks.

The former coach suffered pulled shoulder muscles in the third period of the Whitby-Belleville game last night.

Since being relegated to the playing ranks alone, Ike has been one of the sparkplugs of the club. He is the club's leading goal-getter.

Hildebrand left the ice after being crashed into the boards. He was later taken to hospital where X-rays revealed the extent of the injuries.

At first it was thought he had sustained a fractured collarbone.

The McFarlands were again full value for their victory, grabbing a three-goal lead in the first period, battling scoreless in the second and fitting some finishing touches on the plugs of the club. He is the club's leading goal-getter.

Hildebrand left the ice after being crashed into the boards. He was later taken to hospital where X-rays revealed the extent of the injuries.

"Olympics Ice Conditions All Loused Up" - - Goman

Dutchmen Manager Charges 'Rinks Are Like Barnyards'; Yet to Practice in Arena

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP) —The hockey tournament of the eighth Winter Olympics is back on today, with only a couple of points still in dispute.

With the games due to start Thursday, a threat by the International Ice Hockey Federation to pull its teams out of the Olympics because of a squabble over the number of playing days melted like the ice on the rinks Tuesday night when IIHF officials finally sat down with directors of the Olympics.

After all three hours they said they had reached full understanding.

Among other points settled at the meeting was setting up a meeting between Canada and Russia, favorites for the tournament's gold medal, Saturday, Feb. 20—the final day of this year's game.

To meet this schedule, both countries will have to win their way through an earlier elimination series, but that is taken for granted by IIHF officials.

ICE CONDITION POOR

The other points still causing friction in the hockey camps are the lack of proper practice opportunities and the condition of the ice surfaces.

Ernie Goman, manager of Canada's Kitchener-Waterloo team, joined in the international protests over the allotment of practice time after his team arrived at the rink for a workout and found Russian figure skaters firmly entrenched.

This is the first time we've had a chance to practice on the indoor rink and everything's loused up," he complained.

The figure skaters have had this area in the mornings and nights. After all, we're interested in getting the boards and ice ready before the tournament starts.

"No one hockey team has practised in the arena and it's about time the hockey federation officials arrived here to straighten it out a few people out."

ANY SOLUTION?

Some of the officials arrived after Goman said that, but there was no indication of what solution, if any, could be reached over practice rights.

Jack Riley, coach of the U.S. team, said the different teams showed up Tuesday morning at the same time, expecting to get the rink for a practice session.

The clamor over the ice conditions was even louder. Goman described the rinks as "barnyards."

"We've got better rinks in many small villages in Canada," he said. "When you bring a team to the best amateur hockey competition in the world you expect better conditions."

The fact is no bad that it could upset the play of a team, especially one that relies heavily on a passing. Goman indicated.

Edmund Farag, coach of the highly-rated Czech team, called the rinks "atrocious." What it were, he said, Olympic officials are doing little to improve the situation.

SETTLE SCHEDULE

The dispute over the number of playing days—Canada and Sweden at one end, Russia at the other—caused the IIHF to call the meeting.

The IIHF had called for three games on opening day, but the Olympics said that all the games could not be played because the ice would be worn if scheduled was needed for opening ceremonies.

The nine teams entered in the competition have been divided into three groups. After a round-robin elimination, the top two teams of each group will meet in a final round-robin series to decide the championship.

Olympics Oval Said Loaded With Stones

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Amid dissension-plagued Winter Olympics open Thursday with Nationalist China and India still on the skidding.

The International Ski Federation Tuesday night referred back to the International Olympic Committee the question of allowing Taiwan's lone skier, Cheng Hung Loo, to compete. There seemed little chance he would be set in.

The federation also rejected another one-man national team, Jerry Bulajewski, Polish - born citizen of India. But it gave him the honor of going down on the slalom and giant slalom courses first.

India and Nationalist China each have are 31 countries and 850 athletes.

MORNING RIGHT

It was a bad day all round.

Cross-country racers got lost on a practice course.

Training on the ladies' 1 1-18-mile downhill course was delayed because it was too icy.

At the speed skating oval, timing was set off.

Canadian speed skaters were rolling all over themselves when a stone with a Swedish member of the USSR quotaed against the Olympic committee's plans to squeeze all the hockey games into the first week of action. The 11-day schedule the IIHF had drawn up in Geneva, in New York.

The IIHF had called for three games on opening day, but the Olympics said that all the games could not be played because the ice would be worn if scheduled was needed for opening ceremonies.

The nine teams entered in the competition have been divided into three groups. After a round-robin elimination, the top two teams of each group will meet in a final round-robin series to decide the championship.

By PETER CARVER

Moira Secondary School made a clean sweep of a Bay of Quinte COSA triple header played last night at BCIVS. Their Bantams, Juniors and Seniors won by respective scores of 20-6, 47-44 and 46-44.

The BCI Juniors' loss was a costly one as it eliminates them from the COSSA race.

SENIOR GAME

The Moira squad led 7-6 at quarter time, the passing and shooting was poor on both teams' part. BCI jumped right back and after a sharp play resulted in a 21-15 lead at half time.

The third frame was played fairly slow and evenly, BCI being outscored 10-9. Moira started to fly early in the last quarter. BCI also rallied but they ended up two points on the short side.

Gary Goyer with 17, and Ralph Boomhour with 8, topped the Moira scorers. McKenzie and Bowerman collected 14 and 12 respectively in the losing cause.

Lineups:

BCIVS: Bakker, Morton 12, McKenzie 14, Binning 10, Reid 2, Parker, Box, Dumage 4, Clarke 2, Smith, Bronson, Davis.

Moira: Boomhour 8, Goyer 17, Bowerman 2, Duguid 4, McLaren, Hunter 6, Bowbotham 2, Sheridan 2, McMartin 3, Kingston 2.

JUNIOR GAME

The Junior game was the best by far, as both teams fought furiously right down to the wire. Moira won the game in the last 15 seconds with a free shot and a field goal.

The first quarter was very fast and the checking was hard as BCI held on to a 16-12 lead at quarter time. Both squads battled it out equally as they both hit for 11 point, the half-time score being 27-23 for BCIVS.

Again at three-quarter time, BCI held onto a slim 32-28 lead as the pace quickened. The fourth quarter was really roaring as both teams changed the lead several times, going into the final seconds, then the Moira free throw and the game was over.

Skinner topped the Moira boosters netting 18 points; Rob Blaker had 11. Pete Annis was the best for BCI, collecting 11 points, while Roberts and Weston hit for 9.

Lineups:

BCIVS: Annis 11, Bristow, Burr 2, Campbell 4, Dahl 1, McCabe, Muir, Scott, Soule, Roberts 9, Regensburg 6, Weston 9.

BANTAM GAME

Moira's goose ball handling and rebounding helped build up an 8-1 lead at quarter-time. Both teams played below par in the second quarter. Moira scored 1 point and BCI 2 for a 9-1 lead for the visitors at half-time.

Again the shooting was off on the part of both teams as the three-quarter time score read 10-4 in favor of Moira. The winners really started to click in the final stanza as their good play helped them to hit for 10 points to BCI's 2.

Lineups:

Moira: Fraser, Rainbird, McFait, Rawlyck 2, Skinner 1, McMartin 2, Leppan, Devereux 1, Hannah, McEwen 12, Elliott, Stephanson 2.

JACKSON HEADS GUESTS

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP)—Russ Jackson, star quarterback of the Ottawa Rough Riders and one of several sports celebrities to attend a $25-a-plate dinner here Tuesday night at the Canadian Legion, says the real heroes of boys are their dads.

Jackson, athlete of the year in 1959, told guests "boys must have a proper leadership and they can best get it from their dads."

National League Defencemen Exchange Lapses for Goals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Some law of natural compensation seems at work in the National Hockey League. The more goals defencemen allow into their own nets, the more they score in other opponents.

It almost appears that the defencemen, when they start feeling guilty about all those goals scored against them, rush out to help their forwards.

Montreal Canadiens, for example, have been scored on less than any other team. They've also been the most scored-fewer goals than any others. Chicago Black Hawks have the next best goals - against record, and the next worst crew of scoring defencemen. Toronto Maple Leafs are third both ways.

Boston Bruins, with the league's highest-scoring defencemen, until recently were the most scored-on team. Only New York Rangers are easier to score on than they and they have a fine set of offensive defencemen.

The Bruins' defence has accounted for 24 goals. Doug Mohns alone got 13 of them, a fine pace put forward for a short spell.

With 20 assists he leads defencemen in that category as well as goals.

Detroit's defence has 21 goals. Sic by Red Kelly, recently traded to Toronto Maple Leafs. Marcel Pronovost has 13 assists.

Among active NHL players only Kelly and Bill Gadsby—who has eight goals this year—have scored 100 or more in regular season play. Rangers' total is 20.

Allan Stanley of Toronto Maple Leafs with nine goals is the closest to Mohns as a scoring defenceman. Bobby Baun has six while, the team total has 57.

Horton has set up 22 goals and ranks next to Pierre Pilote of Chicago Black Hawks as a playmaking defenceman.

Pilote, besides contributing five goals toward the Chicago defence's total of 11, has assisted on 26 others.

Montreal's defencemen have managed only 10 goals, six of them by Doug Harvey.

Tonight, Boston plays the Leafs in Toronto and Chicago goes against the Rangers in New York.

Kingston High School Rink Defeated in Fourth Round

By LES HOLROYD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — An old curling stratagem involving an empty house and the last rock paid off Tuesday night for undefeated Northern Ontario in the Canadian high school curling championships here.

The strategy—whereby a skip throws his last rock through an empty house in order to have last stone for the next end and try for more than a single point—provided the margin of victory for the—Dryden High School rink in fourth-round play over Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute.

Ken Davis, 19-year-old Dryden skip was trailing Kingston's Bob Erskil 4-3 when he threw his final stone away to leave the seventh end blank. On the next end, Davis chipped the Kingston's third shot rock out of the rink and stayed to count three. The team traded singles on the last two ends and Northern Ontario won 7-3.

HAVE 4-0 RECORD

It was the second win of the day for the Northern Ontario boys—they defeated Prince Edward Island 8-4—and gave them a 4-0 record and a tie in the standings with Saskatchewan, the only other undefeated team.

Against P.E.I., they scored one on the first end and two on the second and held the lead all the way. The P.E.I. rink wasn't able to score more than one point on any end.

Dale Hoffman's rink from Saskatoon found stiff opposition in David Sullivan and his New Brunswick rink but drew to the four-foot ring with his last rock on the 10th end for an 8-6 win. Saskatchewan also beat British Columbia 9-4.

Manitoba's Don Pottinger and his Brandon rink won 10-9 in an extra end over Nova Scotia and whipped winless Quebec 16-4 for a 3-1 record.

After winning twice Monday, the Nova Scotia rink lost both to Manitoba, and previously winless Prince Edward Island.

ESTAL WHIPS ALBERTA

Before losing to Northern Ontario, Estal's Ontario representatives had defeated Alberta 10-6. Alberta bounced back to whip British Columbia 8-6.

Newfoundland got its first win 16-11 over Quebec.

Behind Nova Scotia, Ontario and Alberta—all of which have 2-2 records—are New Brunswick and Newfoundland with 1-2 marks, Prince Edward Island with 1-3 and British Columbia and Quebec with three straight losses.

In the fifth round Nova Scotia meets Ontario and British Columbia plays Northern Ontario. Tonight, New Brunswick plays Northern Ontario, Alberta goes against Saskatchewan and Quebec plays Ontario.

The Canadian school curling committee announced it will recommend that the 1962 championships be held in Kitchener-Waterloo Curling Association approval is considered just a formality.

Connelly Gets Four in Petes 10-4 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

All four top scorers in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series got goals or assists Tuesday night but the points only helped three of them in the individual scoring race.

Chico Maki of St. Catharines TeePees got two assists to add to a exhibition game as the TeePees defeated the undermanned Brockville Jr. Braves 10-4 in the only exhibition game. He is third in total points.

League leader Rod Gilbert of Guelph Biltmores got a goal and two assists to remain one point behind Jean Ratelle an assist as Guelph defeated Barrie Flyers 9-3 at Guelph.

GETS FOUR POINTS

Wayne Connelly led his Peterborough Petes to a 10-4 win over Hamilton Tiger - Cubs, scoring three goals and drawing an assist on home ice to move within six points of Maki.

Terry Crisp, the left second-place Barrie two points ahead of Toronto St. Michael's Majors, drew Peterborough to within three points of third place, and kept Guelph within six points of the Petes, Toronto Marlboros and Majors.

The Biltmores opened with a 1-0 first period lead, but it was tied 2-2 in the second. In the third Biltmores survived a 21-shot attack by Barrie.

Gilbert, Borden Smith and Bob Cunningham Barrie, and Guelph while Jeannot Gilbert, Nelson Leclair and Ed Westfall replied for Biltmores. Gilbert's season total standing in the Guelph net as Flyers had a 40-22 edge in shots.

LEAD THROUGHOUT

Peterborough led 4-1 in the first period and 8-2 in the second.

IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats . . . actually breaks them down. It is now established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, soapy-like mix.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats in your food. Many of the foods you eat reach the tract, a jumble of undigested solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills' exclusive formula of vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, take Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Canada, U.S. Agree on Trade Rules for Others, Not Selves

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canada and the United States have reached agreement on how to tackle a number of sticky problems hampering world trade but they still are at odds as to how to resolve some tough problems in their own backyard.

At a two-day ministerial conference which ended Wednesday, the two countries agreed Europe and other industrialized countries should take more of Asia's low-cost manufactured goods to ease the flood of these products in North American markets.

They also agreed that the sterling area should eliminate completely all remaining import quota discrimination against dollar-area goods from Canada and the U.S.

But the U.S. rejected Canada's demand that U.S. food and zinc import curbs be withdrawn and that the U.S. stop subsidizing its cotton textile exports to Canada and other markets.

Canada on the other hand rejected U.S. complaints against a new Canadian charge for use of air navigation facilities and Canadian aircraft flying over Canadian territory.

A U.S. spokesman said this change would cost U.S. airlines $1 million a month. He said only a few countries make such a charge, Canada said the charge was relatively a part of the large and growing costs of flying.

The U.S. said it also would like to see removal of Canadian import curbs on zinc. But Canada asked for removal of U.S. curbs on flaxseed, linseed oil and other flax fibre. Authorities said later that neither side will consider any action on these farm products.

Despite the lack of major decisions on substantive issues, Canada's Finance Minister Fleming said in a statement the two-day meeting of the joint economic and trade committee was "one of the best" ever held by the group set up five years ago.

He said he will report to Parliament today on achievements. With him were Trade Minister Gordon Churchill, Agriculture Minister Douglas Harkness and a group of advisers.

A spokesman amplifying on a communique said the two sides agreed to continue to use the general philosophy that will govern development of a new 20-country association to replace the European Payments Organization for European Economic Cooperation. The new structure may act as a bridge to bring Europe's rival six-country Common Market and the seven-country European Trade Association closer together.

Both Canada and the U.S. made clear they should oppose any action the two European blocs that would restrict North American farm products in European markets.

They agreed there should be closer consultation between Canada's National Energy Board and the U.S. Federal Power Commission on oil and natural gas.

They also agreed there should be a greater flow of trans-border information on uranium market developments and to present metal boxes, 190 of which are damaged badly by the trucks.

The four-wheel machines, built by Canadian and British companies, Canadian Steelcraft Limited, Preston, Ont., get about 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline and carry up to 500 pounds of mail. The U.S.-built three-wheeled machines get 60 miles to the gallon and carry 600 pounds of mail. They have a two-cylinder and top speeds of about 30 miles per hour.

It is expected that by mid-summer an Ottawa computer will be able to handle the payroll of 14,000 employees in smaller branch offices. They would be paid once a month instead of semi-monthly.

It is hoped the color-impregnated plastic will eliminate the need of frequent repainting. The boxes are expected to have more resistance to the present metal

OPPOSITION GIRDS FOR DEBATE ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Battle Lines Drawn For Clash on Friday

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government can start digging in now for an all-out assault by opposition members on unemployment.

Battle lines were drawn in the Commons Wednesday with agreement that the next time the supplementary spending estimates come up—probably Friday—the doors will be opened for a full-dress unemployment debate.

A big weapon in the opposition arsenal was handed them Wednesday — a government report that 161,000 persons were unemployed and seeking work at Jan. 16, up 134,000 from Dec. 12.

The report brought a Robichaud (L—Gloucester) to his feet with a motion that an emergency debate be held immediately.

Speaker Roland Michener ruled there was insufficient urgency to support the order of House business. But Prime Minister Diefenbaker called for wider latitude could be accorded in the supplementary estimates debate. Liberal and CCF members were quick to take full advantage of this.

Unemployment was the main theme.

The House then considered a government resolution to increase by $1,000,000,000 to total $12,000,000 the amount Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the government housing agency, can lend directly to home builders.

Works Minister Starr told how CMHC will not continue to lend at the rate of the past few years —it committed $350,000,000 last year to total total loans to about $900,000,000. The extra $500,000,000 would hold it for some time.

Since the government took office December raised to, interest rate on loans under CMHC to 6½ per cent from six per cent. By raising the rate, it was hoped some private funds would be lured back to the mortgage field—cut down CMHC loans directly. Starr said the "inflationary decision" but a necessary one. The government could not feel it should run up a deficit on the housing front during 1960.

There were 141,000 housing starts and 145,000 completions during the 1959 ministerial year. The 1960 completion total would not likely be as high as 1959. But Frank Hanna and Ella Fitzgerald were named the most outstanding male and female singers of the year.

The winners received small gold statuettes and will be presented in honor of the guild's president, Ray Vale, most of whom come presented the awards at a banquet.

Other winners:

Jimmy Durante, outstanding male comic; Jo Stafford, outstanding female comic; Carol Haney, female dancer; Louis Armstrong and the All-Stars group; Maurice Chevalier, interpretation singer; Emmett Kelly, circus performer;

Trudie Adams, most promising female singer; Buddy Hackett, most promising male comic, and Sue Carson, most promising female comic.

Khrushchev Recovers His Bounce As Indonesians' Welcome Is Warm

An estimated 200,000 Indonesians greeted Khrushchev in the airport area and 300,000 more lined the motorcade route into the city as the Soviet premier began his 13-day visit looking brighter than at any time since he left Moscow.

Khrushchev, who got only lukewarm receptions from the public in New Delhi, Calcutta and Rangoon, was in a position to accept the cheering Indonesians:

"Indonesia is in country with a hot climate, and we are receiving a very warm welcome from the masses."

Khrushchev looked healthy and rested. He was in a jovial, subdued appearance he exhibited last month in India and Burma.

Indonesia's powerful Communist party and the Communist-run Trade Union Federation, Sobsi, joined the government in bringing out the crowd.

Khrushchev declared full support for the "independent and active" policy of this sprawling island republic and said both the Soviet Union and Indonesia jointly stand for peace, for elimination of colonialism and for "prohibition of nuclear weapons menacing the life of humanity."

Indonesian President Sukarno met Khrushchev as he alighted from the big Russian-built turboprop plane which brought him from Burma.

Sukarno praised Khrushchev as "one of the fighters for the peace of the world and the world peace."

Khrushchev hinted in his arrival speech that he may offer the Indonesian government further economic aid during his visit. He will find the Indonesians a receptive audience for Soviet aid but determined to cling to their present policies in the international arena.

Khrushchev arrived here at a time when Indonesia is embroiled in a dispute with Red China over Chinese participation in the Asian saving last December.

Birth of Queen's Child Expected Within Hours

Anaesthetist Joins Doctors at Palace

LONDON (AP) — The Queen called her doctors into prolonged consultation at Buckingham Palace today but by late afternoon her expected baby still had not arrived.

John H. Peel, obstetrician and the gynaecological surgeon in charge of the birth, led his three medical colleagues into the palace soon after 9 a.m.

No announcement had come that the Queen was in labor.

Peel was able to assure Prince Philip that he could safely leave the palace for a luncheon engagement.

A crowd of several hundred milled around the palace walkways for news. Some have kept vigil at the gates since Saturday.

Inside the palace the 33-year-old Queen rested in the Belgian suite, the traditional royal bedroom equipped as a maternity ward.

During the day Evans, Weir and Hall all spent some time away attending to other patients. Weir left at 11:15 a.m. EST) all were back again.

Prince Philip, 38, is the Queen's 60-year-old maternity nurse, Mrs. Annette Wilson.

Fredericton Publisher Urges Canada to Say No to NATO, Yes to 'Sparkling' Red Plans

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada should take the lead in co-operating with Russia, Brigadier Wardell Pineau, publisher of the Fredericton Gleaner, said today.

In an address to the Ottawa Canadian Club he proposed East-West collaboration in an "international work-force of scientists and engineers" which could improve the world and the lot of all people.

Russia, out of strength, was talking disarmament. He leaders were speaking of the possibility of East and West "joining together in a mighty assault, not on each other, but on the underdeveloped resources of the world".

The Russian visions are sparkling with schemes for improving our world, rather than destroying it," he said.

SAY NO TO NATO

"What a magnificent thing it would be if Canada were to say no to NATO, no to arming Germany with nuclear warheads, no to the further spread of nuclear armaments; and yes to Russia!

"Yes, we will collaborate. We will collaborate in setting up the first international work-force of scientists and engineers. Let us take the map of Canada and see what we can do with your help.

"There was tidal power to be developed cheaply at Passamaquoddy and at Chignecto in the Bay of Fundy. The Chignecto Canal could be constructed, and Prince Edward Island could be connected to the mainland by a causeway or tunnel.

"We could see an Atlantic revival quickly bringing this area of Canada up to the level of the rest of Canada—perhaps leading Maritimes with industrial Quebec.

Canada could afford to assist the Atlantic area as much as it has assisted the Prairie provinces with subventions. She could not afford to do otherwise. Atlantic prosperity would at once be reflected in central Canada and in the federal treasury.

Racial Friction Brings Arrest Of 27 Students

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — Police Wednesday arrested 27 high school youths here in the second straight day of racial friction over Negro demonstrations against white-only lunch counters.

At Raleigh, N.C., a 25-year-old white man, William B. Faulk, was scheduled for trial today on a charge of striking a demonstrating Shaw University Negro student with an iron dog chain. The Negro, Otis Clive, 20, was among Negro college youths carrying placards Wednesday in protest against segregated lunch counter service.

At Portsmouth, a mid-city shopping centre, police broke up a crowd of 500 persons. Some 200 persons then assembled on the athletic field of nearby Norfolk State College for Negroes. Several bricks were tossed at a police car.

The flareup ended with 25 boys charged with, disorderly conduct and two with carrying concealed weapons. Police said the racial makeup of the arrested youths was about evenly divided between whites and Negroes.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS GROUP LACKS POWER TO PROBE

Investigation Will Be in Legislature

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario legislature's standing committee on public accounts discovered during a heated debate Wednesday that it lacks the power for a full investigation of the Niagara Parks Commission or any other government agency.

The committee, called this session for the first time in 10 years, was convened to investigate opposition charges that the parks commission is guilty of indiscretions in its operations.

Last week the legislature gave the committee a standing committees power of reference to look into the current public accounts of government departments and agencies.

Leader Donald C. MacDonald said he wants the committee to investigate commission activities going back as far as 1945.

It was in 1945 when 40-some acres of parks property were sold to a private party and bought

Mailmobiles, New Plastic Boxes Will Be Introduced

OTTAWA (CP)—Plastic mail-boxes and three-wheeled mail delivery vehicles will appear next month in the nation's capital city.

The post office announced today that a few of the vehicles, called mailmobiles, will begin operating in Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver after successful trials last month in New Surrey and New Westminster, B.C.

In Toronto, Ottawa and Winnipeg, postmasters will paint a four-wheeled version of the vehicle in colors to match the mailboxes in outlying suburbs where homes and groups of homes are far apart.

The plastic letter boxes are to be used in areas where there are 22 cities during the next two years. They will maintain the traditional letter-box size but will have a new design. The department said it is hoped they will result in how practical they are but also on public reaction.

It is hoped the color-impregnated plastic will eliminate the need of frequent repainting. The boxes are expected to have more resistance to the present metal boxes, 190 of which are damaged badly by the trucks.

The four-wheel machines, built by Canadian and British companies, Canadian Steelcraft Limited, Preston, Ont., get about 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline and carry up to 500 pounds of mail. The U.S.-built three-wheeled machines get 60 miles to the gallon and carry 600 pounds of mail. They have a two-cylinder and top speeds of about 30 miles per hour.

It is expected that by mid-summer an Ottawa computer will be able to handle the payroll of 14,000 employees in smaller branch offices. They would be paid once a month instead of semi-monthly.

Barbara Ann Brands Report As 'Ridiculous'

Barbara Ann Scott, now Mrs. Tommy King of Chicago, has branded as "ridiculous" a broadcast report that Princess Margaret is to visit the ice queen at her home in Hollywood to see a show.

In a long-distance telephone interview with the Canadian Press from Tucson, Ariz., where she is vacationing with her husband, Barbara Ann said she was "very upset" by an announcement by Queen Elizabeth during if the report were true.

"I am a happily married housewife and mother. I have a husband in the world," she said. She said she first heard of the report when a Canadian Press reporter who said the information had been broadcast by a Toronto station as a "rumor item."

Her husband, assistant general manager of Chicago Stadium, Inc., like Mart, came on the line and said the report is "quite unfounded."

Wants Another Magistrate To Hear Case

GUELPH (CP)—Magistrate A. S. Mitchell Wednesday halted the hearing of a charge of drunk driving when brought by a convicted Guelph man against a police officer and said he would ask another magistrate to hear the case because he is chairman of the Guelph police commission.

Donald Arthur Dennis, recently convicted of assaulting a police officer during a traffic arrest that after being taken to the cell block on Dec. 17, he was attacked by the policeman.

He testified Wednesday that after being driven to the police station by three officers in a cruiser, "Constable Ward said to the other officers 'I get the first crack at him when we get to the basement.'"

Dennis said he was taken into a corner of the cell block "and Constable Ward went off to court, the other officers stepped back and Ward assaulted me. He walked up and hit me six times or more."

Will Establish City's Right In New By-Law

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A new by-law seeking to establish the city's legal right to give parking meter tickets to trespassed automobile owners has been drawn up and will be placed before council today.

Mayor Judge John de N. Kennedy admitted a former conviction two days ago, saying the city had no legal right to pass a bylaw making automobile owners responsible for cars parked at meters.

City Solicitor Municipal Act only grants authority to make drivers of cars responsible, he said.

Gordon T. Farquharson, city solicitor, said Wednesday he had drawn up an amendment which conforms with the Municipal Act, and it will be included a section of the Highway Traffic Act which makes owners of vehicles to incur penalties as provided for violation of the act unless the vehicle was operated by a person without the owner's consent.

Peterborough police had stopped issuing parking tickets.

Deputy Minister of Mr. Cumming said in a telephone interview that the Municipal Act concerned in Judge Kennedy's judgment could require an amendment, and that the attorney general might prefer to go to the courts.

Chance One Judge May Alter Vote Is Chessman's Last Hope for Life

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Condemned Caryl Chessman's last hope for a life sentence rested precariously thin after nearly 12 years of tenacious legal battling, suspends today from an effort to switch one vote.

That is the vote of at least one member of the California Supreme Court majority. Wednesday the court — after a series of rapidfire developments — decided 4-to-3 against recommending clemency for the convicted kidnaper.

Chessman is slated to die in the gas chamber at San Quentin 17 miles north of here, at 10 a.m. Friday. He was convicted in 1948 of kidnapping with bodily harm, robbery and sexual abuse in Los Angeles.

California Governor Edmund G. Brown Wednesday noted he cannot grant clemency unless the state Supreme Court recommends it. The law puts this restriction in granting mercy to men convicted previously of felony. Brown said any further action on his part depended on what happened to Chessman's move today for reconsideration of the 4-to-3 vote.

The State Supreme Court deliberated one hour and 50 minutes before voting against recommendation of clemency. Chessman's lawyer, George T. Davis, telephoned Governor Brown and said he would file a motion for reconsideration.

At a prison press conference Wednesday, the 38-year-old Chessman expressed belief his 12-year court struggle "is all over."

Chessman held the press conference after the U.S. Supreme Court—in its 10th consideration of the case—denied without comment his appeal for a writ of habeas corpus as a last step of execution.

Governor Brown is an outspoken opponent of capital punishment. But on previous appeals in Chessman's behalf, he noted that the evidence of guilt was overwhelming" and also that Chessman never had indicated repentance.

Chessman steadfastly has insisted on his innocence, and he did so again. He said that's why he never has asked for clemency, for a full pardon. He maintained Gordon Brown "to do whatever your conscience dictates."

PAINTINGS ON LOAN

On the walls of the fourth floor of the San Francisco Legion of Honor are 36 classical paintings loaned to the gallery by 22 fine arts museums in Europe and the United States to mark the occasion. They cover a 35-year period from 1450 to 1840.

Charles Comfort, the gallery's director, said it is the first time such a collection of major decorations has been assembled in this country.

Will Wonders Never Cease? Racehorse Tips Winner

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Will wonders never cease?

A racehorse tipped the winner of a race at Golden Gate Fields Wednesday.

Actually, it was a jockey who tipped the winner.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker, riding Bold Ruler, was leading the field in the fifth race when he pulled up his mount and pointed to the finish line.

Shoemaker was fined $50 for his antics.

Magistrate J. L. Prentice convicted Mrs. Jean Shirton, 37, on a charge of stealing $6 but dismissed a second charge of breaking and entering the apartment of Mr. Butler, a roomer. The woman was remanded for sentence.

Mr. Butler told the court he became angry after a series of small thefts from his apartment and set a trap with a camera after losing a total of $200.

Khrushchev Lands in Jakarta

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrived here today for a visit to Indonesia that could be a turning point in the Soviet premier's career. Khrushchev has steered clear of any direct border dispute with Peking. He is expected to take the same hands-off attitude toward the Jakarta-Peking dispute over Indonesia's ouster of Chinese merchants from trade in rural areas.

Local enthusiasms for Khrushchev undoubtedly was heightened by the U.S.-Soviet President Eisenhower to stop here during his Asian swing last December.

C of C Stresses Need to Maintain City Bus Service

The city's continuing but problem, now brought to a head by the recent announcement that the Dawson Bus Lines would discontinue service on March 31st, has been given discussion priority at the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Wednesday at their regular monthly dinner meeting Chamber members voted to urge city council urging that the city continue to explore all avenues to maintain a bus service in the city.

The recommendation noted that the Chamber "recognized the need for a public transportation system".

The recommendation was very carefully worded to avoid any suggestion of whether a private or publicly owned bus system was favored.

Yesterday's meeting of the Chamber also saw passing of a recommendation from Ben Cooke that the Chamber go on record as favoring one way streets in downtown Belleville as directed by the Chamber's traffic committee chairman Don Barrett to have his committee further study the matter and bring in a concrete proposal to that effect, meeting. The Retail Merchants Section had earlier approved such action.

The Chamber will also give its support to the Belleville Unified Appeal campaign in its request to council that tag days be kept to a minimum during the period of the United Appeal campaign.

The meeting was presided over by Enos David, Chamber president for 1960.

Jack rabbit and cottontail rabbit hunting licenses have increased, possibly caused by the increase in the rabbit population, says the Department of Lands and Forests.

It has been reported that night hunting of rabbits is taking place in the southern part of Ontario. The public and the warning will be given if culprits are found parlighting this illegal activity. In most cases at least four sections of the act would be violated by hunting rabbits from an automobile at night.

One German shepherd dog was shot north of Odessa by such poachers. Quite possibly the dog was mistaken for a wolf, and on identification the hunters left the area without reporting the shooting of the dog to the owner. In this case, there is investigation by Ontario Provincial Police.

Dept. Tightens Regulations on Household Mail

New regulations designed to speed the handling of mail addressed "householder" advertising mail were announced today by the Honourable Alan Hamilton, Postmaster-General. Under the new regulations, which go into effect June 1st, 1960, Householder mailers will be folded to a size of 4 1-2 x 12 inches. The inclusion of samples and advertising pamphlets will also be specified in this class of mail. The regulations also extend the delivery period for such advertising matter and increase the postage rates on the items.

Under the changes announced today, bulky letters and broadsheets will not be accepted unless folded to the required size. The system will be restricted to printed matters; that is, the mixture of samples, parchment or cardboard. Merchandise, including samples and other advertising novelties which are bulky and hard to handle, will be excluded.

The four-day period previously allowed for delivery of householder mail will be extended to seven days. In other words, the Postmaster-General said, householder matter will be accepted only on the understanding that delivery may not be completed in less than seven days.

The rate on larger items, that is, those of over two ounces in weight, has been increased by one-half cent per two ounces.

In announcing the changes the Postmaster-General stated that advance notice has been given in order to permit advertisers and publishers to adjust to the new regulations and to plan their printing schedules in the light of the requirements.

The Postmaster-General said that in recent years there has been a steady annual increase in the weight and volume of householder mail to the point that it has reached the problem stage in the Postal Service. Coupled with the huge growth in householder mailings, the Postal Service has also to contend with an increase in the number and variety of items which are being distributed as samples. Because of their odd shape or bulky nature these items added to the difficulties of handling, he said.

The minister said that the changes were the result of a detailed study by departmental officers and that the new regulations had been decided upon after consultation with leading advertisers in the direct mail field.

Trent Valley Policemen Meet Council Members

Members of the Trent Valley Police Association met with their elected municipal councils at Harmony Wednesday night. Besides officers from most of the smaller centres in the area, ranging from Deseronto to Campbellford, together with council representatives attended the meeting.

Although Association members are seeking salary increases from their respective municipalities, last night's meeting shaped up in the form of a fact finding get-together, the purpose of which was to acquaint municipal officers with the wide range of duties which police are expected to perform.

Chief of Police Jack Taylor of Trenton, and Inspector J. B. McLauchlin of Belleville addressed the meeting, following which there was a panel discussion.

Association president Chief Walter Higgins of Tweed presided over the meeting.

Merchants Want Front, Pinnacle One-Way Streets

Accordingly, members of the section have recommended to the Chamber members give their approval and make a formal request to city council for the one way street policy to be put into effect.

The idea would be to provide for southbound traffic on Front Street and northbound traffic on Pinnacle Street.

Also under discussion at yesterday's meeting of the Retail Section was the placement of signs on highways 401 and 2 with the idea of directing tourists into the downtown business section of the city.

Hog Producers Name I. McCoy As President

Hastings county hog producers held their annual meeting Wednesday afternoon in the building Don Township Hall at Ivanhoe when a good number of officers were formed to hear Claire Gibbons of Lindsay director at large for the Ontario Hog Producers' Association.

Mr. Gibbons heads farmers up to date on matters concerning the hog industry and encouraged local members to make early preparations for the new hog plebiscite to be held.

Mr. Roy Sills of Holloway was re-elected to his third term as president of the county producers' association. The meeting also elected Irwin McCoy of Marmora township as vice president and Rose Moorcroft, Madoc, as secretary treasurer.

To allow for a closer association of the county producers, this year two directors for each township were elected instead of the previous one. New directors for this Thurlow township is Harvey Homan, for Tyendinaga, Orly Glass and for Hungerford Lincoln Elliott.

Highway Trees Damaged and Reward Offered

Malicious damage of trees on highway property from Morrisburg to Chesterfield Inn of Dundas county is being investigated by Morrisburg provincial police and in an effort to obtain conviction of those responsible the Department of Ontario is offering a reward of $300.

The trees damaged are on the right-of-way of Highway 31 leading northerly from Morrisburg and were planted in 1933 and 1934. The trees are now up to 25 feet in height and up to nine inches in diameter at the base. A light saw was apparently used to cut into the trees at the base.

Mayor Objects To Burial in Town's Jailyard

PARRY SOUND (CP) —Mayor Agnes Wise says she will not let council objects to the burial of a convicted murderer in the town's jailyard on Main Street and will send a protest letter to Justice Minister Fulton.

On February 9, Marvin McKee, 30, of Huntsville, was hanged in the Parry Sound district jail for the slaying of a Huntsville taxi driver. McKee asked to be buried in the jailyard.

"I do not think that he should be buried on our main street," Mayor Wise said Wednesday. "He is not from our community and we are being penalized.

"Everyone who walks down the main street can think that a hanged man is buried here."

The Criminal Code says that the body of a hanged man must be buried in the prison yard unless the prisoner has had asked to be buried in the jailyard a reminder and a deterrent to other boys who choose to live carelessly. He also requested that the letter be given to the Eye Bank of Canada.

Thurlow Reeve Named Chairman Planning Board

Thurlow Reeve Alfred T. Wickett was named chairman of the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board at the regular meeting of the board members held Wednesday evening.

Various details of property transfers were considered by the board as well as a number of housing sub-division plans.

In the future all transfer of deeds or conveyances of documents will be given by the board as a whole instead of as formerly times in the past when approval has been given without the board as a whole knowing of them.

The local board this year will operate without assessment against the participating municipalities. Yesterday it was decided that there was sufficient funds in the treasury to carry on for this year without assessment.

Two new representatives on the Board are Mayor A. M. Haig, Dr. William Barlow, chairman of planning for city council, G. Bussey, K. S. Ransom, and Earl Dickenother, secretary manager of the Chamber of Commerce, as secretary.

also plans to increase to $6,000,- 000,000 from $4,000,000,000 the aggregate amount of insured NHA loans. Mr. Garland said this objective would make it unnecessary for the government to seek fresh parliamentary authority next year for the money.

"LOAN SHARK PARADISE"

The government has helped to create "a virtual loan shark's paradise," he said. With NHA money used to obtain, many prospective homes owners had to turn to conventional lending fields where mortgage rates were as high as 8½ per cent and discount charges on 25-year mortgages ranged up to 50 per cent.

Mr. Garland said he had asked in the Commons last session whether there were any plans to increase the maximum rate on NHA loans, and was told there were no such plans. Then last fall the government boosted the rate to 6% per cent.

This would add $7.59 a month to a $12,000 mortgage, maximum allowed under NHA—and "the extra costs will have to be borne by the people who can least afford it, the low-income groups."

J. C. C. Bonnier (PC—Restigouche - Madawaska) suggested the government write the down payment for a CMHC home to about $500. This was the rate in the U.S. Canadian couples could not afford a $3,500-$3,700 down payment and are being forced into costly outside financing.

The Commons also passed a government bill to give two associate deputy ministers—instead of assistant deputy ministers — to the justice department. There was no debate.

Trenton Weekly Aims, Objects of Planning To Be Discussed at Meeting

By EULA BONTER — Phone 7-3929

TRENTON — A public relations program to acquaint residents of Trenton with the aims and objects of planning and the significance of the official town plan, was discussed at last night's meeting of the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board. Present at the meeting were: W. A. L. McDonald, chairman, O. W. Larry, secretary, Howard Langdon, Grant Goodwin and Sutherland. Also were Robson, Walter Murray, town engineer, Arte Hoornweerd, assistant engineer

Mr. Larry said that John Pierson, public relations officer with the Municipal Planning Board, had suggested that the Trenton board hold a public meeting to which would be invited a representative group of citizens, and matters pertaining to planning be discussed.

It was suggested that the meeting be an informal one, and that representatives from the various municipal boards and commissions, as well as heads of industry, professional men, business men and representatives of several rural governing bodies be asked to attend.

Mr. Larry said that one thing which should be made quite clear to the guests was that while Trenton does not at this late date be made into a whole new community, older sections of the town could be incorporated into the town as pleasing features of the whole. He said that he felt the board members would interest the general public give group asked to the meeting in planning, as it would affect their own particular property.

WOULD INVITE COUNCILS

Mr. Sutherland agreed and said that he thought the average citizen had not been shown how overall planning could be used to further his interests.

It was agreed that representatives from Murray and Sidney township councils would be asked to the meeting and it was felt that this move might result in greater interest in planning in these areas.

Mr. Gooding said that he had serious doubts about this project from the desired effect, but as he was not able to offer an alternative plan, he was forced to go along with the plan.

Mr. Preston will be asked to attend the meeting and the date will hinge on his arrangements.

At the suggestion of Mr. Sutherland, it was decided to write to the planning consultants and ask that the abandoned strip north of the CPR high level bridge and east of Front Street and Dundas Street, at Carup as Wall Street, be made into a "green belt" to continue the planned parkland area along the river. As this will be the probable route of highway 33, it was felt that the parkland would have an overall scenic effect on the approach to the town.

Await 1960 Mill Rate Announcement

TRENTON — Now that the 1959 assessment equalization program has been carried out, assessment notices mailed and appeals against assessment dealt with by the Court of Revision, the taxpayers of the town have nothing down to await the announcement in town council of the mill rate for 1960.

In reply to a request for information as to the assessment and mill rates of various municipalities, Walter Murray, town assessor, said that he had a survey underway. He is first going to other municipality on assessments, taxes and mill rates in several areas of greater than Trenton, but which might be used as a comparison.

Changes have taken place in these communities since the 1958 assessment. Some of the towns have been reassessed on a general basis and the mill rate may have changed. Most of the communities considered have a heavy industrial assessment which tends to take the load off the residential property, while in Trenton the commercial property is confined to a two-block area.

The theoretical house in the survey was a 1 1-2-storey brick veneer NHA standard "B" type dwelling in a good neighborhood with 790 square feet on the ground floor level, full basement, hardwood, tile flooring and forced hot air heating.

ASSESSMENTS VARY

Brantford: assessment $5,345; mill rate: 44.76; tax: $239; Cornwall: assessment $3,730; mill rate 52.7; tax $196; Galt: assessment $4,625; mill rate 44; tax $203; Guelph: assessment $2,650; mill rate 92; tax $243; London: assessment $4,700; mill rate 54; tax $255; St. Thomas: assessment $4,700; mill rate 54; tax $267; Woodstock: assessment $4,550; mill rate 58.5; tax $266; Waterloo: assessment $4,795; mill rate 40; tax $191.

In 1958 the same house in Waterloo was assessed at $2,600 and the tax was $187.20. After a reassessment in 1958, the assessment on it was $4,790, but the tax increase was only $4.

The mill rate in Trenton was 73 in 1958 and in 1959 was 78.

Trenton Legion Notes

TRENTON — The regular monthly meeting of the Branch was held in the Auditorium of the Hall on Monday night. President W. T. Jones was in the chair, and as usual a fine turn-out was in attendance. Routine business was disposed of, during which a one minute silence was observed in the memory of Lands Jack Miller, who recently passed on.

Decision was made that in future there should be an attendance draw every day. A book is now in the Canteen, every member, after making a purchase, will sign his name in this book. At ten p.m. each night a draw will be made and if the winner had registered during the day he receives the cash attendance prize. It was felt that this prize will be more acceptable to the majority of the Members.

Three more life membership have been approved by Dominion Command, and these will be presented to the recipients, Mike Harrison, L. C. Devonshire and Ben Calder at a special event to be announced.

ZONE RALLY

A party of 13 members from the Trenton Branch headed by President W. T. Lawson attended the first Rally of Zone F for 1960. This Zone is the most energetic and productive in the district. It comprises 13 branches, and is commanded by Commander E. Jones of Picton. Some of the best rallies ever attended by the Trenton boys were held very close to an all time record. Present at the meeting were: Picton, Bloomfield, Demorestville, Consecon, Wellington, Belleville, Frankford, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Tweed and Trenton. Dr. E. Dow, O.C. W. Larry, and town engineer, Walter Murray.

Mr. Murray reported that the new sewage treatment plant is functioning in good order. A minor adjustment will be made in the spring.

Mr. Pane said that he had sent milk samples to the provincial laboratories in Toronto for testing by railway express and cost of $2.70 for shipment to Kingston and the return of the sample cartons. This report would be a saving to the town in transportation costs as the Health Unit has a unit in Picton. He said that if this system proved to be satisfactory in the summer months, it could be considered indefinitely.

Miss Joanne Cowan, V.O.N., had written to ask what progress had been made below in an immunization program for the Retarded Children's School, which is held in a portion of St. Peter's School. Miss Cowan felt she could be paid extra for this work as it would take up considerable extra time.

Mr. Larry was instructed to write to the Trenton and District Association for Retarded Children, to the Trenton Board of Education and the Victorian Order of Nurses and ask that representatives of each body meet with the town Board of Health to discuss the matter.

Mr. Pane reported on the smoke indices for the east side of the river. He said that the highest reading was across the west side. At a point near the corner of Front and Division Streets, where a three weeks' test had been taken, the smoke had been very evident. It was thought that this was caused by traffic coming across the river drifting over.

Mr. Pane suggested that the board might discuss the problem with some of the plant managers to see if there was some solution. He said that he felt some of the plant managers might not realize that the smoke nuisance was so acute in some areas and that it might be controlled to some extent.

REPORTS SENT IN

S. O. Graham, chairman of the Board of Directors at Trenton Memorial Hospital, has sent in a report on bacteriological tests taken on plates, forks, etc., in the hospital. There had been no cases reported. Mr. Pane also said that the report showed a marked improvement over that of a year ago.

The chairman said that he had visited the Community Gardens on February 3th, and had found the lobby and dressing rooms clean and well heated and free of butts. He said that there were cigaret butts on the floor of the auditorium and in the hot air ventilators, in spite of the "No Smoking" signs on the wall. As it had been the day for polio immunization shots, he had asked a boy to sweep up the floor. There had been a leak from a water pipe in one of the dressing rooms and the floor had been very wet.

The chairman was asked if any action had been taken to demolish a house on Water St., which had been deemed unfit for human habitation" by the board. Mr. Pane said that the town solicitor had been asked to write to the tenant asking him to move out, but that as far as he knew, the tenant was still in the dwelling.

Mr. Pane also reported that no action had been taken on certain sanitary conditions on John Street. Mr. Larry said that he had written to the Department of Health about the conditions but had not received a reply.

Sewage Plant Is Functioning In Good Order

TRENTON — The regular monthly meeting of the Trenton Board of Health was held yesterday afternoon in the board room at the municipal office. Present at the meeting were: Harold S. Pane, Miss Marjorie Gothard, D. E. Topping, Dr. E. W. Dow, O. W. Larry, and town engineer, Walter Murray.

Mr. Murray reported that the new sewage treatment plant is functioning in good order. A minor adjustment will be made in the spring.

Mr. Pane said that he had sent milk samples to the provincial laboratories in Toronto for testing by railway express and cost of $2.70 for shipment to Kingston and the return of the sample cartons. This report would be a saving to the town in transportation costs as the Health Unit has a unit in Picton. He said that if this system proved to be satisfactory in the summer months, it could be considered indefinitely.

Miss Joanne Cowan, V.O.N., had written to ask what progress had been made below in an immunization program for the Retarded Children's School, which is held in a portion of St. Peter's School. Miss Cowan felt she could be paid extra for this work as it would take up considerable extra time.

Mr. Larry was instructed to write to the Trenton and District Association for Retarded Children, to the Trenton Board of Education and the Victorian Order of Nurses and ask that representatives of each body meet with the town Board of Health to discuss the matter.

Mr. Pane reported on the smoke indices for the east side of the river. He said that the highest reading was across the west side. At a point near the corner of Front and Division Streets, where a three weeks' test had been taken, the smoke had been very evident. It was thought that this was caused by traffic coming across the river drifting over.

Mr. Pane suggested that the board might discuss the problem with some of the plant managers to see if there was some solution. He said that he felt some of the plant managers might not realize that the smoke nuisance was so acute in some areas and that it might be controlled to some extent.

REPORTS SENT IN

S. O. Graham, chairman of the Board of Directors at Trenton Memorial Hospital, has sent in a report on bacteriological tests taken on plates, forks, etc., in the hospital. There had been no cases reported. Mr. Pane also said that the report showed a marked improvement over that of a year ago.

The chairman said that he had visited the Community Gardens on February 3th, and had found the lobby and dressing rooms clean and well heated and free of butts. He said that there were cigaret butts on the floor of the auditorium and in the hot air ventilators, in spite of the "No Smoking" signs on the wall. As it had been the day for polio immunization shots, he had asked a boy to sweep up the floor. There had been a leak from a water pipe in one of the dressing rooms and the floor had been very wet.

The chairman was asked if any action had been taken to demolish a house on Water St., which had been deemed unfit for human habitation" by the board. Mr. Pane said that the town solicitor had been asked to write to the tenant asking him to move out, but that as far as he knew, the tenant was still in the dwelling.

Mr. Pane also reported that no action had been taken on certain sanitary conditions on John Street. Mr. Larry said that he had written to the Department of Health about the conditions but had not received a reply.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

three years later by Labor Minister Daley, chairman of the commission.

OTHER ACCUSATIONS

Other charges levelled by Mr. MacDonald are that the commission fails to call leaders for consultation on committees and in the park and commissioners regularly do business with firms in which they have a personal interest.

Although Mr. Daley answered the charges in the legislature last week, both opposition parties urged that the matter be further discussed in committee.

The committee voted Wednesday to invite several parks officials, including the auditor, comptroller and general manager, to next week's meeting of the committee to answer questions.

And Mr. Daley said he would ask legislature auditor Hall to investigate his purchase of the farm for which he paid $15,000. "I insist on this," he said, "I don't want to live in an area with people thinking there is something wrong."

NEED PERMISSION

Roderick Lewis, clerk of the legislature, said the committee would have to ask the House for permission to investigate certain matters that are alleged to have arisen prior to the current public accounts. He said normally accounts committee lacks power of reference to do this.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer said the legislature should be asked to extend the inquiry power so a complete investigation can be made.

The committee is being "hamstrung," Mr. MacDonald charged.

WANTS PARKS PROBE

In pressing for an extensive investigation, John White (PC—Hamilton East) said the implications will either be found particular, in which event there would be resignations and commissioner initial action, or Mr. MacDonald would be made to apologize publicly.

Daley's probe investigation first," Mr. MacDonald said.

He also asked that the committee call certain witnesses, including provincial agent, Mr. MacDonald specifically named George Ingles of Niagara Falls, a former parks commissioner, and a parks draftsman named Caulfield.

Mr. MacDonald said both men had been fired.

Earlier, Mr. Daley said he and Mr. Ingles had had a personal disagreement but commissioner stayed away from meetings for about two months, "I said if he was no longer interested he should resign," Mr. Daley said.

Amish Families Keep Children Out of School

MORGANISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania officials announced Wednesday night to a justice of the peace he prosecutes seven Amish families who refuse to enroll their children in a new public grade school here.

Elbert U. Eberts, supervising principal of the Twin Valley school district, at first said he swore out the warrants for prosecution but later explained he had only given information. He said he would sign the warrants today. They charge violation of Pennsylvania's compulsory school attendance law.

The parents withdrew their children from the 300-pupil school when it opened in September. They feel the school is too far and too worldly and their children will be led away from the customs and modes of the simple, austere Amish life. The school is 10 miles from their homes.

U.S. Opposed To Carrying Special Passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is firmly opposed to a Soviet effort to force allied liaison teams to carry special passes while travelling in East Germany.

The state department is discussing the issue with Britain and France in a move to forge a united front toward the Soviet demand.

French authorities are reported ready to back American objections but the attitude of the British is understood to be less firm.

The new passes would give the American - British - French military mission in Berlin authority to travel into "the German democratic republic," instead of "the Soviet occupied zone of Germany," the previous wording.

ALLIES COMMUTE DAILY

The passes also would bear the notation that they have been registered at the interior ministry of the puppet East German regime.

The passes are meant for members of the allied military mission assigned to the Soviet headquarters at Potsdam, 13 miles from West Berlin. The 12 U.S. officers assigned there commute daily to West Berlin.

The state department opposed the Soviet passes demand from a belief it would amount to giving a degree of recognition to the right of East Germany, not recognized by the three Western powers, to control allied movement.

Advertising Week

This week the members of the Belleville Sales and Ad Club, in common with similar clubs throughout the land, are observing "Advertising Week."

This is an advertising age. Yet the very fact that advertising is so much a part of our every-day life makes it doubly important that its role in our modern economy be carefully examined, in order that it be properly understood.

Like every other device known to man, advertising is not perfect. Imperfections are accepted as natural in any new device, but later, when familiarity has accustomed us to the virtues of the device, we are prone to focus attention on minor flaws. Who would have complained that a car does not "corner well" at sixty in the days when automobiles first appeared on the road? Who, when advertising was in its infancy, would have expected every type of advertisement, no matter how carelessly written or how it was presented to the public, to have accomplished all the things which lie within its magic power? Advertising is the voice to the buying public of the goods offered for purchase, to acquaint the would-be purchaser with the advantages of the product and the best methods of utilizing it, to stimulate sales so as to promote employment, to reduce the unit cost of the article by making possible mass production, to assist retailers in achieving a quick turnover of their goods so that they can reduce the mark-up to a minimum and still make a living for themselves and their employees, to protect the public from fly-by-night operators who will not stand behind their products.

Yet, all these things advertising will do, besides providing the lifeblood of mediums of information and entertainment like newspapers, magazines, radio stations and television stations.

It should be obvious, though, that only good advertising can accomplish any of these ends and that advertising is no better than the media through which it is presented to the public. Statistics amassed at the expense of much time and money, and the everyday experience of the ordinary citizen alike confirm the fact that newspaper advertising is the best buy for the advertiser and for the public. For one thing, every reputable newspaper "polices" the advertisements it carries—it will not publish advertisements which it knows, or suspects, are designed to defraud its readers, rather than to provide them with the opportunity to purchase a product which is good value at the price asked. For another, the newspaper is a welcomed caller at every home, every weekday. It is patient, not shouting its message at a time of family crisis, but waiting to talk quietly when the prospective customer is willing, and eager, to hear what is said.

We do not claim for it that it is the only medium which can make advertising fulfill its triple promise of bringing satisfaction to the consumer, sales to the retailer and a market for his wares to the manufacturer in their place, and participation in certain specialized fields, appeals to the ear and to the eye have their place. But it is the quiet reasoning, the documentation, of the written word which influences most consumers in major purchases—and newspapers are the main reason why advertising lowers the cost of a product rather than increases it, why the consumer can buy high-quality nationally advertised products at attractive prices, why the retailer and manufacturer are assured of a volume which enables them to keep their markings low yet still make that profit which alone makes possible continued employment and growth.

Advertising — this week and every week — will smooth the road to future progress and a still higher standard of living for all of us.

Price-Cuts Work

When a steel warehouse in St. Louis dropped its prices this week (warehouse prices, of course, not mill prices) a competitor remarked sourly:

There is absolutely no justification for lower prices at this time except a move to grab more local business.

How true! That is always the reason for price cuts; an effort to grab more business. Henry Ford was out to grab more business when he cut prices on his Tin Lizzies in the early days—and it worked. It put the nation on wheels. (Baltimore Sun).

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY
DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS
THREE PATHS

Loneliness is one of the sad realities of life. It always has been. There is just as much loneliness in the country as in the past generations when people lived on farms and plantations separated from their neighbors by many miles. There has probably never been greater loneliness than that which people today experience in a large city. Apartment house loneliness is a real and awful thing.

There would appear to be three roads leading out of this wilderness. The first involves activity and multiplicity of interest. If one sits in the house and mopes, then one may expect the shadows of loneliness to become deeper with the passing years. Get new interests. Get out into the fresh air. Make new friends.

The second road leading from the wilderness of loneliness has to do with the cultivation of our interior life. We can have peace in our hearts if we seek it and pursue it. Make your life so full of the things of God that there will get real satisfaction every day simply by living and doing that life. Your inner capacities are so vast that nothing but God can fill or satisfy which would convey the least sense of their vastness. You are marvelous. You only know this and think about it.

The other road out of the wilderness is the road which leads from ourselves to God, from earth to heaven. It has to do with church, Bible reading, prayer, reflection.

Three paths! Try them.

How Does One Pick a Stock?

Chicago News

The stock market has been stricken with the Siberian flu—one day's fever followed by protracted weeks. Meanwhile this, the professional investment counselors are not downhearted; the majority of them, apparently, advise the "selective" purchase of common stocks.

This puzzles us. Was there ever a time when an investor was not "selective"? Did anybody ever, even at the height of the boom, close his eyes and poke his finger on the stock list and buy the security thus indicated?

We have heard that investors sometimes select a race horse in that fashion. Some might even blindfold themselves and jab the entry list with a fork, thus getting a chance for win, place and show. But we never heard of a stock buyer who didn't try to be selective according to the extent of asking his barber for a tip.

Doubtless what the experts mean is that in today's flighty market investors have to look harder and longer to find a buy about which he can feel confident. But this is hard to square with the world from the business and financial press—increase boom and expansion for practically every line of endeavor, lower bankruptcy forms.

There is a period which believers that the stock market foretells business conditions a year ahead rather than short-term. The stock market, however, is only for the experts and people who buy and sell. No one of them has any occult powers. What we would like to know is how the whole gets so much smarter than the sum of the parts.

Top Brass Lacks Ethics

New York Herald Tribune

Generals and admirals who appreciate the value of military self-improvement and otherwise should be the first to understand the need for disciplinary codes in civilian life.

That so many lack this understanding is one of the ironies and disappointments of relations between the military and civilian contractors. It's also a big headache to lawmakers.

The Eighty-sixth Congress is asking itself what ought to be done about retired officers who join firms doing business with the Department of Defense and then use past connections in the promotion of favorable contracts. The cynical retort that "everybody does it" is no excuse for ignoring this form of influence peddling to go unchallenged. The public deserves a better break. So do retired officers, a majority of whom clean over backward to avoid evil or the appearance thereof based upon whose underworked roll of suspicion is cast by a conscientious minority upon all military reputations in this fashion.

Legal control, if enforceable, would be fine, but man's lamentable tendency to be irrational is unresponsive to legislation. The most intriguing part of the problem is that the code of ethics not necessarily enforceable in a technical sense by something that might carry great meaning for retired officers with an inherited sense of civic and moral decency. Officers who would not think of exploiting second-rate equipment into battle, or treating with the enemy, might quickly accept the fact that it is equally unprincipled and unpatriotic to exploit their position as former Pentagon associations in seeking contracts for military goods and services. The subcommittee's counsel, Mr. Edward Hebert of Louisiana, is quite correct in putting the emphasis does on the importance of self-policing and individual morality.

Selfish use of the old service ties in the performance of certain specialized functions will end. It should be stopped by the initiative of the conscience of retired officers, but if it cannot other means must be found.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Albert College opened friendly doors to the Belleville public on Saturday when the faculty and students extended a cordial invitation to their friends to take part in a tour of inspection of the buildings. Two hundred visitors with eager response from the citizens and from two o'clock the afternoon procession was escorted through the college. A welcome was extended to each arrival by the principal, Dr. Bert Howard, the Dean, Dr. T. C. McCutcheon and students Tom Woollit, Bus Donovan, Ev. Munro and Edith Joynt. At present one hundred and ten students are registered in the college, ninety of these being in residence. The nineteen girls enrolled reside and live at Manor House, some distance from the College itself.

The first robins of the season, the harbingers of an early spring, are reported by ex-Alderman B. F. Jennings of John Street, as being seen in his yard this morning.

Like to Talk to Strangers

Brockville Recorder and Times

Canadians, as a rule, are rather conservative people who only speak when spoken to, but turn them loose on a train, or a bus, as "the person in the next seat" and they are off like a house afire, behind, and within 20 minutes they have practically told their life history to all within earshot.

The only conclusion must be that people like to talk — particularly to strangers, because people like to sleep on buses and it can't be through embarrassment to be in the line of fire of one of those conversations—conversational politics, the most intimate details of strangers' lives and relationships with other strangers. The dozing passengers in front of the talkers soon know it all — but apparently the conversationalists have been engaged, or married, their business for the future, how much money they make, their ideas on religion and politics, and gleefully how much they weigh and the quantity of food they can eat.

Frequently these talkers have irritating little giggles, which punctuate their every sentence to make matters even worse. It is hard enough to have one of these talkers as the companion in the next seat — but the tired stranger in the next seat!

Strictly Personal

Is the Hen The Only Judge Of Rotten Egg?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

We know by now that many powerful men will make a mess happier; but we at least expect them to be good leaders and disciplines.

Melodrama is truer to life than tragedy — in times of crisis most of us behave like stock characters in bad plays rather than like the austere and resigned heroes of true tragedy.

What the ne'er-do-well fails to recognize until too late was aptly put by Jerome K. Jerome when he said, "It is impossible to enjoy idling thoroughly unless one has plenty of work to do."

Like so many of childhood diseases, it is most virulent when it happens to come late in life; it is a kind of emotional mumps in middle-age.

To argue that a man cannot legitimately criticize when he cannot create is to say that only the hen has the right to criticize a rotten egg.

How great we all really was Punch!

The weariness of parental responsibility for juvenile misdeeds is not quite an "new" as we have been told Dr. Benjamin Spock, the teacher of philosophy, used to think, but it is certainly more severe.

No one is wholly without talent: even those who can do nothing else possess the ability to receive kindness gracefully.

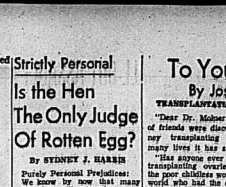
A "researcher" is commonly one who thinks it is necessary to climb the tree of knowledge so long as he can stand off the ground; he doing it with third apple to get a "distribution-ship circle."

Our deepest beliefs are more often perhaps unconscious, as John Erskine tartly remarked: "Most people have some sort of religion — at least the kind which church they're staying away from."

Why do pajama manufacturers put loops on the uppers and not on the trousers, so we can hang up the jackets but have to find a sharp nail for the bottoms? It's little things like this that give wives fine back pains.

Can a staff be manned by a woman, can a cat dog your steps, can a hen crow? Sure, sure, down!

Nobody is as quickly forgotten as the man who says something that everybody believes.



BIRTLE, MAN.

This town on the western border of Manitoba, received its name through the persistence of lobbying by the Bird Tail river, as Birtle. In earlier days the river was much frequented by wild birds and the Indians gathered there in large flocks to make their headdresses.

person needs only to close his eyes and pretend he is asleep to overcome the most persistent attack of oration. It is much worse to be in a spot where the noise cannot be overcome — and to be there without wanting to, all the intimate details of the lives of strangers.

The world must be populated with people who are born with a compelling desire to tell, to perfect strangers, all the inner personal things that others can't help but overhear. The trapped conversationalist, if he is considerate, will not, by word or gesture, indicate that he is being bored, except vow to keep quiet themselves — unless, next time, they meet talkers, they are feeling lonely and, at the first opening, they will gratefully unload their own life stories to the perfect stranger in the next seat!

THE PACKSAK

By GREGORY CLARK

An old schoolmate of mine who has devoted his life to the construction industry was a little amused at my comment, on visiting his latest enterprise, that he appeared to have no Canadian-born among his numerous employees.

Operating the tractors, hoisting the cranes, driving the trucks, digging in the clay, hammering at the wooden forms, were Italians, Poles, Germans, men of a great variety of racial origin. Men with bodies.

"Pete here," he said, "was born in Canada".

Pete was a good-natured beanpole of a young man in especially fine, one of the engineers on the job.

"Three of my five trained engineers," said the boss, "are Canadians but the last three, the young Canadians don't want to work. They don't like it. They don't want to get muddy. They don't like slivers in their fingers."

"Ah, I saw!" said Pete.

"The funny thing is," said my schoolmate, "that in the last generation or so Canadians have become extremely conscious of their sensitive skins."

However, he's quite content with the newcomers: they know about soap.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

TRANSPLANTATION A FUTURE MEDICAL POSSIBILITY

"Dear Dr. Molner: A group of friends were discussing kidney transplanting and how many lives it has saved.

"Has anyone ever worked on transplanting ovaries to help the poor childless women in the world who had the ovaries removed because of disease?—Yonkery."

Yes, this is an interesting question — and if you'll perdon my saying so, it also contains the reason why a good many of our best research people are almost half afraid to announce a new and important discovery, if they are privileged to have made one.

If this sounds paradoxical, I'll explain.

In the past, it has been virtually impossible to transplant tissue from one body to another. In human beings, at any rate. Even with grafting of skin (as in the case of people who have been severely burned) you cannot do it if the skin is taken from another person and grafted, then in a short time it sloughs off. The only way to have the skin remain permanently, it seems, is to take it from some other part of the victim's body.

However, "borrowing" skin from others for burned victims is done. Sometimes, it seems, the skin doesn't last, it serves its purpose.

Anyway, now let's go on to kidneys. Doctors in Boston first achieved success in transplanting a boy from an indentical twin brother. Then, the same thing has been done elsewhere, but I don't suppose more than a score of times. The last exact figure I heard was about 14 or 15.

Learning to do it well was a wonderful medical achievement. There are signs now that perhaps the next step will be doing it with fraternal (instead of identical) twins. Someday, I foresee, perhaps we can learn what we must do to find donors who are sufficiently alike between relatives, perhaps. And later still, between unrelated people. Or so we hope.

But may some day be possible to transplant ovaries, or other organs? I'm not the person to speculate on it! We are only at the beginning of this problem of transplanting.

There could, of course, be some transplanting of ovaries, tomorrow, explaining what we must do to make it safe. But it takes surgery to accept organs from another body, it has something to do with the fact that the body's protective devices immediately set to work against anything, whether it is a germ, or a splinter, or a tissue that does not belong.

We know a great deal about the body, but mysteries like this show that there is much more that we do not yet know.

Anyway, perhaps this explains why some great men are reluctant to announce discoveries. You learn how to transplant a kidney from twin to another, but people who read of this do not realize how much must be learned before it will ever be possible to transplant other organs. All the same, the kidney transplant is, indeed, one of the great achievements of our day.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can raw carrots be harmful? Father if taken daily, would they cause the complexion to turn yellow? — H. V."

It depends. If an individual is already a bit jaundiced, he will suffer "slight blindness", but otherwise he can eat very well in semi-darkness. Carrots (or other yellow vegetables) are an excellent source of Vitamin A. But all the Vit-A won't help anyone who has a yellowish complexion some other problem. As to turning the yellow, it could happen, but I've known people to eat very large amounts of carrots without ever showing it. Instead, if one did eat enough to cause a change in color, he would become ill and stop eating them.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

INITIATIVE

Most times I think that the greatest ability in any man or woman is initiative.

Initiative means to take things into your own hands and go ahead and do things — without being told to do them. There is more time wasted in this world in explaining how to do new things than through any other cause.

People of initiative rule the world. They are the pioneers always. They know great invention. They throw great lack to the world.

Initiative is Faith — bedocked with dib and dab of courage. It is an inspiring prod pointing to something better. Initiative is rulership over yourself.

Columbus, Lincoln, Edison — these are names associated with the story of what Initiative does. People with Initiative have few complaints except the sky. They complain of the slowness of the crowd in catching up to them.

I never realize what fine skyscrapers in New York City reach and touch more than the last — but what I pause and think of the Initiative of the architects and engineers who first made such buildings possible.

Initiative means that when you have to bore through long years of discouragement. You have to see some people whom you thought were friends, wither away for lack of faith and trust. You have to be able to walk alone and be glad to be alone a bit.

But Initiative pays — because all things, both great and small, have their birth there. Also, Initiative is a leadership quality, and it's one leader we need in the world today as never before.

Poor Junkman Has His Woes

The Nation

The waste materials from atomic plants present difficulties which seem to baffle the Atomic Energy Commission, and to a lesser degree the Atomic Energy Commission, and he had no answers when the barges were excavating. As the Nation went to press, he was in the other stockpile. A possible solution might be found by Senator Gore of the Soviet Union as an exchange stuff.

They have atomic wastes, and they have not, and probably in a mood to study their disposal methods.

Diver Spies On Lobsters

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

Lobsters in the Passamaquoddy waters some day may have no more privacy than goldfish.

Recently it was disclosed that some interesting information on lobster habits has had been gleaned for the Fisheries Council of Canada by a Canadian skin diver, operating underwater with a camera. Here's it: Mr. A. M. Olsen, who has studied shellfish in their natural environment in the waters of his own country.

He observed many lobsters in and around commercial fishing traps and noted that they were widely dispersed, regardless of the nature of the sea bottom. He also found that they like rows on rocky bottom and, in addition, prefer living in fresh sandy depressions which they had apparently dug.

High School Activities

After many months of thumbing through catalogues, consulting opinions, receiving suggestions and discussing all reports, the Students' Council of BCIVS last Thursday voted to adopt a new award sweater. It is one to be proud of too—a smart white Perry Como style trimmed with our school colours—dark, bella taupe and scarlet; and, equally versatile for girls and girls. Students have received the sweater on"subjectively and many have already placed their orders. Thanks to the Council for bringing in this much wanted innovation.

Valentine's Day, that most romantic of all holidays, was filtingly celebrated last Friday when the Library and Camera Clubs combined to bring us "Cupid's Capers," a most pleasant Valentine dance. Many kings and queens of hearts danced 'till 11.30 to the usual recorded music, and everyone, from all reports enjoyed, himself greatly.

It seems hard to believe that there are only four and one-half months until the end of the school year. However, many pleasant and worthwhile events during the BCIVS student between now and then. The Keyettes' annual Clemen's Day with its famous girl-ask-boy Sods Pop Hop; the Boys' Athletic Society's Kamloops-Kapers —the biggest show of the year; the IDEA's dangerous fashion show, Park Promenade; Literary Society's production the fabulous May Formal, the last Spring Fling. Only one dark little horizon cloud, a threat of wonderful things, namely of man Exams, we will all survive at BCIVS March fourteenth. Brrr!

Our hopes for a COSSA bid now rest on the capable shoulders of our junior basketball team. Every game is a must for these boys, but we know they can do it.

Future Queen's students will have an opportunity to examine more closely the university of their choice this Saturday. "Open House" is being held at Queen's and a busload of students from BCIVS will participate in the tours and other special events have been planned for the day.

IMPORTS LARGER

Except for 1949 and 1952, Canada has had a deficit in trade during the last 11 years. In 1958 when imports exceeded exports by a record $812,300,000.

In 1959 the deficit rose 80 per cent to $475,100,000 compared with $264,100,000 in the previous year. The increase was caused mainly by Canada's huge trade imbalance with the United States—$625,200,000 — but was partially offset by trading surpluses with the United Kingdom and other Commonwealth countries.

Graph traces the trade position from 1949 when the surplus reached $261,000,000. (CP Newsmap.)

"A local citizen spotted the bird about the same time and thinking, no doubt, of a meal dish of stuffed pheasant under glass, he slammed his car to an abrupt halt and took up the chase on foot. The stalking began. Into the deep snow, through bushes, over the snow-covered hydro and down the street, the bird disdaining to flyabut always managing to scramble just before the hunter overtook it in its hungry pursuit.

State Has Right to Inflict Death Penalty Maintains Roman Catholic Hierarchy

OTTAWA (CP) — The Roman Catholic Church said yesterday the state not only has the right but also "the duty and the moral obligation from God" to inflict capital punishment, if necessary.

It stressed that the church has never urged or demanded death as the only means of punishing criminals or preventing crime. It was for the state to decide whether capital punishment is "opportune or necessary in a given case or in a general situation."

The statement, issued on the eve of Thursday's Commons debate on a private bill to abolish the death penalty for murder, came from the Canadian Catholic Conference, voluntary association of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Canada.

All arguments concerning capital punishment must take into account whether the state has the right to inflict it, the statement said.

"Catholic teaching has always maintained that there is such a right which are not forbidden by the Fifth Commandment are capital punishment for the purpose of waging a just war, and legitimate self-defence.

"Catholic teaching declares the state has the right—indeed, the duty and the obligation from God to protect its citizens from harm and to take whatever measures are necessary within the common good of everybody.

PRIVATE RIGHT OVERRIDDEN

"When a criminal grayly endangers the common good by offending, then the state has power to put him to death, if necessary."

The statement recalled that Pope Pius XII has said that the right of taking a life "belongs only to the guilty." It added:

"This principle is based on the precedents of the Old Testament, in which capital punishment is incorporated in the Mosaic law by God himself. The New Testament, when takes the authority of the state, whose authority is the authority of God himself, from all people; is God's minister for punishing the evildoer in this way; and on Christian ethics which teaches that the state has the right to inflict punishment on internal enemies by means of capital punishment and external enemies, by means of war."

The regular bi-monthly meeting of St. Margaret's Evening Guild was held on Tuesday.

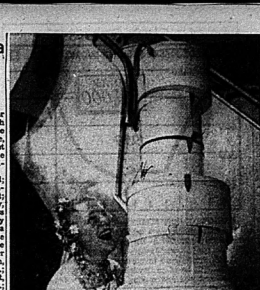
After opening the meeting with a prayer, the Rev. L. A. Pearce presented the first of a series of three talks covering the fundamental edifices of the Anglican prayer book. The balance of the series will be given in March.

During the regular business meeting which followed the president, Mrs. A. Paradis; a date was set for the annual bazaar to be held in early November. Arrangements were also completed for the bake sale in Trumpour's store in March.

The meeting was adjourned with refreshments being served by Mrs. C. Poulton and her group.

TOILET WATERS

Canadian production of toilet waters and colognes in 1958 was valued at $2,822,000, down 15 per cent from the previous year.



HIGH HATTED — Mary Bothwell, internationally-known singer from Toronto, was named one of the "best-hatted women in America" for seven straight years and last year was elected to the honorary "Hall of Fame." Here, before embarking by plane on a recent concert tour, she holds a sample of her more than 200 hats. Miss Bothwell lives in New York and is president of the Canadian Women's Club there. Mary Bothwell, Toronto-Born Singer, Voted One of 'Best Hatted Women in America'

By VON MANCUSS-UNGARO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—One of the best chapaued women in New York is Toronto-born Mary Bothwell. This is no surprise since she is noted for wearing many hats in many jobs each day.

Even in this fast - paced city Miss Bothwell is something of a wonder.

She has won international acclaim as a singer, yet still finds time to serve as president of the Canadian Women's Club of New York. She is an amateur candlemaker in her Park Avenue apartment, paints designs on drinking glasses and collects models of elephants.

"I am also interested in hats," Miss Bothwell said in an interview. "I even make some of them when I get the urge."

CROWD CLOSERS

"She has so many hats they fall out of the closet when she opens the door," a friend remarked.

Miss Bothwell's headgear has attracted the public notice of New York's leading milliners. For seven consecutive years, she was voted one of the "best hatted women of America." Last year she was elected to the hat-wearers "hall of fame."

Miss Bothwell came to New York from Toronto in 1938 to further her musical career. The blonde and dynamic liedersinger soon made a name for herself in the musical world and she has turned her talents to helping other Canadians in the big city.

In November, Miss Bothwell gave a concert in Town Hall, one of the major performance halls here, to make it possible for another Canadian artist to follow her footsteps to New York.

HELPED FUND

She has sung an entire program of Brahms that raised more than $400 for the scholarship fund of the Canadian Women's Club. The fund defrays expenses of a Canadian music singer studying in New York. Auditions to award the scholarship will be held here in March.

The scholarship fund was started four years ago when the club gave a $300 scholarship to Emelia Cundari, a Metropolitan Opera company soprano whose parents lived in Windsor, Ont. Another artistic success was Katherine Howard of Windsor, is studying here.

In her second year as president of the club, which has about 150 members, Miss Bothwell oversees its many activities. These include sessions, lectures, musicales, cocktail parties as well as dances.

Miss Bothwell also makes money for benefits by candlemaking. She melts down old candle stubs in her kitchen, molds it in the milk cartons and decorates the candles often in delia robbia - like designs. She also uses her painting talents to decorating glasses. Both these items are sold at church fairs.

"I could sing before I could talk," Miss Bothwell boasts. And singing—especially the lieder—is a most important part of her day. The lieder, a German art song composed to the finest of poetry, requires a long, arduous study, she says.

"The music must become part of you." Miss Bothwell insists. "You have to practise every day, that is one thing that is absolute necessity."

She works on her concert programs for a year before she presents them to the public. And, as her reward, she gets an elephant.

She has one gold elephant on a charm bracelet for every one of her Town Hall recitals and a silver elephant for her Carnegie Hall performances. Many of her friends give her varieties of this traditional good luck piece. She has more than 1,000 elephants made out of felt, porcelain, ivory and even diamonds sitting in case in one end of her studio.

Institutional Housekeeping Topic at W.H.A.

Mrs. I. N. Butler, the hospital housekeeper, was guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. W. J. Musgrove, in introducing Mrs. Butler stated that Mrs. Butler had been fashion buyer in the west of London. As manager of several hospitals, schools and military groups in England, she brought to Canada an expert knowledge of institutional housekeeping. She had no difficulty in convincing the members the importance of cleanliness and cheerfulness in a hospital.

At times, constant vigilance was required to keep floors, walls, windows and drapery free from the dangers of infection. With a staff of 14 janitors and 12 house aids, dedicated to service, the work with each department was diligently pursued.

Mrs. Butler proved to be an interesting a n d informative speaker.

At the end of the address Mrs. J. H. Forrester thanked her for the description of the work behind the scenes day in and day out in order to obtain the absolute cleanliness in the operating theatre, delivery room, etc.

Prior to this, Mrs. B. E. Burley, the president, conducted a business meeting when the regular reports were read and announcements made about special projects of the Auxiliary were given.

The Opportunity Shop asked for saleable merchandise and the Coffee Shop solicited home baking. Workers for all hospital enterprises are urgently needed.

RESOLUTIONS

Resolutions submitted to the meeting from the February executive were discussed and approved.

The supper committee, convened by Mrs. E. L. Scott, is assisted by Mrs. C. C. Macfie and her group brought forward plans for the Spring Hospital throughout December with gifts for adults and children.

The March meeting, under the direction of Mrs. F. A. Beeby, will be a Strip Tease Party and invited to share in this unique program in order to stock the shelves of the Opportunity Shop for spring sales.

In closing the president read this interesting note from a hospital bulletin: "According to the Ontario Hospital Services Commission report in 1956, babies born in Ontario hospitals at the rate of one every three minutes, the construction of the patient was admitted to one of the province's public general hospitals every 36 seconds.

"The number of public hospital beds has now passed 50,000 and heavy hospital expansion is in progress. That means the Auxiliary has work to do and a desperate need for volunteers."

At the conclusion of the business session, refreshments were served. The tea hostesses were Mrs. S. A. Kvarda and Mrs. Ben Safe.

BUSY SPOT

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C. (CP) — A perspiring department store woman cashier told a customer "there must be an easier way to make a living," and walked straight out of the store.

Politicians' Wives Will Be Invited to Visit Elliot Lake

ELLIOT LAKE (CP) — The women of Elliot Lake Wednesday entered the fight to preserve the town from the decay threatened by declining uranium production.

About 300 attended a meeting to sign a petition urging a visit from the politicians who control the future of the 5,000-population model town.

They also supported a suggestion that the politicians should bring their wives with them.

"We want every man in Canada to help us," said Mrs. Perry Short, one of the town's pioneers.

"We want them to know that 4,000 men laid off means 4,000 families without income. We don't want to leave Elliot Lake. We like it here."

Mrs. Short urged the women to write to their relatives' friends across the country asking them to persuade their members of Parliament to get the federal government to locate the new nuclear research centre here rather than in Manitoba.

POSTPONE RALLY

The meeting was told that a mass rally planned by municipality leaders for next Sunday has been postponed until both Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Opposition Leader Pearson can attend.

But the women applauded a suggestion that both leaders should bring their wives to see the situation from the woman's angle.

They supported a proposal that the women form a buggy brigade and wear white coats for seven days to signify their opposition to allowing Elliot Lake to become a ghost town.

Roman Catholic women and their husbands began nine weeks of special Wednesday night prayers for the salvation of the community.

Totally Deaf Since Birth But Can Talk

VANCOUVER (CP) — Norma Charlton, 18, is one of few people who can remember their first word.

The word was "fish" and she said it when she was nine years old.

Now a high school student, Norma has been totally deaf since birth.

"The teacher had a bowl of goldfish on her desk," she explained in a nearly normal voice. "I put my hand in and took out a fish and said the name. I remember it because I was so pleased. I'd never said a word before."

Her next achievement was putting together a sentence. It was "My name is Norma."

Today Norma watches television and can carry on normal conversations with those accustomed to her pronunciation, all by lip-reading.

She is one of 178 deaf boys and girls between five and 18 in a school for the deaf here. Most have been afflicted since birth but a few have been that way totally, or profoundly, deaf.

The profoundly deaf live in a silent world never penetrated by sound. The other 95 per cent hear a very strange sound in varying degrees through vibrations.

ELOCWING NOISE

Norma's sounds horrible but they must learn nose-breathing and how to form them that they must do it themselves," said teacher Mrs. Margie Hodson.

They have to be careful with your attitudes and expression. They are very sensitive to these so you strive for a beaming smile. They are so easily discouraged, and you whatever you can and praise it to heaven."

Wayne Sinclair, 15, another student, is doing the work of grades eight, nine and 10 all at the same time. His first word was "car" and he is looking forward to driving his father though he will never hear the sound of the horn or motor.

Totally deaf since birth, he speaks in normal English, that is, he has to be careful to speak naturally with all the words in it. His best subject is mathematics and he wants to be a scientist.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Muriel S. — My mother-in-law had no right to interfere.

Louis S. — Muriel should apologize.

Muriel S. — My husband and I have been married nine years and have four children. Our main problems are financial and in-law.

Throughout our married life my mother-in-law has had to help us. This she is well able to do since my husband is an only child and she was left a comfortable income by her husband. However, her help hasn't been enough and we are in debt.

My mother-in-law has always been very critical of me. Recently she came to our house and told me she thought I had spent too much on this, that and the other thing. I am not extravagant and haven't bought a decent dress for myself in two years. I told my mother-in-law she had no right to interfere in our lives. Now my husband is furious at me.

Louis S. — It's all very well for Muriel to talk about Mother's being able to help us, but the fact is she didn't have to. She only did it because she wanted to see us live a little better.

However, Muriel did put away some of that money and then bought expensive draperies and lamps we could do without. Mother says the things Muriel bought are ugly and won't last a year — but with out kids tearing the place apart, Mother was right about that and Muriel had no right to tell her off.

Mother says we won't see another cent until Muriel apologizes and I want her to do just that. Mother has been too good to us to get that kind of treatment from Muriel.

The Council: Just about everything is wrong with this setup.

Louis should not have been taking handouts from his mother. His mother should not have given them, but having given them should not have attempted to supervise the spending of the money, and Muriel should not have "told off" her mother-in-law.

Louis should recognize that as long as he doesn't fully support his family, taking in stride whatever debt he is forced to assume, he cannot really be the man of the family. His mother's handouts undermine him psychologically. If he knew that his family could only count on his own earnings he would make the effort to improve his income — and would probably succeed.

Louis should also recognize that although his mother may be what he considers well able to help him, the money she gives him represents to her an emotionally unhealthy attempt to reveals this when she criticizes his wife's spending. She could succeed in a supervisory position in his family. She could instead choose to use this money to better purpose by doing something to enjoy her own life.

Muriel should recognize that it is her job to help Louis be the kind of husband and father he ought to be. She should not have permitted him to accept the handouts. She should make it her business to get along on her husband's income and should help him clear himself of debt. Beyond that, she owes her mother-in-law respect and should not have let things come to the point where she had to talk back in a nasty way.

Parents can sometimes help married children without hurt if the facets if the children are extremely mature and self-reliant and the parents truly have no desire to hold on to the child emotion but. Such perfection of character is rare.

Scallops as Parisians Prefer Them

by Mary Moore

Do you agree with me that 85c for one pound of scallops is pretty good when you can serve four people from it? This is an elegant dish and my family were all smiles as they took their first and last bites.

I'm thinking that Lent observers will give it a big welcome.

In my earlier cooking years I became prejudiced about scallops because restaurants always seemed to force them on me crumbled and deep fried — never any other way. This lack of imagination with such a delicate fish is unforgivable. Besides deep fat frying is a bother.

So come along with me on my scallop expedition to discover new and lovely ways to serve them.

This one is grandly called

COQUILLES ST. JACQUES

Coquilles means "shells" and I suggest you serve these in individual shells. If you do not own shells, individual ramekins or custard cups will do, or a largish shallow baking dish.

To serve 4 you will need: One lb. fresh or fresh frozen scallops, 1-2 cup water, juice of half lemon, 1-2 medium onion, 2 peppercorns, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 bay leaf, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-4 lb. mushrooms, 1 large seeded tomato, 2 tablespoons butter (second amount), 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon cream, shake of garlic powder, 1-2 cup fine cracker crumbs mixed with 2 tablespoons melted butter (third amount), a sprinkle of Parmesan cheese is optional.

Simmer scallops in the 1-2 cup water for 6 minutes with the lemon juice, onion, peppercorn, salt and bay leaf. Drain but reserve liquor. Cut each scallop into about 4 pieces. Gently saute washed and sliced mushrooms in 2 tablespoons butter (first amount) until saturated but not brown. Skim from pan. Add to scallops leaving butter in pan. Gently saute chopped tomatoes in remaining butter until saturated with butter. Add to scallops. In 2 tablespoons butter (second amount) blend flour, then stir in 1-2 cup scallop liquor until thick. Add cream and stir into scallop mixture. Add a shake of garlic powder. Fill scallop shells or ramekins (or 1 shallow baking dish) with mixture. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Sprinkle with a little grated Parmesan cheese if desired. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 15 or 20 minutes. We had homemade chicken soup for our first course. Then came the Coquilles St. Jacques and a tossed salad. For dessert we had rhubarb crumb. I mixed some coarse seeds with the crumb topping and they were a nice surprise.

Boy Scout L.A. Plans Banquet

Of interest to all Mothers was the uniform exchange. Anyone wishing to trade a Scout or Cub uniform may do so by calling Mrs. Lake at WO 8-6804.

As the response to the "Talent Night" was most encouraging, the social committee was able to finalize the "Father and Son" banquet plans. It will be held at the Tabernacle United Church on the second Tuesday in March.

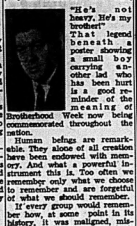
"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg



"He's not heavy. He's my brother" That legend beneath a poster showing a small boy carrying another lad who has been hurt is a good reminder of the meaning of Brotherhood Week now being commemorated throughout the nation.

Human beings are remarkable. They make of all creation have been endowed with memory. And what a powerful instrument this is. Too often we remember only what we choose to remember and are forgetful of what we should remember.

If every group would remember how, at some point in his history, it was maligned, misunderstood, and persecuted, it might learn how to live more happily with neighbors of different colors or creeds. There is no majority or minority that cannot has not felt what it meant to be in the minority.

The catacombs are eternal reminders to the Christian of his own minority status in the pre-Christian Roman world. For a Christian to persecute others because of their differences, their small numbers, makes caricatures of their own martyrs.

The blasted synagogues and the ashes of six million Jews who went to their doom in Hitler's Europe serve as a grim reminder for all Jews that the price of hatred is death. No Jew can afford the immoral luxury of hating. Wars beget wars. So, hate begets hate.

The Consequences of monotheism have not yet dawned upon the minds of most men — believers among them. To pray to God is to affirm that all of His creatures are united under Him in one community of humanity. That is why Christians and Jews will maintain the universality of God blaspheme Him, not so much by words of heresy, as when they defame or revile the personality of their neighbors.

Man does not exist apart from fellow men. We cannot be a Father to men who are not brothers.

Jews have suffered much at the hands of the intolerant and the arrogant. Christians were crucified throughout the lands of the Roman Empire. All the more reason why more of us should not stoop to be conquered by the very instruments which caused us hurt.

There's a text that sums all of this up in a nutshell, and it runs like a refrain through the Bible. It calls upon us to remember. Remember what?

"Remember that you were strangers in the land of Egypt!"

Every group has once been slaves. Every group has fought for freedom. And there can only be freedom when there's liberty and justice for all.

MODERN MANNERS

QUESTION BOX

Question: What is the procedure when a young couple become engaged? Should the family of the girl call upon the young man's family, or is it the other way around?

Answer: The parents of the man should immediately call upon the family of the girl, even if they already know each other. If they live in different cities, his mother should write to the girl immediately, welcoming her into the family. When living in the same city, the bride-elect and her family should return the call of the man's family within a few days. Depending upon circumstances, such as how well the two families know each other, asking them for dinner, or to spend an evening, would not be out of line. All this may seem to be overdoing the amenities, but it really isn't. A foundation for a future congenial relationship between the two families is very important and this is the way to do it.

Question: A new form suddenly seems to have become very popular when issuing invitations for a party. Instead of asking for a reply, yes or no, more and more the invitation bears the note to answer if regretting only. What has brought this about, and is it correct?

Answer: This new departure from recognized, correct form has come about chiefly because of rudeness on the part of the recipients of invitations. They put off answering until the last minute or, worse yet, don't answer at all. Then they attend the function or not, as they see fit. This leaves the poor hostess playing a guessing game as to how many guests she should prepare for. This new idea of asking for "regrets only" is being used with the hope that it will wake people up to being a little more thoughtful towards those who offer hospitality. There is certainly nothing wrong in trying it.

Question: When a young man of twenty-five makes his home with his parents, is it proper for him to ask his "best girl," who lives in another city, to visit him?

Answer: Yes, if the following procedure is adhered to: His mother should write the mother of the young lady, extending the invitation. Under no conditions should the young man himself do so. If, after an exchange of letters, all is agreeable and the date is set, the girl herself purchases her round trip train or plane fare. After her arrival, all financial expenditures are assumed by the man.

Valentine Party Held at Allan's School

RAWDON — On Friday afternoon the teacher, Mrs. Grace L. Morton, and the pupils of the Allan School, S.S. No. 3, Mount Pleasant-Rawdon, sponsored a delightful Valentine party to which the mothers and pre-school children were invited guests. Miss Jean Sharpe also was in attendance as her school was closed, due to the teacher's illness.

Barbara Williams officiated at the piano for the afternoon. The program opened with "O Canada" and all the pupils gave a chorus, "The Birds' Valentine."

Kenneth Smith read a report of the last meeting and Allan Wrightman, president of the Junior Red Cross and master of ceremonies, gave a hearty welcome to all.

The Juniors gave an action song, "I Have A Valentine"; Jim Short gave a Valentine recitation and Larry Jeffs read a story on that theme.

The seniors sang "Massa's In de Cold, Cold Ground"; the juniors dramatized a short skit entitled "Get Up and Bar the Door." Those taking part were: Brenda Campbell, Larry Jeffs, Brenda Williams and Glenn Spencer.

A dialogue entitled "No Valentine's Day," had a cast as follows: Hallowe'en ghost, Jim Fleming; Christmas tree, Kenneth Smith; Easter bunny, Shirley Potts; First July, Brenda Williams; Valentine, Kelvin Sharp; girl, Janet Scott; boy, Gordon Board.

The senior girls sang, "My Secret."

The Valentines were all sorted and placed in paper bags and at the proper time they were distributed.

The senior boys of the school were hosts for the occasion; they were also in charge of all the arrangements.

Kelvin Sharp conducted a romantic contest which was humorous. The groups were chosen with two leaders and there was lots of fun and merriment.

The boys served sandwiches, cakes, cookies, candy and coffee.

Mrs. Milford Wrightman moved a vote of thanks to the teacher and pupils on behalf of the mothers.

Fifty Years as Bellman At Chateau Frontenac Bring Memories to Harry Bartlett

By JOHN YORSTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—"I liked my work and what I had to do."

That's the way Harry Bartlett sums up nearly 50 years as bellman at the Chateau Frontenac hotel here.

"I've met kings and queens, dukes and earls, boxers and wrestlers, actors and actresses.

"I had a job to do and I did it. I was never late coming or going. I was sort of married to my job."

REGRETS RETIREMENT

And although retired, Harry is still married to the Chateau—"I'd go back tomorrow and work for nothing if I could."

Harry, now 71, can be found almost any day standing in the lobby watching passersby, greeting guests he has come to know or talking with old friends.

"I have thousands of friends but I'm lonesome for the job and the place. . . I've been kind to people and people have been kind to me. I've been kind to a thousand people and a million have been kind to me."

These days he walks with a bit of limp caused by arthritis. But he still has a wave in his hair and only a few streaks of grey.

"After coming in the back door for 50 years I asked the manager to let me use the front door after I retired. He said it would be okay. He was very nice about it."

A native of Weymouth, England, Harry arrived in Quebec in July, 1909, after paying 10 shillings to a London employment agency which found him a job as trayboy at the Chateau. He went through a variety of jobs, becoming head bellman five years later. He retired in October, 1958, at 70.

As head bellman for 45 years, Harry had a unique view of the famous people who have stayed at the hotel.

Of the 1944 Quebec Conference of the Big Three and Canada he says: "Everybody had a smile. They knew we were getting near the end of the war."

Motion picture producer Alfred Hitchcock: "A big man, but still a little man in his ways. He was everybody's friend except when they were making a picture".

The Duke of Windsor: "He was Prince of Wales then. He made the motions of playing golf as we rode up in the elevator."

AUTOGRAPH COLLECTOR

Harry has a small collection of autographs of famous people, most of them collected in the elevator. Sir Anthony Eden's is one.

"I was a little shy to ask them for myself but the little girl in the valet shop asked me to get her some so I did."

He won't discuss tipping, feeling it's his and the tipper's business. But he will talk about some of the tokens he has received from guests.

One was a silver and gold ration from a show girl who eloped with the disowned son of a wealthy business man. They had little money but Harry arranged to have them put up in a suite at no extra cost.

INTERESTING JOB

Harry Bartlett, 71, who retired a year ago after nearly 50 years as a bellman at the Chateau Frontenac hotel in Quebec City, says he would work again for nothing "if I could." Born in Weymouth, England, he came to Quebec in 1909 and after a variety of jobs at the Chateau became bellman five years later. During his long career he met a cross-section of public figures —royalty, politicians, athletes and actors. (CP Photo).

Point Anne

The February meeting of the Point Anne Subdivision of the C.W.L. was recently held in St. Anne's school with the president, Mrs. William Smith, in the chair.

Three thank-you letters were read. An invitation was received from Holy Rosary CWL to attend their potluck supper. Also all members were asked to attend the regional meeting which is being held in St. Michael's Academy.

Mrs. A. Genereux reported eight sick calls were made. Mrs. Cook, spiritual convener, advised there were three study groups formed.

The ladies present practised to dialogue the Mass. After the meeting was adjourned, by Miss Pat Whalen, lunch was served.

Sponsor of Death-Sentence Abolition Bill, Frank McGee, Receives Threatening Letter

By DON HANLIGHT —
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Debate on a private bill to abolish Canada's mandatory death sentence for murder began in the Commons today under the cloud of an fifth-hour threat to the sponsor, Frank McGee, and his family.

Delivered to the young Progressive Conservative MP Wednesday night, it was registered mail from Montreal, containing a crudely-penned note saying his bill should not be passed.

Mr. McGee, member for the Renfrew-county city of Pembroke borough, passed the note to the justice department "to get action the RCMP think should be taken." His wife, Moira, is here for today's debate and their three children are at home in Toronto.

NAMED MISSPELLED

The threatening letter read:

"Mr. Magee: (correct)

"You have signed the bill to abolition of the death penalty. You should not let this bill pass under pain of remembrance Guy Fawkes or Premier Sauve. There is lots of time to get to you and your family. This crackpot thinks you are all a lot of underworld be-".

Mr. Michael Fawkes, grandson of Thomas D'Arcy McGee, one of the fathers of Confederation who was assassinated April 7, 1868, at the door of a boarding house on downtown Sparks Street after delivering a speech in the Confederation.

Today, the 33-year-old Toronto businessman will lead off the capital punishment debate, which he expects to last at least two days, with Monday expected to be the voting day.

MANY PCs TO SPEAK

At least 50 members on the Conservative side of the House have indicated their desire to speak on the issue. The Liberals are being permitted a free vote to cast to line up their speakers, and there is no party whip being used by most of the eight CCF members to their feet.

If a vote is reached on the bill, there appears to be general agreement on both sides of the House that it will be a free vote. However, in previous private discussions there apparently has been no firm agreement that a secret ballot will occur.

The only alternative is that the bill will be "talked out"—debated for the full time allotted to it. Then it would revert to the bottom of the Commons order paper, with only a few days left for it to bring raised again before prorogation.

Many MPs of all political stripes have said privately that they haven't made up their minds one way or the other. They insist that this will be one of those rare occasions of a Commons vote in which, being influenced by the debate.

Specifically, Mr. McGee's bill would abolish capital punishment for all crimes except certain cases of treason.

Woman Told Police All She Wanted Was $50

NEW YORK (AP) — She told them she told them, but it took Mrs. Esther Breslau 5½ hours Tuesday to convince police that all she'd told that she didn't want to rob the bank. She just wanted to take $50 out.

But, there it was, and no wonder the bank people, the police and the FBI got excited. Right on the back of her withdrawal slip were the words: "Give me all the money. I have a bomb."

Mrs. Breslau went into a savings bank in Brooklyn Tuesday morning with the slip, which her husband had filled out and signed the night before, and got over withdrawal slips from the bank Monday for him.

She put the front of the slip it showed that her husband, Max, wanted to withdraw $50.

But when the girl teller turned the slip over for Mrs. Breslau to countersign it, there was the note.

Mrs. Breslau didn't see it. She was getting puzzled wondering why the bank was filling up with people, including a few in uniform.

Then they began asking her questions. Soon she discovered she had no bomb, and she had no gun, and moreover she didn't want all the money, just $50.

Hours later Mrs. Breslau was still sticking to her story, as she, the FBI and FBI went after her husband, a garment cutter.

He was brought from work and his story was the same as his wife's.

A handwriting expert gave it as his opinion that neither Mr. nor Mrs. Breslau had written the note.

Mrs. Breslau got their $50 and went home, leaving the police and the FBI to worry about who DID write the note.

Pearkes Gives Causes to Start 3rd World War

MONTREAL (CP) — Defence Minister Pearkes warned Canadians Wednesday night the world peace where Russia could win a war with the West would be an empty one for the North American continent and the world use every means at her disposal to do it.

Mr. Pearkes said a third world war could originate with a sub-stantial change in the balance of strength, technological breakthrough or an enlarging of a local war."

If any of these three things happened, he told the anniversary dinner of Maple Leaf Wing, RCAF Association at nearby St. Hubert, North America would be attacked.

And in the event of a nuclear attack the armed forces simply don't have enough men to do such a big job themselves, he said.

FORM RESCUE UNITS

Mr. Pearkes said the regular and reserve army has been ordered to form as many mobile rescue units as possible for survival operations.

By the end of the year most instruments for nuclear detection and measurement, and all light rescue equipment would be available to form the foundations for wheel mobile rescue units.

The plan was for attack alerts to be broadcast to the public by siren signals and radio. The siren network within the Province would be expanded and alternate means of communication provided.

Jury Attaches No Blame in Crossing Crash

HILLSBURGH, Ont. (CP)—Several recommendations to tighten the regulations governing the operation and maintenance of school buses were put forward Wednesday by a coroner's jury that inquired into a four-death collision here last month between a school bus and a freight train.

The jury also recommended improved safety precautions at level crossings.

In Toronto, Transport Minister Yaremko of Ontario said the recommendations may be embodied in the legislation to be submitted at the current legislature session. He said his department had been reviewing the regulations before the crash Jan. 28, but declined to give details of proposed changes.

TIGHT SUPERVISION ASKED

The jury, inquiring into the deaths of Karen Avery, 17, one of three girl students killed in the crash, recommended more thorough supervision of the character, qualifications and capabilities of school bus drivers.

All school bus drivers should be required to take an eye test at the front door before negotiating railway crossings, the jury recommended. Monthly examinations necessary also of the contract between the local school board and the bus owner.

Inspection of school buses should be highly qualified and have mechanical experience.

NO BLAME ATTACHED

The jury attached no blame for the accident to any individual. It noted the driver was "due to his limited sight and unusual road conditions" at the crossing.

Also recommended were regulation books for bus drivers, modern signals at obscured crossings, increased provincial grants for grading roads at the crossings, crossing signs showing the number of tracks and their angle to the leg.

The other students killed in the crash were Donna Wilson, 15, and Gudrun Koch, 15. Bus driver Calvin Leitch, 28, died later of burns.

Canadian UNEF Soldiers Secure Peace for Middle East, Win Friends Among Arabs

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

RAFAH, Egypt (CP)—The ferret scout car lugged over a sand dune, its radio crackling a message requesting a violation of the Israel-Egypt border.

As it sped to the scene, carrying out one of the toughest jobs for Canadians in the United Nations Emergency Force, another message told of an errand of mercy.

It is this mixed fare that has secured peace for this part of the Middle East and won friends among the Arabs as a bonus.

Maj. Tom Pinas of Sarnia, commander of the Royal Canadian Dragoons squadron that has been here since last June, gives five aces by men of the Fort Garry Horse, was directing the operation.

It turned out that the frontier violation had been committed by a Bedouin seeking, with Moslem relations, the better grazing in disputed no - man's land for his camels. Pinas said:

The injured Arab was another Bedouin whose camel had been flagged down a patrol knowing the Canadians would give or get medical aid.

"In spite of the fact that we often have to arrest them for international frontier violations, they don't hold it against us. I guess it's because we always look after their sick and injured," Pinas said, as he unloaded from the moaning Bedouin. He had fallen out of a camel and had landed on a tough desert plant causing a silver to run through the leg.

The Canadians got him to their field ambulance station where Sgt. John Michaud of Quebec City dressed the wound and treated him. On the same day the sergeant had looked after Arabs for a dry oasis.

Canadians Win Friends Among Arabs

Jack Brayley, Halifax bureau chief of The Canadian Press, is in Egypt to report on activities of the Canadian contingent with the UN Emergency Force on the Egyptian - Israeli frontier. He last visited the UNEF in 1957.

This humane work, together with the Canadian practice of showering baksheesh, or candy among the youngsters of the Bedouin tented shekdoms, is not part of the job as laid down in the book. But the plight of the nomads and their fortitude under extremely hard living conditions has appealed to the Canadians. The Bedouins have respected Canadian prowess, warned of mine fields and done other services in appreciation.

The Fort Garrys are just breaking in on the tough 25-mile beat down the Sinai from this base camp. Their job is to see that nobody crosses the international frontier. That could create an incident leading to armed conflict. They meet at the end of their part of the line with a Yugoslav reconnaissance group, also in scout cars. The relations are friendly and some tough days and in have been spent all 2 some other game.

Rafah is the line in green and growing Israel are the Israelis, who are working on a model communal farms. The Israelis are on the alert, too, not only for Arabs but any violation of their territory by UNEF. They show signs of frustration but the patrols aren't allowed to fraternize.

Maj. Pinas said his men had learned the hard ways of the deceptive climate of the desert which can be cold as hot sun and a chill wind at the same moment. This adds, of course, to the misery of the Bedouins.

That is why he gives such sympathetic attention to the tribes as they surround his jeep for help or on patrol. A reporter watched him make the rounds of the camps. Each looked with hope as he talked to them in scraps of their native bits'ig. He is now serving a year in the desert.

Among the kinds of help the Canadians can give the Bedouins is a supply of fresh water when they come upon a tribe at it.

The fourth and probably last session of the present New Brunswick legislature opens today. An election is expected soon.

Premier Flemming's Progressive Conservative government is expected to introduce legislation concerning mining, the province's liquor laws and hospital insurance.

The liquor situation will probably be the major topic. Groups and individuals have been pressing for either revision or stricter enforcement of the laws, which now allows sales by the bottle only at government stores.

JUNE VOTE EXPECTED

June has been mentioned as the most likely month for voting. The last election was held Oct. 14, 1956. The Conservatives hold 32 of the 52 legislature seats. Liberals have 18, Labor, one independent and six vacancies.

Hospital insurance bills came up Wednesday in the Saskatchewan legislature.

Saskatchewan's Premier Douglas has said the measure being proposed by his CCF government will be a compulsory scheme administered by a body responsible to the legislature. It will be designed to be acceptable to doctors.

The plan will include free choice of doctor by patient and vice versa. People will pay a small premium, which will be set so they can be cared for when they need it, the premier said.

SHEP PROBLEM

Agriculture Minister George Hutter of Manitoba Wednesday night told a convention from Australia for the ills of the province's sheep industry that the province would have three times as many sheep if Australian lamb prices were not so low.

In answer to Liberal opposition motion, Hydro Electric Resources Minister Daniel Johnson of Quebec announced details of the amounts received by the hydro-electric commission when it sold its gas facilities to the Quebec Natural Gas Company. He said the commission has been paid completely for all the assets it sold.

LCBO Charged in Committee With Patronage in Selecting Personnel of Liquor Stores

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal and CCF members of the legislature's standing committee on government commissions Wednesday charged the Liquor Control Board of Ontario with patronage in employing personnel for liquor stores.

Kenneth Bryden (CCF-Toronto Woodbine) asked the board's chief commissioner, William H. Collings, if it is true that a person is not employed in an LCBO store without a letter of recommendation from a member of the legislature.

Mr. Collings denied it. However, he added, "I see nothing wrong with giving a man a recommendation."

CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald asked to what extent will the Progressive Conservative party is involved in the hiring of LCBO employees.

The party in office has the same right of giving a recommendation to a man as any previous party in power, Mr. Collings said.

Albert Wren (L-Kenora) involved laughter when he asked Mr. Collings to supply him with an analysis of a bottle of Canadian champagne.

"We call it Block and Tackle in the north," he said. A man who drinks a bottle "will walk a block to tackle anybody. can't believe there's only grape juice in it."

Fred Jodoin (Attorney General) Roberts as saying half the Ontario jail population is a result of alcoholic drinks. The problem is a serious one, he said. A man with a few drinks of plain wine—the cheapest wine on the market—"goes right into orbit."

The increase in drinking since 1954 on a per capita basis is "not alarming," said Mr. Collings, a non-drinker. Part of the increase can be attributed to the advent of cocktail bars, he said.

At another point Mr. Collings gave assurance that in making wine from grapes no chemical producer puts his foot in it.

Ontario producers, he said, use neither bare feet nor boots to extract the juice. The grapes are crushed by machinery.

The LCBO will appear before the committee at a meeting next week.

Farm Union Council Worried Over Egg Prices, Trade Curbs

OTTAWA (CP) — Concern about the price of eggs, Japanese trade curbs and flour exports dominated discussion by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture at its annual meeting here.

A delegation of men and women farmers in British Columbia, the Prairies and Ontario talked for more than three hours with cabinet ministers.

Egg prices fell sharply since the government switched last October to a deficiency payments program to support, look up most of the time. Fears were expressed that the drop is the same basis, may go the same way.

APPROVES PAYMENTS

The council stressed that it approves of deficiency payments for products produced by big commercial concerns. But it said the smaller farmer now is being hurt in eggs because of price instability.

Previously the council had called for more than three hours with cabinet ministers.

Mrs. Beryl Plumptre, Toronto economist who earlier was president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, told the council that presented its annual brief.

Mrs. Peggy Whyte says her highly publicized home in Bowmanville, Ont., was closed because of Roman Catholic influence in the Ontario welfare department.

Mrs. Whyte told a public meeting here that 1,300 children and adults were refused foster home accommodation at Whyte, haven during the 10 years before the Mrs. Whyte's plans for development of Mountain View Home, a home for elderly persons, opened. She said it announced plans for an establishment for elderly people, possibly a dude ranch in the Caribbean area.

Mountain View Home now is licensed for 13 elderly persons under its former operators, who turned the home over to Mrs. Whyte.

She has applied for a licence to operate the home as a welfare institution for elderly people. The question is in the hands of the provincial licensing board.

Mom Whyte Says R.C. Influence Closed Home

SUMMERLAND, B.C. (CP)—Mrs. Bertha Allen Whyte says her highly publicized home in Christ's disciples were persecuted

"They would have done more to us if they had dared," she said. She did not amplify her statements about Catholic influence.

The meeting was called Tuesday night to acquaint residents of this Okanagan Valley community with Mrs. Whyte's plans for a welfare institution for elderly people.

Mrs. Whyte, a former actress, is married to Ronald Whyte, a Vancouver lawyer.

Turkey Gets Permit To Enter U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Representatives of eight Western countries including Canada will meet here early next month to prepare the foundations for what President Eisenhower hopes eventually will become a congress of all free countries to channel capital into impoverished areas.

This will be the beginning of the Eisenhower dream — to unite the free world in a common goal that could provide a positive and potent challenge to the Communist aim of enlarging its economic camp until it chokes the opposition.

The eight countries, which have agreed to co-ordinate their foreign aid programs, annually spend billions of dollars to help developing countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America. The contributors are the United States, France, Britain, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Portugal, as well as Canada.

Delegates said Mr. Hamilton told them that the war failed to stay straighten out by the end of the year.

The council seeks a deficiency payment on a quarterly basis to take fluctuations into account. Cost of production should be reflected and the base price set on a regional rather than national level.

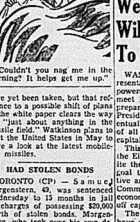
British Cabinet Rift Over Defence Has Not Lessened

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer



"Jest a Second"

"Couldn't you nag me in the morning? It helps get me up."

Suggestions in Britain's defence white paper that greater stress be placed on guided missiles and that nuclear hitting power be diversified, have done nothing to lessen the likelihood of a cabinet rift over defence policies.

But it does suggest that peace-and-quietness harmony—has been restored to the defence ministry.

Ever since the former minister of defence, Duncan Sandys, launched his five-year reorganization program for the services three years ago, there have been frequent—and sometimes open—clashes over his plan to have Britain rely increasingly on a nuclear force. The cabinet never has been in complete agreement and chiefs of staff have openly expressed their doubts.

NEAR TOTAL AGREEMENT

Now that Harold Watkinson has taken over the ministry, and is apparently paying greater heed than Sandys did to his chiefs of staff, senior military advisers and civilian defence planners, the ministry is reported to be reaching total agreement on how things should be run. But in the cabinet, Sandys and his supporters haven't chalked their minds.

In an effort to pour oil on troubled waters, Prime Minister Macmillan will gather his ministers together for a round-table discussion this weekend. The meeting is being described as "friendly" informal discussions on defence and other subjects."

Sandys, now, minister of aviation, has always contended that Britain cannot afford highly diversified defences and should therefore concentrate on deadly nuclear devices to scare off any aggressors. Watkinson has said that atomic weapons become useless the minute any aggressor calls Britain's bluff. From then on, he says, it's suicide.

Sources say that no decisions have yet been taken, but that reference to a new decision of plants in the white paper clears the way for "just about anything in the guided missile field." Watkinson plans to visit the United States in May to have a look at the latest mobile missiles.

HAD STOLEN BONDS

TORONTO (CP) — Samuel Morgenstern, 43, was sentenced Wednesday to 15 months in jail on charges of possessing $20,000 worth of stolen bonds. Morgenstern took over the bonds for defence in the last stages of the nine-day trial, claimed he was the victim of a frame-up in which also a bank loan with bonds he did not know were stolen.

FINE EX-NAZI

BERLIN (AP)—Sepp Dietrich, onetime general of Hitler's SS Elite Guard troops, was fined 5,000 marks ($1,250) by a West Berlin denazification court Wednesday. The court said Dietrich, 67, had "considerably profited" from his close ties with the Nazi regime and should compensate by paying a fine.

Kidnap Victim Is Found Safe

Canadian Pacific Railway Co. Gets Permit To Enter U.S.

TORONTO (CP)—A Canadian actor who earlier was refused entry to the United States because of anti-U.S. remarks allegedly made in a television play he appeared at a left-wing rally here was admitted late Wednesday after both sides in immigration officials.

Douglas Campbell, star of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival and the Canadian Players Company, crossed the border at Buffalo after U.S. officials decided he was "inadmissible on moral and or risk or danger to the U.S."

Col. William J. King, director of the U.S. immigration office in Buffalo, said he was going to interview the question of Mr. Campbell's anti-American remarks now remarks he was reported to have made about the U.S. in an interview after a play he starred at Massey Hall.

"We're not worried about the peace rally," Col. King said.

But Campbell evidently was worried. He made off-stage in remarks against the United States. He was scheduled to appear now and Campbell has left for New York and a television engagement."

LEFTWING RALLY

Mr. Campbell and his actress wife, Ann Casson, appeared on the stage of the peace rally last week and read anti-American poems and poems. The rally was sponsored by the Canadian Peace Congress and the Toronto Association for Peace.

Following the rally he was quoted widely for statements he made off-stage in answer to "impertinent questions" by a Toronto reporter.

He had asked among other things whether he wanted to make a statement about Canadian actions sponsoring the rally might be his being refused entry by the U.S. He was quoted as saying, "I don't want to go to that damned country anyway."

Mr. Campbell said at the time he was more concerned with the rally's attempt to arouse public interest in world peace than with the U.S. position.

NO ISRAELI SHIPS

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—President Nasser said Wednesday the United Arab Republic will never allow Israeli ships or goods to transit the Suez Canal. In a speech to cheering Syrians at Aleppo, he declared Israeli goods would be seized if they are confiscated for the welfare of Palestine Arab refugees.

Calgary's 'Little Navy' Charts Wild Mackenzie River Area

CALGARY (CP) — Men in tiny boats—Calgary's "Little Navy"—are charting the wild Mackenzie River in the Northwest Territories.

Ten men in five small boats owned by Accurate Explorations Ltd., with headquarters in Calgary, have already made aviation charts of 700 miles of the Mackenzie and expect to complete the picture the 1,000-mile job next summer.

The work came to a halt in the fall due to ice conditions in the area, crossed the Arctic Circle. "We've been working in the summer months—between "break-up" and "freeze-up."

SEEK GAS, OIL

The small group has undertaken a series of seismic and oil deposits in the vast unexplored area, but not a series of explosive charges and noting the reaction on a system of delicate instruments.

The task was started in July by Dr. Keith Hage, geologist, who determined that tests run in river water gave the same results as those made on land. The comparison tests were made in the Mackenzie River at Fort Providence, 1,150 miles northwest of Edmonton on the Alaska Highway.

Underwater tests of this type have been used extensively in the Gulf of Mexico, Venezuela and Asian areas but are a new venture in the Mackenzie basin of underground riches.

The five boats of the "Little Navy" have made the first such flotilla ever based at Calgary—hundreds of miles from the nearest navigable water—is not always easy. But accurate reports the tiny fleet to be back on the river to complete the job next summer.

TCA to Spend $177,000,000, Probably More, to Maintain Leadership in Airline Trade

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—What price progress? For Trans-Canada Air Lines, $177,000,000 and probably more.

This is the price of being a leader in the airline business, one of the most competitive in the world.

TCA intends to become, in 1961, the world's first major airline with a fleet powered entirely by gas-turbine engines—turbojet and turboprop.

It is a price that makes President G.R. McGregor gluomly forecast that, after eight straight years of showing a surplus, TCA could be headed for a transition period of deficits.

VISCOUNT IN 1954

The first phase of TCA's big rebuilding program started when a Vickers Viscount turboprop, a short-range transport with propellers driven by jet fuel burned in four turbine engines, landed in Montreal Dec. 8, 1954. It was the first turbine-powered plane in commercial service in North America.

That phase ended May 14, 1959 when the last Viscount was delivered. The Viscounts cost a total of $37,000,000.

In April or May this year, TCA will get the first of six Douglas DC-8 long-range turbojets. These will cost $33,000,000.

In 1961, TCA is to deliver 20 medium-range Vanguard turboprops for $47,000,000. To keep this fleet in the air, TCA had to put up a 60-acre jet maintenance base at suburban Dorval for $20,000,000.

COSTS SKYROCKET

The cost of one DC-8 is higher than was TCA's entire authorized capital up to 1945. Why is so much being spent?

"Because we have to," said TCA's chief engineer, J.T. (Jack) Dyment. "We knew even back in the 1940s that we'd have to."

In the airline business the first one to get a plane that is faster, healthier, safer and more comfortable than current models invariably takes business from the lines using older planes. To stay in line can afford the drain.

"The old 24-passenger, 20-pas-senger, ships are about gone," Mr. Dyment said. "More and more people are flying. The planes get older and older and more expensive to fly. You have to get something that can carry a lot of people and is cheaper to fly, even if you have to pay a lot for it."

BIGGER AND FASTER

The DC-8 can carry as many people across Canada in one five-hour, non-stop flight as 13 of TCA's original planes could carry in a 14-hour, five-stop flight.

The Lockheed 18, which was TCA's first long-range plane, and the Lockheed 14 which derived from it, carried 10 passengers at 175 miles an hour. The Douglas DC-3 that replaced the Lockheeds did only 165 m.p.h. but carried up to 28 passengers.

The North Star, which pioneered TCA's trans-atlantic regular service, could carry up to 52 passengers at 220 m.p.h. and the Lockheed Super-Constellation currently used on long routes carries up to 75 at 310 m.p.h.

The Viscounts travel 310 miles per hour and carry 44 passengers while the Vanguards can carry 139 at 420 m.p.h.

TURBINES CHEAPER

The turbine engines are lighter, more powerful, more reliable, simpler, cheaper to run and cheaper to maintain than reciprocating engines, said Mr Dyment.

"If we hadn't gone into turbines somebody else would have and we would have had to follow; only we'd be that much later."

TCA took a premature step into the jet age in 1941 when engineer Jim Bain wrote the specifications for a jet-powered transport. Avro Aircraft built it as the CF-102, the Avro Jetliner.

It was the second jet transport in the world to fly, preceded by the de Havilland Comet I by a few days. But, for military reasons, two engines of the type TCA wanted were not available. The Jetliner was forced to use four engines of a smaller type and could not match TCA's fuel and range specifications.

JET ABANDONED

TCA dropped out and the Jetliner died. By the time the right engines were available, the airframe was obsolete.

Even the first Viscounts, the 600 series, didn't meet TCA specifications. Vickers engineers put in more man-hours redesigning the plane to TCA specifications than they had in originally designing it. The result was the 700 series, one of the most popular transports in the world.

The Viscount, a 44-passenger plane, is small in comparison with the 100-passenger Vanguard and the 127-passenger DC-8. But it brings to short-range routes what the others bring to the longer stages—speed and economy.

On the longer stages the advantages are more spectacular. The inter-continental DC-8, travelling at 550 miles an hour, will cut transatlantic times almost by half. Route time from Montreal to Glasgow is to be five hours 35 minutes; from Vancouver to Winnipeg two hours, 25 minutes; from Toronto to London six hours, 35 minutes.

FARES REDUCED

There is so much traffic, TCA said, that is is possible to even reduce fares on many routes, and this, in fact, has been done.

TCA, which carried 448 people in 1929, its first year of full-

COMMONWEALTH 1960
By HORACE CASTELL

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters) — Less than four years after its birth as an independent state, Ghana is bidding fair to assume the leadership of the surge toward national identity sweeping Black Africa.

Now at the opening of the decade of the 1960s, Ghana's premier Kwame Nkrumah plans to maintain his nation of 5,000,000 people in the vanguard of what he calls "Africa's march toward total and complete freedom."

His hopes are pinned to the concept of a Union of African States, a federated structure linking independent Negro nations ruled by Negroes.

Much ground work has already been done. This year or next, Nkrumah plans to call an all-African conference of political parties to formulate "a common policy, a common method of approach and a common understanding of the gigantic struggle (for political and economic independence) facing the continent."

DOMESTIC PROBLEM

But first Ghana must be made strong at home, and Nkrumah's solution to this problem is simple: "Industrialize, work."

On the political front Nkrumah is firmly in control.

The year ahead will see Ghana change from a monarchical to a republican form of government with Queen Elizabeth recognized only as head of the Commonwealth.

On the economic front, the last nine years have seen the launching of the first five-year development plan and June last year of the second, more ambitious five-year plan.

Nkrumah's hopes for future prosperity rest to a large extent on the new plan.

FOUNDATIONS LAID

The first plan laid the foundations of future development. Roads were built, communications improved, public works undertaken, general services provided.

A ten-year "consolidation period" followed and the new plan went into effect six months ago. Finance Minister K.A. Gbedemah declared at the time: "This is probably the most important year in Ghana's history. It is the year in which we are embarking on the road to economic emancipation . . . Let everyone realize that he or she has a noble part to play in this national crusade."

The plan provides for an expenditure of £350,000,000 (-1954-500,000). Its aim is to widen the economic base of the country so free Ghana from the dangers of a one-crop economy.

Industry, trade, electric power, communications are to be extended and educational facilities, housing, health, sanitation and water supplies improved.

INTERNATIONAL RADIO

In addition, there are plans to give Ghana television and a powerful, £10,000 international broadcasting service.

Accra airport is being expanded, new locomotives and rolling stock are being bought.

The new, £18,000,000 deep-sea port at Tema, 20 miles from Accra, and the new adjoining Tema township are nearing completion.

Preliminary work has also started on a project vital to Ghana's future industrialization: the Volta River project.

This £300,000,000 project is to build a dam and power plant on the Volta River to produce hydro - electric power for use in large-scale production of aluminum from the rich bauxite deposits in the area, and also to feed power to an electricity hungry nation.

Preliminary work is under way but work on the project proper can only start when its financing has been worked out and that requires foreign capital.

The great plans for the future have not brought any extensive material benefits to the ordinary Ghanaian so far. To the great majority a car, a washing machine, or a nice little house are still things to dream about.

As their leaders have said, in this period of transition, Ghanaians cannot hope for a miraculous transformation from poverty to wealth.

As one said recently: "The seeds have been sown and we hope to reap the harvest in the decade ahead."

Paper Companies Object to Trial 'By Document'

MONTRAEL (CP)—Trial of 17 pulp and paper companies charged with a price-fixing conspiracy will resume here on Monday, when defence lawyers are scheduled to present their arguments.

The defence, objecting to "trial by document," Tuesday asked that the court hear 1,500 documents filed by the Crown.

Hazen Hansard, defence counsel, pleaded that the documents, "individually or in any combination," fail to support the charge that the companies conspired to control pulpwood prices and limit competition from 1947 to 1953.

He said the documents—copies of seized telegrams, letters, minutes, price schedules and interdepartmental memos — amount largely to hearsay evidence, "second-hand" information and in the legal sense are immaterial and irrelevant.

Two other defence counsel are scheduled to speak Monday before a rebuttal by counsel for the Crown.

"OPPRESSIVE"

Mr. Hansard said Section 41 of the Combines Investigation Act is "of an oppressive nature."

Tempers Erupt At Segregated Lunch Counter

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—An eruption of tempers and fists here Monday turned a previously passive sitdown demonstration by Negro students at a segregated lunch counter into a short but bloody brawl.

One white youth required hospital treatment for a shaken face—probably from a night stick, police said. Three Negro students were arrested. All were charged with disorderly conduct. One also was charged with assaulting an officer and carrying a concealed weapon.

The violent outburst, concentrated in a parking lot, had its inception in the attempt of some 50-to-60 Negroes, mostly high school students, to obtain service at the "white only" lunch counter of a department store.

Police said a mob of more than 250 or both races milled around the parking lot watching—and egging in—numerous fist fights.

As the white and Negro youths battled here, Martin Luther King told a Negro rally in Durham, N.C., that his cause must be willing "to fill up the jails of the South" if it takes that to break down racial barriers.

The Atlanta Negro leader spoke to about 100 students from seven colleges in the Carolinas and Virginia, who launched the current weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Woolworth. Activities were Sunday afternoon and evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vince Fenner of Marmora, Ont.

Sorry to report, Mr. Richard Robinson a patient in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Worsley Is Out for Season, Suffers Cut Tendons on Hand

NEW YORK (CP)—New York Rangers, with only a faint hope of catching a Stanley Cup playoff berth, ran into grief Wednesday night when goaltender Gump Worsley was knocked out for the rest of the National Hockey League season with a cut hand.

The 31-year-old netminder, one of the few bright spots in Ranger fortunes, had two tendons in his right hand severed at the start of the second period when centre Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks ran into him.

Penalties outminder Joe Schaefer took over. The Rangers, who had led 1-0, lost 5-1.

Hull's skate cut through Worsley's glove after Gump had fallen to the ice while making a save.

TWO CHOICES

The last-place Rangers said they will call up either Hank Bassen of Vancouver Canucks in the Western League or Marcel Paille of Springfield Indians in the American League. Bassen and Paille, both 27, have been in the NHL but couldn't stick.

Coach Alf Pike was to talk to Ranger manager Muzz Patrick and decide on a replacement. Patrick is on a scouting trip in Saskatchewan.

Worsley's loss may be the deciding blow in dashing Rangers' bid for the fourth playoff berth. They have won only 13 and tied 19 of 56 games. They have only 14 games left. In the regular schedule and trail the fifth-place Detroit Red Wings by 11 points. Boston and Chicago are one point ahead of Detroit.

It was a big night for Schaefer despite the loss.

DREAM FULFILLED

"I've been dreaming of playing in the big league for 20 years and I've been emulating seven years to get a chance in Madison Square Garden," he said.

Schaefer, 35, made 17 saves, drawing plaudits from the crowd and his Ranger teammates. He is a native of New York and is general manager of a business promotion firm on Long Island.

Schaefer's only previous professional appearance was with Buffalo Bisons of the American League two years ago. The Bisons lost 12-3.

The Hawks didn't score on him for 10 minutes. Asked whether he had a weakness, Schaefer said: "That's easy. It's any shot on goal."

Minor Hockey

The midget division of the BMHA got its playoffs under way last night while the juveniles apparently changed earlier plans and wound theirs up with a sudden-death affair.

According to schedule all four juvenile clubs were to play goals-to-count series but last night the Bombers whipped the Rovers 12-3 and were named champions on the official report.

Pug Kellar paced the Bombers to their victory with a magnificent scoring effort. Kellar triggered six goals and picked up assists on two others for a total of eight points. Jim Sherdan scored three goals and two assists while Grayson Scott potted the other two goals. Len Harvey picked up three assists, Digby and Duggan one apiece.

Billy "The Kid" McGuire scored twice for the defeated Rovers while D. Archer had the other marker. B. Duggan drew two helpers, Pete Weston one.

Canadiens, Rangers and Red Wings took command in the midget league goals-to-count series with wins over Maple Leafs, Black Hawks and Bruins.

Teddy Rowlands sparked the Canadiens to a 7-4 win over the Maple Leafs with three goals. Gary Duvall potted a pair with Bill Rushlow and Don Goodfellow getting the others. Bob Ridley and Doug Hannah had assists. Dave Reid scored twice for the Leafs, Garry McMillan and Bruce Symons had singletons.

Rangers took the Black Hawks by a 6-3 score. Dave Fisher and Bobby Boyle led the attack with two goals and an assist each while Ken Johnson had one and one. Jim Woodcock also scored with Norm Richards getting an assist. Gerry Jones scored one goal and assisted on another for Hawks. Bill Ryan and Wayne Gilroy had goals, G. Yorke two assists.

Red Wings took a four - goal lead in their series by downing the Bruins 5-1. Ray LaRue scored twice, Bruce Seams, Rod Turner and Gary Wood once each. J. Tooth, Wood and Turner had assists. Kerry Soden fired the Bruin goal, helped by Wayne Brenton.

The second games in these series are scheduled for next Wednesday night unless OMHA playdowns against Kingston are being held that night.

Says Varsity Hockey Team Tops Pub Loop

TORONTO (CP)—University of Toronto Blues did not lead the Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League this season because they turned in their best efforts in the Leverque room instead of on the ice, a columnist in The Varsity, student newspaper, said Wednesday.

Mike Chykaliuk wrote that the items "that the championship not in Varsity Arena where they should have, but in the pleasant surroundings of the emporium across the street, the King Cole Room (a tavern)."

Athletic director Warren Stevens of the university said: "This must be the joke edition. But since the charge had been made, we will investigate it to the full."

Stevens added: "We've had championship teams for five years and now I suppose someone is looking for an alibi. We don't need them. We lost to better teams."

Varsity now is tied with Queen's University at 16 points, six behind league-leading Laval University.

The Blues defeated Queen's 4-3 in Kingston Wednesday night to gain the tie.

At Montreal, University of Montreal Carabins defeated McGill Redmen 6-2. These two teams are in the cellar, with five points each.

THE OLD PHILOSOPHER'S CORNER
FOR FOX CARTAGE AND STORAGE LTD.

HOW ANIMALS GOT THEIR NAMES

According to tradition it was Adam who named all animals in the Garden of Eden. But since then, everybody from Greek to Goth has been giving names to animals, in his own language.

Moose is the name that used to be employed by Algonkian Indians when they hunted in the woods. Raccoon, opossum and skunk are all pure American Indian, too. But squirrel is from two Greek words, skia, shadow; and oura, tail. When you call a squirrel by name, you are calling him "he - who - holds - his - tail-over-his - back - to - shadehimself".

When we call "Sooey-sooey" to the hogs, we are saying exactly what a Roman farmer would have said 2,000 years ago, for the old Latin adjective "sulnus" meant anything to do with hogs.

The handsome tail, or "brush" of the fox was observed a long time ago, for the name "fox" is from a Sanskrit word meaning "tail". To us, Fox means "Careful Cartage and Storage Limited" — a leading Moving and Storage firm, with over 50 years of experience and reputation for their service. They are affiliates of Allied Van Lines, whose "Careful Housekeeping" Seal of Approval proves them to be Moving and Storage experts. If you have to move, let Fox expert packers do all the work for you. Their methods are so efficient, and their charges so reasonable, that you'll wonder why anybody would try to move themselves! So remember their name — Fox — and call them when Moving Day comes at your house. We hear a fox spoken of as "Reynard," which means "wise counsel" — and I'm sure you'll find it wise counsel to "Let Fox do it," on Moving Day!

You'll find Fox Cartage and Storage at: 98 Dundas St. E., Trenton. EX 3-2500. 1319 Hammond St., North Bay. CR 4-4440. P.O. Box 414, Pembroke. RE 3-3977 (1½ miles west on Hwy. 17 and Mohawk) and in Picton. ZE 7-1700.

Canadians Discover New Sport Thrill

Jumping for Joy

A small but growing number of Canadians are experiencing the exuberance and high spirits which leave them literally "jumping for joy" at the realization that falling can be fun. In a fast-shrinking world, beset by worrisome dissertations on "exploding populations", increased automation, and the fear of global war, sky-divers have discovered a blissful way to get away from it all. Floating through space, over a placid, patch-work countryside, the parachutist is alone and free, surrounded only by a blessed silence and buoyed up by a marvelous feeling of excitement and joie de vivre. The sport, long popular in Europe, has been gaining in popularity in Canada in the past 15 years. The Parachute Club of Canada, which lists 150 members, is by no means a masculine preserve; 25 of its jumpers are women. Foremost woman parachutist in Canada is petite, red-haired Ilona Berger who fled her native Hungary after the uprising in November 1956. Brought to Canada in the winter of '57, following a month in an Austrian refugee camp, the tiny 20-year-old, who spoke no English on her arrival, set herself the threefold task of mastering a new language, finding a job and re-establishing herself in her favourite sport — sky-diving. Jumping first with the parachute club at St. Catharines, Ontario, and later with the Toronto Club, Miss Berger made her first circle of Canadian friends through the common bonds of an international sport.

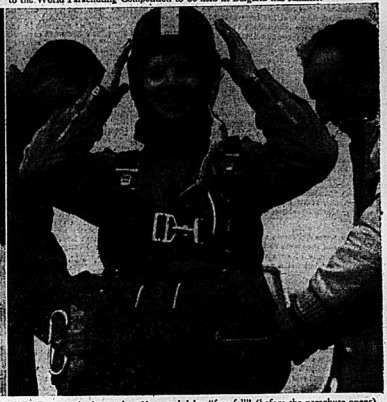
Miss Berger sits in the two-seater plane awaiting take-off. Safety is a watch-word at parachute clubs across Canada; jumpers wear 2 chutes, a main chute slung on the back and reserve chute strapped to front of harness.

A long period of ground training precedes the first jump. Beginners take courses in jumping theory and meteorology, followed by gymnastics which tone up slack muscles and teach the novice how to fall. Canadian parachutists are putting in long hours of practice this winter in preparation for the competitions to select Canada's representatives to the World Parachuting Competition to be held in Bulgaria this summer.

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Bill Tetlow.

Born in Budapest, Hungary in 1937, Ilona Berger made her first jump at the tender age of 15. Three years later, in 1955, she won the Hungarian Women's Championship and the following year represented her country at the International Parachuting Competition in Moscow. Above, at the Toronto Parachute Club's headquarters at Baldwin airport, Ilona checks shroud lines on parachute prior to packing it.

There are 2 types of 'chuting: precision jumps where the parachutist tries to land within a target area and sky-diving in which a wide variety of acrobatics—loops, rolls and turns—are performed. Sky-divers claim it is the world's most exacting and exciting sport.



Ilona Berger, who has made a 53-second delay "free fall" (before the parachute opens) from an altitude of 10,000 feet, has never been injured in a jump although she has broken her elbow and ankle in the gym. Ilona, who has 143 jumps to her credit will not be able to try out for the 1960 world jumping competition because she has not yet received her Canadian citizenship. However, she has her eye on the 1962 championship.

Gross Leads Senior Race

KITCHENER (CP) - - Centre Irwin Gross of the Windsor Bulldogs moved into a commanding eight - point lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A scoring race last week.

Gross has 80 points on 30 goals and 50 assists according to statistics which included Sunday's games. His nearest rival, Ken Laufman of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, now is in Squaw Valley, Calif., for the Winter Olympic hockey tournament.

Chatham Maroons' Ted Power is only one point behind Laufman with 71 but his chances of overtaking Gross are running out. Both Windsor and Chatham have six games remaining, as of Sunday, which makes Gross a favorite to win the title.

Bulldogs could have two individual champions on their squad when the schedule closes. Leading netminder is Windsor's Don Head with a 2.90 goals a game average.

NO HORSE EXPERT

LONDON (AP)—Lady Baillie, 59, who says she knows nothing about horse racing, has become owner of the late Dorothy Paget's 250 race horses. They were sisters. Miss Paget, who died last week, left no will and her horses and fortune, estimated in millions, go automatically to Lady Baillie.

Says Lacrosse Will Take on A New Look

HAMILTON (CP) — Lacrosse will take on a new look this season with the objective of regaining spectator interest which has slumped in recent years, says Wally Cattel of Dundas, newly elected president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

"I think the sport now is on the upgrade," Cattel says. "Out in British Columbia last year a program in the high schools proved very popular. In one game between a B.C. team and a club from an American college there were 11,000 fans present."

With the support of the Arena Managers' Association, the CLA hopes to have boys playing in more than 100 arenas this season.

An intermediate league will operate in the Hamilton area with teams from Dundas, Brantford, Welland, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Ont., and Fort Erie.

"We've made mistakes and being human we'll make others," Cattel says. "But this year we hope to have a new look for lacrosse. With the help of officials, players and the public we can once again make it a top spectator sport."

Maroons, Bulldogs Tie 2-2

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham Maroons and Windsor Bulldogs battled to a 2-2 overtime tie in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action here Wednesday night.

Goaltender Cesare Maniago, on loan to Windsor from Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen as a replacement for Don Head, and Chatham netminder Cliff Hicks, recently acquired by Maroons from Indianapolis of the International League, gave brilliant performances.

Maniago and Hicks held opposing attackers off the score sheet for two periods before yielding two goals each in the third. Both made key stops in the overtime period.

Maroons outshot Bulldogs 37-36.

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—E. B. Johnston said Wednesday he has turned down a $500,000 offer for Fleet Nasrullah, which Tuesday set an American turf-course record for a mile and one-eighth. He also announced that the five-year-old will start next in the $145,000-guaranteed Santa Anita Handicap Feb. 27.

Angry World Hockey Brass Blasts Olympics Ice

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

According to reports from the winter wonderland of the Sierra Nevada, the American $25,000,000 sports spectacular at Squaw Valley is a financial flop before the first puck slithers across the ice, or the first snow-shod boot down a mountain-side.

The first Olympics tournament hockey game was scheduled for this evening with Canada meeting Sweden. At this writing it is not known if the opening games were played.

However, it is more than instead of the 25,000 paid spectators expected daily only some 15,000 brought in advance for the opening program.

Hockey-wise the preparations and facilities for the competing teams of nine nations have been frustrating, disappointing and amateurish in their organization.

Open-air rinks have been described as "barnyards." The speed-skating oval has been pebbling with "stones." Hockey teams have been unable to practice in the main arena where the important tournament games will be played.

The glowing descriptive accounts of the Squaw Valley Olympics set-up would lead one to believe it has more of the earmarks of a Broadway ticker-tape parade for some celebrity than the site of competitive struggles between the best amateur athletes in the world.

Advance publicity said "Dominating the Olympic Winter Scene is the handsome architectural prize-winning Blyth Ice Arena. The 8,500 structure is in the centre of the site of the forthcoming spectacle."

Perhaps it is a thing of beauty, but certainly no joy forever to managers, coaches and players of the competing national hockey teams.

The "handsome architectural structure" according to photographs, is little better than a magnificent lean-to with a low V-shaped sloping roof and open at both ends.

The warm California sun streams across the ice at one end, and the gentle California rains sweep in at both. Up to a couple of days ago there was "water, water everywhere," but not a pond to skate on.

No wonder Canada's Dutchmen manager Ernie Gosman termed the ice facilities as "lousy."

However, it is as fair for all at first for one, and the nine national squads will go in there practically "cold" insofar as being acquainted with the "boards" is concerned.

There is no doubt that the Americans did a tremendous organizational job at Squaw Valley, but it seems they slipped a cog when they did not contact their "machine" artificial structure", the ice arena, making it immune to outside atmospheric hazards and guaranteeing a fine sheet of ice—and practice periods—for the competing teams.

GET PLAY BY PLAY

Canadians will be able to get a radio play-by-play of all the Kitchener Dutchmen games. Private radio stations in Ottawa and Kitchener have joined forces and established a coast-to-coast network. Twenty-three stations will be served. Reports of other events will also be provided.

Hughie Bowman, of Station CKKW Kitchener, will do the play-by-play. In Ottawa, Tom Foley said that Lucille Wheeler and Terry Kiely of Foley's CFRA station will complete the four-member team reporting from Squaw Valley, starting today.

Locally CJBQ will carry the broadcasts. Other district stations included are CKCL, Kingston, and CKPT, Peterborough. The CBC is carrying 15-minute airings and will broadcast the final game between Russia and Canada. Len Taylor, Kitchener sports editor, is heard nightly over CFRB.

The latest word from Squaw Valley where world hockey officials gush and players mush through icy slush on what is called an ice surface, is that the original schedule times have been changed.

Tonight starting 9:30 Canada meets Sweden, and that might be a toughie for the Dutchies.

However they should have an easy time tomorrow when they meet the Japanese team starting seven p.m.

NORWEGIAN GIRL TAKES TO AIR — Liv Christiansen of Norway is airborne momentarily as she speeds down KT22 mountain at Squaw Valley, Calif., in her first full-length run over the ladies' downhill course. Say Slushy Watery Surface Fit for Shinny Games Only; Schedule Games Put Forward

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP) — The International Ice Hockey Federation, angrily blasting ice conditions for the Olympic tournament, decided Wednesday that all possible games will be played at the main indoor arena.

After an inspection Wednesday afternoon of the hockey facilities, which have been criticized by coaches and players alike because of melting under the afternoon sun, the federation decided to schedule the games for late afternoon and evening — much later than had been originally planned.

The outdoor rink will be used only after a three-man committee inspects the ice and reports it suitable for Olympic-calibre competition, and it seems likely that only the consolation events will be held on the open-air surface.

"WHY HERE?"

"The big question is why this place was selected for the eighth winter games in the first place," IIHF president John F. (Bunny) Ahearne of London said.

"I don't know how you can expect teams who come here from thousands of miles to play on that slush," said Ahearne after viewing the atmosphere and what ice on both outdoor and indoor arenas.

"Ice in the arena is O.K. for shinny," said the dapper little Englishman.

"Surely there are other places in this country where conditions would be at least suitable."

George Dudley, lawyer from Midland, Ont., who is North American IIHF president, said the outdoor rink is "completely unsuitable."

ANNOUNCES SCHEDULE

The officials drew up this schedule for the first three days of hockey competition—all at 9:30 p.m. — at indoor arena (times EST):

Friday

United States vs Czechoslovakia 7 p.m.

Canada vs Sweden 9:30 p.m.

Russia vs Germany midnight

Saturday

Canada vs Japan 7 p.m.

Russia vs Finland 9:30 p.m.

Czechoslovakia vs Australia midnight

Sunday

United States vs Australia 7 p.m.

Germany vs Finland 9:30 p.m.

Sweden vs Japan midnight.

Feb. 22—Canada vs Sweden or Japan; Russia vs Czechoslovakia or Australia; Canada vs Germany or Finland.

Feb. 23—Canada vs Sweden or Japan; Russia vs Czechoslovakia or Australia; Canada vs Australia vs Sweden or Japan.

Feb. 26—Day off.

Feb. 27—U.S. vs Russia (4:30 p.m., only game for which time announced). Canada vs Sweden or Japan; Czechoslovakia or Australia vs Germany or Finland.

Feb. 28—Canada vs Russia; U.S. vs Czechoslovakia or Australia; Sweden or Japan vs Germany or Finland.

THREE POOLS FORMED

Instead of playing a round-robin schedule, the nine hockey teams have been divided into three pools, with the three seeded teams — Russia, Canada and Czechoslovakia—are in different pools.

The three teams in each pool will play a home-and-home with the best records will assure to the c h a m p i o nship bracket and the remaining teams will go into the losers' bracket.

The six teams in the winners' bracket then will have a round-robin playoff for the championship.

The announced schedule is based on the assumption the three seeded teams will win their opening games. If they don't, the schedule must be revised.

SWEDES ARRIVE

Sweden's Canadian - coached team, which arrived here Wednesday, joined several others in practice on the ice problems. The Swedish team is coached by Ed Lindberg, who once played in the NHL for Boston Bruins and with Cleveland Barons in the American League.

American hopes in hockey were dimmed when their star defenceman goalie Larry Palmer would be out of competition with a severe knee injury. If anything happened to first-string goalie Jack McCartan "we'd be about finished," said coach Jack Riley.

Canada's team is in good shape except for a few f e w e a k s. Douglas who sprained an ankle in practice. He is expected to be able to play, however.

Pomp, Color Open Winter Olympics

By JACK SULLIVAN

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP) — The eighth Winter Olympic Games open today with traditional pomp jazzed up with a make - believe Hollywood touch, some appreciative and the backdrop ground of bickering usually associated with this get-together of athletes from around the world.

The athletes—some 740 of them from 30 countries — will provide the color, backed up by bands, a 2,645-voice chorus, the release of 20,000 balloons and 2,000 "doves of peace"—pigeons—in an amphitheatre setting surrounded by snow-capped mountains.

It has taken five years and $30,000,000 to build this Olympic village—and the organizers are probably wondering if it has been worth it.

COMPLAINTS MOUNT

They've had headaches in the past, and these have been compounded since the competitors, plus talkative officials at the mountain resort, descended on the site 10 days ago. Hockey, as usual, was loaded down with beefs—the condition of the artificial ice rinks, both indoor and outdoor, practice periods and the schedule.

There also were complaints from the International Ice Hockey Federation that accommodations for hockey officials were "lousy," the food was "poor," and transportation "terrible."

Neanderthalish guards voicing the magic word "security" also annoyed the press corps Wednesday. On undisclosed grounds—with the implication that the security of the United States was at stake—all parking passes were revoked, and reporters who drove into the Olympic area were forced to abandon their cars at checkpoints miles away from the centre of activities.

This military - style operation was carried at until 5 p.m. for participants—the paying customers—with the result that the opening day crowd was expected to fall far below one-third of the original estimate of 85,000 for the opening ceremonies. In other words, the 1960 Winter Olympics seemed doomed in advance to be a financial flop.

TIME FOR ONE TIME

Officials of the organizing committee, piled up to the ears with last-minute arrangements and alterations involving the getaway, listened patiently to the squawks, which included those of figure-skating officials that hockey teams had moved their athletes off the ice of the indoor arena. Some hockey players echoed the same complaint in reverse.

But the official opening ceremony looked good to many for its sharp division in the atmosphere, international differences will be submerged then in the international competition for medals.

Russia is expected to top the list again in the unofficial point standing—Olympic regulations recognize only individual or team competition and not national records—on the prediction that the Soviet contenders will win 13 of the 27 titles at stake.

The Russians won the unofficial national championship at the 1956 Winter Games in Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy, when they took the hockey title away from Canada by beating Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen—the name of the team that composes them in the 1960 tournament.

COMPETE FRIDAY

The games actually open Friday, when there will be a 15-kilometre event in the 20-kilometre (about 18 miles) cross-country skiing, the men's downhill and event and the pairs figure-skating. In the pairs competition hockey round, Canada takes on Sweden, the U.S. meets Czechoslovakia a and defending champion Russia should have an easy time against Germany.

The sports call Canada to win the figure-skating pairs with Toronto's Maria Paul and Barbara Wagner, world champions for the last three years.

Canada will, in fact, they'll be the first North Americans to take that gold medal since the Winter Games were inaugurated in 1924. The most confident in the Canadian skating is expected to come from Marika Kilius and Hans Baumler of Germany, reigning European titleholders. Canada's other pair, Maria and Otto Jelinek of Oakville, may make the top six.

Canada is looked for from the Canadian point of view in the men's skiing, but Anne Heggtveit of Ottawa, who was named Canada's woman athlete of 1959 in a Canadian Press poll, is regarded as the best bet to bring Canada a medal in the ski events.

Fight Clay, Archie Can Name Terms

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Archie Moore can name his terms if he wants to defend his light heavyweight title against young Cassius Clay, Philadelphia Clay's manager said Wednesday.

Tony Graziano, Clay's manager, lightheavyweight Leon Matthews and heavyweight prospect Dee Warner, spoke after Promoter Moore was interested in a Clay bout offered by Madison Square Garden.

Harry Markson, garden boxing director, said Moore and his manager, Jack Kearns, have shown definite interest in Clay as an opponent for the ageless champion. Clay is ranked No. 5 among light heavyweights by the National Boxing Association. Asked if the 20-year-old Clay, who has only 19 pro fights, winning 11 and drawing the other two, wouldn't be a little led to slaughter against Moore, Graziano said:

"Archie's not. Moore is 46 years old or close to it. His reflexes are slow. Clay would knock him out. Moore is only a shell of the great fighter he once was."

Sarnia Rink Leads Ontario Curling Test

WELLAND (CP) — A Sarnia rink skipped by Jim Fleet was out in front with two straight victories in the Ontario curling championships moved into the third round today.

The Sarnia quartet skipped good Averton's Hunstville rink 19-8 in the first round Wednesday and then won an equally close second round match from Clif Gordon of Owen Sound, 12-11.

Trailing and going into 6-6 play were Kingston, Ottawa, Tam O'Shanter, Guelph, Owen Sound and Huntsville with one win and one loss. Dundas trailed with two defeats.

UPSET VICTORY

Ted Nowak's Kitchener four counted a three-ender in the 12th round and final end to upset Barrie Edwards of Hamilton 12-10 in the second round. Second, formerly of Saskatoon, has won 180 games including his school curling championship.

Trailing going into today's play were Kingston, Ottawa, Tam O'Shanter, Guelph, Owen Sound and Huntsville with one win and one loss. Dundas trailed with two defeats.

UPSET VICTORY

Ted Nowak's Kitchener four counted a three-ender in the 12th round and final end to upset Barrie Edwards of Hamilton 12-10 in the second round. Second, formerly of Saskatoon, has won 180 games including his school curling championship.

Trailing in second-round contests, Jake Edwards of Kingston downed Arnold Asselstine of Brantford 12-9, Butterworth conceding after 10 ends; and Leverton's Toronto rink defeated Les Stopps of Dundas, 15-6, Stopps conceding after 11 ends.

Other results: Kingston 8-6 in a take-out battle in the first round, Guelph staged a rallying rally after being down 7-0 to Sarnia after four ends, but lost 10-9.

A three-ender in the eighth end gave the big Sarnia rink Owen Sound victory over Dundas, 10-9. Ottawa edged Huntsville 9-8 in the other first-round contest.

In the third round, it is Kitchener against Owen Sound, Toronto against Huntsville; Ottawa against Dundas and Agincourt against Sarnia.

CHICAGO (AP)—Bad luck has caught up with boxer Henry Hank, bright new middleweight title prospect.

The former Detroit zoo keeper and father of five children broke his right hand on the last punch that cracked into Sixto (Kid) Rodriguez' jaw Wednesday night. He is expected to be out of action for two months.

Hank's savage attack stopped the California lightheavyweight champion in the sixth round of a scheduled 10 - rounder. It was Hank's sixth straight victory and 29th knockout.

Hockey Hints

by Lloyd Percival

MAKE HIS EYES MOVE

The player going in on goal who fakes a shot or moves the puck quickly from side to side just before he shoots is generally increases his chances of scoring. Goalie Howe often does this. Here's why:

When the eyes focus on any object, a puck for example, they sit up on a perch. When your eyes move you are practically blind for a moment. This is why a magician makes elaborate movements while doing a trick and is why "the hand is quicker than the eye". Good players can use magic too.

If the puck carrier moves the puck or fakes a move, causing the goalkeeper's eyes to leave their focus point, his shot is not as difficult to see.

Leafs Clip Boston String

Whip Crippled Beaneaters With Easy 3-1 Victory

Hawks Clobber Rangers 5-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The high-flying Boston Bruins came to the end of a four-game winning streak Wednesday night when Toronto Maple Leafs defeated them 3-1 and shunted them down into a third-place tie with Chicago Black Hawks.

The Hawks scored a 5-1 victory over last-place New York Rangers to give them 54 points, same as Boston.

The Bruins were crippled by injuries before the game started but worse things were to come, forwards Guy Gendron and Leo Labine were out with the flu and defenceman Doug Mohns was out with a groin injury at his Bruins took the ice.

Early in the game Vic Stasiuk, the league's fourth-place scorer, was sidelined with a pulled groin muscle. Fleming Mackell, who had just returned to the lineup, left in the first period, also suffering from an aggravated groin injury.

LUMLEY SHINES

But for the sparkling work of goalie Harry Lumley, Leafs would have run up a much higher score. Lumley made 34 stops to Johnny Bower's 22.

The lone Boston goal was scored by Larry Leach, who had scored only five goals previously this season.

Bob Pulford started Toronto on its way in the first period with a 16-footer. Bert Olmstead made it 2-0 later in the period and in the third period Carl Brewer scored the insurance goal.

The game in New York saw Rangers shead 1-0, on a goal by Eddie Shack, going into the second period.

Early in the second, goalie Gump Worsley suffered two severed tendons in his hand when Bobby Hull's skate cut through his glove and that was the end of the Rangers. Replacement goalie Joe Shaeffer was unable to contain the hard-hitting Hawks and by the end of play Chicago had racked up five goals, two by Ted Sloan and singles by Ken Wharram, Eric Nesterenko and Ron Murphy.

HELPS WINGS

The Toronto win was a gift for Detroit Red Wings, giving them a chance to move into third place when they play Montreal in tonight's only game. A Montreal win would have put the Bruins three points ahead of the Red Wings.

The Wings have won only five games since Christmas and the little-used 11 starts have chalked up only one victory. Tonight they will still be without goalie Terry Sawchuck, in hospital with severe leg pains.

Rookie Dennis Riggin, who has a fair record with one shutout and a goals-against average of 2.67 in his six NHL starts, replaces him.

Canadiens, recently hit by a variety of ailments, should be stronger with the returning of Marcel Bonin and Henri Richard. Jean Beliveau, out for the last two weeks, is a possible starter but indications are that Dickie Moore will not play although he has been practising.

TOPS WORLD MARK

SYDNEY (AP)—Sprinter Betty Cuthbert of Australia, an Olympic gold medal winner, Wednesday night bettered the women's world record for 100 yards, but the time will not be offered for recognition because of an assisting wind. She was clocked in 10.2 seconds in a heat at the New South Wales championships, a fraction of a second under the record set in 1958 by Marlene Mathews, of Australia.

Saint John Rink Unbeaten in School Curling

By LES HOLROYD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — Dave Sullivan and his Saint John High School rink have provided the biggest upset of this year's Canadian high school curling championship.

Sullivan's New Brunswick foursome had but one win when it went into Wednesday night's sixth-round game against Northern Ontario, unbeaten in five starts. However, Sullivan and his team were undaunted by the Dryden High School foursome's record and were never behind as they whipped Ken Davis and his crew 13-4.

Alberta provided another surprise as Tommy Kroeger skipped his rink to an 8-7 win over Saskatchewan. Dale Hoffman's Saskatoon team had been unbeaten in four games.

Prince Edward Island defeated Newfoundland 10-6, Nova Scotia scored the most one-sided win of the competition, 18-3 over British Columbia and Ontario's Kingston rink edged Quebec 7-6 Western day night.

FIVE-WAY BATTLE

The battle for the title is at least a five-way affair, Northern Ontario is on top with its 5-1 mark. Manitoba and Saskatchewan have 4-1 records and Nova Scotia and Alberta are 4-2.

Next are Ontario and Prince Edward Island with 3-3, New Brunswick is 2-3 and Newfoundland 1-4. Quebec and British Columbia trail with five straight losses.

New Brunswick's fine shot-making and a sudden reversal of fortune by the Dryden rink explain that upset.

Davis probably missed as many shots in this game as he had in the previous five and his teammates failed to give him the support he needed.

The Alberta - Saskatchewan game wasn't decided until the last rock. Down two coming home with last rock against him Saskatchewan skip Dale Hoffman drew his two stones to the front of the outside ring. Kroeger knocked out one to give the Saskatoon lads only a single.

For the first time in play here, the Quebec entry wasn't behind after the first end. The young St. Patrick's High School rink was ahead 4-0 after two ends but couldn't hold the lead as Eric Hall and his Kingston team came back strongly.

In the afternoon round, Manitoba won 16-6 over Newfoundland, Nova Scotia defeated British Columbia 10-3, Nova Scotia beat Ontario 9-6 and Alberta whipped New Brunswick 12-3 and Prince Edward Island downed Quebec 17-5.

U.S. WIN DIFFICULT

SEATTLE (AP) — The United States' Davis Cup tennis team is no cinch to get to the challenge round against Australia this year, Jack Kramer said Wednesday. He quickly added that the U.S. has some excellent players in spite of the loss of Alex Olmedo to the pro ranks. He predicted the United States is in trouble if it has to play in Mexico, where, he said, the conditions are tough.

Boosters Plan For "Bell Night" Well Under Way

Plans are well underway for the "Goodie Bell Night" scheduled for Memorial Arena, Friday, February 26, Booster Club members were told last night.

At a meeting held in the arena, it was decided to make the presentation to the popular McFarlands coach between the second and third periods of the Windsor-Belleville game.

The draws for the host of prizes will be made at the conclusion of the game. Purchasers of lucky tickets do not have to be present in order to claim their prizes.

The Boosters were told that merchants, individuals and others have co-operated generously in donation of prizes. Some 60 or more have been contributed thus far, with more said to be forthcoming.

The prizes are on display in the windows of Jack Diamond's Front Street store.

Never in history of local "draws" has the opportunity to "win" been so possible.

Tickets are only 25 cents and can be obtained from Boosters and other outlets including Diamond's and Bill Cook stores.

It is the unanimous decision of the club to purchase a plaque commemorating the McFarlands world tournament championship. This will be sited in a prominent place in the arena.

It was also decided to donate a handsome trophy for the "Most Valuable Player" award later. It was learned the Belleville Oldtimers Association has donated a trophy and miniature for the past three years.

President Matthews said this morning the proposed "Goodie Bell Night" and other phase of player ability.

Ticket salesmen are requested to turn in their tickets no later than noon Wednesday, February 24. This is important.

Value of the prizes for "Goodie Bell Night" was estimated at well over $300.

It was decided to charter a bus for Boosters for the opening game of the playoffs being played at Whitby March 1st between the Macs and Dunnies.

Producers, NBC Network Walking Into Controversy

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The producers of World Wide 60 and the NBC network itself are walking eyes wide open, into a controversy Saturday night. The show (9:30-10:30 p.m.) will play excerpts from a Jazz morning service for the Methodist Church.

Some people may be shocked. But the program describes the religious feeling and sorrow which led the composer, a Jazz musician, to write the liturgy.

Ed Summerlin wrote the music at the suggestion of his pastor following the death of the composer's first child last year from a congenital heart defect.

OUTMODED TRADITION

"Until about 200 years ago, most sacred music was played in churches," says Summerlin. "Since then, the church has been trapped in an outmoded musical tradition. Today's churches have modern architecture. Modern people attend. Modern clergymen may deliver their sermons on hydrogen bombs. Yet the music played remains part of another, part century."

At the same time, Summerlin said, "there is a real fear by the laity" of doing anything experimental which shatters traditions.

Whatever the reaction to the music in the program, it goes into the living rooms respectably sponsored by Summerlin's pastor of Denton, Tex. and a professor of Christianity and the arts from Southern Methodist University, both of whom discuss the musical work.

Portions of the music were played Tuesday morning on Dave Garroway's Today show when Summerlin was interviewed. Afterwards, Jack Lescoulie commented that he was not impressed particularly by the music. Singer Florence Henderson expressed distaste for the idea of having a finger-snapping musician providing background music for the doxology.

But this is the kind of controversy that is good for television to get into—and for viewers to be exposed to.

Marlies, Irish Will Play In Kitchener

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Marlboros and St. Michael's College Majors will play their scheduled OHA Junior A game Friday night at Kitchener.

Arena manager Bob Crosby of Kitchener said he has asked the Marlboros to play an exhibition game in that city to provide a sports attraction while Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen are away representing Canada in the Winter Olympics.

Peanuts O'Flaherty, manager of the Marlboros, said he wasn't anxious for any more exhibition games. But he asked Rev. Dave Bauer, manager of St. Michael's and a native of Kitchener, to switch Friday's game from here to Kitchener.

The teams agreed.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Calgary Stampeders overpowered the last-place Spokane Comets 9-2 Wednesday night to their drive to grab a playoff berth in the Western Hockey League.

It was the only game of the night and Stampeders picked up a bit of ground on the fourth-place Victoria Cougars. But they still are 13 points behind the Cougars.

Don Wilson, up from the junior Saskatoon Quakers, made an impressive professional debut as he shared scoring honors with veteran Les Colwill. Each scored twice.

Fred Hucul, Jimmy Brown, Sid Finney, Jackie McLeod and Norm Johnson rounded out the Calgary scoring. Al Johnson and Del Topoll struck back for the last-place Comets.

Only 2,344 fans, smallest pro hockey crowd since 1951, turned up for the engagement at Calgary. They saw a first - period stick - swinging duel between Stampeders' Terry Gray and Spokane's Fred Creighton. Neither was injured and both were punished with match penalties.

Cougars learned that high-scoring Arnie Samaniuk is lost for the season. The rugged little forward suffered a fracture above his left ear and concussion when he fell to the ice after being checked by defenceman Gary Bergman of Winnipeg Warriors Tuesday.

Jockey Club Backs Night Harness Meets

TORONTO (CP)—The Jockey Club is backing the move to have night harness racing in Ontario approved, delegates attending the Canadian Standardbred Society convention were told Wednesday.

In a letter signed by Tom Mooney, general manager, the society was told the Jockey Club has applied to the provincial government to have the hours extended from 7 p.m. to 9:45 p.m. for the 53 days of harness racing in Ontario in 1960.

Earl Rowe, president of the society, told the gathering that night racing would undoubtedly increase purses and be advantageous to many breeders.

The secretary announced there were 13,000 standardbreds registered in 1959 and 4,467 horses racing in Canada last year, double the number 10 years ago. A record entry of 123 has been received for the two-year-old futurity for 1960. There were 1,416 licensed drivers last season.

Action to withdraw the registration of standardbreds from Ottawa to Toronto was approved. The changeover will be completed by 1961.

Ken McKinnon of Owen Sound was appointed to represent the society on the Western Fair board.

Indians Have First Place Almost in Bag

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Springfield Indians have first place just about wrapped up in the American Hockey League. Four teams are battling it out for the remaining three places in the Calder Cup playoffs.

Buffalo Bisons are third by two points over Providence Reds after defeating the second-place Rochester Americans 5-3 Wednesday night. And it's Bisons are only three points out of second. To complicate matters, the fifth-place Cleveland Barons trail the only game of the night.

The Bisons, who led 4-0 early in the second period, almost didn't win as Rochester came back with three quick goals, two by Pat Hannigan. Larry Wilson's goal in the final period clinched it for Buffalo.

Billy Dea, Larry Kurchur and Howie Glover scored first-period goals for Buffalo and Frank Martin added one in the second period before Howie Young and Hannigan went to work. It was Indians' fifth game of the night.

Indians lead the race with 71 points, eight more than Rochester.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER
Friday, February 19

General tendencies: This is a wonderful day for you to show your affection for, and devotion to, all others and to take them some goodies, or find the articles of charm and beauty for which you have been searching for some time, until midafternoon. The later afternoon and evening are not good for forcing anything. Let your good come to you tonight.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Any data you require can be acquired quite easily until 3 p. m. This will help you to adjust that which is unsatisfactory. Later, steer clear of higher-ups and be sure you use tact during readjustments. P. M. rather early.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Get off to some new place with loved partner and look for more profitable avenues of expression. Leave dull routine behind. Think far into the future. P. M. devote time to needs of close ties and help them to get what is rightly their due.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Purchase those sorely needed articles either at wholesale houses or keep eyes open for some special sale. This should be no later than 3 p.m. since you are very apt to get a very important phone call after that time.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Take this opportunity to express your affection for a loyal partner. Have a good time, too, at some favorite recreation. P. M. do some serious studying and steer clear of that new friend who could waste your valuable time.

Cancer (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Get fundamental affairs in far better order this A. M. Be sure to add touches of charm to surroundings, too. P. M. do not permit yourself to become depressed because of the taciturn expression of partner, mate. Retain own personality.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Until 3 p.m. it is possible to get beauty or health treatments, also enjoy the company of those you love. Afterwards, simply ignore associate who feels depressed and wants to quarrel. Get coming days nicely scheduled.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Every opportunity is yours for greater rapport with comrades and making your work lighter until 4 p.m.. After that through evening, be very kind to fellow workers and thoughtful with mate.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — It is best to be very explicit with vital persons in your life and let them know your true feelings. Write, call until 3 p.m. Remainder of day and evening fine for getting together with powerful supporters. Be wise, adroit.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Surely the ideal day to set up systems and programs that will mean real success in the near future. Use your energy constructively. P. M. avoid dull, tedious and resort to that which is new and revitalizing.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You feel very dynamic until 3 p.m., so be no time in work-ing toward your cherished goals. This evening it is important you maintain equilibrium though you are in the mood to have it out with a somewhat tricky chum who has irked you.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — It is possible to get a good deal of financial support secretly now which will help you to organize your affairs so that you make a real success of present enterprises. P. M. follow advice of associate instead of that of merchantman.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — This is a fine day for getting vital information and meeting new people who can be most helpful to you. After 3 p.m. think about the needs of others and do whatever you can for them, particularly the most needy and helpless.

If your child is born today . . . The delightful child born today is the loving child and therefore will quickly make wonderful friends who will do a great deal for your progeny. By working together constructively, the forte in this chart will be found quickly and by concentrating upon that, success will come quite early in life. Middle age is theh of mercurial changes so be sure to teach firmness of decision. Work for a sterling character.

DESERT OIL. — The quest for oil has taken exploration teams deep into the vast deserts of Africa.

Fourteen firms now are seek ing oil in a 150,000-square-mile area of Libya, most of it desert. The country's total area is 679,348 square miles, and 90 per cent of it is uninhabited.

Mocking Birds Seen at Pickering

PICKERING— Listening to the mocking bird has become an increasingly favored pastime among the bird watchers of Pickering township, 25 miles east of Toronto, who have reported that several of the birds are spending the winter in this vicinity.

According to the Department of Lands and Forests, specimens of Eastern mocking bird have now been seen at Chippewa in the Niagara Falls district, Claremont, north of Pickering and in Pickering village itself.

The bird is as large as a robin but more slender and has a longer tail. It is gray above and white below, with large white patches on the wings and tail which are conspicuous in flight. It somewhat resembles the shrike except that the latter has a black facial mask and shows less white in wings and tail.

EXCELLENT MIMICS

Many mocking birds are excellent mimics — hence the name. The bird can imitate birds of other species found in the vicinity and frequently sings during the night.

Despite reports that the birds are very rare in Ontario, members of the Department's fish and wildlife staff state they have been observed in increasing numbers during the past few years. One nesting site has been reported in Toronto.

The bird observed in or near Pickering village came readily to feeding stations and dined along with sparrows, starlings, woodpeckers and chickadees on a variety of bird foods.

Some residents of this area claim that more people in Ontario than anywhere else supply winter provisions for the wild birds and it is a fact that almost every home in the village of Pickering itself stocks up with bird food — particularly sunflower seeds — for the winter months. The local chain store's meat counter is sold out of suet almost every week, for the woodpeckers, in particular, keep feeding stations empty of this delicacy-necessity as they feed on the fat which helps keep them warm.

CHEAP FEEDING STATION

Simplest feeding station used here is easy to make: Just knock the bottom out of a wooden butter box, leaving the four sides. Nail this to a window ledge, supply it with wildbird seed and suet, fastened to a nail driven up from the bottom to prevent squirrels, cats or birds from taking it) and stay away from the window for a few days. After that, cardinals, clickadees, woodpeckers and other birds may actually knock on the window when food runs short.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will go on television and radio at 6.15 p.m. EST Sunday night to discuss national defence and his forthcoming South American tour. He will speak for 15 minutes.

The president announced this at press conference Wednesday. Andr angrily,. Eisenhower called it despicable for anyone to suggest that he may have misled the United States regarding its defence position. He asserted that American defence is not only strong, but also awesome and respected elsewhere.

SEED FAIRS SET

TORONTO (CP)—The first of 28 seed fairs to be held in Ontario this year is scheduled for St. Thomas Feb. 24-25, the department of agriculture announced Tuesday. The last seed fair of the year will be held at Hessilp in Timiskaming County on April 21.

Three CNR Crew Members Killed In N.S. Wreck

Fuel Tanks on Two Of 4 Diesels Explode

POMQUET, N.S. (CP)—Three crew members died in the fiery wreckage of their locomotive Thursday night as two freight trains collided head - on at this tiny eastern Nova Scotia community.

Three others riding the locomotive of the second train were injured, and were in fair condition at Antigonish 10 miles from here. One of the injured was credited with saving the lives of his two injured companions.

The two trains came together in a crash followed by the explosion of fuel tanks on two of the four locomotives involved.

A preliminary and unofficial damage estimate placed the figure in the vicinity of $2,000,000. Seven of the diesels was worth $250,000. Of the 39 freight cars involved, 29 were derailed and seven were destroyed.

IDENTIFY DEAD

The dead were identified as Lasert MacIver, engineer of the westbound train; Laird Smith, brakeman; and Clarence Lowe, fireman, all of Stellarton, N. S.

Two bodies were recovered by rescue workers Thursday night at midnight, more than six hours after the crash. Heat kept searchers out of some areas of the locomotives.

Injured in the other locomotive were Malcolm McDonald, 28, James Francis Leopin, 43, and Arthur Mathieson, 42, all of Sydney, N.S. All suffered cuts and burns.

McDonald, the fireman, was knocked unconscious by the crash, but was credited with rescuing Leopin, the engineer and Matheson, the brakeman. He regained consciousness in the cab and found Leopin, trapped in his seat. He pulled him loose and threw him from the cab.

DRAGGED TO SAFETY

He then found Matheson lying dazed beside the locomotive. He hauled the two men into a ditch seconds before flames engulfed the locomotive.

The eastbound train was trying to stop when the accident happened, crew members said.

The cause of the crash was not immediately known.

Cause of the fatal cause of the crash was undetermined.

LOAD OF SALT SINKS

WINDSOR (CP) . . . Loss was estimated at $250,000 Thursday when a steel barge loaded with 1,400 tons of rock salt broke up and sank in the Detroit River at nearby Ojibway. The barge was owned by the Canadian Rock Salt Company.

TREND INDEFINITE ON ABOLITION OF DEATH PENALTY

McGee Bill Likely To Be Talked Out

OTTAWA (CP)—A stern and attentive Commons watched Thursday as its major debate on capital punishment, an issue untouched by political byplay, shifted from side to side without any definite trend becoming apparent.

When the sitting ended, with debate adjourned to next Thursday, there had been nine speakers in favor of a bill to abolish Canada's death penalty for murder. Seven members opposed the measure. One was uncommitted.

It became impossible to guess how the assembly may vote if a division is taken next Thursday. Only one trend appeared—disagreement, and of a kind not allowing compromise.

The most startling statement of the debate came from Erhart Regier (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam), an abolitionist, who said if members vote against the bill, future hangings should take place on the lawn of Parliament Hill with each MP and senator taking "a yank at the rope."

Party lines were shattered. Among the Progressive Conservatives, five were against the private bill and four supported it. Two Liberals were for the measure and two against it, and one had an open mind. Both CCF speakers supported the proposal.

Nor was there any occupational pattern. Of seven lawyers who spoke, four were against the pro-

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:— Snow was forecast for Belleville and Ontario throughout the day while strengthening winds and drifting were expected to create hazardous driving conditions over much of Southern and Central Ontario. Colder temperatures may be expected Saturday but diminishing winds will make the weather more pleasant as the storm departs.

Repeat Threat To Give East Germans Control

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The Soviet Embassy called an extraordinary news conference today to repeat the Russian threat to turn over East Germany control of Western access to Berlin.

The threat was contained in a memorandum handed by Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov last January 13 to Erich Ollenhauer, chairman of the West German Socialist party.

The embassy made public for the first time the text of the memorandum, explaining it was doing so in order to correct conflicting press reports.

The seven-page memorandum repeated the Russian proposal that West Berlin be turned into an internationalized free city and said anew that if this could not be achieved the Russians would sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

GIRL TELLS OF BRUTALITY

BLANTYRE, Nyasaland (Reuter)—A teen-age Negro girl testified Thursday that police trampled on her feet and struck her in the stomach at a national demonstration here last month. The girl, Emmah Phoebeya, gave evidence before an inquiry into police handling of the demonstration during British prime minister Macmillan's visit Jan. 26.

Huggridge Says Present State Of Humor No Laughing Matter

LONDON (Reuters)—The present condition of humor is no laughing matter, Malcolm Muggeridge complained today.

Muggeridge, former editor of the humorous weekly Punch and one of Britain's most outspoken social critics, declared that "even sex, which gave mankind its first big laugh, has become a serious matter."

"An unholy alliance of advertisers, pornographers and headshrinkers has moved in on it, driving the poor clowns away," he wrote in the left-wing weekly New Statesman in an article of the "decline" of humor.

"Class, that inexhaustible piece of humorists' real estate," Muggeridge continued, "has been made the object of a takeover bid by resentful beneficiaries under the welfare state.

"As for the church, the Archbishop of Canterbury has stolen the show by being funnier than any professional comedian could hope to be, and no one else can get in on the act."

According to Muggeridge, "the area of life in which humor is permissible is steadily shrinking."

He blamed the threat of atomic war.

"In the shadow of the mushroom cloud," Muggeridge wrote, "we draw together, hush our voices, and keep in step. Such order as exists seems too frail to be subjected to the blast of ridicule."

The epitome of family contentment and happiness, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, H.R.H. the Duke of Windsor, Prince Charles and Princess Anne posed for this group at Windsor Castle prior to the visit of the Queen and Prince Philip to Canada last year. There seems to be plenty of room in the centre for the new royal baby should that photographer call again.

New Royal Baby Can Look Forward to Life of Wealth, Fame, Able to Marry for Love

LONDON (AP)—The new royal baby can look forward to a life of wealth, fame and position—and, unlike some royal predecessors, will be able to marry for love.

The burden of the monarchy—and it is a burden—falls nowadays on the Queen and her husband.

As the baby goes by Prince Charles, now 11, will be expected to take an increasing share of the incessant round of public appearances and charitable works.

The third child inevitably will be less in the public eye and so will have more time for and more control over private affairs.

The British make lavish provision for their royals—at the moment $1,763,000 a year. The new baby's maintenance first will come from this. As adulthood approaches, Parliament will vote an additional allowance for the youngster's keep.

Even without the parliamentary payout, the Royal Family is wealthy in its own account.

It owns huge estates in Norfolk and Scotland. Its collection of old master paintings alone would fetch millions.

Schooling the new child will present the Royal Family with one of the trickiest problems.

For years the British have debated whether royal children should be "democratized" by sending to ordinary schools or should be groomed in relative seclusion.

Prince Charles goes to his father's old prep school at Cheam. Princess Anne, 9, is taught by a tutor inside the walls of Buckingham Palace.

Looking further ahead, the royal youngster will become a top prize in the marriage market—and will have freedom of choice.

No longer are potential marriage partners limited to foreign royalty or even to the British aristocracy.

Fishing Boat Runs Aground in Halifax Harbor

HALIFAX (CP)—An American fishing boat seeking sanctuary from a storm brewing in the Atlantic ran aground and sank this morning on an uneven rocky ledge near the harbor entrance.

All nine crew members of the 321 - ton trawler Gloucester reached shore safely by dories launched in a sea tossed by winds of 30 to 35 miles an hour.

Capt. Michael Clark, a veteran of 49 years at sea, said the Gloucester's radar indicated the ship was two miles from land when she ran aground at about 6:45 a.m. She filled with water within 15 minutes and by late this morning only her superstructure showed above the surface.

The grounding occurred near Sandwich Point. The crew managed to launch two dories and rowed to Egg Rock. They were brought to the city from there by bus.

Capt. Clark estimated the trawler was worth $150,003. She was 20 years old and 165 feet long. She is owned by C. Breaker Inc., Gloucester, Mass.

ONTARIO HYDRO UNDER FIRE IN SARNIA DEAL

Speaker Rules CCF Leader Out of Order

TORONTO (CP) — Charges of gross mismanagement in its purchase of former Indian reservation land at Sarnia were levelled against Ontario Hydro in the legislature Thursday night.

Kenneth Bryden (CCF—Toronto Woodbine) alleged that if Hydro had made a serious effort to buy the land direct from the Indian band it could have been purchased for as little as $3,500 an acre.

Hydro purchased the 175 acres for $72,000 an acre from International Investments Limited, which paid the Indians $2,000 an acre.

Mr. Bryden charged that Hydro paid the company three days before the firm paid the Indians.

Replying to Mr. Bryden, Energy Resources Minister Macaulay said that if any documents which may have been filed by the CCF member in support of his statements were contradictory to those tabled by the minister to explain the transaction, they may lead to serious charges.

CCF leader Donald C. MacDonald forced a division after being ruled out of order by the Speaker, Mr. William Murdoch, when he tried to give notice of a motion. The Speaker's ruling was supported by 56 to 26 votes, the Liberals voting with the CCF against the Conservatives.

Mr. MacDonald's challenge of

Her Majesty, Infant Prince Both Doing Well

Crowds Outside Palace Let Loose Mighty Cheer

LONDON (CP) — The Queen gave birth to a boy—her second son—at 3.30 p.m. (10.30 a.m. EST) today.

Both the Queen and the infant prince were said to be doing well.

Bells rang out the joyful news across the nation which had waited tensely through the 33-year-old Queen's long confinement.

The birth came more than 30 hours after she called her doctors.

The Duke of Edinburgh saw the Queen and their second son soon after the birth.

He was in high spirits as he emerged from the room where the baby was born.

"It's a boy," he told members of the royal household waiting in the corridor.

PHONES CHARLES

He phoned Prince Charles, who is at boarding school 40 miles southwest of London, and told him he has a brother.

Then he went to the children's wing to tell Princess Anne, Later he was to take her to see her mother.

The child's birth weight was not immediately announced.

A carnival air swept through London. The great bells of London's churches pealed out the news. The crowds began to swarm to the palace in increasing numbers.

Outside Buckingham Palace, more than 2,000 cheered wildly as a palace official pinned up a handwritten bulletin giving the news of the birth.

The official bulletin said:

"The Queen was safely delivered of a son at 3:30 p.m. today."

"Her Majesty and the infant prince are both doing well."

DRINKS TOAST

Prince Philip joined the palace staff in drinking a champagne toast to his child.

As London's offices emptied for the day, a huge crowd started to gather at the ceremonial avenues which led to the palace.

Immediately after seeing his wife, Prince Philip phoned the news to the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret and sent a cable to his mother, Princess Andrew of Greece.

The infant prince is second in line of succession to the throne after Prince Charles, 11, Third in line is Princess Anne, 9. Princess Margaret now is fourth.

The birth was announced at 1.03 p.m. +11.03 a.m. EST). John H. Peel, gynaecological surgeon in charge of the delivery, kept vigil with her for all but an hour of 31 hours. Peel, 55, is one of Britain's most eminent childbirth specialists.

Peel's other assistants were the Queen's physicians, Lord Evans, a 57-year-old Welshman, and Sir John Weir, a sprightly 60-year bachelor whom the Queen has known since her childhood.

CHANGE FLAG

As the birth was announced, the Union Flag hoisted down the Royal Standard which always flies over Buckingham Palace when the Queen is in residence. In its place, to the cheers of the crowd, they raised a huge ceremonial standard of red, blue and gold measuring 14 feet by 12.

Soldiers scrambled to fire 41-gun salutes in Hyde Park and the Tower of London.

Radio and television services broke into programs to announce the birth. Cables were sent to all Commonwealth governments and to British embassies in foreign capitals.

Crowds pressed fiercely against the palace's wrought iron gates

Notorious 'Red Light Bandit', Caryl Chessman, Reprieved

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Caryl Chessman, condemned to death 12 years ago on conviction as a perverted sex kidnapper, won his eighth reprieve from the San Quentin prison's gas chamber early today after an appeal from the United States Supreme Court.

Governor Edmund G. Brown, acting against all odds and in the face of a state Supreme Court recommendation opposing clemency, ordered a 60-day stay less than 10 hours before the celebrated convict-author was scheduled to die.

The governor said he ordered the stay because of a state department telegram warning that execution of Chessman might lead to hostile demonstrations in Uruguay and Brazil against President Eisenhower during the president's forthcoming visit to South America.

TO SEEK LEGISLATION

The governor, an avowed foe of capital punishment, also said he would make a special call to the legislature, which reconvenes February 29, to consider abolition of the death penalty.

Chessman, most notorious American sex criminal of modern times, had sparked world-wide attention by his long and mostly single-handed struggle to escape death through legal technicalities.

With little knowledge of the law, Chessman has written books of thousands of persons in many countries had petitioned that clemency be granted.

Ironically, the state department telegram which prompted the stay was almost lost in the thousands of telegrams pouring into the governor's office urging clemency. Cecil Poole, the governor's clemency secretary, found it, and the stay was ordered shortly after midnight.

Chessman, scheduled to enter the gas chamber at 10 a.m. PST, was whisked out of the "waiting room" and returned to the death row cell on San Quentin's Condemned Row, since June July 3, 1948.

Warden Fred R. Dickson announced no one would be allowed to see the 39-year-old Chessman "for at least a week."

HAD SAID FAREWELL

Only two hours before, Chessman had bade goodbye to George T. Davis, his chief counsel, with the words, "George, you're shaking hands with a dead man."

Davis said the reprieve "is the beginning of the end of capital punishment in California." He added: "I don't think Caryl Chessman ever will be executed."

Chessman, convicted of unpublished charges by seven women as the notorious "red light bandit" of Los Angeles lover's lanes in 1948, wrote Cell 2455 Death Row while in prison. During that time, seven others which did not sell so well, provided funds for his long legal fight, which included 15 appeals to the U.S. Supreme Court and innumerable appeals to the whole gamuet of state and federal courts.

The fight was based in essence on a legal brief his court reporter at Chessman's original trial died before completing transcription of the trial record.

Chessman contended that the only transcription was the court reporter's own notes — illegible to read man's antique-style shorthand, was fraudulent and inaccurate.

New Iron-Ore Development May Take Elliot Lake Slack

TORONTO (CP) — Reforms Minister Wardrope announced in the legislature today that the government hopes its prospective new ironore developments in the north will mean employment for many of the hard-pressed uranium miners in Elliot Lake.

Speaking in the throne speech debate, Mr. Wardrope said the government is negotiating with industries that will eventually employ 13,000 men.

He said while the Liberal and CCF opposition members were talking about the emergency at Elliot Lake, where some 4,000 men are to be laid off this year because of a cut in United States uranium contracts, the government "was doing something about it."

He said the new industries will use natural gas and iron ore. Some of the gas is present in the "foreseeable future" will mean 3,000 jobs directly for the North, he added.

Mr. Wardrope said the government is not prepared to give details yet.

MORE MEN NEXT YEAR

Later, in an interview, Mr. Wardrope said the iron ore projects would not employ any workers until next year at the earliest.

Mr. Wardrope said one company was planning two pelletizing plants 35 miles north of Nakina and another company plans a third plant near Port Arthur and an iron reduction plant at Port Arthur.

The two plants near Nakina might create a town of 10,000 residents in three or four years, he said. It was hoped they would hire 1,500 next year.

Future iron ore developments will depend considerably on companies obtaining a low natural gas price for bulk quantities, Mr. Wardrope said. If this is forthcoming, Provincial Iron Ore Lines Ltd. is expected to build in the Lakehead area a $10,000,000 pelletizing plant for high-quality pig iron.

STEEP ROCK ORE

Later, the company may build an iron reduction plant in the same area. Steep Rocks would utilize raw ore from Steep Rock Iron Mines Limited.

"If we can get this started we can take a great deal more off men from Elliot Lake," Mr. Wardrope said.

The standing committee on energy decided to postpone a visit to Sudbury to study the employment situation.

SUE OVER COLLISION

Canada Cement May Use TV To Check Process

Installation of a closed TV circuit system, whereby certain operations requiring constant supervision could be checked from a central point, is being considered by the Canada Cement Company officials at Point Anne.

So far no definite action has been taken but it is known that the installation but the idea has been carried out on a small basis at Point Anne and officials today said it was quite possible that similar units at other plants would be part of a future program.

At the Point Anne plant the TV application would be on long stretches of conveyor systems where constant supervision is required to check on operations. Cameras would be set up at each location allowing for constant checks to be made on operations at a central point.

According to one plant official the closed circuit TV application is being tried in quite a number of industries.

"It's a trend of the times and all toward making for greater efficiency," the official said.

Weatherman Hits Snow Forecast Right on Nose

After a few false alarms during the past week or so, the Weatherman really hit it on the nose yesterday when he forecasted from four to six inches of snow for the Belleville district.

This morning Belleville and district residents found from three to three inches of snow already on the ground when they started out for the day. Throughout the morning the snow continued to fall heavily.

However, up until late morning there was little traffic tieup and police reported no serious accidents.

In the city police said a car skidded into the rear of a bus as the vehicle slowed at a stop intersection, while on No. 2 highway provincial police reported a car and a transport truck involved in another mishap. No injuries resulted from either accident.

A City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull had one sander out all night and by mid-morning as the storm increased in intensity, six trucks were out applying sand. In addition two road mixers were out with provisions being made to bring out another grader if the storm gets worse.

Some clubs, because of their location in Iron Curtain countries, have not re-joined.

Three prepayment certificates issued were drawn from the 1959 total of $108,507.

A recommendation had been made to the clerk-treasurer to register two properties for taxes as this seemed to be the only way the matter could be applied to these cases.

During the month, $11,891.46 was received as payment on tax arrears for 1959 as compared with last year's January total of $4,727.04.

Council members expressed their appreciation of the efficient manner in which Mr. Weaver carried out his duties.

PUC Wants Survey Made On Insurance

TRENTON — Members of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission came to the conclusion at their meeting last night that a comprehensive survey should be taken of existing insurance on their holdings.

It was decided that tenders will be called from the four companies in town which are eligible to carry this type of insurance. One company will be chosen from among the tenders and will be responsible for distribution of 60 percent of the insurance among the four companies while retaining 40 percent of the business itself.

Members decided in some cases their holdings were over-insured and in other cases, under-insured. Among the holdings considered for insurance were buildings, equipment, office equipment and trucks.

HOW FAR

How far the commission should go in reinsuring facilities for property damage which they claim was brought about by some defect in the operation of utility equipment was discussed at considerable length. The point under discussion was the claim of the Weaver Mooney Company for a portion of the cost of having a steel pole removed from its property on Dundas Street which was weakened according to the claim, by soapage from a hydrant.

The company had asked for $100 towards the cost of removal. It was decided to write the company and refer the matter to the bill. Commission members felt that the pole could have been straightened or considerably less than the removal had cost.

Commission members decided to go ahead with the suggestion that its members meet occasionally with council and the heads of the various boards and departments and other commissions to discuss mutual problems.

LIGHTS OUT

Lights on the town bridge came in for a bit of discussion. A. E. Atkinson, chairman of the commission, said that half the lights were out and a number of shades broken. It was decided to look into the possibility of lighting the bridge with fluorescent lights.

A letter from the Ontario Municipal Electrical Association said that a survey is being conducted into whether the recent province-wide conversion to 60 cycle had placed a greater burden on some municipalities than on others.

The cost of operating Trenton Public Utilities department for January was given as $65,158.75, including payroll, supplies, insurance, income tax payments and the costs of obtaining power from the HEPC which was $16,455.12. HEPC for the same period last year were $40,200.

Minister Used False Name to Date Young Girl

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 37-year-old minister used a false name and wore a black jacket and motorcycle cap to date a 13-year-old girl, a court was told on Thursday as the minister admitted sexual relations with the girl.

Rev. Gordon Sears, father of seven and leader of the Youth for Christ Movement here, pleaded guilty to a charge of having sexual intercourse with a girl under 14 years and was remanded eight days for a pre-sentence report.

Magistrate Oscar Orr said he wants to see either the girl or a photograph of her so he can have some estimate of her appearance.

Prosecutor Stewart McMorran said Sears used the name Tom Talbot and dressed in the jacket and cap to make himself look younger on the three occasions when he took the girl out. He said the minister did not meet the girl through his church.

Fulton Defends Bill of Rights Now Proposed

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton said Thursday night that to ask the British Parliament to enact a bill of rights as an amendment to Canada's constitution would be "an entirely inappropriate surrender of sovereignty."

It also might give rise to provincial misgivings and controversy for the Canadian Parliament to entrench a bill of rights in the Canadian constitution. This course appeared to give no greater protection than a simple act of Parliament, which the government proposes.

Mr. Fulton spoke on Prime Minister Diefenbaker's proposed bill of rights at the dinner of the Law Society of the University of Western Ontario, of which the justice minister is honorary president.

COULD CUT POWERS

He said that since the bill first was put forward in 1958 a persistent recommendation has been that it be "entrenched" in the Canadian constitution, "thereby to curtail the powers of Parliament or of provincial legislatures—or both—to encroach upon, amend or repeal the rights it enunciates."

. . . We believe that the principle of a provincial autonomy . . . does not permit us to force our constitution, much less our methods, upon other freely - elected governments."

The government might hope the provinces would follow suit with bills of rights "but while we may hope to lead, it is neither our intention to compel the provinces, or to interfere ourselves in the discharge of their proper responsibilities."

Judge Blocks Lawyer's Move To Halt Hearing

MONTREAL (CP) — "There's no way out of it," Judge Redmond Roche said Thursday as lawyers for New York financier John C. Doyle fought to prevent the prosecution from going to New York to question witnesses.

Doyle is charged with conspiracy, theft and fraud involving $4,000,000 worth of Canadian Javelin stock.

The Quebec Supreme Court has appointed rogatory commissions to gather evidence in Parliament Geneva, Liechenstein and New York, where Canadian Javelin has its executive offices.

Judge Roche has been named commissioner to hear the evidence outside Canada.

In a first attempt to overrule the Supreme Court order, made last week, Mr. Doyle's lawyers asked Judge Roche to rule that the commissions are illegal.

"I have no right . . ." replied the judge. "There's no way out of it."

The prosecution, headed by chief counsel Jean Martineau, immediately announced plans to open the commission hearings in evidence in New York March 2, and to collect information from company books.

Mr. Martineau said the prosecution intends to subpoena Jacques Gagnon, named as co-conspirator with Mr. Doyle, and other Canadian Javelin officers in New York.

Joseph Cohen, a defence lawyer, said the prosecution has not produced a "title of evidence" to show that Mr. Doyle conspired with others in Montreal.

Eastern Ont. Hit by Heavy Winds and Drifting Snow

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Strong winds and drifting snow hit most of central and southeastern Ontario and parts of Quebec today causing dangerous driving conditions and forcing cancellations of some air flights.

The snow and winds resulted from an inland storm centred along the Atlantic seaboard. The storm struck Montreal, Ottawa, Brockville, Trenton, Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, and other centres.

Trans-Canada Air Lines flights from Toronto to Montreal and Ottawa were cancelled until noon. No flights to the Maritimes were expected until 9:30 p.m., unless the weather improves.

The storm cancelled a ceremony here at which Prime Minister Diefenbaker was to be called to the bar as an honorary bencher of the Law Society of Upper Canada. Because all flights to and from Ottawa were cancelled, the ceremony now will be held next month.

VESSELS AGROUND

Two fishing vessels ran aground in the snow, one sinking, off the east coast. The crews reached safety.

In Montreal three inches of new snow was reported but the heavy snow, coupled with northwest winds at 25 miles an hour, created heavy drifting, impeding Montrealers on their way to work.

A fall of up to 10 inches is expected.

In Ottawa, the snow brought traffic practically to a standstill. The Brockville area was one Ontario centre hit hard by the storm. Thirty - six rural schools were closed as 19 inches of snow cut off roads. School buses could not get through because of the drifts.

The Toronto office in Toronto said there is a possibility the high winds in Southern Ontario might change to gusts of up to 50 miles an hour later today.

In the United States, heavy snow, tornadoes, strong winds and rain lashed wide sections of the American south and east today. Hundreds of motorists were marooned, schools were closed and power and communication services disrupted.

Snow piled up more than a foot in Kentucky and Tennessee and Virginia.

Tornadoes skipped across sections of Louisiana, Florida and North Carolina, Winds up to 80 miles an hour pounded western Virginia, piling huge drifts of heavy, wet snow.

Gale-force winds battered the gulf states and veered northeastward. Gale warnings were displayed along the Atlantic coast from Daytona Beach, Fla., to Eastport, Me.

Eggs at Edmonton Two Dozen For 35 Cents at One Store

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Housewives in Edmonton, by a bit of astute shopping, could find grade A large eggs selling four dozen for $1 this week.

If they looked around, they found that one supermarket was selling them at two dozen for 25 cents.

This extreme case points up what has happened to the egg market all across the country since federal government price efficiency payments went into force on October 1.

The housewives are happy. Farmers are turning to thoughts of larger profits as the government stations from some quarters that egg prices will soon be stabilized.

The new federal program replaces the old promise - to - purchase system under which the government agreed to buy all A, B and C grade eggs at a stabilized price dropped below the market price. The support price was the average wholesale price at which eggs sold during the previous 10 years — Montreal the figure was 41 cents.

The new plan has no purchase agreement. The price of eggs finds its own level and farmers get only the market price at the time. At the end of the year, the government pays a deficiency payment on a maximum of 4,000 dozen grade A large eggs if the average annual price falls below what the government calls a prescribed price. The "prescribed" price is the same figure as the support—the lower average price. However, under the new plan, a national average is used instead of the Montreal price.

Retail egg prices are comparatively low in the east, up to 49 cents a dozen for grade A large, 41 to 42 cents in Quebec, down from 67 cents; Ontario 45 to 46, down from 65 cents.

One of the highest prices in the country is Newfoundland's 69 to 78 cents a dozen, a 20-cent drop from the pre-deficiency payment price. The result has been an influx of eggs.

The organization spokesmen said that when prices dropped, producers cut back on the number of laying hens. Some small producers went out of business. Others switched to broiler - egg supply.

Gordon Sandrith, a Winnipeg hatchery spokesman, said prices have gone up since January since low egg prices have resulted in a tremendous increase in consumption of broiler—thus depleting the surplus.

Canadians are eating themselves out of a mess," he said. "We've been loaded up by another men in the business, and the president of the Canadian Egg and Poultry Association—said in Vancouver recently he believes the price will go to 80 cents, due to large consumption.

Wm Luther, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Hatchery Association, said in Moose Jaw it takes 30,000,000 laying hens to supply Canadian requirements.

He mentioned the figure in warning of a possible egg shortage in Canada by next fall. "With the present 25-per-cent cutback in pullet — chick hatches, we will definitely not be able to supply our own needs."

HER MAJESTY

as Superintendent Stanley Williams strode across the forecourt with the bulletin announcing the birth.

They cry went up: "Is it a boy?"

"Yes, it is," yelled Williams, and the crowd roared.

CONTROL CHOUP

Police reinforcements came out from behind the railings to control the crowd as the crush began to look dangerous. Women's cheers turned to squeals of distress as they found they could not push free of the throng.

The crowd had grown steadily from 2:15 p.m. when the palace made the formal announcement. "Doctors are in attendance on the Queen." This is the time-honored way of announcing that the royal birth is imminent.

Mrs. Peter Rowe, 60-year-old maternity nurse who the Queen counts as a close friend, will take care of the prince during his first few days.

Then he will be handed to the palace nanny, Mabel Anderson, 33.

ARE CHRISTENING

The prince's name will not be announced until the day before the christening — probably four weeks from now.

A gold lily font used for the ceremony has done duty for all royal babies since 1840.

The timeworn palace announcement that the doctors "are in attendance" upon the Queen came at 2:15 p.m. By tradition, this phrase signals the imminent birth of royal offspring.

Prince Philip and members of the household staff drank the new prince's health in champagne.

A priority telephone call was made to the home secretary, R.A. Butler, who was carrying out an engagement at Exeter, Devon.

Butler, by his position the first person to be told the news of the royal birth after the immediate relatives, ordered the drafting of a public bulletin.

This was posted on the doors of the home office in Whitehall within minutes of the birth.

HOARY CUSTOM

For centuries, it was the custom of the home secretary to escort royal babies born, to ensure that no substitute infant be introduced.

This tradition was broken in 1948, however, when the birth of Prince Charles, because constitutional experts had ruled that the presence of the home secretary was not essential.

Princess Anne, Queen was expecting a baby was given to the world last August 15 with an announcement that she would "accept no further public engagements." She had to cancel a projected West African tour.

The announcement followed her return from a tour of Canada and the United States, during which the Queen had confided her condition to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

He immediately offered to alter or cut short her tour but the Queen insisted on carrying out the Canadian program as originally planned.

Foulkes, Slemon, DeWolf Will Retire This Summer

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Several changes in the top command of Canada's armed forces are expected this spring and summer.

The retirement of Gen. Charles Foulkes, 57, as chairman of the chiefs of staff committee was announced several weeks ago.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Air Marshal Roy Slemon, deputy chief of North American Air Defence Command, and Vice-Admiral Harry DeWolf, chief of naval staff, are expected to retire from the services this summer.

The government might have picked Admiral DeWolf to succeed Gen. Foulkes as chairman of the chiefs of staff because the admiral, despite a hair - trigger temper, has apparently got on well with his political bosses. However, it is understood the admiral wants to retire after two years' service.

SLEMON ON OUTSIDE

Air Marshal Slemon is unlikely to succeed Gen. Foulkes because the government was more than a little annoyed in November, 1958, when he said bluntly the RCAF needed a new interceptor and the best plane available at the time was the Arrow, since cancelled.

The government must find successors for Gen. Foulkes, Vice-Admiral DeWolf and Air Marshal Slemon.

It seems likely that the RCAF's senior air vice - marshal, Larry Breithaupt, will succeed Air Marshal Slemon at NORAD headquarters or Air Marshal Hugh Campbell, chief of air staff, if the latter becomes chairman of the chiefs of staff committee.

MAY ELEVATE EASTON

With the services becoming more involved in technology, the government may pick a scientist chief of air staff. Air Vice-Marshal James Easton, chief of air force technical services. Among the 11 air vice - marshals, he is ninth in seniority.

The likely successor to Admiral DeWolf at naval headquarters is Rear - Admiral Herbert Rayner, flag officer, Pacific coast.

Lt.-Gen. F. S. Clark, chief of the army general staff, is expected to remain in that position for one or two years.

Gen. Foulkes receives a salary of $20,000 a year. Air Marshal Slemon and the chiefs of each of the services get $19,000.

Wellington Man Killed by Car Near Picton

A Prince Edward county man, Mr. John Pearson, 57, of R. R. 2, Wellington, was fatally injured when struck by a car as he walked along No. 33 Highway early Thursday evening.

Provincial Police said Mr. Pearson was walking west on the south side of the highway when he apparently staggered across the highway into the path of an eastbound auto driven by Gerhard Rutgers of R. R. 2, Belleville. The accident occurred about one third of a mile west of Picton.

At noon today it had not been decided whether an inquest would be held.

87 Accidents, Two Killed In January

Provincial Police in No. 9 district investigated a total of 87 accidents during the month of January in which two persons were killed and 25 persons injured.

At the same time traffic patrols laid 1,259 violation charges and issued 766 warnings and laid 77 charges, including nine for speeding.

The No. 9 district with headquarters at Belleville is taken in the four counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac.

Order Inquest Into Death of Picton Gunner

An inquest has been ordered into the death of Gunner Bernard D'Aillaire, 21, who last Sunday morning was found dead in his bed at the Picton Army Camp. It is believed that the soldier had been in a fight the night prior to his death.

The sudden death has been under investigation by provincial police at Picton under the direction of Staff Sgt. H. S. Gall of Belleville. Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and Army Provost officers have also assisted in the investigation.

Our New Prince

"It's a boy."

Three little words that have rung out happily in every corner of the world where English is spoken—but never more happily than they sounded in all these corners simultaneously this morning, when it was announced that we had a new Prince!

Not, mind you, that we would not have welcomed a new Princess just as joyfully.

But it was the boys' turn. The last child born to a reigning Queen was a girl. That was almost a hundred and three years ago, when Queen Victoria bore her ninth and last child on April 14, 1857. That child, Beatrice Mary Victoria Feodore, on July 23, 1885, married Prince Henry Maurice of Battenberg, a name which, in the changed form of Mountbatten, the Queen so recently linked with her own family name of Windsor, as that by which her descendents not in line of succession to the throne should be known. Princess Beatrice was the sister of the Queen's great grandfather, King Edward VII, while Prince Henry Maurice, her husband, was the brother of Prince Philip's grandfather, Louis of Battenberg.

To the Queen and Prince Philip, the proud parents, and to Prince Charles and Princess Ann on the acquisition of a new brother — heartiest congratulations.

Dangerous Ally

Kurt Meyer, the Nazi general who was sentenced to death for the murder of Canadian prisoners-of-war, has reprieved, jailed and paroled, is in the news again.

His opinion of Canadian troops does not appear to be overly high. "The Canadian Army," he says, "only fought for six months and against worn-out German troops."

But Meyer thinks the Canadians, and other fresh allied troops like them, could have been useful.

"If fresh troops like these had been used with the tired German armies, they would have gone through the worn-out Russians. One day you will find out that we lost the war in 1945."

Meyer, a beer salesman heading an organization of the veterans of some of Hitler's most fanatical troops, the Waffen S.S., now emerges in the role of pro-ally of the west. He says an economic war between Communism and the West has already started, that this will lead to a third war and that he will serve in this war, against the Communists.

Before we welcome him as a comrade in arms, we might ponder his code of conduct, as revealed not so much by his actions in the heat of battle as by his words today.

Meyer would have liked to see the western allies join the Germans in defeating the Russians. That is understandable. But what is not quite so understandable is that he evidently regards the western nations as fools for not following this course. It does not occur to him that such an action by the western allies might have been considered a blot on their battle flags. He sees nothing repugnant about turning on an ally "worn out" in fighting a common foe. If the western powers ever make Meyer, or his ilk, their allies, they had best remember what Meyer would have done had he been in the allies' shoes in 1945 and remember, too, that the leopard does not change his spots. With such a man as an ally, it behooves one not to get "worn out" fighting a common enemy.

Footrace For a Hand

There is nothing quite so ridiculous as men competing for a woman's hand. They discover some method of disguising the competition as romance.

There is nothing we can think of less romantic than walking 104 miles, unless it be walking 105 miles.

It follows that Vaughan and Howard Clarke, Welsh twins, are unlikely to be the objects of widespread admiration for their decision to stage a marathon walk for the hand of 19-year-old Jean Girling.

This, it seems to us, is a case of going Girling the hard way.

STRENGTH for the DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

POWER OF CHRIST

Jesus Christ is universally recognized as the greatest of all lives to the will of God.
emancipators. Even those who do not accept Him religiously and people of nations and races which adhere to other religions look upon Jesus of Nazareth as having done more to free the human race from bondage than anyone else who ever lived.

How did He accomplish this and how does He continue to accomplish this?

The freedom which Christ confers is entirely an inner matter. He did not lay down any free form of government. He did not even advance a philosophy of freedom. What He did was to bring God in touch with the human heart that men could let go their sins, disavow their selfish purposes, and commit their wills to the will of God.

What does this mean to us today? We of this enlightened generation are just as much in bondage as men and women have been in any age. Anxiety, hatred, fear, lust, jealousy, avarice, and every hateful demon that has ever possessed human souls possess the souls of men today.

The message of the Christian gospel is that we can be free. We become free when we accept that offer of new power which God has made in and through Jesus Christ. He is a person, we are persons. Our personalities can touch and interact, merge, and when this merger and co-mingling of His life and ours takes place, we are free.

Lake Under Sahara

By Richie Calder in UNESCO Feature...

A French scientist and I were, trudging over the dunes in the hot, burning sands of the Grand Erg Occidental, the Great Sand Sea of the western Sahara. As the sun beat down on us from all around us, he suddenly said, "We are walking on water."

It was a disturbing moment. We were alone and I remembered being told that when Europeans stayed more than two-and-a-half years in the Sahara, they went quite queer, like madness. He, I thought, must have spent at least three.

At first, I did not believe him when he told me that, under the dunes—and the semi-enamelled rocks and pebbles of the Sahara, there was a great fresh water lake," the Albienne Nappe. Nor was I believed when I wrote about it. Some responsible British journal dismissed it as "this extreme gentleman" and relied on hearsay evidence of the most outrageous kind."

That was three years ago, when I was making a journey for Unesco across the deserts of North Africa and the Middle East. It was not a canard and the existence of artesian water certainly was not hearsay. The French water engineers had already bored a well at Zelfana, 400 miles east of Colomb Bechar and the artesian waters had gushed with a pressure which made them leap 150 to 200 feet high. Today, Zelfana is a flourishing man-made oasis.

Recently, I have been back in the Sahara and have seen how the waters which have been accumulating for at least 7,000 years are coming to the service of old oases. At Ouargla, for instance, an oasis, 150 miles long and two-and-a-half miles wide, was threatened by creeping salinity. In 5 years the level in its date palmeries to maintain a population of 30,000 souls by means of water-table had dropped. A quarter of a million date-palms—"the mothers and the fathers"—were creeping over them. The Arab gardeners, however, had tried to counter this by planting in the bed of the wadi, the watercourse which its every when the occasional spates come. That experiment was not successful. The irrigation merely added salt to accumulate five feet below the surface and it was slowly poisoning the palms.

Now there is a tube-well into the water-bearing sands and found here at a depth of about 3,500 feet. It costs 100,000 francs (£80,000) to that depth, but it was worth it. The water comes to the surface spouting half a mile high. Instead, bridled, it was razing furiously out of a huge basin, which is retaining water over walls and into the channels which carry the life-giving the waters through the oasis. There is water in plenty — enough to irrigate the older palmeries enough to leach the salt, to flush it out of the soil, and save the newer palmeries; enough to bring 200 acres of make it into new palmeries and enough for the more adventurous effort in the desert itself. There are more than 100 thorn pastures into market gardens, into vegetables and even into grain being grown, by Abienne irrigation, in what had been desert sand.

The same thing has happened at El Goleа, which has been called "the Pearl of the Sahara." There the well is shallower and it has enshrined, for the future, the Albienne Nappe, which is a fresh water lake.

Fifty miles from Ouargla is Hassi Messsoud. Ten years ago, I scribbled on my map the train station of this Arab name as "Blessed Well". And the note: "water to be found at 50 feet". It was not even an oasis; just a watering hole for the camel-caravans on the way from Touggourt to Fort Lellemand. Today the water hole is deep in oil. The wells are pouring oil into the pipelines which run to Bougie on the Algerian coast. That oil-wealth would have been difficult, if not impossible, to exploit but for the existence of the Albienne Nappe. The drillers probably guessed it when they encountered it a third of the way down to the 11,000 feet of the oil in found but it has meant a well to supply the water needed for the oil-operations themselves. Two swimming pools provide relaxation for the 1,000 workers in the oil-field Turbines pump evaporating sprays of water into the houses, where normal air-conditioning would not suffice because of the dryness of the atmosphere. The residential quarter, "Maison Verte," is set in gardens of sand shrubs and flowers. This winter they are planting 5,000 trees to anchor the dunes, provide windbreaks and the color and shade so much loved by the desert people. People will need to make the desert blossom. And all this has been made possible by the Albienne Nappe.

"Nappe" means "sheet of water", which is not strictly true in this case. The reservoir is, in fact, a "sandular sandstone aquifer" and the formation was named by the famous Saharan geologist, Charles Killian, as "Intercalaire Continental". And ever it is called, it is a vast reservoir. It underlies the Atlas Mountains and eastwards under Tunisia and into Libya, westwards under Morocco and Mauritania and southwards around and beyond the Tademait mountains. The depth at which it is found varies but the thickness of the porous formations is enormous — from 1,600 feet to 9,200 feet.

How is it filled? It has been accumulating water for thousands of years even before the Sahara was dry. The estimated is 1,000,000,000 cubic metres a year. That is conservative, but it is wise to be so. The one well at Ouargla yields about 85,000,000 cubic metres annually and there are already ten such wells in the Sahara, which adds up nearly to that "income" from the Atlas rains. And the underground lake is utterly ralonged by that water-budget.

But why worry about "income," when it is possible to draw on the "capital" hoarded underground over centuries? The answer is that until a great deal more is known about it, it is extremely rash and improvident. No one can predict what would happen if we tried to draw more water to drop, much less if we drew on the underground. So, under the wise direction of Dr. Corbeau, the engineer-in-chief of the Algerian hydraulic service the water engineers are proceeding cautiously. The hydrologists find out far more than they do at present about the replenishment. This as Dr. Drouhin himself says, is probably the most important of the estimates for the Atlas. There are also the underground sources of supply, including the absorption of those rare but torrential rains that fall on the desert.

If, and when, the hydrologists are satisfied that there are no fascinating possibilities pressed by nature, the people will worry about how we are to feed the 4,000,000,000 which the United Nations demographers predict for 1980 the story of the Tennessee Valley will be repeating as the discovery of oil.

In the Tanezrouft, in the heart of the Sahara, oil has been found. This means that it is covered with pebbles and the search looks as hopeless as though it were a metalled road. It is the sort of place where even optimists, like myself, would "write off" as hopeless. But surveyors have found that under the pebbles and the rock-strata which the stones have protected from sun and winds for 7,000 years. In the Sahara as a whole found the pollens of Mediterranean areas, showing that before the Sahara "dried out" there was lush vegetation here.

That is why I, merely dormant, waiting for water to flow again, I developed this underneath it is the Albienne Nappe. The area has its own built-in water supply: This area covers over 50,000,000 acres, about the size of Europe, or Great Britain.

One begins to think of prairie lands in the middle of the Sahara but whether, and how fast, it is developed depends on the strict accountancy, by the hydrologists, of the water-budget of the Albienne Nappe.

Syd Is Not Aloof - He's Just Scared Stiff

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What, I wonder, happens to every public speaker, finally to compel me to last week. The program chairman introduced me jovingly, concluding with the words, "And now I bring you Mr. Harris," and the poor devil clear forgot my name.

His embarrassment was little-tely greater than mine. I have such a wretched memory for names myself that I am grateful whenever someone else displays the same affliction.

Proud tells us that such slips are a form of wishful thinking, fear; and, in my case, I am sure it is fear. New people tend to frighten me, and I always seems to them that I am frees-with what seems when I am really congealed with fear.

My most unfavorite kind of person, apparently, has come to be the one who approaches me with the greeting, "You don't remember me, do you?" You don't remember me, I don't; but what is one to say, except blurting out a deceptive, "How could I forget you?" which fools exactly nobody.

I console myself with the thought that remembering names, and attaching them to the proper faces, is a petty talent, possessed by many people, and by no means who can remember very little else of importance.

Proof that my defect comes from fear, and is not mere "forgetfulness," is the fact that I can remember the telephone numbers some of my friends by the hundred, whole verses of poetry I have not read for 25 years, and the full conjunctions of Latin verbs I have not used since my high school Latin class.

One of the world's great writers, most people will agree, is Montaigne, the inventor of the essay, whose work was crammed with long Latin quotations that he inserted from memory. Yet he forgot my name.

"I am forced to call my servants by their occupation or birthplace, for names are hard for me to retain. I call a Spaniard by a name has three syllables, or a harsh sound, or if he speaks Italian with a certain letter — but that is all. If I live long enough, I shall end by forgetting my own name."

It must be noted that Montaigne served two terms as Mayor of Bordeaux — presumably at a time when handshaking and baby-kissing were not political necessities. Perhaps my program chairman may have been embarrassed for the evening, but he was in the best of company. Proud, Montaigne, and the little old anonymous me.

According to an aircraft designer with whom I shared a flight in Europe as guest in breaking, and then travel with the dawn all the way across to Vancouver.

"Even better," I said, "We can start just at sunset, in Dublin, fax, and ride in the sunset all the way to the Pacific."

"Except," said the engineer, "that you'd have the sun in your eyes all the way. Me, I am a daybreak man. I love to see the dawn spreading over the land. To have several hours of dawn, all across the Maritimes, over Quebec, across the Great Lakes, seeing the prairies, in June, with the first light of day just pulling the sun up in the Rockies, all mysterious shadow and eerie depths, and the first rays tipping the peaks."

"But think of the sunsets!" I countered. "Imagine the sunsets they have on the Bay of Fundy. And the Laurentians! I love sunsets on the prairies that I just couldn't believe, when they got those great big, thunderheads towering in the heavens, and vast flames of orange, red, and lopaz, . . ."

"The trouble is," cut in the engineer, "by the time we get there we'll be flying so fast we will be travelling at five and six miles up and see nothing but glassy emptiness."

"There cannot be too many service clubs in Canada." If any group of men wish to organize to do a good community work, by all means let them do it," was what Mr. J. (Bill) Cahnovsky, Canadian Service Club and Welfare Council, told members of the Kiwanis, Rotary, Kinsmen and Y's Men's Clubs at the evening service in Bridge Street United Church.

Mr. Cahnovsky, vice-president of the Bell Telephone Company and formerly president of the Toronto (downtown) Rotary Club in a brilliant address outlined the aims of Rotary besides paying tribute to other service organizations. He spoke of the birth of Rotary in 1905 and referred to its growth and the part it is its work now being done by the far-flung international branches.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

IGNORANCE IS THE GREAT EST HANDICAP IN FIGHTING TB

"Dear Dr. Molner; Every year the public is asked to contribute (and rightly so) to the fund to stamp out tuberculosis and we give as we can afford to.

"But what is the use of trying to control the spread of the disease when nothing will have the disgusting habit of spitting on the sidewalks? One need only walk a block in any direction to see this. We have a law forbidding it, but it is not enforced. I hope you will not classify me as a 'crank' but please use your influence to help make this offense punishable. Do I sound emphatic? I am on this subject — Mrs. K. C."

I'm emphatic, too, in insisting that tuberculosis be stamped out to the extent that is humanly possible. I do not count it as impossible that TB could be reduced to a very small risk. — If people only knew the importance of information we already possess about it.

Ignorance, today, is the greatest handicap we have to overcome in combatting TB and many other diseases.

With X-rays and sputum tests, we can discover the disease, but we can't make sure that an individual is tested!

Many persons can arrest a great many cases, but only if the patient follows orders. Believe it or not, some TB patients in public hospitals are so foolish that they smoke when they need the medicines they are supposed to take!

In some instances, surgery (removal of part of a badly-damaged lung) is the final step in returning a TB patient to normal life again.

Now I cannot, in all honesty, agree that spitting in the street is the biggest factor in spreading this disease, although I suspect that it must be a factor to a certain extent. After all, the sputum test is used to test for the disease: the germs are present in it. When the victim spits out, and the germs are view in the sunlight, because. So I do not and cannot quarrel with you.

But the way in which TB spreads is through a family close contact, through a common small household, you presently find several others with the disease. In crowded, city tenement areas, the TB rate will be higher than in the more open urban parts of a city. The perfect bacteriology wealth or poverty is the perfect breeding ground for the perils lies in the elements of ignorance, carelessness and overcrowding.

A few years ago in cities people threw garbage and refuse out into the street. Why? Ignorance. Today we spit germs into the streets. Why? Ignorance.

Ignorance is our foe, but with TB, much as we need to curb careless praying of germs into the streets, we need even more to realize the danger of spreading it inside the home, by people who don't, perhaps, even suspect that they have it.

Send for my booklet: I know that during pregnancy a woman cannot marry a child through sight, hearing or thinking. But what about the sense of touch? Mrs. F. P."

No, not that way either! Remember this: Nature arranged things to protect the baby, in its formative stages, from being bothered or harmed by outside influences. Stop hunting for things to worry about, young woman.

Note to E. A. C.: Lung cancer is much less prevalent among women than among men, but the reason is not yet understood. There is an increase in the disease among women, however.

Pentagonese Hard to Learn

Milwaukee Journal

The time may come when the ordinary man will be able to follow up with discussion of military matters — not because they are getting any smarter but because the Pentagon is fast creating a new language.

Take, for example, the word "overkill". Any idea what it means? Well, the New York Times has come up with an expert in Pentagonese who explains it means "an overall nonessential vitality plus". Fortunately this can be, to use another Pentagon term, "definitized".

"Overkill" is the "capacity to kill more people than there are". You can figure out "surplus" for yourself and with that the phrase above. And when you get that far you are then entitled to a feeling of pride — Pentagonese, that is.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PEOPLE, THE GREAT EXAMPLE

Much as we learn from books, and earnest attention we may study people is the greater art, and one that leaves a trail of new knowledge behind. I have sat with small groups and large of ones and kept learning. I have learned much from the study of ones who also gave me an example of politeness and pride of character.

There is a great contrast between the man who brags all about and what Dr. Samuel Johnson called "good talk." Bragging shows many a mere talker out of his presence, while the wise ones will listen and gather up the crumbs of that "good talk" that except a future day might be nourished thereby.

Is there anyone so talkative that a good talk cannot be smothered? If you want to be heard at the back keep as close possible and exercise your hearing gifts! Houses' Debates Cover Wide Range of Topics

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

While the opposition in the Quebec legislature sourly complained it will soon be limited to one instead of three non-confidence motions a day, other provincial Houses across Canada Thursday debated topics ranging from unlicensed margarine to refugees.

In Quebec a government motion proposes sittings of the Legislative Assembly begin at 10:30 a.m. and continue until adjournment. No adjournment time was set.

Opposition members complained the new rules remove safeguards, with definite times for morning, afternoon and evening sessions, made it possible for the majority opposition to move three non-confidence motions a day. Now they can only move one.

Premier Antonio Barrette, whose Union Nationale party has a large majority, said the opposition should be satisfied with the non-confidence motion a day "because it is certain to be defeated."

N.B. HOUSE OPENS

The New Brunswick session opened Thursday with the speech from the throne promising legislation to "improve and broaden" provisions of federal-provincial hospital insurance legislation.

In Halifax Premier Robert Stanfield announced a royal commission will be appointed to study Nova Scotia's liquor laws.

In Alberta, Premier Manning told the House the settlement of refugees in Canada is a federal government responsibility but Mr. Manning said the government is willing to contribute towards resettlement.

Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin and Agricultural Minister George Hutton faced a barrage of opposition questions on the challenge to the dairy industry of colored margarine but refused to say what the government plans to do about it.

DENIES PATRONAGE

In British Columbia, Highways Minister Gaglardi heatedly denied there is any patronage in his $100,000,000-a-year department and challenged the opposition to prove any contract favors had been given.

Later he had strong words about "disparaging remarks" against his preacher weekends in the Kamloops Pentecostal Church.

"I'm proud I'm a minister of the Lord Jesus Christ," he declared amid cheers from all sides of the House.

Disarmament Program Being Shaped by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today was reported shaping a new disarmament program designed to shift to international military forces the job of maintaining world peace.

As envisioned by State Secretary Christian A. Herter, national military forces and nuclear armament would be brought progressively under a system of international inspection and reduced.

At the same time, some kind of international police force, probably set up through the United Nations, would be brought up to a strength sufficient to repulse aggressions by any nation.

Representatives of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy have been meeting here for several weeks to develop proposals for presentation to Russia and four other Soviet-bloc countries at a disarmament conference opening in Geneva March 15.

Whatever the final form of the U.S. program, it will be developed in consultation with those allies during the next three weeks.

HERTER'S OUTLINE

The two-stage U.S. approach was outlined by Herter Thursday in a National Press Club speech. Neither was particularly new, but he outlined these as his two goals:

1. To try to create as a matter of urgency "a more stable military environment." This could be accomplished, he said, by such things as measures to prevent surprise attacks through international aerial and ground inspection. Armed forces and armaments would be cut back.

2. To build up international peace-keeping machinery "to the point where aggression will be deterred by international rather than national force."

Three things contributed to the success of the annual meeting of the Belleville YMCA held at the Campbell Street building yesterday evening, they were: an excellent speaker with a stirring message; a fine male quartet society with some fine musical entertainment and . . . a leaky water pipe. In a way the three sort of combined to illustrate the triangle of total YMCA life. The speaker gave those present a very fine insight into the spiritual purpose of "Y" work. The Cobourg Opera Workshop group's splendid rendition of a number of selections from the musical show "Rose Marie" lent its support to the mental and social side of the triangle. The leaky water pipe, which dripped so democratically on the centre table, gave testimony to the present physical shape of the local YMCA building.

Frederick G. Hubbard, the guest speaker, outlined the many changes — and technological advances which had occurred during the past few decades and pointed out that now that man had developed some very wonderful . . . and some very destructive . . . machines our society was faced with the quite frightening task of training men to match these machines.

The honorary secretary of the Montreal YMCA said that the very significant changes had been noted over the past half-century. These are: the disappearance of the British Empire and the emergence of the Commonwealth of Nations; the rise of the United States to a major world power; the increasing social influence of the Soviet Union in today's world; the increasing self-consciousness of the peoples of Asia; the awakening of their bonds by the Africans; and the remarkable recovery of Europe, the seat of our western civilization, as an economic and political unity.

ADAPTATION NEEDED

He pointed out that society needed the willingness to adapt to these new conditions in order to exist. The many changes in the political, scientific, communications and transportation fields are quite influential, he said, but the most important changes were those which affected the ideas and attitudes of our society. "There is a very great urgency," Mr. Hubbard said, "to sort out and hold firmly to fundamental values. Our present generation seems to have "no anchor to the windward".

Mr. Hubbard said there is no need to be an alarmist or cynic, however, to see that the other person will do just adding that this lack of purposeful direction is our greatest enemy because man is the only human physique in which his planet can be wiped out and only he can stand between him and oblivion.

Referring to Toynbee's "A Study of History" he said he noted that the decay of past civilizations has always come from within due to a lack of purpose amongst the peoples concerned. With this perspective in mind he laid down the task which confronts the Y.M.C.A. in its best serving this generation.

"Our greatest need," he said, "is to develop in the hearts of all of our youth—a meaningful set of values." This has been found that the best way for people to learn these values is through experience with other beings of their own group with whom they worship.

Through capable leadership, by our youth and men, through a program designed to give them the opportunity for self-improvement through service to the community and the world, plus a balanced outlook on life — spiritually, mentally and physically. Society requires citizens with a sufficient sense of the common good to be willing and determined to make democracy live, and most of all, to exercise the will to do, voted to this end, he said.

MUST MEASURE UP

The greatest danger facing mankind today, Mr. Hubbard, the speaker suggested, is the collapse of its moral values. It is necessary for people to measure up to a high standard of self sacrifice for the good of the community if our society is to remain strong, he emphasized, adding that these people are our world's most precious asset.

"We have built many wonderful machines," he concluded, "now we must build men to match the machines."

Mr. Don Williams introduced the speaker and Mr. William Wills very capably expressed the thanks of those present for his remarks.

Mr. Ted Ireland, president of the Belleville YMCA, spoke of the past year's accomplishments and noted that activities and membership has reached an all time high. "The local 'Y', he said, "was now planning to meet the responsibility entailed by this achievement with a new building located on Victoria Avenue, just east of Herchimer. The property has been acquired, he stated, and a program has been laid out to work for the acquisition of improved and expanded facilities with a new building during the next few years. He paid tribute to those who had assisted the YMCA in its work from outside of the organization and expressed his thanks for the faithful executive and committee of the 'Y's' staff members.

A special guest for the meeting was Mr. J. Gordon Dunlop, vice-president of the Eastern Division of the National Council of YMCA's, who brought greetings from the National Council. He mentioned that he felt that the Belleville 'Y's' 100 per centers-ship in monthly service the past six years was unequalled by any other YMCA in Canada and was indicative of very fine and hard work by the local staff and board. Referring to the leaky water pipe he noted that it had been a few years ago when he was present at another annual meeting that this same pipe had acted up and that he was sitting below it at the time.

GIVEN SPECIAL AWARD

Besides acting as bearer of greetings, Mr. Dunlop honored Mr. Joe Shortt, a former secretary of the local 'Y' with a special certificate from the National Council of YMCA's for his long service in 'Y' work. Mr. Shortt first joined the YMCA in the First World War, leaving the Toronto Globe to take over a number of important jobs for the 'Y' across Canada, eventually retiring as the local general secretary in 1947. Mrs. Shortt was presented with a large bouquet of flowers on behalf of the National Council as well.

Speaking briefly, Mr. Shortt stated that he was very happy to see so many present who had been closely with the local 'Y' during his twenty years as general secretary. He also commented that although he has presumably retired he had yet to find out how to retire.

A number of Leaders Fellowship Awards were also made by Mr. Percy McGuire. Those receiving these awards were: Clare S. Morgan, William H. Finkle, Donald C. Williams, Jack R. Sloss, Chris Pot Vanderzaag, Donald H. Dalrymple and Douglas R. Keirnahan.

A presentation of a rather large cheque, about the size of a hedger sheet (large size) for the amount of $1,000 was made by Jack Fletcher on behalf of the Y's Men's Club toward the building fund. This cheque was received by Mr. Ireland.

A financial statement rendered by Cornell B. Hyde indicated that the "Y" had operated at a deficit of $37 for 1959, which was considerably better than the previous year. The better financial position was, he said, undoubtedly due to the very fine efforts of the United Appeal and the increased number of members.

Mr. Bruce MacKenzie, chairman of the meeting, said that we looked to the future development of the 'Y' along with Belleville which he described as "staring at the ocean," adding that almost 10 percent of the population of Belleville now were members of the local YMCA.

OFFICIAL GREETINGS

Alderman Leslie Reid, representing the city, extended the official greetings of the city to the YMCA on their annual meeting. He observed that the leaking pipes were indicative of the need for a new building and added that he felt the citizens of the community were well aware of the service which the YMCA renders them. He stated he looked forward to the community and the "Y" developing tremendously during the next ten years.

The entertainment, as mentioned previously, was rendered by the Cobourg Opera Workshop group. Their selections were very well received and were a well presented that an immediate broadcast of several of them over radio station CJBQ was arranged by Mr. Frank Murray, station manager. The group are presenting the musical show "Rose Marie" at the Victoria Opera House in Cobourg at the end of the month.

The guests present were also given a chance to give vent to musical expression in the form of a sing-song conducted by Archdeacon J. B. Creegan with Mr. L. D. Read at the piano. Safari for Souls
With Billy Graham in Africa

By TOM McMAHAN
Religion Editor, The Stats, Columbia, S.C.

VICTORIA FALLS, Southern Rhodesia — It took David Livingstone fourteen days to trek two hundred miles from his advance base to this beauty spot which the great missionary explorer called the most wonderful sight he witnessed in all Africa.

This week Billy Graham made a longer trip in a powerful little monoplane in a little over three hours. The fat travelled evangelist said the flight, which featured spectacular views of wild game, was the most exciting he had ever experienced.

When he left Salisbury, South Rhodesia, the South African pilot said that most of the game in the region had been killed off because of the tsetse fly. So the veteran pilot felt safe in promising to eat anything they would see, horns and all, as they went down the river.

If the three Graham team members and this reporter had been held him to his promise, the pilot would have encountered at least than four herds of elephants, (the largest containing up to two hundred animals), three or four herds of the dangerous black buffalo, two herds of giraffe, a zebra and antelope and two hippopotamuses.

Billy Graham and his close associate, Billy Barrows, shouldered "Where" when their appearance as the skilful pilot took the plane down for a closer look at the herds while a hundred feet as the strange roaring bird appeared.

TAKING REST

The evangelist is here for a three-day rest to break the pace of this "Safari for Souls" which has taken him through three West African countries and will end in the Kenya area of Livingstone for whom the nearby city is named, and whose native servants he will visit as he was the first to describe scientifically.

"The United States authorities have asked us for proof," he declared. "We have the proof here. Now it's up to them to act . . . to prove what they affirm in their documents and diplomatic notes, that they are trying to avert these acts."

FLIERS IDENTIFIED

He said the documents include a U. S. passport that identified the pilot as Robert Ellis Frost, that an official identified the other flier as Robert Kelly and said he was a member of the U.S. Civil Air Patrol.

In Miami, Robert Frost of Portland, Ore., was reported overdue on a "presumably local flight" in a light plane bearing the same registry number as the one which crashed in Cuba.

(C. A. P. headquarters in Houston, Tex., said its records listed two Robert Kellys as members, but the families of both men said they were in the U.S. and were not connected in any way with the Cuban incident.)

Following the crash, the U. S. Embassy quickly offered a team of technicians to assist in an investigation, Castro announced.

Castro said an investigation indicated the explosion resulted from of a fragmentation bomb intended for the mill blow up the plane.

in the House Thursday was that patronage in civil service appointments is widespread and is defiling the dignity, of government.

feared as "allied head hunters" who tied tails onto themselves and regarded collecting the heads of their enemies as the mark of manhood. The Chief of Kagoro, a Christian since boyhood, now the leading Nigerian governmental figure, led the evening prayer at Graham's meeting. Many others, some of them former pagan tribesmen, walked fifteen miles to the Jos meeting, retracing their steps at night on a path infested with snakes, scorpions and baboons.

The nearly three thousand mile trip from Jos to Salisbury was fascinating and varied. We flew a chartered British Heron to Tico, the border city of the Nigerian-related Southern Cameroons. We then transferred to a motor launch for a three-hour river ride to Douala, in French Cameroons. In order to reach the launch, we rode a tiny open railroad car along the docks with men were peeling giant logs.

At Douala there rebel activity is current, some of it was almost stranded on the waterfront because the last steamer running at six o'clock in preference to the night nine o'clock curfew. The steamer trip was comfortable and we saw no signs of rebels except the barbed wire barricades and soldiers patrolling with fixed bayonets.

VISIT CONGO

From Douala we flew nonstop to Brazzaville in a wonderful Super Constellation, stopping overnight in that capital of the Republic of the Congo, formerly French Equatorial Africa. We wasn't practiced to cross the river to beautiful, modern Leopoldville where independence was just promised for the grateful, sparsely settled Belgian Congo with its tremendous wealth of uranium and other strategic materials. Many of the poldvillians joined hundreds of thousands of people at the meeting addressed by Billy Graham in the old Swedish mission which was a refugee point during last year's rioting that cost scores lives.

The next morning we flew from Leopoldville to Kano in the G-B, which Graham regards as perhaps the world's safest plane. At the airport, the evangelist was greeted by some five hundred people who crowded the terminal balcony and sang "To God Be the Glory, Great Things He Hath Done."

Two of Graham's associates are vacationing in the Belgian capital European cities of South Africa, Rhodesia, a tension-filled country with fewer than one hundred thousand whites and more than four million blacks will climax these campaigns with a mass address on Christianity and one at Salisbury, then head for Northern Rhodesia, Kenya, Tanganyika, Ruanda-Urundi and Ethiopia.

The Experts Say
Women Good Investors Because They Want Value

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Women are good investors, says the managing director of one of Canada's large investment groups.

"Women make good investors because they are willing to take pains. They are alert, they like to learn the know about good things, and they want to get value for the family money," says Harry L. Gassard of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada.

The same qualities that make a housewife a good manager make her a natural investor, he says. Women shop around, compare values and learn through the experiences of their friends.

STUDY TRENDS

Women flock to investment classes, and many of those enrolling are accompanied by their husbands.

The emergence of women investors during the last 10 years is one of the most gratifying things to him, says Mr. Gassard.

Some of the women are business women, but most are housewives with families.

"It's amazing how so many wives can find time to adopt investment as their principal outside interest or hobby, but they do it."

His company stresses four objectives for investments. Safety is paramount, although there is a different reasoning on safety between the elderly widow and a young guidance, and a young college graduate with a steady income, who just bogun.

Income is also an important factor, and here again the elderly widow wants a regular, dependable income. The younger person might be more interested in bonds of a new company.

Growth is the third objective. Those at the peak of their earning power might look for maximum growth in the market.

Marketability, the fourth objective, is the ability to convert the investment readily into cash.

NEED BALANCE

But no one particular security does not provide all these factors. Investments need to be balanced, and experts warn that there is no investment that can be put away and forgotten — all investments need to be watched.

Mr. Gassard agrees that women are more cautious with investments than are men. "Men sometimes will not admit they do not know too much about investments, and will impulsively plunge into speculative securities." Women are less likely to act hastily.

Bay of Quinte Radio Engineers Meet Here

The Bay of Quinte section of the Institute of Radio Engineers held the monthly meeting in Belleville on Wednesday evening. The guest speaker was Mr. A. F. Trew of the Product and Systems Engineering Department of the Northern Electric Co. Ltd., Belleville.

In his address entitled "Surface Wave Transmission Lines," Mr. Trew described the development and application of the new Goubau type line used in the transmission of radio signals in cable systems. The principles involved were explained.

The speaker showed results of tests indicating the advantages of this type of line due to lower line losses as compared to the usual co-axial type of line, and indicated it will probably become in more general use in the near future.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

SHANNONVILLE W.A.

The monthly meeting of the W.A. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Raymond Clarke on the afternoon of February 11th, with 16 members and three children in attendance.

The president, Mrs. Stanley MacDonald, welcomed all and thanked the hostess for opening her home for the meeting.

The meeting gave a reading on "Christian Fellowship. Mrs. George Osborne, group leader, gave the theme for the month, "The Light of the World."

The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Raymond Clark from Colossians 1, and Mrs Osborne read the lesson thought from the devo tional leaflet.

One of the best-loved religious pictures, painted by the artist, Holman Hunt, shows the thorn-crowned figure of Christ with a lantern in His hand, knocking at a closed door, asking admittance. This painting hangs in St. Paul's Cathedral in London, England, and beside it the words of Jesus, "Behold I stand at the door and knock."

Mrs. Osborne offered prayer and Mrs. Everett Stratton gave a reading, "Just For Today." Mrs. Arthur Houston also gave a reading about a boy and his grandmother visiting a large city, showing what took care of them, justifying their faith in Him.

Mrs. Osborne also gave a reading, "Stand By Friends."

The president thanked the group for the program and lunch and took charge of the business.

Mrs. Asa Cook, treasurer, reported a successful dinner and served to the Presbytery executive. Thanks were expressed by the president to all who helped in any way.

Each member contributed a dollar instead of holiday cards.

Mrs. Sam Elliott contributed to the birthday box.

It was decided to hold a tea in the church hall in May.

Mrs. Clarke and her assistants served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed by all.

The next meeting will be held at the church hall on March 10.

In the absence of the president of the W.A., Mrs. Arnold Dills, Mrs. Jack Salmon presided.

There was a discussion on building an entrance at the back of Plainfield United Church.

Mrs. Grant Kerr and Mrs. Clarence Hall were appointed to that committee. It was decided to hold a quilting and a pot-luck dinner at the home of Mrs. Jack Salmon on February 18.

Mrs. Jack Salmon was in charge of the study book, "Africa Disturbed" She informed the W.A. that there are 200 million people in Africa. Two World Wars have brought many changes to Africa.

EGGLETON W.M.S.-W.A.

MADOC JUNCTION — Mrs. Warren Harlow of Stirling, was hostess for the February meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. which was held at her home last Thursday afternoon, with 11 adults in attendance.

Mrs. Bruce Shipley presided over the program which had been prepared by Mrs. Keith Johnson. Mrs. Maurice Clark played the accompaniment for the hymns on her guitar.

The Scripture reading, taken from St. John 21:15-17 and commentary on the lesson, "Think on These Things", was given by Mrs. Warren Harlow, after which the pastor, Mr. Dyson offered prayer.

One Dime Bag was handed in.

Mrs. Shipley announced that the Presbyterial meeting will be held on February 22nd and 23rd at Tabernacle United Church in Belleville; she also reminded the members to keep on saving their used stamps. Another box of under garments could be sent away this year.

Mrs. WilliamMcMullen offered her home for the next meeting, on March 10th, and Miss Ruth Stapley was appointed to prepare the program.

A letter received from Mrs. Pierson was read.

The W.A. president, Mrs. McMullen took charge and welcomed the visitor present. She also spoke briefly expressing appreciation to Mrs. C. Lansing, who was always so willing to assist on the programs at various times.

PRESENTATION MADE

Miss Joyce Stapley on behalf of the Eggleton W.M.S. - W.A. presented Mrs. Lansing with a T.V. lamp. Mrs. Lansing gracefully thanked her friends.

Mrs. Stapley read a letter received from Mr. Kenneth Stewart, a former pastor here; she also thanked Mrs. Harlow for opening her home for the meeting and Mrs. Johnson for preparing the program.

A reading, "The Master is Coming", was contributed by Mrs. Lansing.

Mrs. McMullen read a letter regarding the "Leadership Course" to be held at "Five Oaks" in Ontario.

The 4th chapter "The Drift" from the Study Book, was presented in an interesting manner by Mrs. Johnson. This chapter dealt with the drift downstream to the cities by many — all seeking a better livelihood. But this drift separated the families, as the women, children and elders were left behind in the little villages.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

MRS. SAUVE MAY RUN

QUEBEC (CP) — Mrs. Paul Sauve, widow of Quebec premier, may be the Union Nationale candidate in Two Mountains riding in the provincial election expected this spring. Party sources said it is believed she would sit in the Legislative Assembly until autumn, when her law-student son, Pierre, 21, is ready to make his debut in political life. No woman has ever been elected to the Quebec assembly.

MODERN MANNERS

GLOVE ETIQUETTE

To remove, or not to remove one's gloves when shaking hands is a question that is rather hard to answer. For generations fashion dictates have wavered between "do" and "don't."

In my opinion, common sense rather than rigid adherence to fashion should be applied in this instance, particularly in the case of a gentleman. It is perfectly correct that he keep gloves on to shake hands with a friend when outdoors. As a matter of fact, today this procedure is considered more correct than to take the glove off. It would seem a rather silly affectation to remove it when you meet someone, on the street and just shake hands in passing. I do not believe that it is necessary today to draw attention to the fact that you are not removing your glove. However, do as you like. If you do mention it, "Excuse me, please" is the proper thing to say, not "Pardon my glove."

In the case of Milady, I think it's a good rule to wear gloves to form and keep them on whenever they are the occasion requires. Even for informal shopping during the day and evening. As in the case of the gentleman, I see no point in removing the gloves when shaking hands on the street. However, when an introduction is made, the most casual, my advice is to remove your gloves. Somehow it does not seem a very friendly gesture to shake a gloved hand.

For formal appearances, such as receiving lines, it is of course correct that gloves be kept on by both those receiving and those being received. But even here it would seem the proper thing would be more gracious on both sides if at least the right glove is removed, for the handshaking time. Never keep gloves on when eating or drinking!

Whether you do or do not remove your gloves is really not a matter of essential courtesy today. If you feel more comfortable with them on, there is no reason why you should not wear them. Particularly in the case of a woman, I think gloves are needed to complete any costume to give that well-groomed look. They also fulfill a very practical purpose; they keep your hands clean.

While on the subject of what to wear and not to wear, let's consider the matter of wearing a hat or going bareheaded. As in the case of gloves, I think this is a matter which should be dictated largely by personal preference and local custom. During recent years, going without a hat has grown in favor. However, I think we are all agreed that anytime a woman wants to look well dressed, a hat should be worn.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. E. J. — When are we going to hear those wedding bells?

June J. — He isn't quite ready to settle down.

Mrs. E. J. — My daughter is June is 24 and has been going with a fine young man for about two years. At first they just dated occasionally, but for the past year they have been seeing one another regularly.

I think it's time we heard something about the wedding bells, but when I ask June she says to leave her alone. I'm not the kind of mother who interferes at every step, but I think I have a right to know what is going on.

My husband and I like Frank but he isn't very friendly toward her. He tries to avoid coming to the house and sometimes gets June to meet him downtown. It seems to me that if his intentions were right he wouldn't be that way.

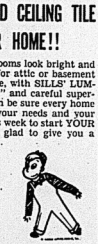
June J. — I'm old enough to manage my own affairs without any coaching from my parents. I don't like their interference. My mother keeps reminding me that when she was my age she was married and had three children. Well, then she certainly should realize that I'm old enough to take care of myself.

I think Frank loves me but isn't quite ready to settle down. Sometimes he talks as though he is on the verge of proposing and then he backs down. I know it's his problem, but I don't want to do the proposing.

Frank is an unusual sort of fellow. Sometimes I wonder if my parents don't realize that they are making me comfortable by acting suspicious of him.

The Council: We don't think the E. J.'s are helping matters by acting suspicious and putting pressure on June as far as this relationship is concerned.

We get the impression that



PRE-SCHOOLERS love to "write" letters or notes. The trouble is often, if you print a short and simple message in large letters, you have a pattern. The sheet of copy paper should be big, your printing as clear as possible. Capital letters are easiest for them to copy.

June is just as anxious about this relationship as they are. Frank makes her uneasy too. Obviously she is attracted to him, yet we think she may not want him as much as she thinks she does. If she sincerely wanted him as a husband, she would make an effort to bring things to a decision.

We don't feel June should do the proposing if she doesn't want to, but she should make it clear that she wants to know whether this is a courtship or a mere friendship. If it is not a courtship she should be going out with others. If it is a courtship it should come to a conclusion within a reasonable length of time.

It is more than likely that Frank and June are merely using one another in an uncertain and unhealthy way to avoid making meaningful relationships with others. After a year Frank still seems to be somewhat of a mystery to June. Even if this relationship is a casual one, she should have better understanding of what they both want out of it.

June needs to talk to someone about this relationship and she might open up to her parents if they pressed her less. Their pressure has put her on the defensive. She feels she has to justify her friendship with Frank, instead of understand it. Yet only by understanding it can she grow to further maturity through it, June and must deal with her private affairs without interference but she should recognize that dealing with them involves an active effort toward a goal — not a mere feeling with those she suspects of interference.

QUESTION:

Recently Pizza Pie has become a favorite with our family. They bought me an automatic frying-pan for Christmas and said that Pizzas can be made in it. Could you please print some recipes for the crust and fillings? . . . Inez B.

ANSWER:

Yes I can.

PIZZA PIE:

(In automatic frying pan). 1-4 cup milk, 1-2 compressed yeast cake (or 1-2 package granular yeast) 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon shortening 1-4 cup boiling water, 1-1-4 cups flour, olive oil, 1-2 pound Italian sausage, browned, 1-2 clove garlic, finely minced, 1-2 onion, chopped, 12 thin slices Mozzarella cheese, 1-2 cup tinned tomatoes, 1-2 cup tomato paste, 1 can anchovies, 1 4-oz. can chopped mushrooms drained, salt, black pepper, grated Parmesan cheese.

Dissolve yeast in another bowl, combine salt, shortening and boiling water. When shortening is melted add mixture lukewarm, combine with yeast mixture. Add half of the flour and mix well. Add remaining flour, to make a soft dough that will not stick to a knife inserted in the centre. Knead on a lightly floured board. Allow to stand at room temperature four hours in a lightly greased covered bowl. Knead dough — do not overhandle. Line bottom of automatic frying pan with 3 thicknesses of wax paper or 1 of aluminum foil. Pat dough into frying pan. Brush with olive oil. Set heat at 200 deg. Spread sausage, garlic, onions, cheese, tomatoes, tomato paste, anchovies and mushrooms on pizza in order given. Sprinkle with oregano salt, pepper and Parmesan cheese. Cover and bake about 30 minutes, or until dough is done. Cut in squares and serve hot.

Variations: Substitute 1-2 pound pure pork sausage meat with small amounts of sage and thyme added, for Italian sausage. 2), Substitute 1 cup American cheese, grated for Mozzarella cheese. 3), Substitute for yeast dough, 1 biscuit dough made with 1 1-2 cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons shortening and 1-2 cup milk. Continue as above.

Let stand for 10 minutes then stir. When milk has cooled to lukewarm add dissolved liquid to it.) Scald milk and cool to luke-warm. Add crumbled yeast, in another bowl, combine salt, shortening and boiling water. When shortening is melted add mixture lukewarm, combine with yeast mixture. Add half of the flour and mix well. 37 Resolutions Presented by C of C Delegation

TORONTO (CP)—The Northwestern Ontario Associated Chambers of Commerce Thursday asked the government to enact legislation calling for all persons responsible for a shooting accident to be charged with criminal negligence.

This was one of 37 resolutions presented to Premier Frost and the Ontario cabinet. The 43-member delegation — representing 20 chambers of commerce from the White River district to the Manitoba border—flew in from Fort William Wednesday night by chartered plane.

Such accidents, the delegation said, are indicative that the persons responsible, while claiming their right to carry firearms, are not accepting the responsibility accompanying such a right.

The group also pressed for better highways and transportation facilities in the north. It said it was seriously concerned that a considerable portion of the Trans-Canada Highway between Manitoba and the Lakehead is still not up to federal specifications.

ROADS URGENTLY NEEDED

This is extremely urgent, the delegation said, because the St. Lawrence Seaway is now open and the Lake Superior highway route from Sault Ste. Marie to the Lakehead is to be completed by 1960.

A resolution urged the highways department to call tenders for all unfinished portions of the Trans-Canada Highway to take advantage of a federal subsidy which will be paid out at the end of 1960.

The delegation urged the government to complete at the earliest possible date Highway 130 from Fort Frances to Atikokan for the tourist trade which uses the Great River road coming in from New Orleans.

Other resolutions called for the construction of access and connecting roads. "In some cases so-called connecting roads crossing Crown lands could be used, in whole or in part, as a base for access roads.

BYPASS 'ROADS NECESSARY'

The group also came out strongly for bypass roads in the north, providing there are limited access roads into towns and cities. It named Kenora as a town that suffers a traffic bottleneck because of the absence of bypass roads.

One important resolution called for the government to find a substitute for calcium chloride, which when spread on roads is injurious to cars. The substitute must give "the same results from a safety standpoint" without the undesirable properties of calcium chloride.

Seven resolutions were directed to the department of lands and forests. Among them were requests for a fish hatchery in the Sioux Lookout district, forestry extension agents to assist farmers and operators of woodlots, and a removal of the logging tax.

Logging taxes are "discriminatory taxation", the delegation said, because pulp and paper profits are taxed a total of 53.6 to 55 per cent, including corporation taxes. The industry is still facing a critical period of growth and yet is one of the biggest taxpayers.

BETTER FREIGHT RATES

Because more tourist accommodation is needed in the north, a resolution said, the government should allow the owner of building sites on leased Crown land to purchase the land after five years, providing all requirements have been fulfilled.

The delegation also stressed that the government should give assistance to Northern Ontario in obtaining a "freight rate structure more conducive to the expansion of industry." There are definitely "inequities in freight rates," it said.

The government was also strongly urged to consider methods of financial assistance to northern municipalities for the purpose of constructing and operating landing strips adequate for small private aircraft.

Few landing facilities exist in northwestern Ontario, the resolution said. These are imperative because of the great distances between communities and the ever-increasing number of private and non-scheduled aircraft flying into the territory.

Another resolution called for the federal government to erect satellite television stations in locations to assure TV reception in all areas.

"Rapid engineering developments . . . have indicated it is now possible to provide over 80 per cent of the population of northwestern Ontario with television facilities at a reasonable cost in comparison with the essentiality of the service provided," the resolution stated.

INDIAN LEARNS CRAFT — India, straining to keep production increasing faster than population as it enters the 1960s, has embarked on a program of teaching natives how to earn a livelihood. Here, at a training centre near New Delhi, a woman learns the art of doll-making. (CP Photo).

RISING RICE FIELDS — A rapidly increasing population and economic development to meet it are among the major challenges for India in the new decade. More food was grown in 1959 but population increased more than expected, balancing out the larger harvests. This is a view of rice fields in Cashmir. Each field rises gradually from the other, forming this eye-catching pattern. (CP Photo).

India Forced to Turn Away From Farm Development To Protect Chinese Borders

By PETER JACKSON

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — The ominous shadow of China loomed over India's northern borders as the country stood on the threshold of a momentous decade.

The year 1959 saw relations between the world's two most populous nations change from cold, suspicious friendship to bitter recrimination as Chinese troops suppressed the Tibetan revolt and encroached on India's borders.

To the economic rivalry of China, as champion of the Communist way of development, and India, as champion of the democratic way, was added a fear which diverted India's attention to military preparations to ensure her security.

INDUSTRIAL BUILDUP

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru took up the challenge. While ordering the Indian army and air force to secure the frontiers he turned the Chinese military threat into a spur for economic development and the build-up of India's heavy industries to ensure the country's strength.

The 1960s in India will show: 1. Whether parliamentary democracy can carry through the gigantic task of economic development necessary for its own survival.

2. Whether the economic foundations laid in the 1950s were sound.

On the economic points 1959 was a good year for India. More food was grown than ever before; industrial production rose by six per cent; three giant steel plants built by Britain, Germany and the Soviet Union) began operations.

But 1959 was also a year in which population increased faster than had been estimated, mopping up the benefits of development. While national income rose by 5.2 per cent in the last three years, population increased by about five per cent to an estimated 420,000,000. Thus the per capita income of Indians remained virtually static at about 285 rupees (about $60) per annum.

This rapid increase in population is one of the biggest challenges to Indian development. By 1965 Indians are expected to number nearly 480,000,000, who will require 110,000,000 tons of foodgrains. Last year's record production of 73,000,000 tons was in a good year.

Nehru believes that co-operative farming is the answer but his campaign for voluntary agricultural co-operatives has provoked the growth of a right-wing opposition party which has attracted some of Nehru's Congress party supporters.

The Communists—though overwhelmed by Congress they are still India's second largest party—suffered great embarrassment in 1959 as a result of Tibet and later when Indian and Chinese troops clashed on the Himalayan border.

In the south Indian state of Kerala two years of Communist rule came to an end with Delhi's dismissal of the state government on the grounds that it was incapable of maintaining law and order.

RED VOTE UP

New elections there this month indicated the Communists had not lost popular support although they won only 26 of the 126 seats in the legislative assembly compared with 93 for an anti-communist alliance of Nehru's Congress party, the Praja Socialists and Moslem League. The Communists got 42.5 per cent of the vote, an increase over the 40 per cent they won when they gained power in 1957.

Nehru, despite more vocal criticism of his foreign and domestic policies than ever before, remains firmly at the head of the country and deep in the affections of its people.

He is 70 but as fit and active as on many years as his junior. However, the question "After Nehru — what?" increasingly agitates Indian minds.

One thing is certain: There is no leader of comparable stature to take his place. His passing would be the end of an era.

Morarji Desai, the austere-minded minister of finance, is strongly tipped as a future prime minister, but despite his great administrative ability he lacks electoral appeal. It seems likely there will first be a swing to the right in Indian policy after Nehru, which might be followed by a reaction to the left.

MEETING WITH CHOU

Nehru is likely to meet Chinese prime minister Chou En-lai during 1960 in an attempt to solve the border problem. Despite this, Nehru and the country are preparing for a long drawn out dispute with China over the 48,000 square miles in dispute and on top of India's defence costs arising from the Kashmir dispute with Pakistan, arms spending is likely to increase this year.

This leaves India can ill afford. India's need is for economic development — a third five-year plan will be published soon—and the productive wherewithal to stand on its own feet.

At present the trading account is running in the red and both East and West are pumping economic aid into the subcontinent. American aid so far totals $2,000,000,000. Russia's credits so far total the equivalent of $185,000,000 and Moscow has offered a like sum for the next five - year plan. Aid has also come from Britain, West Germany and Japan.

Despite the achievements of 1959, independent commentators have expressed misgivings about India's economic health. The cotton textile industry, one of the biggest in India, has been working far below capacity. The key cement industry has also had considerable idle capacity. There have been sugar and steel shortages.

IMPORTS FROM U.S.

The United States headed the list of India's suppliers for the first time last year, with Britain and Germany in second and third places. Britain remained India's best customer.

Prices offer a further complication. The first four years of the second five-year plan have seen a 30-per-cent rise in prices, which is blamed mainly on deficit financing resorted to for development. The Government is hoping to tackle rising food prices by establishing, with the aid of the United States, a 5,000,000 - ton "food bank."

Despite the trials of Chinese hostility and economic problems Indians, however, feel reassured by the friendship and support of many great nations. The Soviet Union has been neutral in the border dispute, and President Eisenhower's visit last December was taken as evidence of American sympathy.

But even with this comfort and with the assurance of economic aid, Indians realize that the coming decade means continued austerity and redoubled effort to assure the future of their country and success of democracy's greatest experiment in Asia.

ANCIENT DEVICE

Cymbals, pairs of thin, round metal plates still used in modern orchestras, were known to the ancient Egyptians.

Squaw Valley 'Confusion' Said Exaggerated

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Province quotes Canadian athletes at Squaw Valley, Calif., as saying that reports about complaints concerning conditions for the Winter Olympic Games were exaggerations.

Ernie Goman of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen has only one complaint, the newspaper said after a telephone interview Thursday night with Canadian athletes at Squaw Valley. It quoted Goman, manager of Canada's hockey representatives, as saying:

"When we arrived, they seemed to have the idea that hockey is a secondary sport to figure skating, but it's the biggest spectator attraction at the Olympics."

The Province said all Canadians interviewed agreed that stories of confusion at Squaw Valley were exaggerated.

Goman said the American organizing committee is doing its best and when the Canadians had a complaint "we only had to make it once then they did something about it."

ICE IMPROVED

Goman, Granville Mayall of Vancouver, coach of Canada's skating team, and skater Robert Paul of Toronto said the ice now is acceptable.

Goman said the storms had blown twigs and pebbles on to the ice of the outside rink which made it pretty tough earlier in the week.

"As a result we have the best conditioned team down here. Skating on the rough ice just set up our boys."

Mayall said the Canadians are happy with the quarters and all agreed the food and hospitality are excellent.

Barons Again Defeat Aces

QUEBEC (CP)—Cleveland Barons enhanced their playoff chances by sweeping a two-game series with Quebec Aces, winning the second game here within three days 8-3 Thursday night before 4,200 fans.

Fred Glover, top American League scorer, fattened his average with two goals and two assists. Don Hogan picked up two goals and one assist. Earl Ingarfield — who scored three goals Tuesday night — collected three assists. Scoring singles were Pat Hoekstra, Greig Hicks, Danny Blair and Aldo Guidolin.

Jean Marie Cossette scored two goals for Aces, Georges Roy the third.

It was an easy win for the Barons, battling desperately for a playoff berth. They closed in on Providence, whom they trail only by one point, and remain three points behind Hull-Ott. They hold games in hand over both teams in the scramble for fourth spot, second last.

Several minor skirmishes broke out during the game.

Bill Red Hay Spark Plug Of Chihawks

NEW YORK (AP)—Four years ago, Bill (Red) Hay was one of the key players on the NCAA champion Colorado College hockey team. Today, he's the outstanding rookie in the National League and one of the major reasons the Chicago Black Hawks are climbing in the standings.

"I never thought I'd make the grade this season," he said Thursday. "I figured I was still a year or two away. The best break I got was when Montreal sold me to Chicago. I never could have caught on with Canadiens. They have too many good players."

The 24-year-old centre played for a junior team in Regina before attending the University of Saskatchewan and later Colorado College.

Hay thinks it still will be quite a while before American colleges develop players capable of playing in the big professional league. Hay was voted the National League's leading rookie for the first half of the season. He has scored 13 goals and 25 assists.

Pomp, Pageantry Mark Opening Of Winter Olympics

OLYMPICS HOCKEY

To clear up some of the confusion around town regarding starting time of the opening games of the Olympics hockey today, official word from Squaw Valley at noon said that Canada will meet Sweden starting 9.30 tonight. And if you are interested Russia meets Germany, starting midnight.

Manager Frank Murray of CJBQ said today his station will carry the play-by-play of the Canada-Sweden game after the McFarlands-Chatham game is finished.

The Canada-Japan game scheduled to start tomorrow evening at seven p.m. will go on the air locally at eight o'clock.

CHUCK CHUCKLES

Chuck Dressen, who backs from no one, not even the Ole Perfesser, Casey Stengel, when it comes to rubbing one word against another, was handed it by his voluble best the other day.

Chuck was discussing guile in baseball, the gimmicks that separate winners from losers most of the time.

"One day in Brooklyn," stated Chuck, "we were in trouble late in the ball game, and I needed relief from the bullpen right away. I had Clyde King warming up, but he wasn't hot enough.

"I looked out to the mound as slow as I could, but Barlick, the umpire, yelled for me to make up my mind and get somebody in there. There was nothing I could do. I waved in King and then waved Robinson and Reese in to the mound."

"When we all got there, I turned to Pee Wee and said: "After he's thrown eight warm-up pitches, you call time and grab your eye like you got something in it. You, Jackie, when Pee Wee does that, you hustle over and help him get that thing out of his eye."

"I figure," Chuck went on, "this ought to give King a few more pitches, but I've been figuring wrong. He threw the eight pitches all right and Pee Wee yells time. Jackie runs over to get Pee Wee's eye. What does King do? He stops warming up, lays his glove on the mound and runs over to help Jackie get the speck out of Pee Wee's eye."

But despite this wackiness, Dressen has a warm loyalty to "that ole Brooklyn bunch. They were one of the slickest teams that ever pulled a boner. That Pee Wee pulled off more tricks than you could shake a stick at."

"But," he said thoughtfully, "there are two or three rockheads for every college graduate in baseball."

"I had this catcher in Washington," he said. "He wasn't a bad ballplayer, but every time there was a base runner on second and he was behind the plate, I knew damn well they were going to read his signs."

"No matter how I pleaded with him, he just couldn't seem to understand he had to hide his signals to the pitcher better. Way he was giving them, just about everybody in the park knew what the next pitch was going to be. . . . . .

"I told him off one day, and he came right back at me. I came back at him and fined him a few hundred. Then, the next day, he came over to me and said: 'Look, I got a way to give signs so that base runners on second aren't going to get wise. This time I got 'em slickered, but good.'

"You have?" I said. "How do you do it?"

"'Well,' he says, 'it's easy. I just wait until that base runner on second ain't lookin', then I flash the sign quick'."

Dressen turned from reminiscing and plunged into a more serious subject, who was going to win the National League pennant.

According to the Milwaukee mentor, the experts who spend the winter months assaying the pennant race are reasonably right.

"You've got to say the Dodgers will be tough," Chuck said. "They won last year didn't they? That kid Sherry is all right. He got 'em out and that is what pitchers are supposed to do."

He thinks the National League will be no bed of roses for managers this year. "It's going to be awful tough for there are no soft touches in our league. On any given day somebody is going to knock you over at the wrong time. I see all the teams improved, but I'm glad my club is the Braves. I've got that Hank Aaron and I've got a feeling he scares some pitchers half to death."

Colorful Canadians Feature Parade of World Athletes; Dutchmen Play Swedes 9.30

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP) —Canada's delightful world pairs figure - skating champions, Bob Paul and Barbara Wagner, were the experts' choice to win a gold medal as the Winter Olympics got down to actual competition today.

Team manager Granville Mayall of Vancouver, who also is president of the Canadian Figure-Skating Association, gave the Canadians a solid plug.

"I don't see any reason why we can't place one-two in the pairs, and the men's singles should be close, a battle all the way between Canada and the United States," Mayall said.

The spectacular Paul and Miss Wagner, world champions for the last three years and sixth in the 1956 Olympics at Cortina, Italy when they were just really getting started, should win the gold medal, Mayall added, closely followed by the young brother-sister team of Otto and Maria Jelinek of Oakville.

DIGNIFIED OPENING

The organizers of the Games, which have been fouled up by squabbles, injuries, floods and too much snow, let their record for the good reaction to Thursday's opening ceremonies.

The ceremonies were so dignified and moving that almost everyone forgot the ice and almost were lavish in their praise. If the weatherman can solve problems the Games still could be a magnificent show.

The weather bureau said it would be partly cloudy today with a high of 40 at mid-day.

Forty-eight long-distance skiers were entered in the 30-kilometre cross - country at McKinney Creek. 17 miles from here. This figured to be a battle among Finland's Veikko Hakulinen, the defending champion; Sixten Jernberg of Sweden, Hallgeir Brenden of Norway and Arto Tiainen, another Finnish star. Pavel Kolchin, the Russian ace, was withdrawn because of a cold and fever.

The Canadian figure - skaters who're set to open at 1:30 p.m. EST at the $3,500,000 Blyth ice palace.

These were the only championships scheduled today following the pushing-back of the men's downhill race to Feb. 22 because of Thursday's heavy snowfall.

THREE HOCKEY GAMES

The hockey program starts at 7 p.m. EST with the clash of United States facing Czechoslovakia. At 9:30 p.m., Canada's favored Kitchener-Waterloo-Dutchmen meet a strong Swedish side and at midnight Russia's defending champions take on Germany.

In the figure - skating pairs, Paul and Miss Wagner and the Jelinecks were expected to receive their gifts from competition from the American championship husband-wife duo of Ronald and Nancy Ludington and the German teen-age tandem of Hans Baruteler and Marika Killius.

Bobby Bauer, coach of the Dutchmen, was quietly confident Canada would regain the hockey title it lost to Russia in the 1956 Games.

"We are stronger in goal, and on defence and have a much more solid forward line," said Bauer who also coached the Kitchener entry in 1956. "We are in as good condition as any team here," he added.

THREE POOLS

Nine countries have hockey teams in the Olympic tournament. There are three pools of three countries each. Under a round-robin system the top two teams in each pool will reach a six-country round-robin final. Canada is in a group with Sweden and Japan.

Bauer said that he would announce his starting goalie tonight. He has a choice between Joseph Bibeau, the Dutchmen's regular netminder, or Cliff Heidt, who joined the team from Windsor of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association this week.

The defensive combinations will be Harry Sinden and Jack Douglas and Moe Benoit and Darryl Sly.

Bauer, who watched the Russians practice, said they have a strong club, "but they seem to want to carry the puck more as individuals—not a passing unit as they've played previously."

The Canadian Olympic team made a colorful showing in the parade of athletes that opened the Winter spectacle Thursday. They were dressed in dark Cossack hats and rainbow - hued mackinaws all white with large green, red, yellow and black trim.

INCHES OF SNOW

The ceremony was run off to the tune of 21 inches of snow and an 11-inch snowfall, that started early Thursday and could be a real paralyzing blow to the organizers' plans.

But the sun burst through the overcast and the snow stopped falling until the parading athletes marched out of the ice palace. Then it began coming again.

Many of the foreign contingents feared the opening ceremony here in Squaw Valley would be a real extravaganza, gaudy and in poor taste. What was over - some said it was the best they had ever seen.

15,000 ATTEND

Despite traffic snarls caused by the heavy snowfall, some 15,000 spectators somehow managed to reach this tiny valley nestled in the Sierra mountains.

Vice-President Richard Nixon braved the blizzard-like mountain roads, the last 46 miles of a 2,- 603-mile journey from Washington, to say just a few words:

"I now declare open the Olympic Games of Squaw Valley," he intoned, quoting the eighth Winter Olympiad.

Two former U.S. Olympic champions, Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence of Rutland, Vt., and Carol Heiss, the world figure skating queen, starred in the most dramatic moments of the spectacle.

TORCH BEARERS

Mrs. Lawrence, bare headed and carrying the Olympic torch in her raised right hand, carefully skied down little Papoose Mountain to hand the flame to Heiss. The former speed skating champion slowly circled the snow - covered outdoor skating rink, mounted the platform of the Olympic cauldron and formally ignited the Olympic flame. The flame burned both day and night until the Games end Sunday, Feb. 28.

Miss Heiss, 20-year-old blonde and the choice to win a gold medal, carried the Olympic oath on behalf of all of the athletes.

The Olympic ceremonies ever to have the honor of taking the oath.

The pageantry was directed by Walt Disney. It included the singing a choir of 2,645 voices, 1,285 instrumentalists from 32 California and Nevada high schools, the uncaging of 2,000 pigeons, "doves of peace," and the firing of cannon.

Three Rinks Share Top Spot In Ontario Curling Tourney

WELLAND (CP) — The pre-tournament favorites are Kingston Toronto Tam O'Shanter and Ottawa — each scored three wins Thursday to share first place in the Ontario curling championships after five rounds of play. That made a playoff appear almost a certainty at the completion of the seven-game round-robin tournament.

If there is one, it will be the first since 1955 when the province's representative in the Canadian championships lost only one game in the provincial playoffs. Since then, the winners have been undefeated.

The three top rinks have 4-1 records. Kitchener follows with three wins and two losses, Huntsville and Sarnia have two wins and three losses. Owen Sound has won one game and Dundas has lost all five.

Thursday, the Tam O'Shanter rink, skipped by two-time Canadian schoolboy champion Barry Secord; from Saskatoon, returned to the almost flawless form it had displayed earlier. The rink won 12-4 against Sarnia's Jim Fleet, 13-6 over Les Stopps of Dundas and 9-5 against Owen Sound's Gord Black.

The Tam O'Shanter rink stayed away from its first-day knockout form and stuck to draw shot to pile up points. It defeated Owen Sound 9-5 in the fifth and Dundas 16-2 in the sixth.

Ottawa defeated Dundas 16-8, winning the competition's first extra-end game 11-8 against Sarnia earlier, and also defeating Gord Lecraw of Kingston rink in the same score in the fifth round. Ottawa got three in the seventh and Leverton alternated in point getting with Ottawa gaining three in the second and Lecraw while holding Huntsville to singles in all but the 10th and 12th ends.

Fleet had a disastrous day, losing all three games. Against Ottawa, a 7-5 lead evaporated on the last three ends and Fleet had to force the extra end with his last shot in the 12th.

Kitchener's Nowak clobbered Dundas 17-6 in the fifth round, but lost to Huntsville 7-5 in the fourth. Nowak beat Owen Sound 11-5 in the third round.

Kingston's Jake Edwards turned close games into one-sided victories, outscoring Huntsville 6-1 on, a three-end stand midway through a 13-8 victory in the third round. Edwards ran up a 10-0 lead against Owen Sound at a similar stage to win 13-4, and pulled away from Sarnia with four shots on the last three ends to win 14-6.

Two Rinks Tied For Lead in School Curling

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — The 1960 Canadian high school curling championships head into the final two rounds today stacking the eventual winner still very much a hazardous game.

Alberta and Northern Ontario, undefeated, receive the leading stes. However, Tommy Kroeger's Stettler rink appeared to have a slight edge over Northern Ontario's Ken Davis.

After losing two of their first three games, the Alberta team won five in a row, mostly by handy margins. Alberta's last two opponents are Quebec and Newfoundland, the teams at the bottom of the standings, each with only one win in eight matches.

Northern Ontario meets Quebec in tonight's final round but faces Nova Scotia, which has a 5-4 record, this afternoon. Also, Northern Ontario would be off form in losing to Alberta 10-6 Thursday.

Not completely eliminated from the title hunt are Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Prince Edward Island, all with 5-3 records.

In case a tie for the championship is called after the 11th round ends tonight, a playoff game will be played tomorrow. Officials have not decided what will be done if there is a deadlock between three or four teams.

12-8 in the third round.

Kingston's Jake Edwards turned close games into one-sided victories, outscoring Huntsville 6-1 on, a three-end stand midway through a 13-8 victory in the third round. Edwards ran up a 10-0 lead against Owen Sound at a similar stage to win 13-4, and pulled away from Sarnia with four shots on the last three ends to win 14-6.

Last-Second Goal Gives Red Wings Tie With Habs

Pull-Goalie Strategy Works As Ullman Fires Big One After Team Blew Goal Lead

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Norm Ullman's 19th goal, a last - second effort that caught Montreal goaltender Jacques Plante cold, gave Detroit Red Wings a 3-3 tie with the Canadiens in Thursday night's only National Hockey League action.

The 24-year-old centre beat the masked Plante cleanly with a 20-foot shot.

The Red Wings goaler Dennis Riggin, a replacement for the ailing Terry Sawchuk, was benched with 20 seconds to go—and it worked:

Detroit went ahead in the first period on goals by Gary Aldcorn and Jack McKenzie, but Henri Richard and Ralph Backstrom scored in the second.

Phil Goyette outfoxed Riggin in the third with what looked like the winning goal until 19:59.

The result gave Montreal a 16-point lead over second-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

BOTTOM CLUBS CLOSE

Detroit, Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks each have 54 points. New York Rangers trail with 36.

Detroit, however, has one game in hand over the Bruins and Black Hawks.

With a full six-game weekend coming up, the jam may be loosened quickly.

Saturday night, New York is at Montreal, Chicago is at Toronto and injury-racked Boston goes to Detroit.

It's Montreal at Detroit, Toronto at Chicago and Boston at New York Sunday.

A Montreal Forum crowd of 14,908 saw Detroit force Plante to handle 34 shots to Riggin's four in the first period before Canadiens recovered to hold a lead in play the rest of the game. Both goalers made 28 saves.

West Bromwich Fans Rocked As Team Trains in Ballroom

LONDON (CP) — The soccer tourists of West Bromwich Albion rocked this week by the news that the Albion players are including the cha-cha in their training scheme.

Albion manager Gordon Clark solemnly explained that Saturday's fifth-round Football Association Cup match at Leicester is likely to present the Albion players with the dance-floor conditions of an ice-covered pitch. So he took the boys to a ballroom, put on a stack of records and put them through their training routine.

Although the Albion has dropped only one point in six matches, Leicester goes into the match buoyed by a heartening victory over Tottenham Hotspur last Saturday on the league-leaders' home ground.

Tottenham, at home again to Blackburn Rovers, is favored to dispose of the Lancashire side, which has an indifferent record on the road, and many of the other cup ties also offer form players a cut-and-dried appearance.

One favorite with a troublesome assignment is Burnley. The first division runners - up visit Bradford City, where a snow-covered pitch and a good third division side offer all the ingredients of a typical cup upset.

The lowliest survivor, fourth-division Watford, may be overmatched at Sheffield United by Port Vale of the Third Division has home territory and wintry weather in its favor against Aston Villa, the second-division leaders.

INTERESTING DUEL

Perhaps the most interesting match of the round sends up-and-coming Sheffield Wednesday against Manchester United at Old Trafford. The Busby babes are not having one of their best seasons but they may be sustained by the memory of a cup match two years ago when United, shattered by the disaster at Munich, defeated Wednesday on the same ground.

Luton Town, apparently doomed to relegation from the First Division, entertains Wolverhampton Wanderers and Preston North End sit at home to second-division Charlton and Hove Albion in the two other matches.

CANADIAN LOSES

LONDON (Reuters) — Mrs. Hanna Sladek of Montreal was decisively beaten 6-0, 6-0 by Angela Mortimer, Britain's joint No. 2 seeded player, in the quarter-finals of the women's singles in the British covered court tennis championships Thursday.

Archie, Kearns Seek Aid From United Nations

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jack Kearns asked the United Nations Thursday to join him and his fighter, Archie Moore, in a war on the National Boxing Association.

When the NBA did Archie, "a Negro in the world," the indignity of lifting his light heavyweight championship for not defending it, Kearns said, that makes it the business of the UN.

Kearns made his feelings known in a telegram to Henry Cabot Lodge, United States representative to the UN.

"I know Archie Moore," he said, "that the high-handed action by the National Boxing Association, in depriving Archie Moore of the light heavyweight championship, is a blow to freedom which properly concerns your organization.

"Moore has boxed all over the world for years. He has served as a boxing good-will ambassador to the sports loving people in dozens of countries and in hundreds of cities. As well respected popular American citizen, he is none the less a citizen of the world.

"I hereby submit that such a true internationalist should not be subject to personal indignities at the hands of livelihood through the petty tyrannies of this organization and its dictator president Anthony Mazzerol (Marzano).

"In the interest of fair play the world over and the furthering of democratic procedures, will you kindly grant me and my fighter, Mr. Moore, an audience at the earliest possible convenience!"

EXTEND DEADLINE

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—The National Boxing Association has granted world welterweight champion Don Jordan of Los Angeles additional time for defense of his title.

NBA president Anthony Mazzeroni said he had received word from the California Athletic Commissioner that another week or 10 days will be needed for a final report on Jordan's physical condition.

Jordan's time for a title bout would have expired today under the NBA's six-months rule for title defence.

Canucks Given Outside Chance In Ski Race

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP) —The Servold brothers, Clarence and Irwin, of Camrose, Alta., vie today in the 30-kilometre cross-country ski race for the first gold medal of the 1960 Winter Olympic Games.

They were given only outside chances. Two Scandinavians were the favorites, Sweden's Sixten Jernberg and Finland's Veikko Hakulinen have been durable rivals in the marathon events of winter sport and they figure to continue their rivalry here.

Hakulinen beat Jernberg by 24 seconds in winning the 30-kilometre gold medal in the 1956 Olympics at Cortina, Italy. But Jernberg won the race in the North American games here last winter, beating Hakulinen by less than a minute.

SORE OUTRIGS

With almost a foot of fresh snow falling Thursday, the McKinsey Creek course—12 miles south of Squaw Valley—may be a little soft and slow.

But Wendell Broomhall, chief of the race, promised that snow tractors packing rollers would have the course in shape.

The ski tracks for the race will be freshly set about an hour before the start.

The Scandinavian teams, in which most of the world's top cross-country skiers are concentrated, have had about 10 days to adjust to the mountain air. They are accustomed to racing at altitudes of less than 2,000 feet.

WELL DOWN IN 1956

The Servold brothers are Canada's only entries in the race. Clarence, 32, finished 37th in the 30-kilometre event in the 1956 Olympics and was 41st in the 15-kilometre and 22nd in the 50-kilometre races.

He won the North American cross-country championships in 1955-56 and was 17th in the 15-metre title in 1958.

Irwin, 28, also competed in the 1956 games and finished 27th in the nordic combined.

Wolves Beaten By Soo Birds; Lions Claw Hull

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds moved into the Eastern Professional Hockey League playoff race Thursday night when they defeated first - place Sudbury Wolves 7-4 and grabbed fourth place.

The Thunderbirds have three wins and four ties in their last eight games.

At Trois-Rivieres, 1,200 fans saw the Lions come from behind twice to whip Hull-Ottawa Canadiens 6-3.

The win left Trois - Rivieres third, three points behind Montreal Royals. Hull-Ottawa is last, a point behind Kingston Frontenacs and two points back of Sault Ste. Marie.

COMEBACK FAILS

Visiting Sudbury made a spirited fight before scoring four unanswered goals late in the second period, after trailing 6-0 at one stage.

Cummy Burton scored two goals for Sudbury, Cleland Mortson and Tom McCarthy rounded out the Wolves' scoring. Mortson's goal was his 20th of the season making him the seventh 20-goal scorer on the Sudbury team.

McCarthy drew a 10 - minute misconduct penalty when he struck a hard shot at the stick after it was grabbed.

Gerry Desaniers with two goals and Bob Sabourin, Jean Paul Denis, Sandy McGregor and Dave Balon with one each scored for Trois-Rivieres. The Hull-Ottawa scorers were Bob Corey, Gilles Tremblay and Yves Locas.

Cohn Request For Licence Is Delayed

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Cohn's fight group may get an answer today on its application for a licence to promote the Ingemar Johansson - Floyd Patterson heavyweight title rematch in New York.

The New York State Athletic Commission has called a hearing for today. All interested parties to attending presumably will include officers of the new corporation, known as Feature Sports, Inc. and Bill Rosensohn, who promoted the first fight.

Impatient at delays, members of Cohn's group met Wednesday night with Joe Walker, New Jersey athletic commissioner, and made an informal application to promote in that state, presumably in Jr sey City's Roosevelt Stadium.

You Need Trickery, Intrigue To Gatecrash Squaw Valley

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Squaw Valley was set up as an arena for international sports, but there's a growing suspicion it might better serve as a proving ground for international spies.

The site of the 1960 Winter Olympics is so heavily guarded that even rumors have a tough time getting around.

"This place," said one official "is harder to get into than Cape Canaveral."

Somebody suggested that if all the guards left the valley, there wouldn't be enough people left to organize a game of solitaire.

A person driving into the valley is stopped at least a half dozen times before he reaches the heart of the Olympic area. Guards check his parking passes. Other guards check his passes at the ice arena, the press building, the office buildings. All in all, there are about as many passes as Sammy Baugh threw during his entire career.

The reason is to keep athletes and some officials from being driven nuts by reporters. And the result has been one of the most colossal campaigns of trickery since the Trojans came up with their hollow horse.

One reporter for example, got into the Olympic village by feigning complete ignorance of English and mumbling something to the guard in what was intended to sound like Russian. The guard, thinking the reporter must be an athlete, let him pass.

Still others have resorted to the obvious ruse of doctoring their passes.

When Vice - President Nixon toured the area Thursday some newspaper men got into the village by walking alongside the cars in his party, assuming the air of secret service men.

McFarlands Defeat Queen's In Exhibition Hockey Game

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Quinte Association for Retarded Children Building Fund will be in the vicinity of $700 richer today as the result of the Lions-sponsored exhibition hockey tilt here last night between Belleville McFarlands and Queen's University.

A spokesman for the Lions Club said following the game, which the Macs won over Queen's Golden Gaels 10-4, that 720 tickets were sold for the game, although somewhat less than that number was in attendance.

Suitable opening ceremonies were conducted, with sponsor H. J. McFarland speaking on behalf of the Macs and coach Keith "Moon" Flanigan representing the Gaels. Thanks were given to the club, the players, referees Ted Hurst and Tim Williams and a number of others who donated their services for the charitable game.

And to help along the festivities the smart Trenton 6BD band was in attendance through the courtesy of the commanding officer, and a draw for the door prize was won by the holder of the ticket number 4926.

Turnbull, Mac hockey-playing department, the Macs took a 1-0 first period lead and boosted the rest of the way. They trusted goalies with the first period, divided four goals with Queen's, but the middle here outscored them again 2-1 in the third. Only five minor penalties were called, all in the Macs.

Bart Brakley, Jean-Paul Payette and Denis Boucher topped the Macs with two goals and two assists apiece while Eddie Marineau also potted two goals. Lionel Boily and Ronnie Muir had a goal and two assists apiece while Keith MacDonald earned three assists, Lee Senfke two, Ken Gribbons and Dave Jones one each.

Billy Colvin and Darryl McKenzie had a goal and assist each for the Gaels while Howard Green and Ian Morris also scored. Sanderson, Shearn, Hampton and Carnegie drew assists.

Despite the number of goals scored, Tom O'Halloran, who played for his own club in the first period, then changed places with Bob Senior at the end of the first period, made a number of impressive saves.

Belleville Macs: Senior, O'Halloran, Chaszewski, Boily, Crawford, Marineau, Youngberg, Gribbons, Payette, Brakley, Muir, Boucher, Jones, MacDonald, Bradley.

Referees: Tim Williams and Ted Hurst.

Cubs Upset Marlies 7-5; Petes Nip Teeps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Wayne Connelly of Peterborough Petes, tied for first place in goal-scoring and pressing for the third in total points, notched another three goals Thursday night as Ontario Hockey Association Junior A action.

Connelly, who also got an assist, lifted Petes to a 3-2 victory over St. Catharines TeePees at Peterborough. The Petes now have one point behind Toronto St. Michael's and St. Catharines, tied for the third place.

At Hamilton, last-place Tiger Cubs upset league-leading Toronto Marlboros 7-5 before 1,416 fans.

The fast, clean game at Peterborough saw TeePees ahead 2-1 after the first period but the Petes turned the tide 3-2 in the second.

TEAMS IN A ROW

Connelly scored the last three Peterborough goals. Reg Mulholland and Tim Roberts got the others. Connelly's scoring rival, Chico Maki of TeePees, got an assist. Ralph Backstrom, Ron Stapleton scored St. Catharines' goals, Ray Cullen in the middle here, who leads in goals with Connelly, was held scoreless.

The TeePees were coached by Rudy Pilous of Chicago Black Hawks as Max Kaminsky was in quarantine. The game was watched by 2,256 fans.

At Hamilton, Larry Jeffrey scored for the Tiger Cubs 11 seconds after the opening whistle. Bob Pond scored two goals and Jeffrey, Bert Templeton, Keith Walsh, Neil Forth and Lowell MacDonald added singles for Hamilton.

Jim Pappin notched two for Marlboros with others going to Rick Hay, Sonny Osborne and Jack Martin.

Harney Tops Tucson Open

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Paul Harney dropped a 20-foot putt for an eagle on the last hole Thursday to take a one-stroke lead in the $22,000 Tucson open golf tournament.

The long hitter concentrated on putting to knock six strokes off par with 34-30—64 for the 6,413-yard El Rio Country Club course.

Gene Littler, the defending champion, and Arnold Palmer, recent winner at Palm Springs, were in a seven-man traffic jam with five-under-par 65s.

Among the top 30 was Toronto's Moe Norman, one of the 14 who turned in a 69.

Blues May Get Hank Bassen To Replace Injured Worsley

By VON MANCUSI-UNGARO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Rangers, deep in the National Hockey League cellar and with little chance of making the playoffs, are leaning towards Hank Bassen of Vancouver Canucks as a replacement for Lorne (Gump) Worsley, their injured goalier who is out for the season.

But general manager Muzz Patrick doesn't want to weaken the Canucks in the Western Hockey League playoffs and probably will call up the 27 - year - old Bassen, a native of Calgary, only if he can't find another prospect good enough to fill Worsley's shoes.

This was the gist of the explanation Ned Irish, president of Madison Square Garden, gave to sports writers at a hockey luncheon Thursday. The Rangers must have a goalie in time for Saturday night's game against the Canadiens in Montreal.

There were rumors that Patrick might try to pry veteran Al Rollins loose from Winnipeg Warriors, who are out of the WHL playoffs. Rollins, 33, has had lots of NHL experience with Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs.

Except for Bassen, the only other goaltender in the Rangers' farm system being considered is Marcel Paille of Springfield Indians in the American Hockey League. When Worsley was in a slump earlier this season the Rangers sent him to Springfield and gave Paille a chance in the big time, but Paille didn't make it and it wasn't long before the Gumper was back doing business at the old stand, porous defence and all.

AT THE McCARTHY—Silent crowd gazes at a Salvation Army banner that carries futile message for a society that is soon to perish in the wake of atomic fallout. Scene is from the highly dramatic film "On the Beach", produced and directed by Stanley Kramer now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre through United Artists release. The implication is that the sign is far from futile for us.

AT THE PARK — Dorothy Malone with Richard Widmark, Henry Fonda, Anthony Quinn and Dolores Michaels in the Technicolor attraction "Warlock" which opens today at the Park Theatre. The first feature on the same program Fanny Laurel and Harry in the zany comedy "Great Guns", show starts Saturday at 1.00 p.m.

AT THE PARK — Laurel and Hardy (Fat and Skinny) the funniest comedy team of all time, appear in the hilarious army hit "Great Guns", showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. On the same program out-door motion picture entertainment at its best lightning and thunder excitement "Warlock", in CinemaScope and Technicolor starring Richard Widmark, Henry Fonda, Anthony Quinn, Dorothy Malone and Dolores Michaels. Continuous show Saturday at 1.00. Doors open at 12.30 p.m.

Matthews Meets Godih Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Len Matthews, a first-round knockout winner in his last start, meets 30-year-old Jaboueri Godih, an Algerian-born Parisian, tonight in a 10 - round televised lightweight match at Madison Square Garden.

Originally Matthews and Godih were paired for Feb. 26, but they switched dates with heavyweights Eddie Machen and Billy Hunter when Machen wanted more time for training.

Matthews, only 20, is a dangerous puncher, Last fall Godih met Mario Vecchiato in Milan for the European title but was disqualified for what was called "incorrect boxing." Translated into American lingo it means he was too rough.

Tragedy 'Ethan Frome' Given An Exciting Production

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK' (AP) — Edith Wharton's New England tragedy Ethan Frome was given an exciting production Thursday night by CBS' Show of the Month.

That it was exciting was due to skilful performances by Julie Harris and Sterling Hayden, playing the unhappy lovers.

Julie Harris was perfect as the pathetic, lonely waif. And Hayden was convincing as the long-suffering failure of a husband. Clarice Blackburn perhaps overdid things a bit as the nagging, nasty and hypochondriac wife.

But it was still an interesting and rewarding 90 minutes.

It was big night for snow-covered hills on CBS as the network went to Squaw Valley for the opening of the eighth Winter Olympics.

A covey of skiers swooped down a slope carrying the Olympic torch. Vice-President Richard M. Nixon formally opened the 11-day competition, homing pigeons and gas-filled balloons were released, and bands played. It was all rather dull viewing for stay-at-homes.

Things, however, are expected to pick up Saturday when we'll see some of the competitive events.

Hugh Downs will preside over the Jack Paar show next week and then depart for Hollywood to make his acting debut in a Universal episode. Arlene Francis will sit in the master's chair during the third and final week of comedian Paar's sudden vacation.

Saturday, February 20

General tendencies: All kinds of startling and unexpected developments can arise today. If you will take advantage of them, you will certainly forge ahead to a whole new series of beneficial conditions this Saturday, today and tonight. Be on the alert for these surprises, but unless you grasp fleeting opportunity from time to time, you can be left out on a big opportunity.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — You are filled with inspired thoughts exactly how to get over current hopes and wishes. Step out of dull routine and make those contacts early. Meet the right people, get down to cases, tacks. P. M. fine for relaxation as you like it.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Best to follow your intuitions so that you can have better happiness and success in the future. Handle financial affairs first, and wisely. P. M. can be devoted to loved ones, do not neglect the aged and infirm.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Get together with all associates and work out the best methods for a better modus operandi in the future. Come to terms with opposition. But be very certain you go out and relax a while this evening. Be cheerful and kind.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Roll up your sleeves and get to work vigorously on the things you truly enjoy doing. You can labor very efficiently and should do so into the evening. Know your greatest talents and concentrate on those first. Retire early.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — This can be one of the most prosperous and happy days for you in a long, long time. Be actively occupied from early morning, get your best talents before the right people. P. M. ideal for having an enjoyable time at favorite pastime.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Much can be accomplished today within the realm of own home, so that life becomes happier and home runs more smoothly. Be loyal to closest ties and show how much they mean to you. Little kindnesses will endear you to them.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — You can shop now for those items that have been difficult to get prior to this. Later, be off with friends or relations to sports or social affairs that please. Be generous.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Do the repairing that is necessary right now to make your buildings and real estate more valuable and beautiful. You can then understand where to economize and how to bring greater abundance into your life. Think.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — This is a day when you can accomplish much that has been impossible to you ere this. Be sure of yourself, come to the point quickly when conferring with the right people. You will get quick response and co-operation.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Get those tasks done that are important quickly, then set up a better system for the future. Raise your consciousness to a much higher level, too. Be sure to follow your intuitions, since they are most accurate.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Participating in group activities with loyal friends and influential acquaintances will help you to reach your goals far more quickly now. You can have a very good time all day and evening as well as bring your capabilities to the fore.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Now you can get credit or public affairs handled wisely that are impossible to you during busy weekdays. Do not neglect to contact very influential persons in civic life. Take the right steps that assist you to advance quickly.

If your child is born today ... The remarkable child born today will possess a very great mind and is the type of individual who can associate with persons of foreign countries and cultures admirably. A very fine chart for distinguished diplomat, whether man or woman, the politician, artist, banker or actor or financial mogul. Be sure you give your progeny a thorough education and begin religious teaching early.

posal and three favored it. The price was the same in other fields.

At least 25 other Conservatives had indicated before Thursday's debate that they wanted to talk in it. Other Liberal and CCF members also are expected to seek the floor.

MAY NOT HAVE VOTE

Unless their speeches are brief next Thursday, the majority of prospective speakers strengthened the possibility of the bill being "talked out"—defeated for the full two days allotted, without a vote being taken.

That was the fate of a similar bill introduced last session by 25-year-old Frank McGee (PC—York-Scarborough). His new bill this session calls specifically for ending the death penalty for all crimes except wartime treason.

No cabinet members or party leaders took part in the debate, but Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Solicitor-General Pickersgill were in the House almost continuously. Justice Minister Fulton left for the Law Society meeting engagement in London, Ont.

The galleries were crowded for both the afternoon and evening sittings, and several clergymen were in the audience. Although the crowd thinned out later, at the start about 75 persons had turned away because the 600 galleries seats and all standing room were filled.

NOT A DETERRENT

The bill's sponsor, Mr. McGee, argued mainly that the death penalty is not a deterrent to murder. This was denied by MPs taken later by many of Mr. McGee's supporters.

Mr. McGee contended it is morally wrong for the state to take a life; that punishment for crime should be reformative and based on revenge; that there is too great a risk of error in executing an innocent person; that there is no proof that whether the legal system has the deterrent effect of a decision that would justify killing a man.

Guy Rinfret, a Montreal Liberal lawyer, said in opposing the bill that when the Commons wouldn't decide even the issue of a national flag it should be even more cautious in a matter involving life and death.

He suggested that the government set up a new Commons committee to study a new classification of crimes requiring the death penalty, and that the methods of execution other than electric chair instead of hanging.

PERSUASIVE FACTORS

Arthur Maloney (PC — Toronto Parkdale), a noted criminal lawyer, gave what other speakers described as one of the most persuasive" arguments for abolition.

He said those examining the available evidence would come to the conclusion that the number of homicides in any area "bears no relation whatever to the presence or absence of the death penalty."

Instead, the biggest factors were sociological and cultural.

He objected to the mental torment of a condemned man awaiting execution.

Mr. Maloney added there can be no doubt that an accused's chances of acquittal on a murder charge vary with the personality and attitude on the trial judge, prosecutor, and the jury, and the defence counsel. Too often, he said, defence is left to "Perry Blackstones" just out of law school.

Sunday School Lesson

Religion, Economics Do Mix

By ROY L. SMITH

In spite of the hue and cry that is raised over the question of church and state, the church and business, it is easy to see religion and economics united in almost every street in our town.

A depression cuts the income of the churches, the church treasurer must pay any increased costs of supplies, the pennies our children take to Sunday School no longer pay for the high-priced printed matter they use in their classes. In scores of ways the economic situation which exists in a town is reflected in the prosperity of the work of the church.

MAKE US SENSITIVE

It is a matter of almost daily observation that economics make us very sensitive.

If it were only possible to get the average "good citizen" of the community as greatly concerned about the despoiling of our youth as it is to get him excited about some condition that affects his business!

In one community, a little group of churchmen became alarmed over the circulation of pornographic literature among teen-agers. When they presented their case to a group of leading businessmen of the community, they were listened to with a degree of patience. But nothing happened.

Not long afterward a condition developed which seemed to threaten the prosperity of one of the factories of the town — the mill that employed several hundred men was in trouble — and immediately the newspapers were full of the matter, the Chamber of Commerce had committees at work, and the preachers were solicited for aid.

If moral damage to a youth were only sufficient to arouse our concern as economic damage to an industry is. After all, we will have the boys with us a long time after the industry has closed down.

ASSUMED RESPONSIBILITY

The American people need to learn no lesson more than the principle one that every man must assume some responsibility for himself.

The Apostle Paul, in the course of his ministry in Ephesus, had seen the full responsibility for his own support. This was not because he did not think he had earned his support at the hands of the Ephesians. As a matter of fact, on another occasion, he had said very frankly that the "worker is worthy of his hire."

He was, however, endeavoring to teach the highly important lesson of individual responsibility. He knew the time was not far off when each Ephesian Christian would have to stand on his own feet. And when that time came, with persecutors surrounding him, the only strength he might hope for would be that which welled up from within him.

OWN RESPONSIBILITY

One of America's greatest needs at the moment is a revival of the sense of individual responsibility. For almost a quarter of a century, we have been preaching the doctrine of the responsibility of the state, and as a consequence we have a ll-bear full of law books which define the rights of the individual, and his claims upon the government.

There are some responsibilities no man can lay over on his government without being the loser of priceless privileges for which our fathers died. There is a point past which society cannot assume responsibility for the individual without destroying him.

Every human being has the civil right to stand upon his own feet!

Crippling Storm Ties Up Traffic In East Canada

Blocks Road and Strands Motorists, Three Dead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dozens of main highways still were strangled by deep, snowy drifts today in the wake of a severe snowstorm which swept through Southern Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes.

At least three persons died as a direct result of the Friday storm, the worst of the season in some regions.

Two men were found dead today in a car stuck amid 20-foot drifts on a sideroad linking Highway 401 with the small farming community of Cookstown, 40 miles north of Toronto.

Roads were blocked and motorists stranded from Toronto east through Montreal to the Gaspe Peninsula by the storm which dumped a foot of snow in many places. Although snow was light in the Toronto area, winds gusting up to 45 miles an hour threw drifts across numerous highways.

The department of highways reported at 8.30 a.m. EST today that 40 miles of dozen highways were blocked by drifts or in "doubtful" conditions for traffic.

Major routes blocked included Highway 400 between Toronto and Barrie, Highway 2 between Toronto and Oshawa, Highway 26 from Stayner to Barrie, Highway 21 from Bradford to Barrie and Highway 9 west of Newmarkville.

Ottawa reported 12 inches of snow as traffic slowed to a crawl, flights were cancelled and schools and government offices closed. Mayor Nelms said at the height of the storm the situation could be tuted as emergency.

Nearly all strad of the Maritimes were affected. Nova Scotia highways were coated with a mixture of freezing rain and snow and a man was killed when he struck by a car while walking along the highway in the Halifax area.

COAST BATTERED

Winds up to 75 miles an hour battered Nova Scotia's east coast in the afternoon as the province got its mainly rain. Heavy snow was falling in New Brunswick with up to 12 inches forecast.

At least two deaths were attributed to the violent blizzard in the Montreal area, expected to report 10 inches of snow. One man died shovelling snow and a special traffic officer collapsed while directing traffic at a busy downtown street.

Winds reached 35 miles an hour, swirling snow through Montreal streets and stranding thousands late for work.

Buses were running late, trains were up two hours behind schedule and Trans-Canada Air Lines cancelled all flights in and out of Montreal.

WORST SINCE 1942

The Ottawa storm was the worst since the spring of 1942 when the public transportation system was knocked out for a week.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, scheduled to fly to Toronto to be made an honorary member of the law society of upper Canada was unable to get a flight out of Ottawa.

Southern Ontario from Toronto west to Windsor was a lesser

UNEMPLOYMENT SNOWBALLS INTO MAJOR ISSUE

Opposition Chips Away at Inaction

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment has snowballed into the major continuing issue of the 1960 parliamentary session.

Opposition members started chipping away at the government on the issue on the unemployment front in the throne speech debate. Their attacks have become more severe as each week showed an increase in the unemployment insurance commission's list of job seekers.

Paul Martin (—Essex East) terday declared that the Liberal party is not going to let up on the issue.

"We will keep at this matter in this House until the government does take steps which will satisfy us that at long last it means to do something about unemployment," he said during the Commons' lengthy hassle over a supplementary estimate of $15,000,000 to meet the government's winter works program.

Monday the Commons will be presented the first government supply bill—to vote money for government programs—and Liberals likely will use opposition motion of non-confidence, possibly some aspect of unemployment.

In their hounding of the government, opposition MPs have Argue Confederate member for Regina-Qouche-Madawaska.

They said the government has not kept its election promises, to maintain in all humility that it will "not be driven out of what we promised to do there would

Globe, Telegram To Face Charges Under Liquor Act

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail and The Telegram were charged by two Liberal members of the Ontario legislature Friday with offences under the Liquor Control Act of Ontario.

Ross Whicher, member for Bruce, swore out informations against The Globe and Mail and Vernon Singer, member for Yorkville, swore out a similar information against The Telegram.

The informations were made at city hall under the section of the act controlling liquor advertisements.

Mr. Singer said the charges were "the most ridiculous thing" relishing, not display or exhibition" in the legislature. Action took place during a three-month period ending Feb. 19, he said.

Mr. Whicher said the charges were intended to bring a test case before the courts to decide if he had been unable to get clarification in the House of the government's policy on liquor advertising.

"Our motive is to demonstrate the hypocrisy of this government," he said. "We want to find it on one side of the liquor question or the other."

U.S. State Department Under Fire For Chessman Case Interference

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Governor Edmund G. Brown's 60-day reprieve for Caryl Chessman, convicted kidnap-rapist, capital punishment, today stirred a mounting storm of criticism.

In Sacramento, legislators predicted that the governor proposed to drop the problem in their lap by calling a special session in March to reconsider abolishing the death penalty.

In Washington, critics blasted the state department for notifying Britain that Chessman's reprieve action to be expected in Latin America if the execution should take place.

Brown, when he announced his was California's case, said he had given secretary Roy R. Rubottom Jr. sage from Assistant State Secretary Roy R. Rubottom Jr.

In Washington, senators criticized the state department's alleged intervention as impinging on rights of states.

"Unwarranted interference with the judical processes of a state," said Senator Gordon Allott (Rep.-Colo.) of the state department message.

"Very questionable procedure," said Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem., Ark.) chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee.

Fulbright termed it "a very disturbing development" if "inciplent mobs of students in Latin American countries" — or — where can interfere with U.S. judicial processes.

Senator Estes Engle (Dem., Calif.) said in an interview he agreed fully with Fulbright.

"I think justice to an individual, whether it means he should be executed or not, should be based on the facts of the case and the law.

"It should not rest on an international reaction."

Demonstrations in Uruguay applauded the reprieve. Western Europe generally approved the action but criticized the motive.

Chessman, convicted in Los Angeles in 1948 of robbery and kidnapping involving forcing two women into unnatural sex acts, has evaded death in a dramatic, 11½ - year legal fight.

He spent Friday relaxing and conferring with his lawyer.

Middle East Is Again Key Hot Spot in World Politics

U.N. — A new rash of border incidents and angry charges and counter charges have again made the Middle East a key spot in the world.

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations gave emphasis to the situation Thursday when he held a press conference that "we are falling back to a position where we have been before and from which I thought and hoped we had departed forever."

Just two weeks ago, Hammarskjold had told another press conference that the Middle East appeared to be gliding into a period of peace.

He did not elaborate on what made him change his mind so suddenly, but his latest conference was held against a background of reports of border clashes and loud threats on both sides of the UN-supervised truce.

The recent border clashes were considered as being among the most serious since the Suez crisis of 1956. They saw exchanges of artillery fire and an unusual daylight between Arabs and Israelis.

The UN truce force arranged an armistice, and after a report by Hammarskjold Sunday, condemned Israel for what it called aggression on the southern demilitarized sector of the Israeli-Syrian border.

Israel, which boycotted the meeting, denied the charge of aggression, claiming the demilitarized territory belongs to her.

More serious than the fighting were the charges of troop movements that Israel and the United Arab Republic hurled at each other.

Another point that the UN has not been able to resolve since 1956 is U.A.R. President Nasser's ban on Israeli shipping through the Suez Canal. Israel's foreign minister, Mrs. Golda Meir, said in a recent interview that the situation is intolerable.

Water figures in another dispute between Israel and her Arab neighbors — the Jordan River. Israel wants to use the river to irrigate the Negev Desert and says the U.A.R. would block it.

The Arabs have said they will not let Israel engineers take any Jordan water, but Israel has announced her intention of going ahead with her plans.

Hammarskjold gave no indication of what he hopes can be done to ease the new strains. But he believes he might call on the Security Council to try to take effective action.

2 Army Cadets Found Dead In Auto Stuck in Snowdrifts

COOKSTOWN, Ont. (CP)—Two army officer cadets were found dead today in a car stuck amid 20-foot snowdrifts on a sideroad linking Highway 400 and this small farming community 15 miles south of Barrie.

They were identified them as Larry Ross Edward Ward, 18, of Niagara Falls, Ont., and Joseph William Wilson, 21, of St. Catharines. Both were stationed at nearby Camp Borden.

Both were believed to have been asphyxiated. Police said the motor of the car still was running when they were found.

Farmer Frank Scott discovered the bodies while searching for stranded motorists aboard in the area with a woman and child inside. He later found the woman and child alive and brought them to a farm.

Provincial police were searching other snowbound sideroads in the area Friday but other stranded drivers may also have become victims of asphyxiation. The search was painfully slow in the gigantic snowdrifts.

Judge Rules Raids Legal

MONTREAL (CP)—A judge ruled Friday the RCMP acted legally in raiding the homes of 39 former toll collectors on the Jacques Cartier Bridge as part of an investigation into possible misappropriation of funds.

Mr. Justice Roger Ouimet rejected an application for a writ of habeas corpus in search warrants RCMP obtained from two sessions court judges.

RCMP seized bank books, insurance policies and other personal papers in the raids.

Issue Will Be Put to Cabinet Despite Board

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has set up a conciliation board to deal with the contract fight between the railways and non-operating unions, but is expected to have the usual ineffectual result.

Labor Minister Starr announced Friday he has called on the disputants to nominate members to the three-man board.

The board will probably report two months from now and, if the pattern of the past is followed, one sociologist or both will turn down the report.

That would put the issue on the doorstep of the cabinet, which doesn't want any part of it. But it appears inevitable that cabinet will have to step in and settle the issue.

Some 130,000 non-operating employees are looking for an increase that would amount to 20 cents an hour, or some $65,000,000 a year. Should the railways extend such an increase to other workers it would mean around $100,000,000.

The unions threatened a strike for an amount more than that in late 1958, but settled for less.

It appears quite probable there will be a settlement this time, too, avoiding a repetition of the 1950 strike which lasted 11 days and crippled rail transport. That conflict was ended by legislation passed at an emergency session of Parliament.

BRYDEN TABLES SARNIA LAND DEAL DOCUMENTS

CCF Member Defies Resources Minister

TORONTO (CP)—A CCF member of the legislature defied Energy Resources Minister Macaulay Friday and tabled documents of evidence concerning the touch - disputed Ontario Hydro land purchase at Sarnia.

Mr. Macaulay told the House Thursday "there may be very serious charges" if documents are filed in the legislature contradicting more than 40 statutory declarations tabled a few days ago by Hydro.

Kenneth Bryden (CCF — Toronto Woodbine) formally tabled Friday four photostatic copies of letters he collected during a recent personal investigation at Sarnia among the Chippewa Indians, who formerly owned the 115 acres of land bought by Hydro for $1,250,000.

Mr. Bryden had previously charged Hydro with gross mismanagement in the land transaction.

WREN PROPOSAL

During the throne speech debate, Albert Wren (Lib.-Kenora) asked the government to consider Northern and Southern Ontario as two separate provinces when it comes to dealing with federal authorities this summer to discuss tax revenues.

He said if Northern Ontario was given the same share of tax revenues on a per capita basis as Manitoba and Saskatchewan, the north soon would pass the tax agreement stage and enjoy rapid development.

He shouted the federal government with getting the "lion's share" of tax revenues from

Premier Hansen Of Denmark Dies of Cancer

COPNHAGEN, Denmark (Reuters) — Flemming Hansen Viggo Kampmann today announced the likeliest successor to Premier Hans Christian Hansen, who died Friday night.

Kampmann, 51, is a premier since January and a top man in Denmark's Social Democratic party, was to see King Frederik IX Friday. He is as the cabinet met to consider the situation created by the death of the 53-year-old premier.

The successor's appointment was not expected to be announced before Sunday at the earliest, but political circles forecast speedy, unanimous agreement among party leaders on naming Kampmann to the premiership.

Hensen, in hospital since December, died of cancer.

RESTRICTED LEADER

The nation today mourned the self-taught shoemaker's son and Second World War resistance leader who became premier in 1955 and who died at the end of cancer minister until 1958.

Hansen was lauded as a champion of democratic principles and as a main architect in Denmark's postwar economic recovery.

He played an influential role in the country's entry into NATO and was noted for his political keenness, integrity and insistence on social reform.

He also was an excellent poet and composer and sang some of his numbers to his own accompaniment on the mandolin.

7-Pound Prince And His Mother Both Doing Well

Charles Arrives Home To See Baby Brother

LONDON (CP) — Buckingham Palace announced today Queen Elizabeth's a new son weighed seven pounds, six ounces at birth and that the royal mother and her child were doing "very well."

The palace announced that the Queen and her new prince had spent "a restful night."

"Her Majesty and her son are both doing very well," the announcement said.

Prince Andrew, weighed seven pounds, six ounces at birth—three ounces heavier than his new brother, Prince Charles was exactly six pounds.

FOUR BOOK BULLETIN

The medical bulletin was signed by three of the doctors who assisted at the birth plus Professor Sir Wilfred Sheldon, a child diseases specialist who has been looking after the health of Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

The small crowd standing in the rain outside Buckingham Palace let up a cheer when the morning bulletin was posted on the palace rails.

There expressed disappointment that the birth weight was not 8½ lbs. as hoped.

Although a steady drizzle fell, the crowd showed no signs of leaving.

The official palace weight announcement was made because it came as flags broke out over government buildings, guns roared and jet aircraft zoomed over London in honor of the royal personage.

The one-day-old prince, described as a "lovely baby," had already earned his first good marks for decorous behavior. It was reported that he hardly cried at all when he made his entry into the world at 2:30 p.m. GMT (8:30 a.m. MST) Friday.

His arrival brought long queues to the gates of Buckingham Palace, filling out until the early hours of the morning to read the handwritten announcement pinned to the railings. He was assured the world that the Queen and her third child both were doing well.

FAMILY INSPECTION

Prince Charles, seeing the 11-year-old Princess Anne, who dropped from school for a first look at his new brother. Nine-year - old Princess Anne, who is third in line of succession behind the newborn, also saw him earlier, shortly after Prince Philip had inspected his small son.

The baby, who is expected to be christened in a private ceremony in the chapel in about four weeks, probably will be known as Prince Andrew of York which traditionally goes to a monarch's second son and is the name of the late king's brother, the late King George VI, before he ascended the throne.

But he is unlikely to receive the title for some years. The listing of a Buckingham Palace aide by the Queen, has usually coincided with the announcement of a prince's coming of age or marriage.

The Queen also will make the choice of the title. Other vacant royal dukedoms are held by Clarence, Connaught and Sussex. Andrew Victoria named the second son Duke of Edinburgh, the title held by Prince Philip.

Color Slides Provide Boston Jury With Facts of Woman's Injuries

BOSTON (AP)—A jury trying Mrs. Louise Woodward, who is 21, for murder has before it today a graphic presentation in color of the medical aspects in the death of his tiny paramour.

The production—30 transparencies—was that of Dr. Michael A. Luongo, the medical examiner who insisted that although drowning was listed as the official cause of death, 23, passenger on the Dutch freighter Tabinta, death coincided with homicide.

Her nearly nude body, injured from head to toe, was found on the ragged shore of a desolate Boston harbor island Sept. 19, the day after the Utrecht sailed for New York after a 44-day voyage from Singapore.

Dr. Luongo made some of the transparencies before an autopsy, to portray external evidence of injuries. He made others during the autopsy to record deeper damage to the body.

A screen was erected in the courtroom for projection of the transparencies.

The prosecution charges that married Van Rie seduced Miss Kaufman engaged in torrid amatory diversion during the voyage, and that she killed the child when he beat and threw her across the cabin in the Utrecht's first harbor.

Van Rie was questioned Friday in a statement attributed to him by Police Captain Joseph B. Fallon as admitting he visited Lynn's cabin and struck her accidentally when she tried to anger in discussion over possible pregnancy. This was at about the hour she disappeared from the ship.

Rabies Cause Man's Death At Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—The death of Barry Montgomery Sproule-Jones of Peterborough Dec. 17 was caused by rabies, laboratory tests disclosed Friday.

Mr. Kilborn was admitted to hospital with a high fever after he was bitten on the arm by one of his pet rabbits. Mad previously been bitten by a skunk. The adult on the arm was not broken and there was no indication that the subsequent death of the three pups was due to rabies.

Mr. Kilborn's wife, Donna, is reported to have gone to Parry Sound for anti-rabies shots with her son, George, after learning the cause of her husband's death.

Apology May Ease Tensions In U.S., Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — A Unified States government apology for a bombing raid on Cuba Thursday by a Florida-based private plane may supply the necessary ointment to soothe strained American-Cuban relations.

Premier Fidel Castro has charged that air attacks on Cuban sugar fields by U.S.-based planes are a prelude to invasion of the island by forces based in Guatemala.

But U.S. state department confirmed Friday that the plane involved in Thursday's incident had taken off from an airfield near Miami.

It expressed "sincere regrets" that the plane managed to escape the vigilance of our intensified airfield patrols" in Florida.

AGAINST U.S. LAW

The state department note assured Castro that the U.S. government "in most cases to stop such international flights, which are clearly in violation of our laws and will take whatever steps it can to prevent them and apprehend those persons responsible."

Castro said in a nation-wide television address Wednesday night that the craft exploded while attempting to bomb a sugar mill 100 miles east of Havana.

He said the occupants, both killed, were Cubans. Cuban authorities said they were Robert Frank Smith of Miami, Fla., and Robert Kelly of the U.S. Civil Air Patrol, not further identified.

(Frost's mother, Mrs. Thomas Frost of Lowell, Mass., said she had been notified by the state department of the flier's death.)

Castro said the U.S. had established comment on the apology, but indications were believe it might prompt the fiery premier to ease up on his anti-U.S. blasts. It also open the way for direct negotiations on problems between Washington and Havana.

The National Kinsmen Association of Canada celebrated 40 years of Kinsmenship with the unveiling of the new Kinsmen Fountain in Hamilton, Ont., across from the site of the first Kinsmen meeting place in Canada on February 20th, 1920.

The friendly crow which last November stole the car keys from the hands of Bill Juby of Point Anne, received world publicity, according to reports reaching back to Belleville.

The Point Anne man was sitting on the front verandah with the car keys in his hand as he waited to drive his wife to Belleville.

The shiny keys were spotted by a crow which swooped down to light on Mr. Juby's shoulder, then grabbed the car keys from his hand and made off.

Children's Aid Forced to Seek Higher Grants

The failure of the Belleville Children's Aid Appeal to reach its campaign objectives in 1959 and again in 1959, and the consequent drastic reduction in the amount allocated by the United Appeal to the Children's Aid Society of Belleville, Hastings and Trenton, has forced the Society to request increased grants from those three municipalities.

At the Society's monthly meeting of the board of directors of the society, held Thursday evening, Mr. C. B. Morgan, the Society's president, stated that he and the local director, Bruce M. Kerr, had met with Ald. W. E. Jarvah, chairman of the finance committee of the Belleville City Council, to discuss an increase in the grant from the city. A similar meeting has been arranged with the finance committee of Hastings County Council. Mr. Gordon Davis stated that he and Mr. Mel Mitchell had appeared before Trenton Town Council this week and asked for an increase in the 1960 grant. They had been given a favorable response, he said, and their request had been referred to the council's finance committee for consideration.

RATE INCREASED

Mr. C. L. Hyde, the treasurer, announced that the rate for the Society's books by J. I. Dickey, C.A., was now complete and that a surplus had been found in order. Mr. Hyde further stated that for the months to the court had established the rate payable by municipalities for Children in Care of children in 1960 at $2.17 per day.

The president announced the meeting that the Indian Affairs Branch had this week indicated its desire to continue the family services rendered the people of the Tyendinaga township by the Society and had agreed to pay the Society for the months old incurred by the Society on the service provided in 1959. In addition to the visit of Mr. Morgan, "they have indicated further an interest in receiving their grant in support of these services in 1959 from $1,200 to $3,000. This will be entirely satisfactory to us."

BIRTHS IN CARE

Bruce M. Kerr, the local director, stated that at the end of January there were 205 children in the ward care of the Society. Five children were during the month. Two adoptions three were placed in adoption and wardship with permanent custody was terminated. This will undoubtedly be another good year for our adoption placement," said Mr. Kerr. "We have plans for the placement of 12 to 15 children under way right now. There are also a number more older children. We had few infants for placement last year and we hope to do more this time".

On the recommendation of Mr. Kerr, Mr. Kenneth R. Boardman was appointed to the staff, effective March 1. Mr. Boardman was born in Ottawa where he attended Ottawa Collage. For the past four years he has been employed by the Children's Aid for the District of Parry Sound and stationed at Sundridge. He is survived by his three children. He will work in the Child Care Department.

REQUEST SUPERVISION

After a lengthy discussion, the Board approved by the application of Mr. J. V. Sanders of Oshawa, President of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, to Ask Societies that the Province of Ontario be asked to introduce a system of supervision and assessment of the work performed by the Societies. It was felt that this should be done by competent and qualified personnel who, said Mr. Gordon Ellis, "have been actively employed in the field and are in touch with things".

The President announced that the Society's Annual general dinner meeting would be held at Belleville on Friday, March 4. The guest speaker will be Dr. J. D. Aitchison, Superintendent of the Ontario Hospital for Emotionally Disturbed Children at Thistletown and former director of the Toronto Juvenile Court Psychiatric Clinic. Dr. Aitchison is an internationally known authority on the emotional problems of children.

Minister Asked To Substantiate His Statement

TORONTO (CP) — Everett M. Biggs, Ontario's assistant deputy minister of agriculture, was challenged in a statement issued Friday night by the Ontario Hog Producers' Marketing Board to substantiate his personal attack against the president of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association.

Mr. Biggs told the Holstein-Friesian Association meeting in Toronto Wednesday that the hog organization was being run by someone with a big stick.

The board's statement also asked Mr. Biggs to substantiate his statement that there were figureheads in the administration of the hog marketing plan."

President of the Hog Producers' Association is Charles McInnis of Iroquois.

The statement said: "It is not enough to suggest publicly that our operations may not be above reproach. We have a right to expect from the department of agriculture and all government appointed bodies which deal with the marketing of farm products in Ontario that they stop beating around the bush and tell us exactly what they think is wrong with our present operations and what exactly they want us to do about it."

Commenting on remarks by Mr. Biggs that there was fear among the hog group, the statement said the only cause for fear was that "the influence of pressure groups may outweigh the importance in official circles."

The statement charged that high officials are being detached from their normal duties and ordered out into the field against the hog producer groups.

CBC Cuts Part Of Taped Film From Interview

TORONTO (CP)—The CBC cut from a taped television interview Thursday night a claim by a Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature that the federal government refused to locate a nuclear project at Chalk Lake because it is in Liberal Leader Lester Pearson's riding of Algoma East.

John Pullerton, member of the legislature for Algoma-Manitoulin, said in the interview he might resign his seat if the project is not given to Elliot Lake.

Mr. Fullerton was asked four questions in the interview. Three questions and answers were telecast.

Elliot Lake has been pressing the federal government to reverse its decision of last fall to build the nuclear research centre in Manitoba. The uranium mining centre is facing a sharp decline with about 4,000 of its 10,000 miners due to be laid off in the next 18 months.

A CBC spokesman said Friday the omission of the question and answer was due to "a human error," on the part of the editor of the film.

CRIPPLING STORM

amounts of snow. Northern Ontario escaped the storm.

Hundreds of motorists were stranded north and east of Toronto and 57 students and teachers at Bowmanville High School in rural had to spend the night in the local high school.

In Ontario County alone, provincial police estimated that at one time 50 cars were stuck in a 10-mile stretch north of Brooklin. Snow, driven by high winds, made driving impossible. Vehicles bogged down all night included two police cruisers.

Travellers straggled through drifts waist-deep in some instances to shelter in farm homes and barns. Some had to walk the last few miles to 20 miles through the area some northeast of Oshawa.

In Brooklin, where at least 100 cars were parked along the highway and sidestreets, the local hotel was filled with travellers provided by provincial police from proceeding further.

A police cruiser, its red light flashing, barred cars in one way through the village. Two of the vehicles turned back were buses carrying passengers bound for points north including Lindsay.

Brooklin residents took in families for the night from the stranded cars.

Among those staying at the hotel was Dr. M. E. Hymmen, Ontario minister of health, bound for his home in Port Perry.

A spokesman for the Agricultural College students from Port Perry said they left for their district homes for the weekend, were also stranded and stayed with friends in Brooklin.

In Oshawa itself more than 103 cars were stuck and all shift workers were unable today to get to their homes as numerous areas because roads were blocked. They planned to stay in the union hall in the centre of the city and crews worked all night in the district to clear part of Highway 12 north of Whitby stayed clear.

New Fighters, Bombers in Defence Budget

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Just three days before the government announced that the end of manned tactical airplanes was in sight, plans now are going ahead for the Canadian-built bombers, first to be operated by flying crews.

The air estimates, tabled Thursday in Parliament, showed the sharpest swing yet away from the five-year defence program originated in 1957 by former Defence Minister Donnan Sandys. His program called for almost total reliance on nuclear weapons, most of them automatic.

The 1959 defence white paper, tabled several days ago by Defence Minister Harold Watkinson, foreshadowed a break from the original concept of the Sandys program by placing greater emphasis on conventional forces.

MAJOR REVERSAL

But the air estimates represent an almost complete reversal of policy. The 1957 white paper said: "Having regard to the likely progress of ballistic missiles and missile defence, we have decided not to go ahead with the development of a supersonic bomber."

Defence Minister George Ward told Parliament Thursday that eventually a $100,000,000 order will be placed with Avro Canada for a high electric supersonic bomber.

The white paper also said: "The RAF are unlikely to have a supersonic fighter aircraft much more advanced than the supersonic F-1."

Ward said a successor to the F-1 now is being sought. He said the new type, also manned, should have vertical take-off capabilities.

Some years ago a discouraging picture was painted for air crew members, but the air estimates clearly confirm that confidence in the country is getting preference over fixed-site nuclear deterrents.

To improve the lot of air crew members, Ward also announced a new scheme whereby they can remain in the service until they are 55—about an extra 10 years over the existing limits. Or if they wish they can retire at 38 when they are still young enough to get suitable civilian employment.

8 Legion Members Initiated

FRANKFORD — With 107 members, Frankford Branch of the Canadian Legion is one of the most active branches in the Quinte area.

This was pointed out by Jack McInally, bulletin editor of the branch, who, in a recapitulation of the past year's activities, informs that the branch received a letter from Provincial Command stating that it increased its membership enough to receive a citation.

On January 11th, eight new members were initiated by a team from Brighton branch headed by the Deputy Zone Commander, Gerald Simpson. Following the initiation, the same team installed the officers for 1960.

Resolutions completed include a new ceiling and new lighting in the hall.

The ladies take over the premises on Tuesday nights with a euchre. Auxiliary dances every evening.

General Legion meetings are held the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

On Friday evening, February 19th, a mixed social evening was enjoyed.

BRITISH ROADS BLOCKED

ticulars about the new infant princess.

"The baby is doing fine and so is the Queen," said Peel after a late night checkup at Buckingham Palace. A bunch of red roses from Prince Philip bloomed by the Queen's bedside.

Her one-year-old son lay in an adjoining room snuggled in a cream and lilac bed with Ku-boo pink satin under a nylon net.

The Queen's physicians were to make another routine call today.

As Britain rejoiced, speculation grew in court circles that United States President Eisenhower might be one of the baby's godparents, and that David might be one of the little princess's names. It is a name the president shares with many members of the Royal Family.

Names for the baby—he probably will get another—if his brother and sister — are still a closely guarded secret. They will not be announced until the day before the christening expected to be performed by the Archbishop of Canterbury in about a month.

Congratulatory messages poured in from all parts of the world. Late Friday night the palace said the mail already had dealt with 2,000 telegrams and cables.

The latest prince in the 11th to be born to a reigning British queen and the first since the birth of Princess Beatrice, youngest of Queen Victoria's nine children, all of whom were born during her reign.

DREW CALLS

Among the early callers to pay their respects to the royal baby were George Drew, Canada's high commissioner to the United Kingdom, who signed the visitors' book at the palace a few hours before flying to Canada for a short visit.

A group of bell - ringers at Broadchalke, a tiny Salisbury, said homage by ringing a peal barely three minutes after announcement of the birth.

Loyal punters were expected to share the baby's luck when racing horses entered at Lingfield Park today—Handsome Prince, Some Hope and Princess Tidings. The red - hot tip was Royal Baby, scheduled to run at 3:30 p.m. GMT, exactly 24 hours after the royal birth.

Morning papers followed the example of their evening contemporaries in greeting the royal birth with banner headlines. Even the Communist Daily Worker rose to the news on its front page.

USE RESTRAINT

The Communist newspaper devoted six paragraphs to the baby princess. Immediately below was a five-word paragraph announcing the birth of a son to a member of the workers' editorial staff.

The program for today called for the firing of 41-gun salutes at the nation's capital and at Windsor Hyde Park here as well as at several other spots around the nation.

Royal Air Force men warmed up for a full squadron of Hawker Hunter jet fighters for a roaring fly-past for the arrival in a sweep over the palace.

Finch Defence Wins Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The defence in the Finch murder trial has won an important victory.

Presiding Judge Walter M. Evans Friday denied a prosecution attempt for an all-or-nothing conviction.

The state asked that Dr. R. Bernard Finch, 42, and his 23-year-old sweetheart Carole Tregoff be judged only on first-degree murder charges with the penalty for first degree murder in California — life imprisonment.

Judge Evans ruled unofficially that the jury also will be able to consider a lesser penalty, second degree murder—punishable by one to 10 years' imprisonment.

Finch and Miss Tregoff are accused of murdering the doctor's wife Barbara July 1 after she was found shot to death last May 30.

Final arguments are expected to start Tuesday and may take a week.

Hundred Airmen Raise Flag In Honor of Royal Birth

TRENTON — One hundred airmen from RCAF Station Trenton took part in a half-hour flag raising ceremony yesterday afternoon marking the birth of a child to Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II. The ceremony, which was held in the parade square in front of the Administration Building at 4.30 p.m., was conducted by S/L J. O. Maitland of Winnipeg, commanding officer of No. 426 Squadron.

The station band was in attendance and played martial music and the Royal Salute during the ceremony. The "Still and Alert" was played by the band trumpeter during the flag raising.

Although rain and snow had fallen on the parade square for 12 hours steadily before the ceremony, equipment had cleared and the area off at the time of the parade.

Brighton Scout Recipient of Gilt Cross

TRENTON — Scout Lowell George Scott, aged 13, of Brighton, will be the recipient of a Gilt Cross for the part he played in the rescue from drowning of 11-year-old Gordon Huddleston of Lakefield, on August 31st, 1959.

Gordon and two other Lakefield boys, Wayne Kennedy, 10, and Paul Pogue, 11, had been paddling about in the river near the camping grounds at Lakefield. They beached the five-foot punt they had borrowed but it drifted back into the current, where it was caught and blown along by the wind.

Gordon and Paul started to swim after it. Wayne remained on shore. Halfway across the river, Gordon became tired and turned back.

Lowell and F. H. Parsons of 207 First Street in Cobourg realized that the Huddleston boy was in difficulty and jumped into the river and helped him to shore.

Earlier this month, Lowell received a letter from Jackson Dodds, Deputy Chief Scout, which read in part: "Dear Scout Scott: It gives me great pleasure on behalf of His Excellency, Major-General George P. Vanier, D.S.O., M.C., C.D., Chief Scout for Canada, to inform you that for your quick thinking and presence of mind in rescuing Gordon Huddleston from drowning, you have been pleased to award you the Gilt Cross. I would like to add my own congratulations and best wishes." The list announcing this award will be issued from Government House, Ottawa, on February 20, and will appear in the press on the same date. Until this announcement appears, the content of this letter should be regarded as confidential." Enclosed in the letter was a medal emblem to be worn on Lowell's Scout shirt.

Lowell, who was 13 last September, is a Grade 8 pupil in the Northumberland and District High School in Brighton. He has been a member of the Brighton Scout Troop for two years. He is a quiet, all-round student, interested in games, especially badminton, and music. He is not a strong swimmer, but has an indication of his character, when he says something that had to be done, he did it. Mrs. Scott, who is a widow, watched the rescue from shore. She said that she "died a thousand deaths" until both boys were safe on shore.

Lowell has been informed that he will receive the Gilt Cross from the hands of the Chief Scout for Canada, Major-General Vanier, or his official delegate, at a later date.

The Power of Positive Thinking

We sometimes wonder how many times leaders in the western world have stopped to take a good hard look at themselves and their way of life when they condemn Communism and attempt to tell people that the latter is not a good way of life. To us in North America and in some countries of Europe, also, it may be quite readily apparent that the shoulders of Communism support the ugly head of totalitarianism. But no doubt if the people of the Middle East and the Far East take especial note of this or even if they are able to comprehend it at all.

Their best way of finding out the difference is to take a good look at the two sides and we wonder if our side does not appear to be somewhat unattractive in its appearance. Are our leaders practising the principles of democracy in their actions? Do our representatives in these foreign lands which are so close to the Communist sphere of influence make a point of showing off the advantages of our way of life?

Or do they just say that Communism is very bad thing and no one would want to get tangled up in it really? It is a complaint of foreign observers of our way of life that we sometimes say one thing and do another. This does little to create trust, faith and confidence in our system of government. Unfortunately, there are too many examples instead of this weakness on our part for us to disregard this observation.

North America is supposed to be the stronghold of the free, the land of equal rights and opportunities. Why is the Communist party outlawed in the United States? Why the race riots in Little Rock? These are two questions which have probably been forgotten about ourselves but which we must expect from those outside of our way of life.

Petty politics for personal profit may be determined as the prime cause for the two ills which we mentioned above in regard to the United States. McCarthy found great publicity for himself at the expense of the integrity of many people and the nation as a whole. Governor Faubus used the integration situation as a political football to gain himself a third term as governor of a state. This at the expense of a lot of sorrow and needless strife between the people of his state and at immeasurable loss of dignity and respect to his nation in international circles.

But the irresponsibility of these people and their apparent disregard for the moral factors in our way of life are, unfortunately, a criterion by which those in foreign lands may be wont to judge our society. These are important things. These are important matters. To be proud of nor to be considered as representative of our way of life, but they happened and we do have to face up to them since they have pointed out some of our weaknesses.

We know that our democratic way of life is one of the best, but we seem to have lost sight of the fact that we did not gain this way of life by sitting back and worrying about whether we would insult some dictator in expounding it. Currently, however, it might seem that we have lost the intestinal fortitude of our forefathers.

We seem to have accepted the policy that we can spread the advantages of democracy by money grants and a soft shoe routine designed to oppose the Communists but not to incite or distrust them. We do not advocate that ours should be a militant campaign full of veiled threats and sabre-rattling, but we do believe that we should be ready to wage an honorable campaign for the principles of democracy and freedom without pussyfooting about for fear that the Communist leader will not talk to us because of it.

Our leaders are going to the "enemy" to treat for peace. We do not feel that this should be the case. This last time this happened Mr. Khrushchev did not turn in his umbrella and the rest of the free world had to engage in a bloody conflict. We do not want to see this happen again, but neither do we want to see our democratic principles defamed through the lack of positive thinking by our leaders.

If we have any faith in our way of life we must promote its principles abroad and at home without reserve, without hesitancy . . . and with honor.

Russia Seeks More Tourists

Manchester Guardian

Intourist, the Soviet state travel agency, on Friday announced substantial reductions in the costs of Russian holidays for Britons.

Mr. Michael Ananiev, the Intourist representative in London, said they had by arrangement with Aeroflot, the Soviet airline, and British European Airways it would be possible to fly from Moscow to London and back for between £35 and £45 pounds. The return air fare now is 108 pounds.

The reduced rate is available to tourists who stay no longer than 30 days in the Soviet Union.

For those who want to visit Moscow for only eight days, there is a new economical "week-end" flight for 92 pounds for the return flight, "tourist A class" hotel room, and breakfast, lunch and supper-seeing bus tours of the city. At present the hotel room and meals cost at least 3 pounds 11s a day, Mr. Ananiev said, so that the minimum cost of flying to Moscow for eight days before the new tourist rate came into effect would be 147 pounds 4s.

Aeroflot and its successor TU-104s and BEA will operate Comets on this service. What Intourist hopes, Mr. Ananiev said, is a great response to the rate reductions from people who have to book long in advance? Might some be disappointed? "We will," the manager, Mr. Ananiev said emphatically. "We are ready to receive every single pounds from Britain next season."

About five thousand British tourists visited the Soviet Union last year, he said.

He hoped that the cheapest way to travel from Britain to the Soviet Union would be the "luxury Soviet liners," which cost 70 pounds from London to Leningrad, including all accompanies pause on the way at Copenhagen, Helsinki and Stockholm, three or four hours in each. Most passengers may tour each capital for a day.

Mr. Ananiev also announced that visitors to the Soviet Union by car will no longer have to travel in convoy. Intourist interpreter escorts.

Intourist is urging visitors to travel to Leningrad and Leningrad, Mr. Ananiev recommended, because the Black Sea resorts for "as little as 2 pounds, with a day's deer-hunting in special reserves and trips to see the "exotic beauty of Samarkand." Intourist provides camping sites for "a few shillings a day," many equipped with fitted at moderat cost, and every site has a food shop.

Just in case the illuminated Intourist sign outside its office on the north end of Little Portland Street and Regent Street is not enough to attract trade, Mr. Ananiev had finished his alluring task by hanging illuminated signs seemed quaintly inappropriate.

Wheat Demand Is Declining

Financial Post

In the last few years, a market equal to more than half of Canada's annual wheat export has disappeared from the face on this continent. And there is not a single prospect in sight.

In 1939, per capita consumption of flour in the U.S. was 120 pounds per year. Today it is 95 pounds less and still shrinking. Therefore, instead of using bushels of wheat and appliled to the present (much larger) population of the United States, we are using the people of the U.S. were consuming flour on the present scale, they would today be using 105,000,000 bushels more wheat than they actually are," officials of the Grain Co. point out.

Consumption has not been such a steep decline yet in Canada, but trend is exactly the same.

The reason is obvious: With a steady rise in urbanization and the standard of living people are eating less bread and a greater variety. Not only necessarily a greater volume, of other foods. It is the days of long hours of hard physical labor in the open air, a man could, and often did, eat a whole loaf of bread in a single day. Now two or three will carry him through.

Much the same change is taking place in Europe, another important market for Canadian wheat.

All this surely underlines the urgent need for brand new wheat markets in Asia, South America and elsewhere. If we hope to keep on growing wheat as a major scale in Canada, and so far there is no other big alternative in sight, then we must find new demand and find it quickly.

Free Speech in Warsaw

Ottawa Citizen

In Communist capitals, public attacks on policies of Communist countries are rare. But many were heard in Warsaw the other day when the non-official International Peace Conference met. The Poles were glad to be hosts, but unhappy about some of the speeches.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

February 20th, 1940

Building permits for construction work to the value of $231,300 were issued during 1939 by the Engineer's Office, this being the best year since 1931 when the value amounted to $221,900. Work was commenced this year on the preparation of large scale plans of the city in sections, which will be bound in the form of an Atlas. Details of all sewers, water mains, gas mains, sidewalks, pavements, etc. will be recorded on these plans as well as corrected surveys of all properties. This atlas will not be fully completed and ready for use to date until the year 1942.

The Social Branch of the Red Cross Society forwarded to headquarters on Monday the following articles: 322 pairs of socks, 42 scarves, 43 wristlets, 48 pairs pyjamas, 11 pneumonia jackets, 6 hospital jackets, 1 ice bag covers, 4 pairs hospital sox and 4 triangular bandages. Donations of money have been sent to the Red Cross through the Women's War Work Committee as follows: Avondale Neighbors' Aid; Foxboro United Church Red Cross Unit; Chatterton Women's Institute; Belleville W.C.T.U.

Members of the Golden Rule Mission Band of Bridge Street United Church proved themselves charming entertainers when they entertained at a Valentine tea in the Church parlors on Monday afternoon. THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is to be hoped that among the tens of thousands who will avail themselves of the most astonishing buy of the year — the $3.50 "The Victory Campaign" by Colonel C. P. Stacey, issued by Macmillan of Canada, and by so far there is no other big alternative in sight, then we must find new demand and find it quickly.

For we old sweats — I speak as one of them — may have followed the Colonel from day to day in the newspapers and may have talked to him on occasions with only the most shadowy impression of what these youngster generation heroes really suffered. In Col. Stacey's brilliant narrative, as the Governor-General Nunanding. Landing, the events that followed, it strikes with very special poignancy for us old soldiers. We had a war, truetto work even in the sugar-bed enough. But it was spaced, listfields.

bottles came with a doom-like predestination.

But the savage succession of battles our sons fought from end of the one year to the spring of the next, as related in this volume of official war history, has a tireless fury about it that makes the older soldier among us humble in memory.

The book is a treasure trove of maps, detail, beautiful printing and binding, a credit to splendid a work of historical writing.

Ski-Lift Over Ocean

BBC London Letter

The world's largest atomic power station is being built in Britain, at Hinkley Point on the Bristol Channel. At the beginning of the year work started on the final phase — the job of installing the boilers and building the great spherical steel vessels which will contain the nuclear furnaces. When BBC industrial correspondent Bertram Mycock went to Hinkley during the early progress in the BBC "Radio Newsreel," which is heard by listeners in Britain and overseas, he found he had embarked on "one of the oddest industrial visits in many years of professional reporting."

"I had been on the works-barby an hour", he said, "when I found myself sitting on a skilift going, not, as one usually does, up a snow-covered mountainside, but directly out over the sea to a point half a mile away where a huge concrete tub was sticking up out of the water. Not long afterwards I was climbed down several flights of ladders and was standing on the ocean bed. Only half an hour later I had gone from comfortably lit half a twenty feet above sea level to standing on the top beam of a skeleton tower that looked as if it were put in Trafalgar Square, for double-decker buses and dangle them from. Then I was lord Nelson on his column with my head in the clouds."

At Hinkley Point, in addition to the usual civil engineering workers of various kinds, there are ski-lift attendants, a deep-sea diver and even a bank gamekeeper to make sure that there is no rabbit poaching among nature reserves. A full-time Roman Catholic priest looks after the spiritual needs of the men in the labor camp nearby in this remote area of rural industrial and social life, the job was well up to schedule. Mycock said. One reason for the pleasure that was about to go into place was the construction of a huge steel 90 feet high, and weighing 300 tons, which had to be lifted and placed on the top of a concrete plinth. This was the first of a number of pipes and steam-raising units — to lay man just plain "boilers" — which when full are miles of pipes and other "ironmongery", would each weigh more than a dozen medium-size locomotives. The eleven ton structure was left at intervals of about a month, and during that would be to take the heat of the atomic furnace brought to them by carbondioxide gas blown through the pipes. The steel heat would then be turned into steam to drive the generators and made enough electricity to keep half a million one-bar electric fires — seven times as much as was produced by the world's first atomic power station at Calder Hall in Cumberland.

Wants to Ban Age Barriers

Vancouver Province

Laws to ban discrimination on racial, religious or other ground are never easy to enforce. A law to prevent discrimination against job applicants over 45, proposed by Dr. Walter Milton, speaker of Medicine Hat, would probably prove just as difficult to police.

Yet such a law might have value in drawing attention to one of the most cruelly wasteful of world-economic trends of our time.

Canadian life expectancy is increasing steadily and more people over 45 is growing. New York state recently decided to discriminate, and found that experienced workers are more efficient and could be more economical than younger job applicants.

If international trends continues, we'll have to revise plans for old age pensions and social welfare generally.

We might try setting the pension age by performance.

That would mean steeper taxes for business and for workers in productivity. Some taxes on resources could be crippling. It's too silly to consider.

But it's even sillier that, in an age of plenty, thousands capable of their best work are considered to be put on the shelf.

Only employers know he must have consumers or go out of business.

But in a blind spot of the free enterprise system that while the average businessman realizes the folly of denying jobs to over-45 applicants, too few often regard their own business as a special case.

It's a kink in our system which proves that capitalism is yet far from the perfection which some of its defenders so often proclaim.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

YOUNG DIABETICS DEPRIVED OF SOME CHILDHOOD PLEASURES

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a granddaughter, aged 12, who has been a diabetic for four months. We find that her disposition has changed entirely. Could you tell me about what sugar diabetes? — E.M.J."

The disease itself doesn't change the disposition. But the problems and responsibilities are understandable enough.

Let me start this way. At my age, half a century plus a bit, I still remember a feeling that I had when I was about eight years old. I cannot now remember what happened, and I have long since forgotten what ever discomfiting I received for the offense, but I still remember how I felt at the time. I told myself, in my moment of aggrievement, "When I'm grown up, I'm going to remember how children feel — and I'll be different."

As I said, now that I've grown up, I can't remember exactly what it was that I determined to remember. That's life itself.

So instead of talking about what I can't remember, I'll tell you what I still do know.

A young diabetic has a double problem. She or he has the usual problems of adolescence, plus the problems of diabetes.

These youngsters know they must take care of themselves or they will have a penalty to pay, itself. Yet, like others their age, they want to be "in the swim of the crowd", grab a snack in the afternoon, eat a candy bar, some potato chips, and even a gumchewing or soda pop. They can't. Their calories are limited.

A girl of 12 is betwixt and between. No longer a child, not yet a woman — on the days she diets, but old enough to want to have them. She is a child in the eyes of the rest of the kids, and to consider herself a child. She can't do it all — except eat. Yet at 12 what do they all want to do? Eat! Kids of 12 simply live to eat. Or so it seems.

Then, "Let's go down to the drug store and get a soda" and when she has a chance. She can't! She wants to be grown up, try new things. And she can't.

No wonder she's crotchety. No wonder her disposition has changed. Try to understand what she's up against, and only then can you help her.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Each spring I am plagued with a skin irritation on the tops of my feet, never any other part of the body. The itching is unbearable. It has been diagnosed as 'sun poison', 'dew poison', prickly heat and everything else. Remedies don't help. In the fall the itching goes away.— F. C."

Your initials don't say whether you are a man or a woman — or whether in either case you wear sandals or shoes that are open on top, such as perforated or woven shoes. It might help to know.

Since this comes seasonally, and affects only the feet, the question arises: What touches the feet then, and not at other times? Do you change shoes? Something in the fabric, dye, etc., might be responsible. Or, you put a gardener and do you use sprays which drift onto the feet? Some people are allergic to grass and other plants. Being allergic to sunshine seems odd, however, any exposed skin probably would be practically everything else.

E.B.F.: I agree, there is ordinarily no urgency about removing a benign tumor unless size, or interference with some other organ, causes distress.

Typewriter Ribbon Curse

Windsor Star

An irate Irishman has given vent to a wrath which doubtless has been felt by millions of many parts of the world. That is the annoyance manifest in failure to change the ribbon on an ordinary typewriter.

Most business offices probably have experts come in to check up on typewriters and, while there are ribbons handy, these men can change them with relative ease. But for personal typewriters or visits, if a ribbon becomes frayed —

The average individual must tune and sweat, and probably swear, for he has to make do with the various intricate parts to get the new ribbons on. Often his hands become smeared with ink and he hasn't what should be a simple operation is extraordinarily complex.

This angered Irishman says it is time that every machine dirty to change a ribbon. In 1909 as it was in 1912. He wonders why everybody doesn't drag typewriter manufacturers into the 20th century. So do we.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FACE VALUE

Any face is a unique. Like in form, there are no two faces alike in mould, in all the world, or since Time started.

Here are two faces that see, that constantly send pictured stories and messages to the brain; here is the mouth, suggestive of much of the power that the brain wields; and there are the lines and planes of the features, ready to be read to tell the world of a man — or something else!

What is there that is more interesting than — a face?

Am I telling you a wonderful passage from some book, am I describing to you some marvelous picture, do I sit spellbound by some music composition? Oh, would I but had the face of the one who produced each! I would then see the stamp of genius, devotion, sacrifice, determination, beauty — or something, there — that I might feel the call, itself.

In speaking of the face of Lincoln, a famous writer once wrote: "None of the artists or pictures has caught the deep, though subtle and indirect expression of this man's face. There is also likeness in his face.

And so it is. Back of the form of every face, lies something else — that one intangible, yet so much to be seen — or describe — that something of the Soul of the man! Back of every face, there is wonderful. I see the face of my friend, and you immediately I think of all the extending love of her life.

I love to study faces. They comprise a more absorbing study than any book, than any picture, than any work of fiction, more instructive than any autobiography. Faces are made day by day. And as the days accumulate into the years, so does your face value become apparent.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE MASTER'S METHODS

During His ministry our Lord was asked many questions. Seldom did He answer them. Often when His opponents threw at Him a question which today we would call "loaded". His reply was a series of questions designed to deflate their ego and to show the ignorance and malice of their attitude.

Another thing which Jesus continually did and which the average reader of the Bible often overlooked was to use what was the most part, He discussed with people the things they already knew. There is very little in the teachings of Jesus which is not in the Old Testament. Jesus brought in some new teachings and gave a turn to old teachings which set them in an utterly new perspective. But the greatest contribution Jesus made to humanity was the gift of Himself. He use.

Not new teaching — but age old truths tested by continuous anything He ever said or did. But always He was reminding people of the things they already knew. The commandment to love God with all the heart, soul, strength, and mind was recited never heard before. He was a simple, God-like man discussing with them the things they already knew, teaching them how to peer deeper into the truth, and relating their eyes to heaven that they might know whence is the source of all truth.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

Evening Grosbeaks

Although good Canadians, evening grosbeaks are unpredictable in their movements. During the first quarter of this century, the nesting grounds of these handsome, yellow, black, and white birds were largely confined to the foothills of the Canadian Rockies, and it was a great occasion for bird enthusiasts when in winter times they sometimes visited more easterly provinces and the northeastern states.

The first record for New York City seems to be in the winter of 1911. The next spectacular migration was not until 1916, when from February until early May large flocks were seen in the east.

By the early 20's evening grosbeaks were spreading out not only in their travels but also on their breeding grounds. Manitoba and northern coniferous forests north of Lake Superior were added to the original nesting areas. Four young were found in Vermont in the summer of 1926, one in Mass. in 1937, one in Maine in 1946, and a fair number in New York in 1947. Young birds were discovered in Ontario in the late 30's and early 40's. By the early 50's nests were found at a number of points in Quebec.

After the breeding period these gregarious birds wandered erratically eastward in large groups, following food routes. The planting of Manitoba maples (or box elders) offered a temptation. Mountain ash berries and old apples because of their seeds drew birds on.

MAY ARRIVE ANYTIME

Of late, these unpredictable birds have been seen in the east almost every month of the year — but the time and place can never be foretold. From May until September reports come from the Laurentians and the shores of the St. Lawrence below Quebec City. They descend upon the most settled parts of Ontario and Quebec in any winter month, sometimes as early as October.

Though some of us have seen parents feeding the young choke cherries, from which they have carefully removed the stones, later on the flocks are most likely to linger where Manitoba maples grow, and remain there until every last seed has been demolished.

The slow, deliberate movements of evening grosbeaks make them easy to watch, and they allow us to approach near enough to observe with the naked eye. Their habit of picking up seeds that have fallen on fresh, white snow shows up their beauty, especially when sun strikes their golden feathers.

The evening grosbeak population is increasing by leaps and bounds. If we want to make sure of having these birds around we should see that sunflower seeds are put on feeding trays to supplement their natural food supply.

A Gift for Living

The Handwriting on the Wall

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

When we say a person has seen "the handwriting on the wall," we mean he has seen the sign of divine judgment on what he is doing. It implies the beginning of the end.

While we all probably know this saying, we may not all know its origin in the story of Belshazzar's feast. Belshazzar was the son of Nebuchadnezzar, the powerful Babylonian king who in the sixth century before Christ captured Jerusalem and carried away many hostages and much treasure. Nebuchadnezzar attained such power that the eastern world trembled at his step. But his latter years were pathetic. His power slipped, he became senile and his end was inglorious.

Belshazzar learned nothing from his father's fall. His own head was turned to vanity when he ascended the throne. The day came when he made a great feast for his courtiers. Drunk with wine, he ordered to have brought the sacred vessels which his father Nebuchadnezzar had carried away from the temple at Jerusalem. From these golden cups Belshazzar and his riotous party drank freely and further polluted themselves. Then the record in the Book of Daniel is that there appeared a handwriting on the wall. The king became frightened and summoned his soothsayers to interpret the writing. When they were unable to translate it, Daniel was called. And among the words he saw there was this sentence: "Thou art weighed in the balance and art found wanting."

Consider the verdict pronounced on Belshazzar. That verdict was based on three charges in the indictment which Daniel read against the king. I shall deal with only one of them.

DID NOT LEARN

The first charge was this: Belshazzar had not humbled himself before the Lord. He had seen the fate of his father, but he had not learned humility. He was guilty of the pride of self-sufficiency.

In history the seven deadly sins the church fathers put pride first. At first we may be inclined to wonder at this, for pride is not "a monster of such frightful mien as to be hated needs but to be seen." Pride is not a vicious sin like murder, or a shabby sin like lust. It does not look so very deadly, and therein lies part of its deadliness. It is the poisonous combination of some quite wholesome qualities. We encourage pride in one's work as a spur to achievement. We encourage belief in oneself as a cure for inferiority. We encourage self-reliance as a recipe for independence and individual enterprise. Then, alas, these good traits can so easily be perverted into a self-sufficiency which deadens the nerve that detects sin and hardens the arteries that feed virtue. Pride may begin as a wholesome stimulant, and then may go on to become a deadly drug.

The very virtues which make for material progress become the pride of self-sufficiency until men think they can get along without God. And when a nation tries to get along without God, it gets a dictator. We can count ourselves so clever that we do not feel the need of God. Dazzled by man's inventions, riding on trains and in aeroplanes, driving motors, counting on man's political science to solve our social ills and man's medical science to cure our bodily pains — we feel no daily dependence on God. Our forefathers lived closer to the soil. They were directly dependent on God's rain, God's sun, God's good earth. They planted; God gave the increase. Yes, the machine age, with all the blessings it has brought, has lessened the sense of dependence on God, and thereby has encouraged the pride of self-sufficiency.

SELF-DESTRUCTION

Two devastating world wars should have taught us that human cleverness cannot save us. About two years ago General Omar Bradley warned that our scientific advance has exceeded only in aggravating the peril of self-destruction. He said that "we are now speeding toward a day when even the ingenuity of our scientists may be unable to save us from the consequences of a single rash act of a lone reckless hand upon the switch of an uninterceptible missile." If we cannot control the arms race, we shall find the handwriting on the wall.

As we look toward the forthcoming summit conference, our hopes are fortified by the knowledge that the American, English and French heads of state all recognize a Higher Power before whom they humbly bow. Let us pray that Mr. Khrushchev, who used the name of God in his recent visit here, may realize that God does have the last word in any summit conference.

When the League of Nations was meeting at Geneva some 40 years ago, a delegate wrote that there was every fear there except the fear of God. But not so in 1960.

Mrs. McAvoy who has been a patient in the Belleville General Hospital for three weeks, has returned to the home of her sister, Mrs. George A. Lee, 70 Cedar street.

Mr. William Levesque, R.R. 2 Belleville, is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Connie Donaldson entertained a few of her friends last evening at her home, 120 West Moira Street, on the occasion of her 10th birthday.

The evening was spent in dancing and games, after which a delightful repast was enjoyed, including a birthday cake.

Connie was the recipient of lovely gifts, money, and a host of well wishes.

W.C.T.U. Pays Tribute to Founder

The February meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held at the "Y" at which loving tributes were paid to the founder, Frances Willard. Eighty years ago she organized the Union which now encircles the globe with a million members.

It was the first society to unite the women, in an effort to protect the home against the ravages of strong drink.

The women gathered in army proportion, going from door to door of home, into the saloons, singing hymns and praying and pleading with men, even begging all the eloquence of their mother hearts. In 30 days the liquor traffic was driven from 250 town and villages.

SOCIAL DRINKING PROBLEM

Today, the women must still carry on this work, to solve the problem of social drinking, and women can do it. This is their challenge! "Let us unite in our efforts". This is an opportunity of service of a definite kind.

"Education" is National Health Week and this is the 16th annual health week sponsored by the Health League of Canada. It embraces a large field, T.B., Arthritis and infantile paralysis, mental illness. Alcohol has an affinity for brain tissue.

Out of 139,608 alcoholics in mental institutions in (1953-55), 24,188 were women, having permanent brain damage — steering from alcohol. (Sc. Temperance Journal).

The United Nations heading office reports: "The communities' death rate, crime rate and accident rate are increasing at twice the average alcohol consumption". Seventy million women, so does death, crime and accident rate."

Dr. J. K. W. Ferguson, chairman of the medical advisory board of Canada Alcoholism Research Foundation says, "Alcoholism is a public health problem. It is important to use the methods of prevention to reduce the problem."

CHRISTIAN POSSESSIONS

The devotional period was taken by Mrs. S. Bertrand. The subject considered was "The Christian Use of Possessions". Even small offerings of service can be dedicated to God. Mozart, with his string violin, did wonders. The boy with the loaves and fishes served well the Master.

"Current Events" of interest, was conducted by Mrs. Meyers.

Mrs. Vandervoort reported on World and Canadian Affairs.

The W.C.T.U. has missions in India, Central and South America, the Near East and the Philippines.

The slip sheet was on Frances Willard. A panel of ladies, Miss Barnum, Meadames Coates, Stanton and Cook, gave interesting facts of her life and work.

Mr. Doug Paten kindly favored with a film entitled "United Brotherhood," showing the work of the Y.M.C.A. around the world, which all enjoyed.

Wife Preserves

Applying make-up around the eyes will make you old before your time, if you aren't careful. The skin in that area is very delicate and make-up should be applied gently to avoid wrinkles later.

Chi Rho Club Holds Valentine Party

Taking time out from the fellowship's current membership drive, the members of Christ Church Chi Rho Rho were treated to a well rounded program of rousing entertainment Wednesday evening prepared under the capable leadership of Gregory. Amid joyful red and white decorations and the gaily coloured lunch tables, the atmosphere was elated in keeping with Valentine's Day spirit.

Phyllis Peters took charge of the program and in a pleasing manner and wasted no time bringing out the acting abilities of the members surprising a few of the old but well loved group participationist games.

TWO PARTS

Split into two parts, the groups went into the most unique expressions of the theatrical and comedy realities of well-known nursery rhymes and proverbs for the bewildered onlookers. The hilarious demonstrations resulted in three and one half hours passing unnoticed.

Following came an organized "dual of elbows," set to music, known to most as musical chairs. On two occasions, members sat down on chairs that didn't exist and were declaimed by the bruised recipients, "were not there."

The winners in the two bouts were Ev. Warwick, by acclamation, and Bill Back, who was cut to prove "men should never be separated" and was awarded with loaded with women". The games "Slip Mink" pursued with the members forming a circle and holding on to their mates than "Simon Says" which found members fairly screaming for attention with some skilful and more gentle repair and dancing got under way.

SPOT DANCE

Spot dance awards went to Ev Warwick the comforting of the people and Herb Cavalier. The pace was again quickened as square dance, jive and rock 'n roll were well and critically, to be able to distinguish between rumours and half-truths, between truths and un-truths.

Mrs. Seville was thanked by Mr. Fleming.

Mr. Back kindly closed the meeting with prayer and refreshments were served by the mothers of the group, Mrs. Bertrand, Mrs. Beirne, Mrs. O'Connor, Mrs. Dustin and Mrs. Meagher.

Mother's Helper

ONE of the nicest things you can do for your new mother-in-law is to help their children get acquainted quickly with their children and their friends. Ask them over for an informal Howdy Party—nothing fancy or highly organized. Simple refreshments with which they can help themselves are an excellent shyness-preventive.

St. Joseph's PTA Hears Talk On Education

The February meeting of St. Joseph's P.T.A. was opened with prayer by the spiritual director, the Rev. J. J. Buckley. The president, Mr. Nick Mayrocco, took the attendance count. The award was given to Mrs. Meagher's room.

The suggestion was made regarding the safety of umbrella forms for the school girls, which it was felt this matter be held in abeyance.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Murray O'Connor introduced the guest speaker, Mr. E. Sproule, Public School Inspector for Belleville. Mr. Sproule spoke of the aims of the Board of Education, with the help of the children, not only academically, but also socially in their own environment, towards the understanding of the people of other countries. He stressed the importance of reading. A child learns to read well and critically, to be able to distinguish between rumours and sented by Phyllis Peters, Pat Tucker and Marion Bleeker.

President, Marg Eagle, announced lunch, that the Chi Rho would attend the evening church service on Music next meeting date, March 2nd and will return to the upstairs parish hall for a games period afterward. All interested in attending will be most welcome.

This - - - and That

BY HARRIET STEVENS

We were in a downtown shop this week begging for postage stamps. How many women who have the family snapping to do, have to appear in a baby sitter at home or two or three kiddies trailing along, or who are maybe not as young as they used to be or for any one of countless reasons, find shopping by mail a convenience of the old post office location? It would be interesting to know how many of the post offices watched one and by the expression of her face, or the curve of her lips worked one could imagine what the person was for, but what one imagined into print.

And have you heard the rumour that shoppers who, for decades knew they could slip handily into the old location to register a letter, to buy a money order, to purchase stamps or to mail a parcel, would now have to sub post office downtown? Does the present location have such a rumor or if it is true? The merchants from whom we secured this being told that he was being literally swamped and although he is hoping to accommodate people he cannot assist anyone who wants to get a parcel away or register a letter at the store. Number of women have enquired if we knew what was to be done, but of course we cannot oblige. It might be a public service if the citizens of Belleville were told authoritatively whether or not the stories about the rounds are truth or fiction.

This past week we have had a wonderful response about enquiries over the air concerning the birds. One woman says she is ready soon a robin. It is rather nice to think in terms of robins with the hope that snow tires can soon be laid away for the summer. One thing we have noticed this winter is that the birds we have observed in the city are different, from the winter birds you see in the country. Possibly some naturalist could tell us whether this is purely a figment of our imagination. Across from our windows, a neighbor who must love the birds has a feeder and it has been fascinating watching the birds at his feeder. We have even noticed that he uses a different type feeder when he drives home in his car. A friend suggested to us recently that we put a birds flock to a feeder and remain to gorge, it is during severe cold or stormy weather ahead. The birds ordinarily would come during quiet times during clear weather but if dirty weather threatens they stock up on the feeding. Have you been noticed the number of feeders throughout the city?

The writer we are associated with radio and newspaper, there more we are made aware of the amount of talent existing in this community among women. We thought has often occurred that a worthy project might be to list some of the women in a directory. The finest natural product of any nation and any community within the national boundaries is its people. It has never attempted to keep any records but every a year's period we receive several thousand communications by letter, by telephone and through personal contact.

We are fortunate in having the shifting personnel at the RCAF Trenton Station which has an international flavor. There is Indiana and the untapped resources of the large new Canadian element. There has been a varied and interesting growth of population at Banquet which may be transient if the uranium industry fails. Then there is the wealth of talent right within our permanent women's organizations like the Women's Institutes, church groups, social service groups, etc. We are sure we could compile a local list of guest speakers that would amaze us. Our untapped natural resources in talent may be discovered in the woman sitting next to us at any meeting. Some folk who delude themselves they can look from ivory towers and tell us how we should think, what we should buy, and what we like, should mingle with people.

Business Women Mark 26th Anniversary of Federation

The Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club celebrated the 26th anniversary of its International Federation at the regular monthly meeting held earlier this week in the banquet room of the Belmont Restaurant, and the event was marked by an impressive candlelight ceremony conducted by Miss Joy Nichols, charter president, assisted by Miss Vera Keegan.

Miss Mildred Hall, president, was chairman for the evening.

Mrs. Simone McFadden read a message from the International president, Miss Elisabeth Pelzer, Horgen (Zurich), Switzerland. In it she brought a plea "that members think deeply on the International Theme for 1960, "Bringing Together Orient and Occident".

INTERNATIONAL APPROACH

All in human federations attitude of approach should arise, because quite specific economic and cultural problems are inherent in the words themselves, it is an opportunity that both at our globe, everyone is East of somebody and West of somebody else; although the East and Occident mean quite definite regions, the attitude towards our international approach is as one member of the family to another. Our first attempt to learn from each other and to work together should be directed towards our members will give us the strength to help to build up world peace for which we as women have such a particular responsibility.

During the business agenda it was announced that the club would hold its annual coffee party early in May. Miss Mildred Hall, retiring club head, will represent the club at the International Convention to be held at the Royal York Hotel on March 19th.

DISCUSSION

The program of the evening was a panel discussion headed by Miss Mildred Hall, chairman of the 1959 U.N. Fellowship awarded by the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. The discussion concerned the Report on the study of the Status of Women Commission held in Geneva in March 1959. It was explained that six main organs make up the United Nations, namely, the General Assembly, the Security Council, the Economic and Social Council, the Trusteeship Council, the International Court of Justice and the Secretariat.

The Committee on the Status of Women Commission is a subsidiary body of the Economic and Social Council, referred to as ECOSOC. There were 18 state members. Canada commission including Canada which was sitting as a member state for the 3rd time. Other states are S. Quart, Quebec City, was the Canadian delegate, with Miss Marion Boyce of the Women's Bureau, Ottawa, as alternate. Their chief was Mr. Derek Arnold.

VARIED INTERESTS

Many observers and representatives of international organizations were present and she commented on the wide and varied interests participated. Among these were representatives of the World, All-India Women's Conference, Commission of the Churches on International Affairs, International Council of Women, Pan-American Federation of University Women, World Council of Catholic Women's Organizations, Young Women's Christian Associations and many others.

The Business and Professional Women's delegation was made up of Miss Margaret P. Hyndman, Q.C. of Montreal, Miss Esther W. Hymer, New York, N.Y., Begum Shah Nawaz, Karachi, Pakistan (International Federation vice-president) and Mrs. Irene Halg, Belleville.

CONSULTATIVE STATUS

The discussion holds consultative status as an ECOSOC report on reporting Mrs. Halg said "After the meeting, it was interesting and hearing plans for the work of the year. It was pointed out to me that, as the work of the Status of Women Commission continues and grows, the role of the non-governmental organizations in this field will increase".

They play a substantial part in the work of gathering material and information upon which reports are based and thus laying a foundation for discussions. Equally important is the role they can and must play in implementing the decisions arrived at by the Commission."

In concluding, she urged members to avail themselves of the many opportunities to keep informed and interested in the work of the United Nations.

Participating in the panel discussion were Mrs. Simone McFadden, who attended the first seminar conducted by the Ontario Business and Professional Women's Clubs in April, 1953, and Miss Ruth McMullen, who attended the second seminar. Both were held at the United Nations Headquarters, New York City.

Club Activities

WEDDING RING CLUB

The Wedding Ring Club held its monthly meeting on Tuesday evening in Colleges Hall Sunday School with a good crowd in attendance.

Vice-President Boyd Moorcroft took the chair in the absence of President Charles Day.

After a brief business session, the social hour followed when Carman and Doris Sine's group of devotional entertainment, Carman Sine read the theme, "Look, Hurt, and Live". Then McDonald read the Scripture. Lists February led in prayer.

Reg. Fulton conducted a Bible quiz.

FILM SHOWN

The group viewed a beautiful film on the Canard Line, using the new projector recently purchased by Trinity Hill Church to which the club had made a donation. All were pleased to see the first picture to use this new projector.

Games on the Valentine theme were much enjoyed. Refreshments concluded the evening.

A Grain of Mustard Seed

If the majority of the peoples of the world were willing to put into practice faith in God and His principles, there would be no widespread fear at large in the world today. There would be no fear of war expressed in nuclear progress. There would be first evidences of return of moral stability, no marked fear of economic crisis.

Our papers and periodicals are full of accounts of youthful crime. We read of juvenile delinquency in a frenzied, worldwide rush from responsibility to the rooftops the inevitable and complete moral degeneration of man.

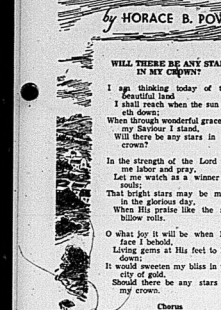
Perhaps it is time we distinguished between juvenile delinquency and substituted adult delinquency, bewildered people of a bewildered age.

There is one reason and one reason only for the confusion encountered and exhibited by today's society. It is simply a gradual moving away from the time honored, simple principles of Christian living. That is, faith as we know it today is an empty, meaningless word in the soft earth of stagnant living. Faith is a dead issue and transforms when the wolves of difficulty and hardship howl at the door. Faith in ourselves, envy living indulged in by the majority of people in the world, strifes and destroys faith and the hardy courage born of faith.

Here are two powerful nations, Russia and China, at peace and harmony over a great period of years. We have set an example of harmonious living for the countries of Europe to emulate. Instead, we have set an example of harmonious living for the countries of Europe to emulate. Instead, we have set an example of harmonious living for the countries of Europe to emulate. Instead, we

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL



WILL THERE BE ANY STARS IN MY CROWN?

I sgn thinking today of that beautiful land
I shall reach when the sun goeth down;
When through wonderful grace by my Saviour I stand,
Will there be any stars in my crown?

In the strength of the Lord let me labor and pray,
Let me watch as a winner of souls;
That bright stars may be mine in the glorious day,
When His praise like the sea billow rolls.

O what joy it will be when His face I behold,
Living gems at His feet to lay down;
It would sweeten my bliss in the city of gold,
Should there be any stars in my crown.

Chorus

Will there be any stars, any stars in my crown,
When at evening the sun goeth down?
When I wake with the blest in the mansions of rest,
Will there be any stars in my crown?

Sunday Schools of the nineties could never have managed without the hymns of Miss Elizabeth Hewitt, who wrote "Will There Be Any Stars In My Crown?" and a host of other favorites.

Born in Philadelphia, in 1851, Miss Hewitt planned to make teaching her life work but her career was interrupted when a spinal ailment made her an invalid. Later, her health improved sufficiently for her to take a course in English literature and she began to write poems for children which brought her into the public eye. Her poems and hymns attracted the interest, followed is best revealed in her hymn, 'More About Jesus", still popular in Sunday Schools and young people's assemblies, in which she sang:

"More about Jesus would I know,
More of His grace to others show;
More of His saving fullness see,
More of His love who died for me.
More about Jesus let me learn,
More of His holy will discern,
Spirit of God, my teacher be,
Showing the things of Christ to me."

John R. Sweney, Pennsylvania musician and choir leader, who set many of her words to music.

During the Civil War, Mr. Sweney was leader of the 28th Ware Third Regiment band and following the war he taught for many years at a military academy at Chester, Pa. During those years he was in demand as a song leader at summer resorts, meetings and evangelistic services.

Miss Hewitt loved to sing of Heaven and most of her hymns — like the one reproduced here — were written on that theme. The deep spiritual nature from which her devotional songs to say, had also restored and performed Clementi's First Symphony a few weeks earlier in Tulsa. "These hearings of the First and Second symphonies constitute the outstanding event of the Italian music season. Their restoration to the world's artistic patrimony is a happening of great interest for music history. They suddenly reveal Muzio Clementi as one of the great masters of the modern symphony.

"These works bridge the vital transitional period between the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries when circumstances and over hasty criticism obliged Italy of the honour of having contributed to the development of symphonic art. A serious gap in the history of Italian symphony is now filled".

ADAGIO: January 4th, 1937. In Boston, Massachusetts, a man sat at his desk engaged in writing a letter: "It is a pleasure to me to let you know that I am performing the Clementi symphony in New York on Thursday evening, January 7, and the performance will be broadcast (from 8:45 to 9:30 p.m.) over the NBC network". It was signed: Serge Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Symphony Hall, Boston. It was addressed to Caroline Clementi, Belleville Ontario.

"We were standing on the very grave of the renowned artistor of our neighbor, Ing. L. C. (Caroline Clementi) Patrick, 228 Dufferin Avenue..."

(Part II) — January 1960. Today, Second Glance had the delightful honor of meeting the great, great grand-daughter of the famous Muzio Clementi. We are indebted to Mrs. Patrick, who, with charming modesty and understanding, has so graciously made available letters and information pertaining to one of the world's greatest composers. We thank her sincerely. Belleviewgnite: We would also like to express our thanks to Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Finkle who made the foregoing introduction possible. On such likeness and interest does this column stand, rest and depend, and is most welcomed and appreciated. The above conicidence came about last year, when the Finkles went to Europe to visit their daughter, son-in-law and grandchild, stationed in Belgium. One of the sights of Europe which impressed Mrs. Finkle most, she says, was the Cathedral of Notre Dame in Paris.

"I always thought the Rose Window in Bridge Street Church so lovely and huge. And so it is. But, imagine my amazement to see eighteen such windows arranged beneath one huge, huge Rose Window, it's simply awesome, inspiring and unforgettable."

AN EMBARRASSING FAUX PAS

I recently watched a rather interesting little mode which evening tea with a friend in a popular hotel lounge.

Mrs. Inexperienced was seated at a nearby table with several of the banker's associates, and while the room were two women, both acquaintances of his wife, Mr. Inexperienced endeavored to attract their attention and finally succeeded in doing so. They nodded a greeting to him. Feeling expansive, Mr. Inexperienced then summoned his waiter and asked him to see that drinks were delivered to the ladies across the room, and, of course, the charge was to be put on his bill.

It became obvious that the women would have preferred to decline, but, not wanting to embarrass Mr. Inexperienced who was bowing and smiling in their direction, they gave the order to the waiter, and asked him to express their thanks to Mr. Inexperienced. All during this play, the men at Mr. Inexperienced's table had been forced to interrupt their conversation while Mr. Inexperienced was accomplishing his coup.

In my opinion, Mr. Inexperienced was presumptuous in his gesture. It would have been much better to have simply bowed to the ladies and let it go at that. His actions only succeeded in calling attention to them in a brilliant conversation. The mere fact that a woman acquaintance is dining in the same room does not give a man the prerogative to become her host, by way of the waiter. Granted that Mr. Inexperienced's intentions were of the best, he could be convicted in making the women conspicuous by his actions.

If Mr. Inexperienced wished to be particularly thoughtful he should have excused himself from his group of friends, and gone over to the ladies' table. If asked to join them for a moment, he could then, with their permission, have summoned the waiter, and ordered. Remember, only one enough to join them in the drink, chatting briefly, he would then have returned to his table. I am sure that this mode of approach would have been far less embarrassing to the recipients of Mr. Inexperienced's attentions.

Question: Does a man at an office rise when his secretary for any other woman employee enters his office? Should he rise if a client pays a call, whether it be a man or a woman?

Answers: He does not rise when any woman employee enters his office, nor does he pull up a chair for her if she is, for example, coming in to take dictation. He does stand, immediately when a client comes in, be it man or woman. If a woman, he should help seat her. If a man, he seats himself. Always stand and escort them to the door when they leave.

Mixed Up. — I don't want that man around my children.

Rose S. — Tom has brought me romance again.

Mickey S. — Should a man be held responsible for a promise he made at 19 when he didn't know any better?

My wife and I were married then and we agreed that if our romance ever faded we would part. We wouldn't stand in the way of one another's freedom and we wouldn't make any fuss about it.

* * *

Now we have two kids and Rose has gotten involved in an affair with a man she claims to love madly. She says he'll marry her as soon as she gets a divorce, but frankly I have my doubts. I heard this guy was in jail on a morals charge once. Do I have to have him act as father to my children?

* * *

Rose S. — All of a sudden Mickey starts talking like the big responsible father. He seems to have forgotten about the time he was running around when I was pregnant and the time he hit our little daughter so hard a neighbor came rushing in to see what the screams were all about.

* * *

The five years of our married life have just been awful for me. Mickey never took me out and it wasn't until I met Tom that I went out to dinner. Mickey just shrugged when I told him I was going out with another man.

That story about Tom having been in jail is just gossip. He'll swore it to me and I believe him.

* * *

The Council: No Mickey does not have to have a suspicious character take over his children, wife and home, but he will have to fight tooth and nail to save all three.

LETTER:

The following idea is original as far as I know, and I thought you might be interested. To make a tomato aspic, instead of using plain gelatine, use a package of raspberry jelly powder. Add the liquid as the kind with the "flavor bud". I remove the flavor bud and save it — just put it back in the package. Just make the aspic in the usual way (using tomato juice instead of water).

quite fond of the digestive cookies and wondered why I couldn't make them myself if you have a recipe. In case you don't, I'll be very pleased to have it . . . Ruth Y.

ANSWER:

As you know, Ruth, you are referring to a commercial product. I do not have the recipe but can give you one for graham wafers. Make these up exactly as the recipe gives the ingredients. Then, when you make your next batch reduce the amount of sugar, for the biscuits to which you refer are only slightly sweet. Keep reducing the amount of sugar until you think you have gone far enough, for it will change the texture of the finished biscuit.

GRAHAM WAFERS:

1 cup shortening, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup granulated sugar, 2 cups white flour, 4 cups graham flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, ½ to 1 cup sweet or sour milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream shortening and sugar together until fluffy. Add vanilla. Sift flour. Measure, and add salt, soda and baking powder. Sift again. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Mix thoroughly after each addition. Chill dough in refrigerator overnight. In the morning turn out on floured board and roll as thin as possible. Cut in squares or any shape desired. Place 1" apart on a greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until crisp and a golden brown. Makes about 6 dozen cookies.

Use the flavor bud to color and flavor icing for a cake. Dissolve it in a very small amount, about 1 tablespoon, boiling water, then stir over hot water until it is completely dissolved, add the usual ingredients for a butter icing. If you want to use it in a "feminine frosting," just add the flavor bud when you are beating the icing and it will dissolve. The aspic is a delicate shade of red. The icing is a pale pink with a delightful raspberry flavor. The flavor bud will keep in a package for weeks just on the pantry shelf, if necessary. You could use strawberry jelly powder with the same result. I like the raspberry flavor better, it tastes more like the real thing.

Musio Clementi, Composer

By VIVA RICHMOND GRAHAM

"The sonata is justly regarded as one of the highest forms of composition. The usual movements are: Allegro, Adagio, Scherzo and Presto."—History of Music (Hunt).

Here is indeed a sonata; its melody, prose-written by the years, in tribute to a great composer, whom Belleville music lovers may come for his descendant lives amongst us.

SCHERZO — February 1954:—

One has the feeling that all the great masters have opened their hearts and told their stories in chamber music meant to be performed and listened to by a few people at a time). The human side of a genius is much more transparent in small settings.

So says the Montreal pianist, John Newmark, whose predilection for early chamber music had done much to give it a Canadian audience. In an interview for the weekly (Feb. 21-29) C.B.C. Times, he says, besides his radio work, he makes tours of the Province of Quebec playing chamber music. "With all this and, of course, my Clementi piano, there's plenty to keep me in Canada."

We read further, "During recent years Mr. Newmark has admitted to the favored company of our most brilliant public repertoire, music written for the Clementi piano. One of these rare old instruments, discovered in an antique shop in Upliant, Michigan, came into his possession in 1951."

Mr. Newmark feels that its value like any piano of the period lies in the authentic interpretation it can give to all the keyboard music written around the time of Mozart, Haydn and the entire Mannheim school. "I like many instruments, but only when there works are played on the instruments for which they were written can be composer's true intentions be discovered," he declares.

Appreciative letters follow his broadcasts, on his Clementi piano. "The letters have revealed that two great grandsons of the famous man who built his piano in 1810, Muzio Clementi, are now living in Canada. The sister of one of them lives in Peterborough, Ontario, and has a Clementi piano which was (and used by the piano builder (and composer) in his own home in England. Another result of the broadcasts is a plan of Hallmark Recordings of Toronto to issue a record of Newmark playing works of Philipp Emanuel, Bach, Haydn and Clementi on his own Clementi piano."

Allegro: January 1960. The thunderous Italian applause of the glittering Roman musical au-dience was heard it!" exclaimed one Italian gentleman to his friend who answered, "To think we lost Muzio Clementi, the only Italian composer of piano forte music during the latter half of the 18th and first half of the 19th centuries to England, where he exercised a remarkable influence upon the art of pianoforte playing."

"Yes", replied the other, "They said he was a prince among teachers. He it was who wrote 'Gradus ad Parnassum' and twelve Sonatas . . ."

"And these these men spoke, the foreign music correspondent for the New York Times hastened away to write an account which appeared February 16, 1936, and read in part —

"A novelty of prime importance was the first Italian hearing of the excerpts of the Second and Fourth symphonies of Muzio Clementi, reconstructed by Casella a century after their disappearance and conducted by him . . . in Rome".

HARVEST IN MALAYA — This Chinese girl harvests pineapples in Malaya, multi-racial country which became a self-governing member of the British Commonwealth in 1957. More than 37 per cent of the population of the tropical Asian nation is Chinese. Nearly half is Malaysian, about 12 per cent is Indian, and Europeans and others make up slightly more than one per cent. The government, having turned back serious opposition from Communist rebels, has laid out a program for increasing economic prosperity during the 1960s. (CP Photo).

Malaya, Newest Member In Commonwealth, Bases Her Strength on Rubber, Tin

COMMONWEALTH 1960
By FREDERICK GERMAN

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters) — Malaya, 10th and newest member of the British Commonwealth, enters the 1960s with a year of record prosperity behind it and the anticipation of another to come.

With its economic strength still based on rubber and tin, the country is endeavoring to diversify its economy by seeking self-sufficiency in food production and by encouraging overseas capital investment by a system of "tax holidays."

The avowedly conservative government of Tunku (Prince) Abdul Rahman is firmly in the saddle.

The once-menacing guerrilla forces of communist terrorism have dwindled to an estimated 700 remnants holed up in the remote Thai border country and harried daily by troops.

MALAY LANGUAGE

In this multi-racial tropical land where the Malays are already outnumbered by other races, there have in the past been sporadic outbursts of inter-racial violence. But the Government, forging ahead with plans to create a national Malayan consciousness and to introduce Malay as the official language to replace English, believes that this danger is less than it was when Malaya became independent on August 31, 1957.

The census of 1957 shows that 49.7 per cent of the population is Malay-Sakai (Malay, Indonesian or Aborigine), 37.1 per cent Chinese, 11.8 Indian, and 1.4 per cent others including Europeans.

The pattern by which the Malays are basically the country's administrators and the Chinese the traders has been maintained although strenuous efforts are being made to bring about greater Malay participation in business.

Kuala Lumpur, the capital, is just 100 years old and has all the aspects of a boom town. Office and residential space is at a premium, the narrow streets are blocked with rush hour traffic and tall office buildings are springing up.

OLD AND NEW

Food hawkers cry their wares outside 16-storey banks and on the outskirts of town the traditional Malay thatched homes perched on stilts are gradually being pushed back.

In the industrial centre of Petaling Jaya new factories are turning out products ranging from cement and car batteries to baby food under the Government's five-year "tax holiday" scheme. It has stimulated investment worth an estimated 150,000,000 Malayan dollars ($46,725,000 Canadian).

Unofficial sources say that about 200,000,000 dollars ($61,410,000) in capital has reached the country from Chinese in Hong Kong, Singapore and Indonesia.

Much state development money has been earmarked for a program to raise living standards of the country population, which makes up about 75 per cent of the whole population of some 6,300,000.

LEFT DIVIDED

On the political side, the left wing is weak and divided and the government regards the conservative, communal Pan Malayan Islamic Party as its most serious rival. This group, which wants all overseas British Commonwealth servicemen out of the country and a theocratic Moslem state set up, won state elections in the remote east coast states of Kelantan and Trengganu.

The party also has strong support in some other rural areas but the government hopes to counter its appeal through the state rural development plans.

In the field of external affairs, Malaya has taken a strong and independent line on many subjects. Strongly anti - communist, it nonetheless has refused to join the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and has attacked France on Algeria, South Africa on racial segregation and China on Tibet.

A Malayan appeal for a South-east Asia friendship and economic treaty has so far won support from South Viet nam, Thailand and the Philippines.

With rubber markets sound and Malaya taking over from Indonesia as the world's largest exporter and with the rest of the economy burgeoning, Malayan officials say they will, in 1960, be able to claim they have the richest and most stable country in the entire Southeast Asian area.

Brookdale F.F. Discusses Price Trends for Foods

SIDNEY — Ten members of Brookdale Farm Forum met this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lott. The topic was the discussion of the report of the commission's findings on "the squeeze between prices paid to producers and those charged to consumers."

They came to the conclusion that the commission findings will never help the primary producer because the price the producer receives as well as the consumer price and all the services as advertising, processing and packaging are manipulated by a band of financial wizards who make a study of the buying power of the consumer and tack on sufficient charges for the above mentioned services to extract all the spread that the traffic will stand.

In support of these charges for services, reference was made of consumer demand for smaller and more attractive packages. It is believed that these financial wizards were smart enough to see the possibilities of this field, put the idea into operation and the consumer accepted it.

PROCESSED FOODS

The same applies to most processed foods. It was the consumer demand that started the processing and packaging of many of the basic foods. Some forth brain conceived the idea of taking some of these wholesome farm products and blending with it some product with less food value and in some cases at a lower price and by extensive eye-appealing packaging are able to extract a consumer price far in excess of that of the original product. Apparently the consumer has accepted the idea.

While the commission has pointed up some of these facts, just who is going to do anything about it?

The following three recommendations are good:

1. That the government of Canada maintain a firm position in defence of staple level of domestic prices. People should be better educated as to the food values in these attractively packaged packets.

ADVERTISING BASED ON PRICE

2. Advertising alone raises the prices of commodities; e.g., consumer dollars spent on these products.

3. If stamps are going to be used they should be redeemable for cash. A much better way would be patronage dividends similar to those paid by co-operatives.

MARMORA

Thomson Clan Descendant at C.I. Dedication

MARMORA — Mr. and Mrs. James Thomson and children, David and Mary-Ann, attended the dedication of Scarboro township's $1,750,000 Collegiate institute which bears the name of Thomson, to honor David and Mary Glendening Thomson, the first to settle there among the Indians.

The modern collegiate institute stands on the site of the farm where this Scottish couple from Dumfriesshire, Scotland, built their cabin and raised a family of 11 children, of whom the clan historian, Mrs. Ethel MacPherson, can trace 2,100 living descendants.

Archibald and William Thomson, brothers of David, later came to Canada and settled on farms adjoining. Land was donated for the building of the first church in Scarboro in 1831 and in this St. Andrew's cemetery, the early Thomsons and settlers are buried.

David Thomson fought in the war of 1812 under General Brock, as captain of 3rd York Militia, and records show his company was present at the surrender of Detroit in 1812. He died at the age of 74 and his wife 13 years later at the age of 80.

James (Jim) Thomson of Marmora, is a son of the late Dr. David Thomson, general practitioner in Marmora for many years, and is a possible great-great-grandson.

3 Youngsters Finally Caught In Crime Binge

VANCOUVRE (CP) — Three desperadoes went on a five-hour crime spree here Wednesday night, setting fire finally, looting three vehicles and even robbing a bank. They were finally caught trying to steal a tricycle.

The three, aged six, seven and nine, two of them brothers, were later turned over to their parents as youth squad detectives investigated.

Police told this story of the boys' activities:

5 p.m.—They set a telephone book on fire in a public phone booth. The blaze burned out with only minor damage.

5:05 p.m.—They set fire to a bus-injection car.

7 p.m.—They set fire to a garbage can. A resident chased them but they escaped.

7:20 p.m.—They stole tools from a parked truck and threw them into nearby bushes.

8:29 p.m.—They broke into a branch of the Imperial Bank by smashing a rear window and stole 36 pennies from a teller's cage.

Bank manager Jack Perkins said all other money and records were locked in the vault, "but it's annoying to think that kids could be that cheeky."

8:55 p.m.—They started another garbage - can fire. This one threatened nearby buildings until a resident put it out.

9 p.m.—They took rags and papers from a parked car and started another fire.

9:45 p.m.—They stole a flashlight from a parked car.

10 p.m.—A resident captured the boys after they stole a raincoat from his car and were trying to make off with his child's tricycle.

NATO Nearing Agreement on Unified Defence

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—NATO is reported to be nearing agreement on a unified air defence command in Europe.

Diplomatic sources say progress is being made in efforts to bridge the gap between French President de Gaulle and the 14 other NATO countries.

The ultimate objective is an integrated command system similar to that Canada and the United States have in NORAD, the North American Air Command setup with headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo.

In the supersonic age, NATO planners argue, a central command is imperative. They say the speed of modern aircraft has made nonsense of national boundaries. One answer would be the incorporation of the national air defence systems into one command, reporting to and directed by a central headquarters.

MEMORIES OF 1940

For various reasons France has opposed this degree of integration. De Gaulle may have memories of 1940, when Britain refused a last-ditch French plea to throw the last of the RAF squdrons into the battle for France.

The problem was heatedly and incisively discussed at the December NATO meeting in Paris, but some NATO officers predicted then that accord would ultimately be reached.

Reports this week from Paris, Washington and London suggested that continuing talks are bringing de Gaulle closer to agreement on this and other issues separating France from other NATO countries.

Low Rate of Misdemeanors Seen in Canadian Force Patrolling Strip in Israel

Jack Brayley, Halifax bureau chief of The Canadian Press, is back in Egypt for the first time since 1957 reporting on activities of the Canadian contingent of the United Nations Emergency Force along the Israeli-Egyptian frontier.

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

RAFAH, Egypt (CP) — Canadians in this area of the United Nations Emergency Force are getting along well not only with their fellow troops but also with their sensitive hosts, the Arabs.

And probably what makes him happiest is that they are getting along well with themselves—with a low rate of misdemeanors. Sometimes they are working hard on a tough job.

DISORDER IS BUSY

But they are no busier than Col. Heuchan himself. He's not only commander of the 900 men in the Canadian support group at the big base here but also camp commandant over Swedes, Norwegians and Indians who serve with his realm. And he looks after the interpretation of logistics for the formations at Rafah. This last chore accompanied his promotion to full colonel when he moved from UNEF headquarters in nearby Gaza where he was chief of logistics.

"I think they gave me the third hat because the telephone system doesn't work too well and they have a heck of a time calling Ottawa," he said with a wry smile. Communications will soon be perfected, however, with the erection of relay towers for voice communication on five channels.

In spite of the fact the force has been "stabilized and static" and its responsibilities more or less cut and dried since the stormy days of its formation in the Suez crisis of 1956, the troops—and especially the Canadians—have had little time for boredom and its accompanying problems of morale deterioration.

TOUGH PATROL

"Covering the toughest 25 miles of patrol along the Sinai international frontier keeps the Canadian recce squadron busy with service and maintenance give the main body of the contingent little spare time," he said.

"I think our Canadians are trying hard and doing a darn good job and I think our men are generally well liked by all who come in contact with us."

A good recreational program of sports, movies, radio programs and canteens looks after spare hours.

Of course there are many restrictions. Most of the Gaza Strip is off-limits—an area cut to itself is closed to visiting UNEF troops at 19 p.m.; the young lads hanging around the gates because of the insularity of the Arabs in this respect; and the men in the forward posts are not allowed to fraternize with the Israelis. This apparently is a step to appease the sensitive Arabs who, after all, are the UNEF hosts and who might be suspicious of the idea of an exchange of social amenities with their declared enemy.

EXCELLENT TRAINING

Col. Heuchan says service in UNEF provides his Canadians with a feeling of action and urgency that keeps them on their toes and provides excellent training under conditions they wouldn't get in one of the big centres in Canada. The reconnaissance squadron — Fort Garry Horse just relieving the Royal Canadian Dragoons — meets the daily challenge of their patrol through the Sinai and gets practical experience in its important role of movement, observation and reporting. The support troops meet a complexity of standards in supply and maintenance of the different national units they serve with an improvisation that's outstanding even for Canadians.

Other health, too, seems good—perhaps better than the relief rotation from Canada. The newly-arrived health of the Fort Garry Horse looked pale alongside the departing Royal Canadian Dragoons, ruddy with health after a year in the wind and sun of the wide desert.

Problems met and defeated by the support group include falling batteries in unusual climatic conditions, deterioration of tyres and tubes because of extremely bad roads over the desert, the abrasive action of sand on engines; and when canvas replacement became a major problem, Canadian engineers evolved masonry huts with corrugated asbestos roofs.

Looking Toward 1960 Duck Season

Recent word from Fish and Wildlife Service indicates that the 1960 duck season in the U.S. will remain unchanged — dates, bag limits, everything the same. Many personals have come in from various parts of the country — some to lengthen the season, and increase the bag limit, others to shorten the season or close it altogether.

It must be remembered that duck migration changes its pattern from year to year. Weather, distribution of food, heavy gun pressure or, perhaps, little or no gun pressure — all of these things affect the behavior of wildfowl. Areas that have few ducks one year may very well have a plenty of ducks the next.

Realizing this, it is obviously not good conservation practice to increase the bag limit or lengthen the season in an area where, for some unaccountable reason, few ducks when the overall supply is low. That extra supply is needed for hatching more youngsters to populate the blank spots of earlier years.

Of course, all duck shooters know this last year was a bad nesting year. The "duck factories" did not produce as well as they normally should, largely because of unfavorable weather and the resultant poor nesting conditions. Last fall inspection of the duck flats substantiated the spring findings. There were ducks were proportionately fewer than expected kills.

Last fall in the central flyway, key upper Missouri River, Dakotas, etc., biologists estimated that there were 1,735,000 ducks in the normally fall concentrating area. That's a powerful lot of birds to be missing from just one flyway. No wonder seasons and bag limits have been cut.

UNEMPLOYMENT

be no unemployment in the Maritimes now."

Mr. Martin outlined a program he felt the government could adopt.

A parliamentary committee should study unemployment; the government as a whole should shoulder responsibility for unemployment instead of leaving it to the labor department; a national advisory board for economic development should be set up; a federal - provincial conference could look for ways to ease the problem; and a labor-management - government consultation should be held.

WOULD ALTER PROGRAM

He also urged a change in the winter works program to make it more suitable for the municipalities and creation of an assistance fund for the Maritimes.

Fernand Browne (PC — Vaudreuil-Soulanges) challenged the government to produce one concrete proposal that would put more men to work immediately. There was no need for political debate or more committees, he said. Opposition members barked back to election statements of Prime Minister Diefenbaker that no one would suffer from unemployment as long as he is prime minister.

James M. Purgie (L—Renfrew North) said that instead of having "a masterpiece of chicanery that stands out like a sore thumb" at a funeral."

Murdo Martin (CCF—Timmins) said there must be an organized war on unemployment. "Let us admit that the battle is lost."

In the last hour of the sitting, the House went on to private bills.

A proposal by Frank Howard (CCF-Skeena) to amend the Canada Fair Employment Practices Act to include civil servants was "talked out." The act provides that there can be no discrimination because of color, religious belief, race, or national origin.

Richard Sutton (PC — Toronto York-Scarborough) said the Assessment Act now is being revised to eliminate unfair taxation due to fake farmers located near residential areas.

In Scarborough some farmers have an assessment of $400 an acre but pay an annual tax of $2,000, he said, while in nearby Markham Township identical land is being assessed at $40 an acre.

THIRD UNIVERSITY

Mr. Sutton also said he plans introduction of legislation to incorporate the University of Scarborough.

During the next 20 years, Scarborough will have as many as 100,000 students at university and Mr. Sutton said, adding that the University of Toronto with 14,000 students is too large for its own good.

A second Toronto-area university, York, was incorporated a few weeks ago and will be located in suburban North York.

CBC REJECTS FILM

Garden Notes

Arranging Your Garden in Glass

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

A London physician, Dr. Nathaniel Ward was interested in moths and butterflies. One day in 1829 he found a chrysalis attached to a twig. He buried the cocoon in soil in a covered glass jar. Some months later he noticed that several small ferns and grasses were growing in the soil.

What happened to the chrysalis we do not know but that was the beginning of the Wardian case as the terrarium was called then. Many Victorian homes had them planted with various plants for decoration.

Originally the case was an oblong box of glass with a glass cover to conserve moisture and keep out dust, drafts and disease. It was also used to carry rare plants from one part of the world to another on long ocean voyages.

CHOICE OF CONTAINERS

The fashion for terrariums is often revived and many odd and beautiful containers have been used. If you would like to make one, a fish bowl, brandy snifter, rose bowl, demijohn, fancy marmalade jar or an old-fashioned glass covered cheese dish, the possibilities are many.

If the bottle has a very narrow neck it will be difficult to arrange and plant your material. A florist will be glad to do it for you.

Prepare the container by washing it thoroughly. Spread a layer one inch deep of sand. Add some crushed charcoal too keep the soil sweet. Next add an inch layer of rich sterile soil. You can use one third soil, sand and peat moss and bake it to kill soil bacteria, or buy soil from your florist. African violet soil, or the organic will do for the soil. You need not be mixed with any other ingredient. If you mix your own soil add a small amount of plant food, or bone meal or plant pill.

Choose very small plants for small containers and ones that grow slowly. They should be good companions, plants that thrive under the same conditions. Plants suitable might include maranta, African violet, miniature ivy, water mellon begonia, and dwarf box.

Another combination could be dwarf plant (plata myrophyllia) miniature ferns and nephyolia. Add some brightly colored rocks, or moss if you wish.

ARRANGING SCENES

Once your container is ready as a garden or woodland setting can be arranged. To these you can add any pretty figurines, seed capsules and miniature figures.

For an open topped pedestal jar or glass bowl you could use a collection of succulents and cacti. These need more air but less humidity. They can get along with less moisture in the soil. In this class you will find aloes, dozens of interesting small cacti plants, haworthia, echeveria, variegated sedums and filmiata, that bright green foliage plant with the white netvine veining.

Terrariums should not be placed in direct sun but need plenty of light to keep the color of the foliage and flowers bright.

If the jar or bottle does not have a top of its own you can use a piece of glass, an inverted bowl, a piece of plastic or paper.

Each night, or when ever the glass mists over, remove the top and allow fresh air to enter and the plants to dry off then put the top on again.

Some terrariums will need a little water every three or four weeks, others may go for three months. It depends upon the type of plants and the humidity of the house. In any case do not over water. The moisture condenses and returns to the soil over and over. When water is necessary water with a bulb sprayer in a light mist.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Youngsters and not-so-youngsters south of the border need no longer look with envy at the professional ranks of the big sports, hockey, golf, basketball and baseball.

Another sport with a golden lure is sweeping the country, attracting new aficionados by the thousands. The sensational boom in ten-pin bowling is the talk of the sports columns and a bonanza for alley owners.

The nation's former top-flight keglers are now crawling with pesos, lost from newly-formed jobs as instructors. Big name firms are sponsoring tournaments and not sparing the bucks. Former amateur addicts with potential now find themselves living in plush apartments, with jobs paying in the five-figure brackets.

New bowling alleys, bowls and dromes are mushrooming all over the country. Manufacturers of bowls and bowling equipment can't keep up with the orders. Jackie Gleason and Art Carney never had it so good in the "Honeymooners."

Take the case of Frank Clause. Eight years ago he was a $3,500 a year school teacher at Old Forge, Pennsylvania. Now at 47, the big upswerp of bowling has elevated his life to one of first class living and room service, long distance calls and big money for his work.

Clause was always a top bowler. But until the sport caught on this was nothing. Today he makes about $36,000 a year through tournament winnings and clinics. The salary day he picked up $1,000 for ten minutes of bowling.

He has become one of the newest stars of the sport. For bowlers—the athletes of the night—are big time now. Those money and prestige they've never seen today. And, as the pros are quick to point out, things are just starting.

The Professional Bowlers' Association expects to have a regular major league in a year or so. Teams from 10 or 11 cities will roll for big money. The tournaments will be more lucrative. This is expected to be big business, says the association president, Ed Elias.

Information from the big bowling centres down yonder, says that the clinics are the thing. For the modern alley owner is growing with the sport. The nation's largest chain operation, Lloyd Ludwig and the American International Bowling Corporation, has put up five alleys in the New York area within the last six months to add to their original one.

In the midwest bowlers on company teams receive good salaries and do not have to work. Budweiser, for example, spends $150,000 a year on its team.

Around the country there are 25 televised bowling shows where $300 or $1,000 can always be made. The one network show—Friday night's Jackpot Bowling—is the one. Harry Smith of St. Louis, won $21,000 on it last November.

Ed Lubanski, the Detroit bowler, is typical of these pros. Ten years ago he was sweeping floors and slinging beer cases in a company plant. He bowled with the company team for recreation. Then the sport became important—strikes became a bigger thing than the time clock. Now he lives in a king-size house and is living like a monarch.

Lubanski's work is typical of that of the bowling professional. His work is done at night and he comes home when the milkmen are fumbling with bottles. He bowls three nights a week in Detroit. Weekends he travels with the company team for matches in the midwest. He has to be on the road in his free time to give clinics for another big company.

He is up at 10 a.m. and on his way to practice every morning. He rolls 15 practice games a day and then goes home, hangs around with the kids, eats dinner, then goes to work.

"The practice is the big thing," he says. "This is a sport of inches. If you're off just this much, you don't eat."

Top New York professionals, like Lou Campi and Lindy Farrell made over $20,000 bowling out of New Jersey last year. Several others made incomes well up in the five-figure bracket.

Skating Pair Wins First Gold Medal For Canada

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP) — Canada's Barbara Wagner and Bob Paul, the new Olympics pairs figure-skating champions, probably will turn professional in a few weeks. They say they feel there are no new horizons for them to conquer as amateurs.

The young Toronto couple, who won Canada's first gold medal of the eighth Winter Olympics Friday, will defend their world title for the fourth time in Vancouver early in March. Two weeks later they will decide on their future.

"I don't think we'll go into further amateur competition after the world championship in Vancouver," the tiny, brown-haired Miss Wagner said, "There is nothing else to win."

SNAP MONOPOLY

In adding the Olympic championship to their world, North American and Canadian titles, Miss Wagner and her six-foot partner broke a European monopoly that had lasted for 56 years —ever since an Austrian couple captured the tandem crown in the first Winter Olympics at Chamonix, France in 1924.

Miss Wagner, 21, and Paul, 22, reached the Olympic summit with a dazzling five-minute performance that earned first place on the scorecards of all seven judges.

Coach Sheldon Galbraith of Toronto, who declared this was his greatest thrill in a coaching career of more than 15 years—including tutoring of Ottawa's famed Barbara Ann Scott—said the world champions skated their "best ever in competition."

Another expert described the world champions' precision as "flawless."

JELINEKS FOURTH

Canada's other pair, the teenage brother-sister partnership of Maria and Otto Jelinek of Oakville, placed fourth although they, too, skated impressively.

The judges awarded second place to Nicole Hilins and Hansjurgent Baumler of Germany, winners of the European title 11 days ago, and third place to the husband-wife team of Ronald and Nancy Ludington of the United States. There were 13 couples from seven countries.

The winners had a point total of 80.4 compared with 76.8 for the Jelineks. Second and third couples had 76.2 for the American couple who won the bronze medal. The Jelineks had 75.9 in the complicated scoring system.

It was a tremendous personal triumph for the Toronto pair and it particular for Paul, who had to polio at the age of 10.

In 1952, when Galbraith suggested that they team up, they both were against it. Paul said Miss Wagner was too bossy and she said Paul went around with his nose in the air.

Galbraith recalled that the unlikely pair "clicked" when the two started working together. They split early in 1956 to devote full time to skating.

DESERVED BETTER

In the Canadian camp, several experts said the Czech-born Jelineks should have won the second-place medal.

Otto predicted after they wound up their spectacular show that they wouldn't win a medal. The German and American pairs still hadn't competed when he said: "I don't think they'll allow Canada to win anything now."

They drew a big ovation from the small crowd of 1,500 in Blyth Arena. The Jelineks said they will continue in competition. Otto is 19 and Maria 17.

Lions Plan Football School

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions, with one of the largest and fastest growing group of fans in Canadian football, are making moves to woo additional customers through a football school for fans.

The Western Interprovincial Football Union club will hold four night classes on "football for the spectator" in conjunction with suburban Burnaby's night school. A nominal fee will be charged by the school.

Head coach Wayne Robinson and his assistants, Dave Skrien and Don Brauby, will conduct the classes.

Jake Edward's Kingston Rink Wins Ontario Curling Title

WELLAND (CP) — Jake Edwards skipped his Kingston Curling Club rink to a thrilling 8-7 victory over Bayne Secord's Tam O'Shanter club from Toronto Friday in a playoff game for the Ontario curling championship.

The victory earned Edwards the British Consols Trophy and the right to represent Ontario in the Canadian curling championships at Fort William March 7-11.

Kingston and Tam O'Shanter had finished at the end of the seven-game round-robin series.

A final cold draw to the house in the 12th end of the playoff.

Tied going into the final end, Edwards stole the deciding point on the first 12 rocks with Secord's rink leaving two in the house to guards. Secord's first rock drew for shot and Edwards missed his stone-to-beat, then skipped his rock in the four-foot circle to set up the count for the final shot.

COLD DRAW

Taking plenty of time, which he had done all games, Edwards came through with a perfect cold draw to the button and the playoff was over.

Edwards' teammates were lead George Binnington, second Joe Corkey and vice Don Edwards.

"That was the best shot I have ever made," said Edwards after he accepted the trophy from Sid Lee, Ontario Curling Association president.

In the lounge of the Welland Curling Club, he quipped: "It wasn't the shot that took my breath away, but the climb up those stairs."

While photographers snapped pictures of the winning rink Corkey grinned and said: "Gee, now I'm getting the shakes."

Edwards, as he hugged the trophy, said "I still can't believe it."

Matthews Wins Split Verdict Over Godin

NEW YORK (AP)—Leo Matthews, 20-year - old Philadelphia lightweight prospect, scored a seventh-round knockdown Friday night on the way to a split decision over Lobouari Godin, a gangling Algerian-born partisan in a 10-round match at Madison Square Garden. Matthews weighed 135½, Godin, 136½.

The small crowd, impressed by Godin's busy punching style and his ability to rally under heavy fire, booed the verdict and cheered the lone vote for Godin.

Referee Harry Kessler voted for Matthews 5-4-1, Judge Leo Cassiagne, had it 5-4 in rounds but gave his vote to Matthews on points he'd including three for the knockdown round. Judge Tony Castellano scored it for Godin 5-4-1.

Matthews dropped Godin with a fast left hook-right combination on the chin in the middle of the seventh round.

Canada Second To Sweden In Olympics Standing

Looks on Ann Heggtveit To Win Second Gold Medal; Sweden Wins 1st Ski Crown

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP) Canada looked upon its woman athlete of the year, Anne Heggtveit of Ontario, to win a medal-polishing gold one—for the downhill skiing today at the Winter Olympics and bolster the impressive Canadian showing Friday that brought a gold medal in figure-skating and a hard-earned victory in the hockey preliminaries.

Barbara Wagner and Bob Paul of Toronto, three - time world champions in the pairs figure-skating events, opened the Canadian parade in the final gold medal of the games, and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen crushed Sweden 5-2 Friday night in a rough-and-tumble first - round hockey match.

Canada's other couple, Marlene and Otto Jelinek of Oakville, finished fourth although many experts said they should have finished higher.

Sweden won the other championship decided on the first day when Sixten Jernberg, a 33-year-old ski salesman, led all the way in the grueling 30 - kilometre (18.6 miles) cross - country ski race to finish at 48. His time was one hour, 44 minutes, 2.9 seconds. His teammate, Rolf Ramford, was runner-up in 1:51:16.8 followed by Russia's Nikolai Anikin in 1:52:06.2.

CANADA HIGH UP

Canada at the end of the first day was second in the unofficial point standings—nations scoring is frowned on by Olympic officials—with 13 points. The one-two finish in skiing gave Sweden first place with 17 points. Russia was third with 12 points, a total followed by Germany with seven, the United States four and Finland one.

Points are based on 10 for first place, five for second and 4-3-2-1 for next four spots. Thirty countries are competing.

The Russians, with a powerful team in men's and women's figure-skating, are expected to overhaul Sweden this weekend. Soviet specialties are scheduled Sunday—the biathlon, a cross-country and rifle shooting event, and the women's 2,500 - metre speed-skating.

However, it is felt that Canada's 44-member team is the best the country has sent to the Winter Olympics since the first at Chamonix, France in 1924.

The Canadians scored in every period against surprisingly strong Swedish hockey team. They broke the game wide open in the third period when left-winger Fred Etcher, from Whitby, Ont., rammed two goals, the other first - round games the United States, led by Minnesota's Johnny Mayasich who rammed in four goals, came from behind to tie Poland 4-4 and Canada upset Czechoslovakia 7-5 and Russia, obviously playing under wraps, shut out Germany 8-0.

MEET JAPAN TONIGHT

Tonight Canada takes on Japan at 7 p.m. EST, Russia meets Finland at 9:30 p.m. and Czechoslovakia is rostered against Canadian coached Australia—playing Olympic hockey for the first time—at midnight.

At the women's downhill skiing, due to start at 1 p.m. EST, 21-year - old Miss Heggtveit was rated among the favorites. She drew the No. 8 starting position for the run down KT22 mountain which starts at an altitude of 8,038 feet and drops 1,814 feet to an altitude of 6,224 feet. Length of the course is 5,997 feet.

Other Canadians in the race were Sisters Elizabeth and Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C., and Lise Lund of Montreal.

LOOKS TO CAROL

The United States looked to four-time world champion Carol Heiss to get a strong lead start in the first day's competition of the women's singles figure-skating championship. The compulsory figures end Sunday and the free skating winds up the event Monday.

Two young Canadians, 15-year-old Wendy Griner of Toronto and 16-year-old Sandra Towkesbury of Chatham, were given little chance against the American.

The weather was clear and sunny and more of the same was predicted for the weekend. If the weather gets colder, the hockey games, now being played at night, may be shifted back to a daytime schedule—as original plans called for.

Stanley Cup Final Series To Be Televised

TORONTO (CP)— All games in the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup best-of-seven final playoff series will be carried live full-length on the CBC television network, the CBC announced Friday.

In the semi-final series all games will be televised on the network if Montreal Canadiens play Toronto Maple Leafs. Deciding games in the other semi-final series will be televised if the Toronto-Montreal series winds up first.

If Montreal and Toronto are in separate series, these games will be televised on the network on an alternating basis, but priority will be given to deciding games.

Quebec stations will carry all Montreal games and Central and Eastern Ontario will see Toronto games because of franchise rights of teams involved.

Broadcast times in the semi-finals will follow the regular-season pattern.

Parson's Cleaners won the third quarter of the Quinte Classic Bowling League last night. This gives them two in a row. McDougall Insurance won the first quarter.

Parsons finished with 58 points, followed closely by Elaine Footwear 57, McDougall Insurance 44, Seven-up 43, O'Connor Jewellers 41, Bata Shoes 39, Murray's Sea Foods 23.

Parsons led last night with 13 points, O'Connor's 8, Boulton's 8, Parson's 7, Seven-up 6, Murray's 3, and McDougall's 1.

Jack Canning had high four-string of 1035 (360), followed by D. Bennett 1032 (313-303), McKenzie 1007, W. Dingman 996 (301), W. Bateman 982, G. Hamilton 968, G. Anderson 948, C. Boyd 942, L. Lequyt 942, L. Whitney 940 (309), A. Atkin 923, W. Lavergne 911.

Dutchmen Defeat Sweden In Rough Opening Game, Yankees Upset Czechs; Russians Toy With Germans

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP) Canada, Russia and the United States won their opening games while Czechoslovakia lost in the first round of the Winter Olympic hockey tournament Friday night and it wasn't long after it was over that cries of "foul" were raised against the Canadians for too-rough play.

Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, who form the bulk of the Canadian team, stored in every period to earn a 5-2 victory over Sweden; Russia's defending champions romped over Germany 8-0, and the United States upset the Canadian dog-sled rally in the third period to upset Czechoslovakia 7-5.

The Canada-Sweden match was by far the roughest of the night. The Canadians, held to a 3-2 lead after two periods, put on the pressure to crack the game wide open in the third period with a pair of goals by left winger Fred Etcher of Whitby Dunlops.

SWEDES UNHAPPY

The Swedes were bitter over the loss of two of their best players in the final period. Their regular goalie, Bengt Lindqvist was cut in the head by a puck deflected off his own stick — a team official claimed he was "clubbed" — and star defenceman and team captain Lars Bjorn suffered four broken ribs after he was checked by Canada's Jim Connelly and the two crashed through the doors at the side of the goal.

Both Lindqvist and Bjorn were hurt late in the first period after Canada took a 2-1 lead.

Herman Karlsson, the Swedish team manager, said the game, marred by 15 penalties including three majors and a misconduct, was a "scandal."

HOCKEY "GOOD-PUN"

"The Canadians might try playing hockey instead of staging fights," he added. "They would find it quite good fun."

"This is what is left of Lars Bjorn's skate," he declared, holding up a piece of skate blade about two inches long.

Goalie Bengt Lindqvist had to have three stitches put into a cut in his head after he was hit with a puck.

Karlsson blamed the American referees, Bob Barry and Bill Riley, for letting the game get so rough. "Of course it was the referees' fault that the game developed into the kind of fight. It was a scandal.

"But I can't see why the Canadians had to use the chance the referees gave them. The game doesn't mean anything so far as the question of medals in the tournament is concerned."

Hockey Hints

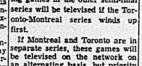
MUSCLES MEAN PROTECTION



Strong muscles are the best injury protection a player can have. They help in absorbing the shocks of the body contacts that are so common — even in age-limit hockey.

The key muscles which protect the player when giving or taking a body check are mainly the spinal erector muscles running up and down both sides of the spine. When these are strong and flexible the player can absorb heavy shock with less discomfort and chance for injury.

A good exercise is to lie on your stomach and lift your upper body and legs (keeping legs straight) at the same time. Lift, hold as long as possible, relax and repeat. Do until tired several times per day.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hank Bassen is the steadiest goaltender in the Western Hockey League and the big reason why Vancouver Canucks lead the loop.

But he had a bad game Friday night and Seattle Totems defeated the Canucks 5-3. In the final period Bassen faced seven shots and let two of them in.

Meanwhile, Edmonton Flyers defeated Victoria Cougars 5-2 to hold on to second spot, one point ahead of Seattle. Vancouver leads the Totems by nine points.

Seattle scorers were Guyle Fielder, Frank Arnett, Tom McCurry, Gerry Leonard and Jim Powers. Vancouver goals were by Don Cyr, Dale Anderson and Danny Belisle.

Bentley stopped 30 shots to Bassen's 16 before more than 5,000 fans.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Roger Cote, the much-penalized Toronto Marlboros defenceman, scored the winning goal midway in Friday night and St. Michael's College Majors capitalized on it to defeat the Marlboros 5-1.

The Majors' Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series was unflashed with three goals while Cote was in the penalty box in the third period. He was rushed up and down both sides of the spine. When these are strong and flexible the player can absorb heavy shock with less discomfort and chance for injury.

A good exercise is to lie on your stomach and lift your upper body and legs (keeping legs straight) at the same time. Lift, hold as long as possible, relax and repeat. Do until tired several times per day.

Bob Haddock and Ron Ingram also scored for the Majors who moved into a tie with Toronto Maple Leafs for second place in the standings.

Boston Bruins have carried the theory further, alternating the job between Harry Lumley and Don Simmons, but New York Rangers, Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs have all pulled in substitute goalies for one or more games.

KEEPS ON ROLLING

But like the mighty river, Hall just keeps rolling along.

The 28 - year - old Humboldt, Sask., native hasn't missed a single game since he broke into the NHL with Detroit at the beginning of the 1955-56 season—an astounding total of 336 consecutive games.

And he seems to have come through it all in good shape. His face is almost unlined. His reflexes are sharp and he has none of the little idiosyncracies which distinguish most other players. He doesn't have nervous tics, a ritual, Jacques Plante's asthma, Lorne (Gump) Worsley's sharp tongue and cavalier attitude.

But quietly Sall has been compiling a record which is second only to Gordie Howe's and will match the Montreal netminder's record if not surpass it. Awards and Trophies as the league's least scored upon goalie but Hall becomes class.

This season, with Hawks fighting for a place in the playoffs, Hall is having his best season since he left Detroit before the 1957-58 season.

After 57 games he spots a 2.63 average, second only to Plante, and four shutouts, as many as any goalie in the league. He's a second-team all-star berth he will have to overcome the big averages piled up by Sawchuk in the mid-season voting, but at the end of the season he should have a lot of support.

Tonight Hall faces the Leafs in Toronto, while New York—with substitute goalie Al Rollins from Winnipeg replacing the injured Worsley in nets—is in Montreal. An afternoon game sees Boston in Detroit.

PLAYERS FINED

SEATTLE (AP)—Fred Creighton, Seattle defenceman and Bob Calgary right winger Terry Gray have been fined $100 each for a fourth-period incident in a Western Hockey League game Wednesday at Calgary.

Al Rollins in Ranger Goal For Tussle With Canadiens

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In an era when the physical aspect of hockey is at its all-time national Hockey League netminders have become the object of much study and speculation, some thought might be given to the career of Chicago Black Hawks' Glen Hall.

Most hockey observers believe that no NHL netminder can be expected to play a full season, around-all injuries don't knock him out the enormous pace of the modern game.

Boston Bruins have carried the theory further, alternating the job between Harry Lumley and Don Simmons, but New York Rangers, Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs have all pulled in substitute goalies for one or more games.

Sault Birds Edge Wolves

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds boosted their second win in two nights over league-leading Sudbury Wolves Friday night edging Wolves 8-7 in an Eastern Professional Hockey League game.

The Soo win snapped Sudbury's 12-game winning streak at home.

Thunderbirds beat Wolves Thursday night at the Soo, 5-3. Trois-Rivieres' game at Hull-Ottawa was postponed when the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens' bus team was in an accident about 60 miles from Trois-Rivieres. No one was injured.

A new date for the game will be announced next week.

Indians Shade Cleveland 3-2

The Springfield Indians' lead in the American Hockey League stood at 10 points today after Referee-in-Chief Scott Young's ruling on a protest by Cleveland general manager Jim Hendy.

The Indians defeated the Barons 3-2 in their fifth game Friday night after the Buffalo at Rochester contest was postponed until Monday because of snow. But Hendy said he would file a protest.

The Cleveland official protested after Springfield owner Eddie Shore removed one of the referees' goal judges from behind the Indians' net. The Springfield goal by Harry Pidhirny had been disallowed. Shore claimed there was a need for a second judge if his signal with the red light was disregarded.

Pidhirny's disallowed goal came at 12.10 of the final period and would have broken a 2-2 tie. At 13.22, however, Bill McCreary made the Springfield lead stand up with his second goal of the period.

FINE WRESTLERS

CALGARY (CP)—Three professional wrestlers were fined a total of $40 on charges of assault. Camille Ouvrie was fined $200 and costs. Maurice La-Poleie and Ron Greimer were fined $100 each. Tourville was found guilty of assaulting Marcel Crowe of Saskatoon and Dennis Hauer of Calgary. The other two were guilty of assaulting Hauer in the cloakroom of a Calgary supper club Jan. 8.

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Suspicion that a major loophole exists in New Brunswick's Game Act is growing in legal and sportsmen's circles following the acquittal of a defendant in a Game Act case.

The feeling is that many hunters in recent years may have been convicted of jacklighting (hunting at night with a light) though innocently innocent.

Attorney-General R.G.L. Fairweather said his department in taking the matter up with the lands and mines department, administrator of the Game Act, to determine the implications of the judgment and decide what action must be taken.

HINGES ON INTENT

The charge arose when county court Judge Reginald D. Kierstead upheld the ruling of a magistrate that proof of intent to take game is necessary to obtain a jacklighting conviction under the wording of the act. Hunting was interpreted to mean game had to be then, or subsequently, killed, injured or captured.

The magistrate found that since no game was hurt and there was no proof of intention to do so, the defendant was not guilty under the act but was rarely using his light out of curiosity. A .22-calibre rifle with live ammunition was found in the back seat of his car nearby.

Mr. Fairweather said his department is considering whether to go to the New Brunswick court of appeals with a case based on similar facts, or take steps to have the act amended on the basis of the judgment.

He said the Kierstead ruling was the opinion of one judge in one jurisdiction. A stated case would be the act's ultimate test.

SUGGEST REVISION

Judge Kierstead indicated he was worried about how his decision might be received by segments of the public and suggested wording for a possible revision. There was no indication whether it would be acted upon.

Mr. Fairweather said it was the judge's duty to interpret and the legislature's to make the laws. If a judgment indicated a law is not clear or could be improved upon his department would move to take action.

Meanwhile, Secretary Ralph A. Olive of the local branch of the New Brunswick Fish and Game Protective Association said a lengthy list of proposed changes in the act was submitted to, and approved by, the provincial body two years ago.

One way to make it illegal to annoy, molest or scare game in its natural habitat with a light after dark, Mr. Olive described this as a "calculated attempt" to have the onus of proof shifted from the crown to the person charged.

Some of the suggestions had been implemented by the government but not the one about molesting game. It was still being considered, however, and he was hopeful it would eventually be implemented.

TV TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

If you're interested in stretching the life of your television set, here's a hint that will help it grow old gracefully.

One of your set's greatest enemies is heat, which may cause parts and components to break down. It is therefore important to locate it away from radiators and hot air registers and to provide plenty of space around the set for air to circulate freely. If your TV is built in a wall or closet, it is doubly important to provide ample ventilation.

When your television does need repairs, you can rely on CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Coleman St. to do the job efficiently and promptly. Our technicians have the training and experience to make it operate like new — regardless of its condition. Phone WO 6-6791.

TORONTO (CP) — Victoria Park, Canadian-bred candidate for this year's running of the Kentucky Derby, has been rated ahead of any two-year-old rivals which raced against him in Ontario in 1959.

Anthony Simms, racing secretary for the Jockey Club, announced Friday weights for his annual Experimental Handicap and Victoria Park was assigned 126 pounds, six more than his closest competitor, Hidden Treasure.

The Experimental Handicap is a hypothetical race at a distance of 1 1/16 miles.

Victoria Park, bred and owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor of Toronto, was defeated only once in Canada as he won six races and purses of $58,325. He also won the Remsen Stakes at New York and his season's earnings totalled $82,162, "record for a Canadian-bred juvenile.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The $100,000 added Widener Handicap, today is expected to be a three-horse race among Sword Dancer, Bald Eagle and On-And-On.

Five others have been entered in the 1 1-4-mile event with Oligarchy going as Sword Dancer's stablemate. Oligarchy, now six years old, won the Widener in 1958.

Sword Dancer, 1959 horse of the year, carries top weight of 129 pounds, giving away from six to 23 pounds in the long tough race. Trainer Elliott Burch thinks his horse, with jockey Eddie Arcaro in the saddle, can win the $79,709 purse and has said, "Sword Dancer will not let us down."

Bald Eagle packs 123 pounds, with Manuel Ycaza to ride, and is rated at 8-to-5 choice with Sword Dancer.

Steve Brooks rides On-And-On, winner of the Orange Bowl, Tropical Park and McLennan Handicaps this winter. He is rated 5-to-2 in early odds and carries 119 pounds.

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Willie Poiley shaped up Friday as the favorite in a field of 12 horses scheduled to start in the $30,000-added San Felipe Handicap at Santa Anita today.

The distance is 1 1-16 miles and for some of the candidates the San Felipe will be the last big race before the $100,000-added Santa Anita Derby March 19.

New Policy, with Willie Shoemaker in the saddle, will pack high weight of 124 pounds.

COMPARE WE DARE

YES — compare this property with any other that is offered for sale and you will have to agree that it is EXCEPTIONAL value. You will have to agree that it would cost much more to duplicate it. You will agree that if you had it you would not sell it for much less than the price we have quoted — located on Victoria Avenue, with street finished, sidewalks, curbs all in. Has a garage — but not just a breezeway — has a recreation room. Insulated and panelled walls and ceiling. Has a fireplace. Has a view that is the beauty of the back yard. Has a price of $13,500 — and received — that person will likely send in a cheque for $1000, just because it is well worth it. Forget that $1000. It is yours. Phone or just drop in. Remember the price is $13,500 — terms WO 2-3304 and we will put your mind at ease — and in the evening call Mr. McLean, WO 2-2310, or Mr. Abler at WO 2-3000.

Devil's Island Listed For Sale By French Govt.

PARIS (Reuters)—The world's most notorious piece of real estate, Devil's Island, was put up for sale Thursday by the French government.

The 108-year-old penal settlement in French Guiana was listed for the finance ministry's next auction of government property.

Devil's Island, a tiny, palm-covered rock, was regarded almost as a rest home by the murderers and thieves who slaved and died in the malarial swamps of the mainland part of the penal settlement.

The island was first reserved for political prisoners and thus gained world-wide notoriety as the prison of Alfred Dreyfus, who was held there from 1894-99.

Dreyfus, a French Army captain falsely accused of espionage for the Germans, was declared innocent after one of France's most celebrated legal cases.

BRUTAL HISTORY

During its long, brutal history the settlement received an estimated 42,000-odd France's worst criminals who in the early days made the trip in iron cages chained to the deck of wooden convict ships.

Escape was their only hope, but of the hundreds who tried it every year, only a third succeeded and most of these died in the jungle or shark-infested seas.

The most successful was Rene Belbenoit, who made a break in a canoe in 1935 and after 11 months of desperate flight reached the United States. His book on the conditions at Devil's Island, Dry Guillotine, became a seller.

Belbenoit rent its last convict ship to Devil's Island in 1938 and started closing the penal colony in the following year. The last prisoners were returned to France after the war.

The sale of Devil's Island and other government properties was taken as a measure to help make the 150,000,000 franc (about $31,000,000) economy required in the budget.

Your Car

Simple Service Can Work Magic With Your Car

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Many trouble symptoms disappear when you apply the same simple treatment that would have prevented them.

Valve or bearing noise, high temperatures and low oil pressures often develop because the engine is running without sufficient oil.

Transmission slip, rough shifting, high gas consumption and power loss can occur if the automatic transmission fluid level is allowed to drop too low.

Hard starting, stalling, missing, no pep and poor gas mileage are likely results when the carburetor air cleaner is not serviced and becomes clogged with dirt or grit. Stalling and missing can also be due to water in the egas caused by condensation which takes place when too little gas is kept in the tank.

Overheating, high oil and gas consumption, hard starting, loss of power are the most predominant troubles when the manifold heat control valve sticks because lubrication has been neglected.

From I. R.: "What type of snow tire treads give the best traction and are the quietest?"

(A) The herringbone tread is probably the quietest, but the wedge cleat design or tractor design is more efficient.

W. L. asks: "My '57 sedan loses a noticeable amount of water when I drive on a thruway or turnpike. Radiator hoses and connections, the pressure cap and the thermostat all check out O.K. There's no apparent loss in city driving."

(A) A high pressure head-gasket leak could be causing coolant to be forced through the radiator overflow when the engine is running at high speeds.

S. B. writes: "My new car has a tendency to overheat and the engine seems sluggish. Yesterday, the dealer said the spark plugs were not air-gapped properly. Does this sound believable?"

(A) Incorrect plug settings can cause many troubles including overheating, poor performance, low gas mileage and starting difficulties.

From P. M.: "For the past month, whenever I switch on my engine the generator red warning light flickers steadily. After the engine is started and accelerated, it goes out. Wires are all tight and clean and the battery is good."

(A) A loose or weak bulb may be the only trouble.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Mortgage Payments Are Drawback If You Want Retirement Security

By THOMAS COLLINS

"My husband, just past 65, has retired on Jan. 15. We have a pension and other funds that add up to $215 a month. We want to enjoy life from retirement. But most of all we want security.

"Can you tell us how to get it out of this —

"We own a three-unit apartment worth $23,000. We occupy one unit. The other two bring us a net income of about $75 a month.

"We still owe $3,500 on the apartment and are paying $103 a month on the mortgage.

"We also own a duplex in the South. It is worth probably $19,000. Both sides of it are rented, and we are netting $110 a month here. But we owe $7,100 on the building and are paying this off at the rate of $100 a month.

"An ideal retirement for us would be to move our apartment in the North, because it represents home, and have half of the duplex in the South kept vacant for us to occupy in the winter.

"Obviously this won't do because if we rent only half of the duplex for $55, and only two of the apartments for $75, we'll get a total of $130 . . . while we're paying $203 on the two mortgages. The $73 a month difference, taken from our $215 income, would leave us property-poor.

"What is the best way to solve our dilemma?

"P.S. We have $900 in savings and $7,400 in government bonds . . ."

HAS DONE WELL

—Here's a couple that has done well. But they would have done better if they had started earlier and paid off the mortgages before retirement.

They own property worth $42,000 on which they owe $19,000 for a net worth of $31,400. Their monthly income of $215 represents a 5% per cent investment of about $64,000. So they are actually worth $33,000 and are rich.

But they have a dilemma. They have to get away from under the mortgage payments.

There are several ways to do it. Here is a suggestion which takes in factors beyond mere money, and perhaps it will be helpful to others with similar problems:

Take $3,500 out of the bonds and pay off the mortgage on the apartment. Then move South to the duplex, renting out the third apartment unit. This should bring in, say, another $50 a month, for a total net of $125 a month.

With half of the duplex in the South occupied, and half of it rented, the net income here would be $55 a month, for an overall net of $180 a month. Figuring 5 per cent interest on the $7,100 duplex mortgage, or $30 a month, there would be $150 a month to apply to the $7,100 mortgage. In four years it would be paid off.

AND SOCKEYE STEAKS

Meanwhile there would be the $215 a month income, plus free housing in the South. Enough for "security" and some Porterhouse steaks.

By holding to the "home" apartment in the north, a couple would cling to the privilege of going back after the year's lease is up. This is important. Maybe they won't want to go back after a year, and will sign another lease. But the privilege of going

President Starts 14-Day Tour of South America

"Good Partner" Mission Takes in Four Countries

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower took off today for Puerto Rico, the launching point of its 15,500-mile "good partner" mission to four South American countries.

Eisenhower's jet transport soared away from Andrews Air Force Base near here at 7:40 a.m. EST. After a brief stop in San Juan he will fly to Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico, to spend the night. He begin his tour in Brazil Tuesday.

Eisenhower seemed in a jolly mood and looking forward to his jaunt to a warmer climate.

Diplomats from the nations Eisenhower will visit were on hand at the airport in the send-off.

A cluster of top United States officials seeing the president off was headed by Vice-President Richard M. Nixon. Mrs. Eisenhower, however, remained at the White House.

FIRST OF EIGHT

He will begin his tour Tuesday with a stop at Brasilia, Brazil, the first of eight he will visit in Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Uruguay. The main goal: to signal to strengthen relations between the United States and Latin America.

Before returning to Washington March 9, Eisenhower will travel 15,500 miles by aircraft and automobile.

In a pre-departure radio-television address of seven minutes, Eisenhower in addition to defending U.S. military policies, much on the same line as emphasized in hopes and plans for the South American tour.

He said the U.S. effort has been criticized in Latin America on the charge that it has devoted so much attention and money to what may be only the menace of Communist imperialism" that it has neglected its American neighbors.

PEACEFUL PURPOSE

He said it is true the U.S. has given first priority to measures against the possibility of aggression, but the purpose of the U.S. military program has been to maintain peace in the world. "Our aim is as important to Latin America as to the United States."

Despite emphasis on defence needs, Eisenhower said there has been no neglect of U.S. interest in maintaining close and co-operative relations with "our neighbors in this hemisphere."

His trip was in large part an effort to reassure them on this point.

He declared his readiness to discuss with leaders of the countries he visits all sorts of problems which they face and with which the U.S. may be able to help them.

Twice in his speech, Eisenhower emphasized that the U.S. is dedicated to a policy of non-intervention in the affairs of the other American nations. The U.S. has no use for the "good partner" he said.

The president made no direct reference to the difficulties Eisenhower will have in the Communist-controlled Cuba.

Seven Children Burned to Death

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP) — Seven children were burned to death Sunday night in a fire which ripped through a two-bedroom ski resort of a one-storey frame home in this college town.

Fire department officials said the flames were fed by oil from a faulty heater, which was in one of the bedrooms.

The two four-year-old boys and three adults escaped unharmed.

Thirty Ice Fishermen Are Rescued From Large Floe in Lake St. Clair

CHATHAM (CP)—More than 30 ice fishermen were rescued Sunday from a two-mile-long ice floe which began to keep too many to themself. The department of Internal Revenue says the same thing.

THE WEATHER -

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: The storm which gave 1 to 2 inches of snow to Southern Ontario Sunday night is now moving away and no longer poses a threat. Skies are clearing.

"I took a chance and jumped into the water. It was shallow and I was able to wade ashore. One of the others came with me, but the others stayed and were carried out."

Mr. Polesuck and his companion made their way to a nearby farmhouse and called provincial police in Chatham.

Police enlisted the aid of local residents in the rescue of others on the floe. Two commercial fishermen, James and Pat Hamilton, said they rescued "at least 30." There were several children included in the group taken off.

Countess Mountbatten Dies in North Borneo While on Tour of St. John Ambulance Units

LONDON (CP) — The Royal Family's rejoicing over Queen Elizabeth's new son was dimmed today by the death of Countess Mountbatten of Burma, chief of the defence staff.

The 58-year-old adventure-loving countess — aunt of Prince Philip—died in her sleep at Jesselton.

She was on a tour of Far Eastern units of the St. John Ambulance brigade, of which she was superintendent-in-chief.

The cause of death was not announced. She had complained of a headache Friday, rested Saturday morning, attended functions in the afternoon, and made a brief appearance at a dinner in her honor that night.

The body, taken to Singapore, will be flown in today by an RAF plane Tuesday night.

Queen Elizabeth ordered the Royal Family into a week of mourning, cancelling their social engagements and putting the members of the family and their household staffs in black dress. The Queen decided against formal court mourning, which would have applied to all her representatives at home and abroad.

Prince Philip is the son of Earl Mountbatten's sister, Princess Andrew of Greece, and the Mountbattens raised the prince from boyhood after his father died and his mother entered a convent.

Earl and Lady Mountbatten were very close friends of the Royal Family.

The Queen and her husband were reported deeply upset by the death, but both the Queen and her new royal son were reported "very well."

Countess Mountbatten was the former Edwina Ashley. She inherited a huge fortune from her grandfather, banker Sir Ernest Cassel. She and her handsome husband were among the most glittering members of international society after their marriage in 1922, but with the outbreak of the Second World War he settled down to his military career and she concentrated on war relief and civic activities.

Lord Mountbatten was British's last viceroy in India after the Second World War and Lady Mountbatten accompanied him. Since her return from India, she had been active in many civic and charitable organizations.

She is survived by two daughters, Patricia and Pamela. The Queen's nineteen-old daughter, Princess Anne, was a bridesmaid at Pamela's wedding last month to David Ross, an interior decorator.

Funeral arrangements have not been disclosed.

Most British newspapers paid high tribute to the countess and to her various works and efforts.

The Liberal Manchester Guardian said "She will be mourned far beyond the shores of Britain's lands—and particularly in Asia where she worked hard and effectively, and where she died."

The right-wing London Daily Express, which has been a consistent critic of Mountbatten for several years, declared that "duty and dedication" guided her life. "She died as she had lived, on active service."

Girl Holds Knife at Throat Of Tot as Farmhouse Robbed

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto police arrested four teen-agers here Sunday, charged them with breaking an automobile in Chatham and returned them under escort to the southwestern Ontario town for further questioning in the armed robbery of a Chatham family early Sunday.

A police spokesman said they were picked up for Chatham police on the stolen car charges. He said police believe the foursome — two boys and two girls—used the stolen car to sweep down on the farm home of Mrs. Mary Cummings near Rodney, 30 miles southwest of St. Thomas, where they terrorized the family and later stolen $10 after terrorizing Mrs. Cummings, her four children and her fiance, Norman Vancreder, 37.

The farm home attack was about 1 a.m. Sunday when two girls knocked on the door and a knock door of the farm home each wearing pillow cases with eye holes cut in them. One carried a .22-calibre rifle and another a pocket knife.

Mrs. Cummings said the youths woke up her two youngest children — four - year - old Billy and Linda, 10 — and that the girl held a pocket knife at Billy's throat, threatening to kill him if any attempt was made to interfere while the two boys searched the house for money.

Provincial Police Constable L. E. Doolittle of the Dutton detachment said the intruders found about $5 in change and another $5 in bills before fleeing in an automobile apparently driven by a second girl who waited outside.

Mrs. Cummings said they then tied her children—Florence, 16, and Ricky, 12—back to back and ordered her to dress Billy, who threatened to kill him with them as a hostage but Constable Doolittle said the youngster was not taken.

None of the farm family was injured.

Mrs. Cummings said the girl with the knife, "had a look of death in her eye" and held the baby about a quarter-inch from Billy's throat.

"We have to get money to get away from here," the girl said to Mrs. Cummings.

Mrs. Cummings said she and Mr. Vancreder and the two older Cummings children were having a snack in the farm kitchen when there was a rap at the back door and before anyone could answer the two youths and girl burst in.

Mrs. Cummings asked if it was Jake and the girl replied: "Lady, this is no joke."

Then Mr. Vancreder threatened the youths they tied him up with a bed sheet and a clothesline rope.

Mrs. Cummings said the three were in the farm house about an hour.

She said the two boys were "very polite" and that before leaving one of them talked with Linda, asking if she were going to school next day.

When Linda replied, "No, I'm going to church," the youth said "Please pray for us."

Khrushchev Does Not Like Handicraft

SURABAYA (CP) — Premier Khrushchev of Russia gave Indonesian President Sukarno some embarrassing moments Sunday at an exhibition of Indonesian art —beautiful hand - decorated batik and fabric worked Javanese silver.

Sukarno a lover of the arts, proudly showed his visitor some colorful batik cloth and asked him: "Which would you like?"

"I don't like anything. I don't like anything," Khrushchev brusquely replied.

"The war ... ship is good," he continued. "But they represent a bygone day, an era that is past. They cost too much, not only in price but in human life. If we go on like that, there will be no progress. Life will be very expensive. Machines, machines are what you need."

$1,500,000 Loss Estimated in Gatineau Fire

GATINEAU, Que. (CP)—Loss has been estimated at $1,500,000 in a Saturday night fire that destroyed the pulp and paper building of the Canadian International Paper Company—farthest inland port in the Province.

Fire department officials said the blaze may have started from spontaneous combustion.

The fire apparently followed by an explosion that sent flames shooting through the roof and engulfing the whole plant.

Within a few hours, 6-hour winds fanned the fire as it spread quickly through the sprawling structure, which covers 4 acres and covered an area of about three city blocks.

The plant employed 450 men. A company spokesman said most of them will have to be laid off several months until the plant is rebuilt.

In hospital with second degree burns to their hands and faces were Yvain Robert, 39, and Fernand Sabourin, 46, both of Gatineau.

WINTER STORMS LEAVE 6 DEAD ACROSS CANADA

Many Motorists Stranded in Drifts

By The Canadian Press

Six deaths, a harrowing escape, downed trees and power lines and countless angry motorists. They were the marks high winds and snow left on some parts of Canada during the weekend.

Southeastern Ontario and southwestern Quebec were the hardest hit areas as a wind-driven storm Friday dumped 13 inches of snow on Montreal and crippled the city of Ottawa.

Winds up to 70 miles an hour battered the southern coast of Nova Scotia Friday while Vancouver suffered under winds of the same power Saturday.

A brief but intense snowstorm swept south Alberta and western sections of Saskatchewan Sunday, leaving up to four inches of snow in some areas.

DEATH IN CAR

Two army officer cadets were found asphyxiated Saturday in their car which had drifts on a sideroad about 40 miles north of Kingston.

One man died shovelling snow in the St. Lawrence, Que., and another in Montreal.

A provincial traffic officer collapsed while directing traffic on the street in Friday's Montreal storm and a man was killed Friday while walking along a road in the Halifax area.

Several six-storey wood Jacques Martin escape death by minutes when he was found by a search party after being buried under three feet of snow for four hours Saturday when a building crushed his snow fort.

A search party of neighbors found him and took him to hospital where a doctor said "his blood was on the verge of congealing ... a few more minutes in the snow could have meant death."

Winds hit the Vancouver area Saturday after a mild spell of gentle, breaking power lines, smashing windows and uprooting trees.

A 47-foot fishboat blew up in Vancouver harbor another went

Pacific-Tested Rockets Open Path to Planets

Will Be Used to Launch Heavy Sputnik Says K.

SURABAYA, Indonesia (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said today that powerful new rockets tested recently by Russia will be used for flights to the planets and for launching a heavy earth satellite.

Khrushchev, on a 12-day visit to Indonesia, told a welcoming rally here that the tests of the new rockets, carried out late in December in the Pacific, had produced "good results."

He described the rockets as "tremendous" and said they will be used for flights to planets and for launching a heavy Sputnik."

Khrushchev said Russia was nearing the day when it would be "complete facts about the moon, Mars, Venus and other planets of our solar system."

Khrushchev boasted before a mass rally in this strongly-Communist dockyard city that Russia will overtake the United States in industrial and agricultural production by 1965.

REFORMS NEEDED

Khrushchev, making his last major speech before beginning three days of quiet talks with Indonesian leaders, said the days of the sports stadium here that reared up around him are past. Russia wants to attain economic freedom.

"We can understand and reconcile your struggle to promote the economy and culture of your country and to improve the lot of the Indonesian people," the Soviet leader declared.

The Soviet people appreciated this struggle because they and themselves struggled against the imperialists and "managed to achieve the right to determine their own fate—to build up a bright Communist society.

"Therefore, with open heart the Soviet Union is prepared to give aid to eastern countries—not only political and moral aid but also material support which has been grown year by year."

He told the people of the Soviet Union face the task of making themselves free in the world in her capita production. In many fields they have passed the United States and they will not be kept out of the first position.

"With pride in our fatherland, we record that the success of the Soviet Union are the first to establish an Asian-African operating station, first to make the Sputniks, first to send a rocket about the sun, first to launch a rocket to the moon and first to launch a interplanetary space station to circle the moon for the first pictures of the dark side."

Khrushchev said Russia's economic competition with the U.S. "is not a sprint but what is described as a marathon."

"We have overrun the United States ... because the United States started earlier. But the fact that we are ahead in long runs has made its breathing very difficult."

Local officials made elaborate arrangements to provide Khrushchev with a rousing welcome when he arrived here from Jogjakarta.

Heads of government agencies and business firms were ordered by the garrison command to see that all their workers took part in the welcome and that all flags were displayed.

In a speech in Jogjakarta Sunday, Khrushchev told 100,000 cheering Gadjah Mada University students that "communism is an idea that cannot be imposed on a person by force and it cannot be forced into a country against human beings, but on the other hand its spread cannot be banned."

History, Khrushchev added, will show which system is best—and he invited Indonesians to visit Russia to "see with your own eyes what achievements.we have made."

Austrian Police Arrest Five Nazis Allegedly Linked With Klan in U.S.

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Police have arrested five persons they say are leaders of a secret Nazi underground group with close links with the Ku Klux Klan in the United States and is part of a world-wide network of anti-semitic and neo-Nazi groups.

Police said they had raided a local printing plant and seized large quantities of anti-semitic propaganda from the U.S. and Sweden.

Part of the material carried the imprint "Ku Klux Klan of America," a spokesman said Sunday, while some was marked "printed for the Ku Klux Klan." Others carried the "White Brotherhood" as the European branch of the Klan.

Other books and pamphlets were printed in Malmo, Sweden, by the Fascist "Social European Movement", the spokesman said.

Two men who were said to have headed the Austrian organization, Leopold Windisch and Fred Borth, were arrested last month on charges of inciting public unrest.

PANEL DECIDES U.S. INVESTMENT A GOOD THING

Members Tangle On Many Questions

TORONTO (CP)—An Englishman, an American and a Scotsman got together Sunday and decided Canada has little to fear from heavy United States investment.

The men were members of a panel which would go with annual Coushiching Win Conference in Toronto. Theme of the conference was: Is business relinquishing control?

Scottish-born Monteath Douglas, Canadian director of the National Industrial Conference Board, said suspicion of the United States is one of the things that holds Canada together.

"The other thing is hatred of Toronto," said English-born Vic Kent, former editor of the Winnipeg Free Press and now assistant to the president of Montreal's Cheshegill Limited.

MOST ARE INDEPENDENT

"Mr. Kent said most U.S. parent firms do not attempt to control Canadian subsidiaries. The development had been inevitable, he said, and Mr. Douglas agreed.

The biggest subsidiaries often tell their parent companies what to do with respect to Canadian decisions, Mr. Douglas said.

Finally, Adolf Berle, Jr., professor of corporation law at New York's Columbia University, said Canadians often forget 25 per cent of U.S. export trade comes to Canada.

This represents a substantial

Winters Plays Research Site For Elliott Lake

HAMILTON (CP)—Elliot Lake has a ready and waiting mass facilities for a nuclear research establishment which will have to be built from scratch at the proposed site in Manitoba, Robert Winters told the National Council of YMCAs of Canada Saturday night.

Mr. Winters, president of Rio Tinto Mining Company of Canada, said that almost at the same time as the federal government announced that the United States would not exercise its options on Canadian uranium production beyond present contracts, it also announced the new nuclear research establishment would be built in Manitoba.

"Other things being equal," Mr. Winters continued, "there would be no natural satisfaction that Manitoba was to receive the benefit of this new development.

"Unfortunately, other things cannot be considered as being equal when one contemplates the situation at Elliot Lake which I believe is regarded by most Canadians as the centre of the uranium mining industry."

Q. When should the average baby start wearing shoes? What type of footwear should be worn?
A. An infant with normal feet should start to wear shoes when they are needed, that is, when he starts walking. Shoes are simply protective and it is no particular time that can be set for a baby to start wearing shoes. If the footwear is big enough and has a straight inner border it is immaterial whether shoes or boots are worn. In any case, a small heel is more comfortable.
Q. I have a few rather long black hairs around my nipples. Would cutting or shaving them make matters worse? — Frenchy
A. It is presumed that the inquirer refers to the nipples of the female breast. This is not an uncommon. Hair, regardless of location, is not made thicker or stiffer by cutting or shaving.

'Too Late to Keep Politics Out of Trade Unions' Says Vice-President of Congress

William Dodge, executive vice-president of the Canadian Labour Congress, said here, "It is late to keep politics out of trade unions."

The CLC and its affiliates plan to establish a new political movement based on organized labor in Canada.

Mr. Dodge was keynote speaker at a banquet Saturday night at a weekend CLC education institute sponsored by the Belleville and District Labor Council.

The problems now facing organized labor "give us no alternative than to try to solve them through politics — and it can't be done through current politics because they appear to be wedded in the belief that they are right and we are wrong."

Canada loses annually $300 million in production because of seasonal unemployment, he said.

The federal-municipal winter works program is "an interesting step in the right direction but it's not a real solution to seasonality of employment."

He suggested the federal government could spend up to $300 million annually to find a solution to the problem. "And it can be solved."

"In the type of economy we now have, if we don't have the power to increase the purchasing power of the people 10 per cent annually, we're going to have a large number of people out of work," he added.

Farmers have not been able to obtain labor trade unions and as a result farm income has gone down.

"We must provide the farmer with the means of bargaining for his own benefit so he, like us, can enjoy the results of productivity handed down through distribution over the years," he said.

Railway workers are merely seeking parity wages, he said, and it's not fair that they should be expected to provide a service for the people and not be given fair consideration in return.

DEDICATED WORKERS

"The railways over the years have dedicated themselves to providing a service for the people of Canada and, therefore, profits have been secondary", he said.

"Railway men have always been on the receiving end of unfair criticisms from the public for their drives for better wages".

The railways have united Canada politically but "this country hasn't the right to expect them to weld it together both financially and economically."

He said employers have a "tremendous power over the press, radio and political parties compared with what power employees have."

"It's a matter of survival that workers must unite within large corporations to fight against this power", he said.

"Surely our time will not tolerate what went on 100 years ago in respect to trade unions. Let's get with it in management and we are proceeding in that direction".

Cannot Have North American Pay And Hong Kong Prices Is Warning

MONTEBELLO, Quebec — "Until the people of Canada stop acting upon the assumption that they can have North American wages and the sort of prices prevalent in Hong Kong, governmental policies and practices at all levels which keep adding to the production costs of Canadian manufacturers will not stop," Frederick Armour, economic adviser, The Steel Company of Canada, Limited, said here today.

Speaking before the Canadian Food Processors Association, Mr. Armour declared:

"This is a very hard and unpalatable truth if we want to live on the North American continent. It doesn't — and we have got to adopt North American practices.

SIMPLIFY ECONOMY

"Ours is a high wage and high price economy. It cannot hope to maintain our level of living and way of life unless governmental policies are framed to simplify the basic fact. One of the accepted ways of simplification is through increased volume. But the efforts of Canadian manufacturers to increase the volume of their production are constantly frustrated by the action of certain governments, or of governmental agencies which have North American wages and the cost of living of Hong Kong. Such governmental policies and practices at all levels which keep adding to the production costs of Canadian manufacturers will not stop," Frederick Armour, economic adviser, The Steel Company of Canada, Limited, said here today.

MANUFACTURING KEY

"As manufacturing grew, Canada's living grew, but it developed socially, if manufacturing declines, you may be perfectly sure that its through decreased volume. "The main reason for our subnormal economic growth seems was that the opening of the west called into being a whole host of new industries, whereas the old enterprises were appreciated, and often assisted by the governments of that day. In return the production of those commodities is extended and could create a society in which education, the arts and the sciences have been able to develop in a quality stable but economically dynamic environment.

Girl Guides Obtain Camp Site

A permanent camp site for the more than 4,000 members of the Girl Guide movement in the Belleville area has been obtained by the Association. It is located near Waupoos in Prince Edward County.

Total cost of the venture to the Girl Guide Association is about $20,000. Each of the divisions in the Quinte Area, with the boundary points provided by Adolphustown, Bancroft, Madoc, Tweed, Napanee, Bath, Picton and Brighton is being asked to raise a proportionate share of the purchase price, according to its Guide - Brownie population.

Objective for the 745 Guides and Brownies of the Belleville Division, which takes in Point Anne and Carmet along with Belleville is $3,800.

MONEY BY CANVASS

It is proposed to raise this money through canvass of industry, business, professions and private citizens of Belleville and district. The Kiwanis Club of Belleville has given its support and has agreed to take part in service to the community in a $1,-000 loan, interest free, which was needed as Belleville's share of the down payment. Mr. Hugh Campbell and Mr. J. Arthur Ross have been appointed members of the Kiwanis Committee to assist with this project. Belleville Division asks for your support. Donations may be sent to Mrs. D. Stewart, 311 Charles Street or Mrs. H. Gould, 158 Albert Street, and income tax receipts will be mailed.

DONATIONS REQUESTED

Girl Guiding has been going on in Belleville since 1922. Mrs. R. E. Branscombe had the foresight and courage to launch this great movement here. Over the years Girl Guiding has always asked the public for financial assistance and camps have been held each year and in various ways had to be made for a camp site. Now it is the turn of the Guides, ex-Guides, parents of Guides and those interested in youth to show their appreciation in the form of a donation for this permanent campsite. Mrs. Brown Owls, Tawny Owls, Guide Captains and Lieutenants, Rangers and Guide Commissioners and Quartermasters do this work gladly and have for all years. This is the Jubilee Year of Guiding in Canada, the Belleville Division wants to make the ten room farm house. There are three separate areas of woods and boats and other equipment and a large steel roofed barn for all the day to day activities. The road is open all year round.

The wealthy growing number of Guides and Brownies in the Quinte area necessitated the move to provide permanent training accommodation.

Clear Highways Carried Heavy Load of Traffic

With the Bay of Quinte district escaping the brunt of the February blizzard which late last week swept across Southern Ontario, Belleville residents took to the road on Saturday on highways clear of snow.

Despite the fairly heavy traffic, however, provincial police reported no serious accidents in the immediate area, while in the city town men escaped serious injury when their truck was smashed by a C.N.R. freight in the north end of the city.

Provincial police had an exceptionally quiet week end at Belleville with no occurrences since Saturday.

Officers, NCO's Hold Exercise At Armouries

Officers and Senior NCO's of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment from Port Hope, Colborne, Trenton, Madoc and tis city held a National Survival exercise at the regimental armouries here on Sunday. The exercise, entitled Exercise Mushroom I, was prepared and directed by Major K. D. H. Wilhelm and was carried out on a cloth model.

The purpose of the exercise was to acquaint those concerned with the deployment and role of the Belleville Militia Support Column in the event of an atomic bomb blast occuring in Ottawa and the part which the local Militia unit would be put in assisting the Citizens of Ottawa. Major Willcocks stressed that the real importance of every member of the Militia was to take the lead in all aspects of National Survival in the event of a nuclear attack and said that each Militia member should obtain the greatest amount of national survival training possible.

Those present were welcomed by Major J. B. Black acting Commanding Officer of the Regiment in the absence of Lt.-Col. A. B. Duffy. Although training emphasis was on nuclear matters the age-old adage of an army travelling on its stomach was also highlighted with Captain F. B. Hart providing a special lunch of "Once Tossed Salad" with the assistance of the Quartermaster staff.

U.S. Defensive Might Ample Eisenhower Tells Nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has forged an indestructible force as an anchor of free world security, President Eisenhower declared Sunday night.

The defensive might is ample now and constantly is developing to meet the needs of tomorrow, Eisenhower said in a radio-television address on the eve of his departure for a Latin American goodwill tour.

In an indirect reply to critics of the U.S. defence program, he said:

"We have created a great deterrent strength—so powerful as to command and to justify the respect of knowledgeable and unbiased observers here at home and abroad."

DEMOCRATIC CRITICISM

Most of the defence criticism has come from announced or potential candidates of Democratic presidential nomination, Senate and House officers, both active and retired, also have protested what they called inadequate or misdirected defence policies.

Some of the announced candidates had more to say Sunday.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem. Minn.) told a meeting at Lake Bay, Wis., that the U.S. faces "grave threats in missile strength and that "the scoreboard is not encouraged by above an even greater point spread."

Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem., Mass.) said in a television interview that "when men who know the facts conclude that the president has . . . come to exact compromise conditions and say we are moving into a position of peril, I would err on the side of caution."

LISTS DETERRENT FORCE

In backing up his own appraisal of U.S. power, Eisenhower referred to:

1. Hundreds of air force bombers deployed around the world, each capable of "unleashing a frightful destruction." Each, he said, they constitute a force far superior to any other in numbers, quality and strategic location of bases.

2. A powerful nuclear force in aircraft carriers and in a host of submarines, including the nuclear-armed Polaris missile - firing submarine, which he described as an almost invulnerable weapon.

CBC News Editor Bitter Against Truth

TORONTO (CP)—Peter Churchill, 29, a CBC news editor, said today he has written to Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Justice Minister Fulton and Finance Minister Fleming saying he will not file an income tax return until capital punishment is abolished.

He said in his letter he plans to incite others to follow my example."

He said the hangman is paid from general revenues and by paying taxes and the hangman is nothing less than my paid agent acting on my behalf."

"This is not a matter for casuistry (quibbling)," his letter said. "I seek neither glory nor notoriety—only truth in my hands shall no longer be bloodied."

The letter said he was "fed up" with reports from Ottawa that the move of capital punishment was half-empty last week when Frank McGee, Progressive - Conservative member for Lake Scugog, Ont., debated his private-members' bill calling for the abolition of capital punishment. The bill will come up again for debate next Thursday.

"I am sure my action won't jeopardize my position at the CBC," said Mr. Churchill, a former Windsor newspaper man who joined the CBC last May.

"What I have done against capital punishment was done as a private citizen."

His 27-year-old wife, Doris, said: "If I lose my job, I wouldn't file either. I'm behind him 100 per cent." The Churchills have four children.

Would Throw 5,000 Men Out of Work

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—A threatened strike at Algoma Steel Corporation next weekend could throw more than 5,000 men out of work.

Algoma Steel says that the walkout threatened by the Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Ironshipbuilders and Eaginemen will make necessary "a complete shutdown of all the iron and steel operations in the plant and a substantial reduction in the coking operations."

The statement declares that as a result "more than 5,000 Algoma employees will be put out of work."

There also will be layoffs at the Algoma Central and Canadian Pacific Railways both of which haul iron ore, coal and limestone to Algoma and products for Algoma Steel.

The rail brotherhood has notified Algoma Steel that members will go on strike at 7 p. m. this coming Saturday unless agreement is reached by then on terms of a new working contract.

The statement from the company and union says that this action was authorized by a strike ballot among the brotherhood members employed at Algoma Steel.

"A substantial majority was in favor of going on strike."

The decision to stage a strike came after months of negotiations and the services of a conciliation officer and a conciliation board, which failed to secure agreement on a new contract.

According to the joint statement by the corporation and the union, the union's settlement had been recommended by a conciliation board but was rejected by the brotherhoods membership.

"BEST-PAID"

It described the statement, published in the form of a newspaper advertisement.

"The wage increases already offered by the company and approved by the conciliation committee in a signed memorandum of July 31, 1959 would make Algoma's locomotive engineers the best paid in the Canadian industry or on any switching operation on Canadian railroads."

Wren Challenges Fullerton to Resign Seat

TORONTO (CP)—Albert Wren, Liberal member of the Ontario legislature for Kenora, Sunday night challenged Progressive Conservative John A. Fullerton to resign his Algoma-Manitoulin seat and fight a byelection on the Ellis-Lake issue.

In a statement to the press, Mr. Wren said: "We would welcome a byelection on this issue to provide the people, the court of last resort which Ontario's premier so often champions, with the opportunity to decide."

He was referring to Mr. Fullerton's statement last week that he would consider resigning if federal Trade Minister Churchill did not state economic reasons to support the choice of Manitoba against Elliot Lake for the federal government's new nuclear research station.

Mr. Fullerton said he believed the government rejected Elliot Lake as the site because it was in Mr. Wren's Liberal Leader Pearson's constituency.

This was later denied by Mr. Churchill.

CLAIMS NO REPLY

Mr. Wren said Sunday night the trade minister did not, however, reply to Mr. Fullerton's challenge to substantiate the choice of Manitoba instead. To build the station in Manitoba would be a sheer waste of public funds, he said.

"If the prime minister of Ontario is not prepared to accept this theory, then the member for Algoma-Manitoulin would do the public service to resign his seat as he has suggested and leave the people free to choose for Mr. Wren.

Mr. Wren described the choice of Manitoba as "political chicanery of the worst kind," and said it was unbelievable that Prime Minister Frost, "who contributed so much to the creation of Canada as prime minister," would allow the people in power at Ottawa to "treat Ontario in such a manner."

"CHALLENGE" TO PREMIER

He said the situation posed a challenge of statesmanship to Premier Frost. "Here are real sources of federal government expenditure from the people of Ontario and Quebec."

Mr. Wren said the matter building a community at Elliot Lake are the people of Ontario to abandon its self reliance and expect Manitoba just because a minister of the Crown (in this instance trade and commerce) lives in Manitoba? How ridiculous can we get!

"We challenge the premier of Ontario to tell the people what he proposes to do."

Four-Year-Old Fatally Shot By Older Brother

BATH (CP) — A four-year-old boy was fatally wounded Sunday when shot in the stomach by a 12-gauge double-barrel shotgun held by the finger of his brother, 17 miles west of Kingston.

Senior Const. Ernest Bedore was shot when his brother Thomas W., 18, picked up the gun. The child died at 2 p. m. this morning in hospital by James Davis, 22, who commandeered a passing car and was later arrested by police.

Parents of the boy, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bedore, had gone to a house to drive an uncle to a nearby town. They didn't hear about the accident until they returned. The boy was one of 12 children.

Mr. Davis, a family friend in the house at the time of the accident, hailed a passing car. The driver told him he couldn't drive the wounded boy. "I told him to get out of the car and I'd drive it myself," Mr. Davis said Sunday.

He took the car, exchanged it for his brother-in-law's vehicle at Collins Bay, six miles from Kingston, and delivered the boy to hospital.

Mr. Davis said provincial police approached him at the hospital and said he had been arrested of stealing the car. They took no action when he explained the circumstances.

Black and White Rhodesians Hear Billy Graham

BULAWAYO, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—Nearly 20,000 black and white Rhodesians attended long-standing traditions of racial segregation Sunday as evangelist Billy Graham preached to them.

"God doesn't look at the color of a man's skin," he told the listeners.

They were packed in the stands and on the grass of a football stadium under a baking African sun although the authoritarian rulers of the Central African Federation recently took one of its most basic censorship, there has never been such a mingling of races at a public service here.

Graham said before the meeting he is considering taking his crusade to South Africa despite the laws of complete segregation. The American preacher said he is a group of ministers from the Union of South Africa have invited him to visit South Africa.

Last Thursday evening a testimonial dinner was given for John C. Farrell, who is leaving Trenton to assume a position with the Department of Northern Affairs in Fort Smith, Northwest Territories. The banquet was arranged by Senator W. A. Fraser and his committee, Mr. W. Shier, Mr. T. Hetherington and Mr. Scott Symonds, and was attended by leading citizens of the town as well as Mr. Farrell's associates in the Canadian Legion, Branch 110, Trenton. Mr. Farrell had previously been presented with a life membership in the Legion. In the above picture are shown Mr. and Mrs. Farrell chatting with Senator W. A. Fraser. (Photo by LaRocque.)

Brownies, Guides, Cubs, Scouts Honor Baden-Powell Memory

TRENTON — Yesterday afternoon, Trenton Brownies and Guides, Cubs and Scouts, gathered in the Odeon Theatre to attend a Baden-Powell Service of Dedication, commemorating the 103rd anniversary 22nd, 1857, of the founder of the Boy Scout and Girl Guide Movements, Lord Robert Baden-Powell.

The service was opened by the Trooping of the Queen's Colors, by a Guide with escort and a Scout with escort following this, God Save The Queen was sung.

The chairman of the meeting, District Commissioner S. Mowbray welcomed the parents and interested friends.

Mayor James MacDonald brought greetings to the leaders and Guides and Scouts on behalf of the people of Trenton. He urged the young people to honor their leaders who devoted so much of their time to teaching them the value of good citizenship.

Regional Commissioner, Archie Lewis, in a brief address, said that while Scouting was not a religious organization, nevertheless as there are Scouts in all countries of the world, embracing many races and creeds, Canadian Guides and Scouts are looking more and more towards the religious aspects of Scouting. He said that his listeners should remain steadfast in their own faith and respect the faith of their brother friends.

PROMISES RENEWED

The Renewal of Promises was led by Mrs. O. Bunting, Girl Guide Commissioner for East Trenton, Mrs. H. Ferguson, Divisional Commissioner, Alec Bell, Cubmaster for Third Trenton, "B" group, and Regional Commissioner Archie Lewis. The District Scoutmaster, Bernard Hall, led in prayer.

The guest speaker, Frank Lancaster, president of the Belleville District Council, was introduced by Mrs. Ted Snider, Division Commissioner for Trenton West.

Mr. Lancaster suggested different meanings of the founder's initials, "B-P" — be persevering, be polite, be pure, be prepared, be proud and be prepared. He said that each phrase could be applied to Scouting and Guiding.

The speaker told his young audience that Lord Robert Baden-Powell has been born on February 22nd, 1857, and had died in 1941. Winston Churchill had once referred to him as "one

Last Plane Arrives First

TRENTON — What was supposed to have been the last plane in a rotation of Canadian reconnaissance troops with UNEF in Egypt arrived here first Sunday.

The plane, which carried Major Tom Finan of Ottawa and the rearguard of his Royal Canadian Dragoons squadron here, has been patrolling the explosive Sinai for a year passed two other RCAF transports on route to Cairo delayed by Tripoli by engine failure and the other by weather on its different route.

Kiwanis Follies Excellent Show In All Respects

TRENTON — The 1960 version of the Kiwanis Follies, produced and directed by Bill Long, and featuring the vocal and dancing talents of the Kinsmodernettes, was, in the opinion of many who attended the annual production, the 'best ever". The variety show was presented on three evenings last week to capacity crowds in the auditorium of Trenton High School. Featured by the entire cast were excerpts from the successful Broadway musical, "Oklahoma", an elaborately staged extravaganza, "Cleopatterer", and a throwback to the "Vaudeville Daze" of our immediate ancestors. Paris Holiday with realistic Parisienne stage backgrounds, also made use of the talents of the members of the entire cast.

Soloists Patsy Taylor, Barbara Hetherington, Jean Hetherington, Tom Cashmore and Garry Wilson added to their growing reputations as top entertainers in the local musical circles. Miss Taylor turned in a particularly outstanding performance. When she sang "I Enjoy Being a Girl", the audience knew she meant every word she sang.

STAR PERFORMER

Miss Barbara Hetherington was at home in the sprightly vocal solos allotted to her and at a star performer in the chorus.

Miss Margaret Westfall played and sang her own composition, "I Love You So", and received acclaim from the audience.

Joe Gonyea brought Fabian to life with his rendition of popular songs.

Miss Barbara Thrasher proved equally adept at dancing and at tween scenes.

During the 1960 Easter Parade of Fashions', featuring the male members of the cast in female attire, Tom Cashmore, as commentator, got a rousing reception from the audience. The "boys" weren't content to rest on their laurels, and insisted on presenting their own version of the can-can almost bringing down the house in the process.

EXCELLENT CAST

As the Rondeaunettes are celebrating their tenth anniversary of "togetherness" this year, the finale took the form of a birthday party, with Lieutenant-Governor Long leading the vocal number and the versatile Miss Thrasher making an entrance with a huge cake bearing gigantic birthday cake on stage.

Members of the cast were: Bonnie Bannon, Jack Wilson, Pat Taylor, Lynda Hayes, Barbara Heaney, Florence Wilson, Linda Edgar, Sharon Swanson, Anita Bigwood, Sharon Wilson, Elsie Sinal for a year passed teacher, Gary Wilson, Bill Allore, Don Gorrie, Joe Richmond, Ray Beaupre, Tony Cashmore, Tom McCarthy and Hilary Blake.

Organ music interludes were played by Bill Long and piano accompaniments by Mrs. Gordon Barr. The costumes were designed and made by Mrs. Blain Young.

Members of the Kiwanis Club supervised the various branches of the production, were: project manager, Jerry Hetherington; program chairman, Ted Parker; stage manager, Bob Farrell; property manager, Frank Wilson; lighting, Norman Campey; tickets sales, Grant Gooding; budget chairman, Bruce Todd; liaison officer, Jim Hawthorne; chairman, Dr. T. A. McNally; promotion and publicity, Al Bonter; tickets, D. R. Fraser, H. G. Aziz, Al Weaver, R. Fanning, Cockrane, R. Jeffery, Paul Tripp, Steve Herman, W. Simmons, D. Whittaker, B. Blaire, Carl Weese.

DePaarture and Return

Jack Paar is returning to his NBC show on March 7—and not a moment too soon.

Paar's reconciliation with the network may not silence the chorus of idiots—but it may at least bring us a change of tune.

Many noble sentiments have been expressed since Paar quit his show in a huff a week ago Thursday, because NBC snipped out a joke about a W.C.—toilet in this side of the Atlantic.

There is something particularly revolting about noble sentiments being wasted on such a cause, when many a better one goes begging for support.

Several "guests" on Paar's show, in his absence, denounced censorship of any kind. The only trouble was that the question, in the purely realistic sense, was not involved at all in the incident.

Somebody has to decide what goes in newspapers —and what is said on stage, on radio or on TV. Are the people entrusted with this responsibility censors? To hold they are is to make any stand against censorship nonsensical.

Censorship is any effort by an outside authority, public or private, to limit the freedom of speech, by word of mouth or in writing, of others. But NBC was not an outside authority. It owned the network. Somebody on it had to decide what should and should not be said on the show. For Paar to claim the right to say anything he likes on an NBC network is like a reporter claiming the right to write anything he likes and have it published in the newspaper which employs him.

If there is any limitation to the right of the NBC management to decide what shall be said or shown on the network, it only arises by reason of the fact that the number of radio and television channels is limited, that they are, in any realistic view of the situation, public property which NBC lets be used to use. The public, if it is worthy of any consideration in this matter, ought not to be overly concerned with Paar's right to tell a joke about a W.C. until certain other standards have been met. The first thing it ought to require is the existence of the public conscience—enough to tell advertisers who object to Manhattan skyline shots showing the Chrysler building and Paar-boiled admirers who sob in rhythm with their hero to be sensible.

The pity of it is that Paar's show is one of the few with an adult format. It is not "sponsored"; a wide variety of firms buy advertising time on it, just as firms buy space in newspapers, or time on Britain's commercial network. Madison Avenue has no direct control over its content, and Paar and the network have shown admirable restraint for sponsors' tender feelings on more than one occasion. Aired at a time when most children are abed, the performers have not been overly squeamish about their language. Every now and then discussions have flared which have shown the management that some of the guests only selected for what they know, rather than for how well they are known.

One can hope that it was an instinctive affection for the show's potentialities, rather than any belief that a network decision to ban a joke about a W.C. was really censorship, which formed the foundation for the nonsensical howls of protests when Paar walked out.

If this editorial reads like a defence of NBC, we must apologize. The measure of that network is that it practically crawled in an effort to make certain that the show would be under Paar.

Status Seekers

Well, fellows, let us not be down-hearted. The sun moves in its customary orbit. The days grow longer. Soon we shall be able to doff the ear-muffs and overshoes, our present status as director of the division of disposal of organic wastes. Indeed, in this place we can don the gardening gloves and odd pair of pants which clearly signify our summer-time transfer to the post of vice-president in charge of the orderly arrangement of external flora and fauna.

Titles and equality, fashion? Well, how can a snow-shoveller and lawn-mower pusher expect to win social acceptance when "The Lady of the House" is pondering an invitation from the Toronto Globe and Mail to attend "the entertaining and informative Household Executive Program to enjoy a presentation of the newest fashion trends for family and home."

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

G. WASHINGTON

This was the way the great, General always signed his name. Some years ago the government brought out a complete set of Washington's writings, which meant, of course, his letters and state papers. They come in thirty-six quite large volumes.

Washington was a man of such simple, unaffected character that even his colossal fame could not spoil him. He was always addressed Washington by his first name. Gouverneur Morris was one of Washington's closest friends and remained so through the years. During the Revolution, Morris bet a group of his friends that he could slap his friend George Washington on the back and get away with it. He slapped the Commander in Chief on the back, but the look Washington gave him caused him to pay his wager without protest.

When Washington died, all the Napoleon decreed a seven-day mourning throughout France. During the War of 1812, the British and the French and Indian War ships sailing up the Potomac to Mt. Vernon, Washington's home, would lower their flags to half-mast. When Washington died, all the ships in the British navy lowered their pass Mt. Vernon. To this day, every craft passing Mt. Vernon on the Canadian National railway, now a part of the Canadian National.

Unknown Red Genius Dies

Montreal Gazette

The successes that have been achieved by the Soviet Union in the fields of scientific and technical research are today well known. But the men who have been responsible for the production of such scientific studies are still largely anonymous.

One of the latest to die, Dr. Igor Kurchatov, died this week. In this case, as in many others, the anonymity has been unwarranted.

His researches into the properties and potentialities of the radio isotope, uranium, built the Red Soviet War. During the 1939-45 he made important discoveries, some of which were on a parallel with similar investigations that were being conducted in the West. By the beginning of the Second World War, his study group had accumulated enough information to provide Russia with the knowledge for future research and development in the field of atomic energy.

The German invasion of Russia in 1941 interrupted his work, but by 1943 he was again engaged in vital nuclear research.

After the end of the war he became the chief organizer and director of Russian attempts to duplicate the adventures of atomic bombs by the United States. Largely through his efforts the Soviet Union has exploded an atomic bomb by 1949, a hydrogen bomb by 1953, thus bringing Russia abreast of the United States in this aspect of weapons research.

Ignorance of this man's work has proved very harmful to the Western world. For instance, it was generally believed in 1943 that Russia had achieved almost nothing in the use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes, and that no significant developments could be expected for several years. Yet, all the time the Soviet Union possessed in Dr. Kurchatov's work a base for solid advancements.

Similarly, accounts of Dr. Kurchatov are a testimony to the unimportance, indirectly as a man who during his lifetime exercised a tremendous influence upon the world balance of power. The climate of opinion in which we live today is a considerable extent the result of his work.

Near Empire Of Republics

Manchester Guardian

When the Commonwealth prime ministers gather together in May they will almost certainly be asked to approve formally the transformation of yet another British dependency—Ghana—into a republic. At the same time Nigeria will goes very may be applying for admission as an independent republic while in Rhodesia the prime minister has at length come out and openly declared the views of noises, the Nationalist government may be ready by next summer to call a referendum and adopt a republican constitution.

We shall be well on the way to a commonwealth the majority of whose members do not owe direct allegiance to the Queen.

There are already the republics of India and Pakistan, and in Malaya a federation with its own elected and melodious monarch, the Di-Pertuan Agong.

A prevalence of republics in a grouping that has a monarch at its head should make little difference. It should be easier to swallow than the admission, as a full member, of a country (Cyprus) where two foreign governments will have a right to intervene . . .

Yet even this should be open to discussion. Suppose that one day the openness of this Commonwealth of republics will make possible the admission of the United States itself!

One of the biggest whirls in pine trees ever will be in the Algonquin Park was felled recently on the limit of J. S. L. McRae on the north branch of the Petawa River. The tree stood 116 feet in height and contained 7,787 feet of timber. The huge pine produced its 18 foot logs; the first had a diameter of 50 inches.

When the Albert College and Belleville Collegiate cagers divided Intercollegiate COSSA basketball games, two outstanding features resulted. After over fifty years of service, work will shortly be started for the removal of one of the old landmarks of the city, the lower bridge. An effort will be made to have the new structure completed for the Old Home Week early in August. Architects are now working on a plans now, and it probably will be built of steel and concrete. The engineer for the new structure has received a report to the city council dealing with the condition of the present structure and it appears that it is impressive that a new bridge is a necessity now as the present one is unsafe for travel.

These engineers will endeavor to suggest some remedy whereby floods may be averted. Examination has been made fact that there is scarcely any water in the river between the railway bridge South Front Street, and the upper bridge. This is owing to the fact that the river is frozen nearly solid from back to back.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Gum chewers, of course, are a distinct type. You rarely see others than the type doing any smacking. But candy squishers belong to all types, ages and sexes. Most candy-eating is done in the privacy of the home. However, in the late afternoon, on the buses and street cars carrying housewives and workers from downtown shopping districts, you will see the whole panoply and pageant of the candy-squishing set. In the big stores, they have the candy counter as a rule not far from the main exit; and housewives, a little exhausted from shopping, can't resist picking up just a small bag of their favorite soft centre or hard centre.

As they await the bus or tram, they begin munching. Just one. It is thus you see them boarding the bus with their mouths all purzed up in front, and their faces energetically lengthening and shortening as they chew. They aren't chewing. They are squishing the candy, using the tongue and the roof of the mouth. It is an entirely different operation from chewing, much more athletic on the face muscles.

It is a pleasure to watch any those who, by accident or design, sit next to them on the bus. A toffee fiend, or one with a taste for fudge, can be seen from at least five or six minutes of squishing, and as they gaze with a faraway expression on their faces at empty space, they squish, squish, squish, as though they will never get to the end of it. But at last they do. Down it goes. And, like sleepers awakening, they glance about the bus at their fellow travellers, wondering if they should have another.

Even the Sink Was in The Kitchen

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of man's most singular achievements—and one of his most mystifying, is his ability to turn chaos into order almost overnight. It involves, I am sure, some inner law of motion that we are still far from using. Neither physics nor psychology can properly explain it.

Friends of ours bought a house nearly some weeks ago. They were scheduled to move in last weekend; indeed, they had to move in, since their old house had been sold and promised for occupancy.

Two days before the deadline, a family of hyenas would not have inhabited the premises. Fresh plaster was everywhere; a pink occupied the centre of the living-room floor, and strips across the halls like a malicious obstacle course.

"Impossible," said the wife, as she gazed at the mess. The carpenters will not finish until the electricians are through, and the electricians are going back up by the plasterers, and — we'll just have to move to a hotel for a couple of weeks."

She was wrong. On Saturday morning, we found the new house with the sink in the kitchen, the stove in the dining-room, and the paint firmly dry. Unless those midnight elves were responsible, no one can explain how it all came together.

This incident is perhaps most vividly seen at work in the theatre. I have attended many dress rehearsals, and the worst has the play been ready for production by the opening night? It matter how much money and effort were expended.

To the eye of a novice, it would require three weeks of patient rearranging to get the show certains to the public. Costumes are always torn, the lighting comprises are still in route from Kamchatka, the leading man is in love with the leading lady, the chief character actress has run out with a husband who has the only set of light-cues in his pocket.

Yet, no matter how hysterical the situation, everything rights itself in some mysterious way all the parts fit together; the curtains open, and the audience is blissfully unaware that the last mid-afternoon the producer had threatened suicide, and the director had torn up his contract.

I cannot pretend to understand this phenomenon, but am deeply grateful for it. And I suspect that it must explain why the artist is pretty much on the strength of this hidden reserve. During the diverse high-level military reports of the Allied invasion of Europe in the early days, it was perfectly evident that we were deliriously overwhelmed and quite unprepared the very night before D-Day. And we won the war before we were "ready" to invade.

Mr. Edmund Morris (PC-Halifax) is concerned about the number of Maritime representatives in the House of Commons. "We are too few, he says. "Give us back the number we formerly had with which we entered Confederation," is his plea.

We do not share his anxiety in this respect. We have enough members as it is. Representation in this region goes begging for physical representation. Rarely are more than a third of the members we do have speak up in one sitting. Most of them are doing the job on Parliament Hill that we commissioned them to do.

We do not say that all Maritime members should be present at session after session. On the contrary, there are times when from both sides of the House who bring to the attention of the Commons, eloquently and forcefully, the problems peculiar to that area. There is no need for a number who, at the risk of crossing party lines, are doing they have to say, knowing that they are speaking for the people of the Atlantic provinces.

Offsetting these men of vigor are those who appear to be along just for the ride. When they are questioned closely on the issue they stir in their constituents the same sort of surprise Balaam must have felt when his donkey opened his mouth and spoke.

No, our need is not for more members. Perhaps there are those we have to take off their coats, roll up their sleeves and start grappling with the problems that keep this part of Canada in the doldrums.

Should Check Tax Swindlers

Owen Sound Sun-Times

Perhaps there is little he can do about it, but the average wage earner whose income tax is deducted "at source" often entertains a feeling of unease about those who are known to be purposefully evade taxes or abuse their privileges of exemptions, counts or at least, enjoy the capital use of their earnings more than he does year before tax time rolls around.

Citizenry in the tax field is difficult to check on and much is practised. The consequence is that the public has to be taxed to compensate for the delinquents.

In these days of ever-increasing rates it is no small matter for the weekly wage earner to be left with a reasonable slice of his pay before he ever sees it. Perhaps his business would be enabled to have the full use of this capital and interest for several months longer.

Abuse of expense accounts is a form. Appropriately termed "swindle sheet" is the exception to find many executives and salaried employees. Used as Canada today, Motels, hotels, restaurants, gas stations, garages and what-have-you, freely offer bogus "receipts" to the unsuspecting taxpayer. What can be done about this flagrant misrepresentation is an expensive tax field? No one has the answer, but the responsibility lies with those who administer the department of national revenue.

One-Day Spiel At Curling Rink Proves Popular

Let's have another in the near future. This was the opinion expressed by the curlers on the conclusion of a one-day spiel held on Saturday at the local curling rink. The players were those who had not competed in the annual men's spiel, although it was necessary to recruit a few to fill out the sixteen rinks that competed. Charlie Cox, Lloyd Sheppard and Murray Johnson, members of the games committee are to be complimented for the conduction of the draw and the speed in which they were completed.

A rink of Dick Ellis, Ted Follwell, S. Mussell with Ken LaPalm as skip, won the high three-game count with a rink of J. Olaveson, E. Hibbig, Hazen Slairs with Bruce McKenzie as skip in second place. The two-game high score was won by Bill Lynch, W. Spinelli, E. Fleming and Dick Beare as skip, while the one-game high was won by a rink of Bev Quinney, Vic White, Dawson Boyd, with Dr. McCorquodale as skip. The spiel was played on a point system with points given for each end won and for winning the game.

At the conclusion of the games the prizes were distributed and thanks expressed to the committee, after which a round of mixed curling was enjoyed. It is the intention of the committee to hold a one-day mixed spiel and another men's spiel where the skips will pick their own rinks before the season is closed. Many of the players are hoping for the Trenton bonspiel, which is slated to start on Wednesday and continue through until Sunday, when the finals will be played. Two Escape Death by Inches As Oil Truck Hit by Train

Two occupants of a Moira-Schuster oil delivery truck escaped death only by inches Saturday afternoon when their partially-loaded truck was struck by an east-bound Canadian National Railways freight at the East Moira Street crossing.

Escaping with bruises and a shaking up were Douglas Hull, 23, driver of the truck, and Leonard Collins, 16, who was riding as a helper for the day.

The oil delivery truck was a complete wreck with damage estimated in excess of $4,000.

Police said the two men were west-bound on Moira when, as they approached the CNR crossing, were apparently blinded by the early afternoon sun and failed to see the approaching east-bound freight.

The cab of the truck had just cleared the east-bound track when the front of the diesel plowed into the tank section of the vehicle. The force of the impact swung the truck around and the two occupants were thrown out onto the snow at the side of the track.

CARRIED 150 FEET

The wrecked truck was carried about 150 feet down the track, then rolled down a 20-foot right-of-way embankment, stopping just short of the Moira River.

The tank portion of the delivery truck was torn completely from the chassis and the partial load of oil spilled along the right-of-way and in the snow, creating a fire hazard. Fortunately, however, the wreckage did not catch fire.

Both truck occupants were taken to Belleville General Hospital where they received emergency treatment for their cuts. The Collins youth was allowed to go home, but Mr. Hull was admitted to hospital for observation.

DIDN'T REMEMBER

"I don't remember a thing from the time the train struck until I was picked up in the snow," related the Collins youth following the accident. The impact was on his side of the truck.

"We sure were lucky," he agreed.

Saturday's accident was the second mishap at the East Moira Street crossing in the past two weeks. Earlier this month, Donald Marshall, Station Street, drove his car into the side of a passing freight.

MISSING DEATH BY INCHES—were Douglas Hull, (left insert) driver for Moira Schuster Fuels, and his helper, Leonard Collins, 16-year-old Quinte Secondary School students, when their oil truck was struck by a CNR freight Saturday at the East Moira Street crossing. Jumbled wreckage of the oil truck is seen after being pulled from the scene by wrecking trucks.

Kingston Pair Win Auto Club's 76-Mile Test

Twenty-five members of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club partook of an afternoon's activity yesterday afternoon by competing in a 76.9-mile rally over local provincial and county roads.

Starting out from Napanee the motoring enthusiasts followed a route through Mt. Pleasant, Marysville, Lonsdale, Rosin, Stirling, Frankford, Foxboro, Plainfield, Canniffon to end the journey at Rossmore.

Competition was quite keen during the event since there was the possibility of a three-way tie for the annual club rally championship and the entrants kept a very close watch on their timepieces and mileage counters. They were marked off at intervals from the official mileage for the course, which was laid out by the Belleville chapter's chairman, Jim Williamson, and for various time deviations for the absolute and actual times they were due at various checkpoints along the route. All of these deviations were penalized at a point per tenth of a mile on distance and five points per minute early or late on the time factor.

By the time results were calculated after the competitors had completed their run over all types of winter road conditions it became evident that Jack Wilson and Audrey Rushbrook of Kingston, had taken first place with 22.2 points of penalty. They were followed by Dr. Robert Allore and Pat Perry of Belleville with 63.0 points for second place. Third place went to and Mrs. B. McCurry of Trenton with 71.6 points. Following the first three places were (in order), Robert Preston of Kingston, tied with Margaret Anne McGuire of Belleville; D. Finch and Miss M. Walsh of Kingston; Messrs. A. Fisher and K. Callaghan of Belleville; N. Patterson and Mrs. E. Fisher of Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. R. Rockall, of Belleville, and C. Bjerkhus of Kingston.

Accountants, Lawyers Urge Royal Commission on Taxes

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of a royal commission to study problems of double taxation was recommended today by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants and the Canadian Bar Association in their annual joint submission to the federal government.

The recommendation referred in part to the broad picture of Canadian corporate taxation, wherein earnings are taxed first in the hands of a company and again in the hands of shareholders.

It also referred to particular aspects of taxation, such as the provisions covering the distribution to shareholders of earnings which a company has retained or accumulated over a period of years—commonly known as surplus.

The submission said piecemeal legislation, aimed at preventing taxpayers from escaping legitimate taxes, had resulted in complication, confusion and uncertainty.

Accordingly, a royal commission was recommended to take a fresh look at the whole situation. In the meantime, the brief recommended interim changes.

Under one recommendation a businessman could find out in advance what tax he would have to pay on a proposed transaction. Advance rulings, the brief said, would aid elements of the economy on whose activity the tax system is dependent, and would discourage transactions likely to result in expensive and fruitless tax controversies.

The brief urged that ceilings on medical claims be removed, and a member of the delegation commented:

"The act, as it now stands, seems to say that if you have a fair amount of medical expense it's all right to claim a deduction; but if you have what amounts to a medical catastrophe you're out of luck."

Another recommendation asked that remuneration paid to a wife who is employed by her husband be deductible from the husband's taxable income and treated as separate income in the wife's hands.

The brief said there appears to be an anomaly in the regulations which decline to certain corporations the right to deduct drilling costs of an oil or natural gas well inside Canada, while at the same time they may deduct similar costs of a well outside Canada from the income of the well. It recommended that all costs be allowed to deduct drilling costs of a well inside Canada from the income of that well.

46 Persons Die In Earthquakes South of Algiers

ALGIERS, Algeria (CP) — Forty-six persons, mainly women and children, were killed and 88 injured Sunday when two villages 90 miles south of Algiers were hit by three earthquakes in less than three hours.

Both villages — Melouza and Beni-Hilmane — were devastated by quakes 12 years ago.

About 100 of the 300 houses in Beni-Hilmane were destroyed and the rest damaged badly, rescue workers reported.

A helicopter pilot who flew over Melouza described it as "a heap of earth and dust."

Reports from Beni - Hilmane said 15 of the dead were children killed in the village school when the quakes hit.

Girl Guides, Brownies Hold Thinking Day

February the 22nd is the anniversary of the birth date of Lord Baden-Powell, the founder of the Girl Guide Movement and Lady Baden-Powell. During the next week all members of this movement will hold special services and programs in honor Lord Baden-Powell's memory and to foster the international spirit of the Girl Guide movement.

The Belleville division of the Quinte area Girl Guides under Commissioner, Mrs. Ed Thompson, is now taking this opportunity to inform the public of the activities and plans of the Guides and Brownies. A window display has been set up at the Belleville Public Utilities. Special thanks should be given to Lipsett, Belcher and Bronson Sears Company for loans to the display window. Also there will be interviews and information given over Radio Belleville during the week.

50TH ANNIVERSARY

This year — 1960, 200,000 members of the Girl Guide movement in Canada are celebrating the 50th birthday of Girl Guiding. There will be hundreds of communities from coast to coast, they have planted golden tulip bulbs to make a River of Gold. Apparently 2,000 golden tulips have been planted in Belleville around the meeting places of the Packs and Companies and at the Capital, the Cenotaph and the County Home.

The Girl Guides Belleville Division are three Girl Guide districts. Among these three districts there are 11 Guide Companies, 13 Brownie Packs, 1 Ranger Company, 1 Extension Company and 2 Extension Brownie Packs. The last three are the Outside School for the Deaf. Thus Belleville is proud to have 233 Guides, 310 Brownies, 50 Guiders and an active Ranger Company.

THINKING DAY

Every Pack and Company in the Division is using various means of collecting pennies at their "Thinking Day" programs to be sent to the World Thinking Fund. The use of this Fund is to assist Canadian Guides and Leaders to attend International Camps. Also some assistance is given to Guides from foreign countries to attend Canadian camps. Plans are already in progress for special Jubilee Camps this summer and it is to be hoped that at least a few Belleville Guides will be able to attend these National and Provincial camps.

HALLOWAY WMS AND WA

HALLOWAY — The regular combined meeting of the WMS and WA was held last Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Earl Snider with a fair attendance.

Mrs. Alvin Donaldson, the WMS president, conducted the worship service based on the theme, "The spirit of man is the candle of the Lord." The Scripture was chosen from Colossians 1: 1-14, and read by Mrs. Freddie Wellman.

The Rev. R. F. Darke presided over the installation of 1960 officers, stressing the importance of each person's devotion to her position.

Several items of business were dealt with. Members were informed of the W.M.S. annual meeting to be held in the Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, on Tuesday, February 23. Also the World Day of Prayer, which is to be held in Foxboro United Church on March 4th.

The roll call was well responded to by 24 cards being sent and three visits to shut-ins.

In the W.A. business the annual Holloway strawberry - ice cream social was set for June 22nd.

Mrs. Freddie Wellman was the delegate appointed to attend the leadership training course on Education to be held at Five Oaks the week of March 1st.

Easter thank - offering envelopes were given out. Mrs. John Wilson and Mrs. Earl Snider were appointed to collect for the Upper Canada Bible Society fund, and Mrs. Coleman Pearson to be assistant to the Friendship secretary. This concluded the business.

Mrs. P. Dixon, as secretary of Christian Citizenship, spoke on what the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church wants to see that respect, namely: (1) in temperance education — make the church's stand our stand, by abstaining from the use of alcoholic beverages at all times; (2) in racial welfare, to use every opportunity to serve others; (3) in racial brotherhood to break down barriers of prejudice; (4) in world peace, to follow christ's way of peace in every human relationship.

PARENTS' CONCERN

She also spoke of the deep concern of thousands of parents and interested individuals over the tide of extremely objectionable, lurid-covered magazines and publications which flood the book counters and other stores. Much good literature is available in inexpensive pocketbook form. The positive approach is to ask for and purchase this type of literature, thus more will be made available.

Mrs. Ed Reilly also gave a worthwhile reading on "Imagined mind lists 16 rules, ending with the sentence, 'Pray before studying, for, though knowledge comes from books, wisdom comes from God'." This concluded the meeting.

Mrs. Snider and her assistants, Mrs. E. Tufts and Mrs. G. Kennedy, served lunch.

'Devotions' Topic at Holloway W.A.

The regular meeting of the Hobby Street United Church Women's Association was held last Thursday afternoon with Mrs. C. Smith's group in charge of the meeting and, being the committee on devotions for this year, the program was centred around that theme.

Opening with a "study-run" devotional period, the group tried to bring the members a more carefully arranged and prepared devotional. These taking part were Mrs. C. Smith, Mrs. Leonard Reid, Mrs. D. Cook and Mrs. K. Parks.

The Rev. C. W. Coleman gave an informal talk on devotions. He first compared rituals used in many different religions throughout the world, and then told of the great difference there should be between private and public devotions. His talk gave the ladies many thoughts to ponder, and many to remember. He said, "Learn to have more silent prayer; be silent and let God speak. Always lift the heart to God for when one knocks, God will answer."

Mrs. Ed Reilly favored with two wonderful solos, "In the Garden" and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You." Mrs. F. Hubbs accompanied her on the piano.

The business period followed during which Mrs. C. Smith was appointed as representative to the Five Oaks convention in March.

Lunch was served by the group in charge and a good fellowship half-hour enjoyed.

Society for Individual Freedom Led by Woman

By JUDITH AYER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The cause of justice for Britain's ordinary man is being led by a woman.

She is Mrs. Lillian Sutton, a chic, energetic grandmother of 48. As secretary of an organization called the Society for Individual Freedom, she does daily battle against the dragon of bureaucracy and state control.

One British Newspaper, summarizing her activities, came up with the headline: "St. George is a woman."

Mrs. Sutton was pleased with the publicity, but found it a trifle disconcerting to have people ring up and ask for St. George.

She says the aim of the society is to make sure the person conscious of his own freedom and its attendant responsibilities. This would lessen bureaucracy. The will of the people would be expressed in Parliament, and would regain some of the control now gradually has been relegated to offices in Whitehall.

COURT ACTION

Meanwhile, Mrs. Sutton and her committee take up the cause of people who have a legitimate complaint.

For example, there was the man who, through his job, contacted mercurial poisoning. He tried unsuccessfully for a number of years to claim compensation from his company, but brought his appeal to court too late for the law to help him. Mrs. Sutton managed to help him obtain an award of £2,000.

But she would like to see these jobs done by a government department. Even though it is the Scandinavian idea of a "minister for grumbles," a man appointed exclusively to act as a watchdog of individual freedom and welfare.

The minister, known as "ombudsman," acts as a buffer between the people and the institutions of an increasingly complex society, investigating complaints, taking up miscarriages of justice and advising where necessary on the complicated processes of welfare legislation.

The first step in the campaign for an ombudsman or similar protector in Britain will be a public meeting addressed by members of Parliament and lawyers. It will be held in March.).

Fighting with Mrs. Sutton and her society are such men as Lord Shawcross and Lord Hutchinson-Hutchinson. Whatever the measure eventually decided upon, the result, they hope, will be the same: the restoration of true justice.

Jr. Red Cross Workers Pay For Operation

TORONTO (CP) — Meri Simmons, 18, of St. Lucia, British West Indies, went to the Toronto General Hospital last August for a new boot and braces to help support her left leg, crippled by polio four years ago. But it looks as if she'll never need them.

Doctors told her they could fix the leg with two operations, one on the hip and the other on a main tendon in the ankle. Meri was thrilled by the news but found the cost was prohibitive.

She mentioned her trouble to Jr. Red Cross girls attending a junior Red Cross meeting at Kirkland Lake, Ont., and things happened fast.

The organization's Ontario branch wrote letters to her parents and received permission to have the operation performed; the necessary $3,000 for the operation became a Junior Red Cross project and arrangements were made for Meri to continue her studies while convalescing.

Meri hopes to go to Cambridge University on a scholarship, become a doctor and practice in British West Indies.

She will be in hospital another three months, during which time she will be visited regularly by members of Toronto's North York branch of the Junior Red Cross.

The cast came off her leg several weeks ago. Her time now will be taken up with therapy designed to do away with the heavy boot and awkward braces she once had to wear.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

Question: My daughter, who is now away at college, has been invited to spend a weekend at the home of her room-mate. Should she carry a gift with her when she arrives, or is a thank-you note when she leaves sufficient?

Answer: It is not obligatory that a gift be presented to the mother of the roommate in this instance. There is nothing against doing so, however, if she desires to. The gracious gesture is the sending of flowers to the mother of the roommate upon her departure. Regardless of whether a gift or flowers are presented, the thank-you note should definitely be written immediately upon her return to college.

Question: I have a great deal of difficulty when trying to eat an artichoke or asparagus. It seems almost impossible to do so except with the fingers. Is it correct to eat them in this way?

Answer: When eating an artichoke, at least at a time it pulled off and the edible end is tipped in the sauce and then bitten off. Naturally the fingers are used for this operation. When the centre of the artichoke is reached, the thistle is scraped away with a knife, leaving the heart which is eaten with a fork. With regard to asparagus, it is considered by some correct to eat with the fingers. Personally, unless one is dining in the privacy of one's own home, I would advise using a fork.

Question: I had a most embarrassing experience the other day, caused entirely by my own stupidity. When riding home on the bus with a friend, not thinking, I made several comments relative to a mutual friend. They were not complimentary comments, unfortunately. Imagine my horror upon leaving the bus to see the friend we had been discussing sitting right behind us. The greeting I received made it obvious she had overheard us. I am anxious to apologize, but don't know where to begin.

Answer: This would seem to foretell the end of a beautiful friendship. Making derogatory comments about others when she perforce overhears would seem to be an instance where even an apology could not undo the harm done. To salve your conscience, you should write you might write a letter asking her forgiveness. I doubt if it will do much good. She knows your opinion of her and she wouldn't be human if she didn't want to stay away from any further contact with you. How would you feel if the shoe was on the other foot?

Question: A question that pops up all the time and never seems to get settled for me is a member of the family give a shower for an engaged girl or an expectant mother?

Answer: The answer is NO! It is not fitting that guests are invited to attend a party being given by a member of a family for one of their own when said guests are expected to bring gifts. The proper procedure is to have a friend, or friends, act as host for both the bridal shower and the baby shower. Members of the family are of course invited, but they should not give the shower.

Question: What is the correct way in which to handle the knife and fork when eating?

Answer: There are two forms that are considered correct today. The first is known as the "American or zigzag." Hold the fork in your left hand, cut the food with the knife in your right, put the knife across the edge of the plate, switch the fork, tines up, to the right hand and eat the food in your mouth. A little involved, but neat when well done. The second form that is considered correct is the continental, or European mode of eating. The fork stays in the left hand after the food is cut, tines down, as the food is conveyed to the mouth. The main thing to avoid here is using the knife to push layers of food onto the back of the fork, for example, a piece of meat, a dab of potatoes and a dab of vegetables on top of that. It is an unsightly spectacle when you try to get it all in your mouth at one time.

The frankly fake fur parka pictured is fine for skiing on a wintry day. It also makes a cozy jacket for wear around the lodge or in to town.

The longer coat, is perfect coverage on the ski lift or for after-ski occasions. Both are lined with white lamb, it is an attractive addition to the non-skier's wardrobe, too.

Pork in a Kimona

by Mary Moore

My congratulations to wholeheartedly go to the girls in this audience who are tackling Chinese cooking. Let them eat cake in a good Chinese restaurant and they are off like a rabbit, peering at the cans of Chinese foods in the supermarkets and concentrating over their stoves on Chow Mein and Sweet and Sour.

One reader telephoned me and asked me for quantities for Cantonese Pork for a crowd of 12. To be sure of the quantity I made you enough for four of us and then multiplied it by three and called her back.

This dish looks perfectly lovely on the platter in front of the server. The sweet and sour combination teases and pleases the palate and I'm going to serve it to my next group of guests.

When you are making this you seem to be working over Cantonese Pork to the exclusion of the remainder of the meal, but all at once it is ready for the table, it makes the complete hot main course for it is served on rice.

tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1-3 cup butter or margarine or cooking oil, 3 green peppers, 4 medium stalks celery, 1 cup boiling water, 2 chicken bouillon cubes (or 1 cup chicken broth), generous 1-2 cup canned pineapple chunks, 1-2 cup pineapple juice (drained from canned pineapple), 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-3 cup white vinegar, 2 tablespoons soya sauce, 1 cup long grain rice, 1 2-3 cups boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, almonds. Trim meat of the fat and bone (if any) from the pork and cut it into 1" pieces. Make a batter by mixing together the flour, salt and pepper with a rotary beater. Heat the butter or margarine or oil in a large frying pan. Coat the pieces of meat with the batter and drop into hot fat and fry gently to a golden brown. Pour excess fat from pan. Prepare vegetables by cutting celery diagonally in 1-2" pieces and green pepper in 1" squares. Add to pan. Dissolve the bouillon cubes in the boiling water and add 1-4 cup of this broth to pan. Add pineapple chunks and juice. Cover pan and simmer about 10 minutes but do not cook vegetables tender — they should still be crisp. In a small saucepan mix together the cornstarch, sugar, soy sauce, vinegar and 3-4 cup leftover bouillon broth. Cook, stirring until thick and clear. Pour evenly over vegetables and meat in pan, gently mix, cover and simmer 5 minutes longer. Serve over fluffy boiled rice and, if desired, sprinkle with toasted almonds. Prepare rice by boiling together, covered, the rice, 1 2-3 cups boiling water with 1-2 teaspoon salt until all water is absorbed. Boil rice hard, then turn off heat for 5 minutes, then turn it on low to finish. Some rice sticks to bottom, but easily soaks off and may be added to your jar of pork in the refrigerator.

Board Approves Program For Better Nursing Care

OTTAWA (CP) — An improvement program to upgrade nursing education was unanimously approved by executives of the Canadian Nurses' Association meeting here Friday.

The program will go into effect in 1961, if passed by the general membership meeting in June.

It is planned as a preparation for a national accreditation program for Canadian schools of nursing similar to that in effect in the United States. Optimum standards would be set by the nurses' association. At present nursing schools are approved on a provincial basis using minimum standards.

The decision to launch the improvement program resulted from an exhaustive two-year inquiry into Canadian nursing education conducted by Helen K. Mussallem, formerly associate director of nursing education, school of nursing, Vancouver General Hospital.

The topic for the lesson was "African Culture" taken by Mrs. Bailey who described the Africans' family life. Each belongs to a family, clan, or tribe. Boys and men tend large herds of cattle — women look after gardens and homes and also make pottery; live in villages.

Mrs. Kernohan read an article describing conditions in Africa today compared to former times. It is no longer isolated; Missionaries are there and are interspersed in the minds and souls of African.

Mrs. Alvery read an article in answer to the query was the past better than the present? Few Africans today would want to go back to the age of their grandfather or earlier African culture.

John Taylor, an Anglican Missionary, says, — "One sees a new view point — slowly there is a new insight into the gospel in Uganda — new ideas, new skills, and new achievements."

Mrs. Bailey gave a summary of the lesson concerning the language barrier in particular. In spite of difficulties a new light is dawning.

The Rev. R. Sinclair closed the meeting.

Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Armstrong assisted Mrs. Walden in serving refreshments and a social hour followed.

FEET AFFECT BRAIN

TOKYO (Reuters)—A person's brain may be affected by the soles of his feet, according to a Japanese scientist who has examined 100,000 pairs of feet in 20 years of study. Yaichiro Hirasawa, an assistant professor at Shimoka University, said the area of the soles of the feet of city-dwellers has reduced due to lack of exercise. This resulted in a poor posture, which in turn affected the brain.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Enrton's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Hubert K. — She proposed to me!

Mrs. D. K. — She's brazen.

Hubert K. — I am 26, still single, but in great danger.

I have been going out pretty often with a girl of 22. I like Dolly a very much, more than almost any girl I've known, but frankly I haven't thought about marriage. She was just a swell date.

Well, the other night, she said suddenly that seeing it's leap year she figures she might as well say what's on her mind — and that's marriage — to me! You could have knocked me over with a feather. I was so upset I broke out in a cold sweat and couldn't think of a thing to say. Dolly said I should think it over and tell her whenever I have the answer.

I told my mother about this when I got home and she thought it was a fine idea. But now that I've thought it over I think I want to marry her.

* * *

Mrs. L. K. — I am really shocked at a young girl's being so brazen. I know it's leap year and all that, but she's just a sort of joke. Don't get the idea I am narrow-minded, because I'm not. It's just that I think there are more subtle ways of going about a thing like this — a man who is well brought up doesn't just pop the question at a man.

I feel sorry for Hubert if he married — but when he's ready and has the girl he wants, not anyone who happens to have set her cap for him.

I feel that Hubert could never be happy with such an aggressive girl. A man wants a girl he likes the boss in his own home. A girl like this would walk all over him. The trouble is that he has only had a man's date, but I suppose he has lost his wits, I also think he's too much of a gentleman to say no.

The Council: We doubt very much whether Hubert is considering this marriage purely because he is a gentleman, because he is such a gentleman, he'll make a wonderful husband. The bachelors and they are seldom bachelors for long want to be.

We agree that subtle methods on a woman's part are preferable to outright aggression, but sometimes subtle methods don't get results and direct action is called for. We suspect that Dolly has been giving some thought on Hubert for some time now. A poor picture, which in turn affected the brain.

Hubert is going to have to be more than gentlemanly if he is to avoid a life sentence.

Dolly is a pretty fair indication that he was thoroughly softened up for the final onslaught and is a willing, even eager victim. We are a bit suspicious of the story that he was caught totally by surprise. Come now, Hubert — not even an inkling of what was on Dolly's mind?

If Mrs. L. K. has no other objections to Dolly, we think she ought to give the marriage her blessing. Hubert does not have to worry about being the boss or wearing the pants if he has confidence in himself. The fact that Dolly's aggression did not scare Hubert off very much may be an indication that he is the type of man who prefers a strong-minded woman. However, Dolly seems willing to give Hubert plenty of room to think it over and he does not have to be hasty with his answer.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Eddie Reigle, ex-North Bay hockey figure and former National Leaguer, was grim-faced in Prague last March when he told Montreal-American newspaperman, "It will be different at the Olympics."

Eddie is the director of all puck activities in Sweden, knows his job and is popular with his players and hockey officials in the home of the smorgasbord.

Czech and Russian iceland maestros echoed his sentiments. They were referring to the man-size, bone-shaking bodychecks handed out by the Canadians in particular and the Americans in general.

The European coaches said in effect they were going to meet hockey fire with hockey fire and let who will be scorched.

They were not mad at that time. The Russ, Czechs and Swedes could hand out some pretty stiff jolts, perhaps a trifle amateurish in style but effective when delivered.

But these were forgotten by the home-country journalists when the Canadians started to lay it on by way of home-town recipes. They called us "western hoodlums," gangsters on ice, and other assorted names.

But "sticks and stones" had no effect and the Canucks went their merry way, bouncing Czechs, rolling the Russ and swushing the Swedes. And they took what was handed back.

It is reported the Swedish hockey officials have filed a protest over the rough play of the Canadians. A news despatch from Squaw Valley on the game stated, "They played a game similar to the Canadians' slam-bang style and in the second half when opponents forced the Swedes gave out as good as they were receiving."

In other words the Dutchies were merely tumbling along with the tumbling tumble-Swedes.

Despite the showing of the Swedish team against the Canadians, we believe they have a fine, strong club, one that will show its true potential this week when the chips go down in the six-team round robin.

And don't take these preliminary tournament scores and "upsets" too seriously. Remember the McFarlands swamped the Czechs 8-2 by, preliminary hassle and you know what happened in the tournament proper.

Propaganda-wise or what-have-you, the Iron Curtain squads do not believe in going all out in their pre-tournament games. The Russians had a workout-with the Germans in the tune of 17-1, and yesterday played an 8-1 peek-a-boo match with the Finns. True, the Yankees upset the Czechs 2-1 —but wait until the chips are down and they soon for the table stakes.

We are not belittling the American team. They have a good club, which is not averse to a little mild mayhem. They could give the Dutchies quite a tussle when they meet.

The Dutchmen, wearing suddenly sprouted wings and halos, had a good workout at the expense of the Japanese Saturday night. They scored two 19-1. Lopsided as the score was, the game little puck cockerels from Nippon (they average 5-6 in height, skates included) battled through for 58 minutes.

Mr. "Tomato," the Jap goalie, at least that's the way Hughie Bowman pronounced it over the radio, hadn't seen so much rubber debris flying around his ears since the "A" bomb flattened Hiroshima. In fact he was the busiest "tomato" on the ice as the Dutchies fattened their scoring tittles.

Speaking of that, the news outlets of Kitchener, which have been loudly bemoaning the "deal" Whitby's Wren Blair got when he "enticed" three Kitchener, Sauerlenko, Eicher and Sinden for $2,000 with Al Hosking tossed in for permanent measure, should take a peek at the scoring records.

The Whitby front line and Bobby Rousseau have been responsible for at least 80 per cent of the scoring points to date, with only one Dutchman, "Butch" Martin, being close. Sinden and Benoit and Jack Douglas have been delivering sterling efforts in the bump-and-bounce department, so what's wrong with the "imports?".

Which brings up an odd point. This corner knew it but failed to remember. Jim "Snipe" Matthews brought it up-and it's interesting.

Canada, as is now known, meets Russia next Sunday in the final game of the tournament. "Butch" Martin, a Mormon, will not, or has not to date, played Sunday hockey. Neither has Freddie Eicher, of Whitby. It is against their religious principles.

The loss of Eicher and Martin would be a serious blow to the Dutchmen, especially in the game of games. It seems Manager Ernie Goman may have a problem on his hands.

Bobby Hull Regains Form With 4-Goal Explosion

Sparks Hawks' 7-5 Victory, Shares Weekend Scoring Spot With Rocket Who Gets Three

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Maurice Richard scored twice Sunday night as the Montreal Canadiens shrugged flash and fire in beating Detroit Red Wings 6-3 in Detroit.

The victory, coupled with a 3-3 tie in Montreal Saturday night with New York Rangers, gives the Canadiens a 17-point lead over second - place Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Leafs split two weekend games with Chicago Black Hawks, winning 3-1 Saturday in Toronto and losing 7-5 Sunday in Chicago when leftwinger Bobby Hull blazed four goals for the Hawks in the second game.

BOBBY HULL

Eastern Brutins dropped behind tied Chicago and Detroit, losing 4-1 Sunday to the Wiers and 7-2 Sunday to New York. Both were road games for the sliding Bruins.

SOLE CHALLENGER

Montreal's win and tie, incidentally, put first place out of reach of anyone but the Leafs. Canadiens have 81 points and the next any team but Toronto can get now is 80 points.

Chicago, winless in four previous starts, slammed three goals in a 51-second span of the third period to wipe up Sunday's game in Olympia stadium—where they haven't lost to the Red Wings since March 23, 1958.

Rocket Richard, 38, scored the 538th and 539th goals of his career while Phil Goyette also had two and Don Marshall and Claude Provost got the others. Alex Delvecchio counted two for Detroit and Barry Cullen one.

Dennis Riggin, 23-year-old Edmonton junior subbing for Terry Sawchuk, was superb Saturday, particularly in the third period when he turned off the surging Eruins. Dick Meissner, a rookie, managed the only Boston goal.

Gordie Howe scored his 26th goal and Gerry McInyk, Murray Oliver and Colin each contributed singles in Detroit's second victory in their last 14 games, including Sunday's.

ROLLINS SPARKLES

More brilliant goaltending gave Rangers their tie with Montreal in the Forum Saturday. Veteran Al Rollins, no doubt recalling the days with Chicago when the Hawks' net was the NHL shooting gallery, made 46 saves.

Rollins was called up late last week from Winnipeg Warriors to replace Lorne (Gump) Worsley. Only a late goal by another old master, Jim Bocket, saved the tie for Montreal.

Marcel Bonin and Andre Pronovost also had Montreal goals. Dean Prentice, who led two assists Sunday, scored two goals for Rangers and Larry Popein counted the other.

The Rangers, apparently heartened by the tie, played one of their best games of the season Sunday, delighting a home crowd of 15,538. Larry Popein scored twice and Art Stratton, Ed Shack, Bill Gadsby, Red Sullivan and rookie Mel Pearson tallied singles.

Jerry Toppazzini and Leo Labine scored for Boston.

KNEE HITS PAYDIRT

In Toronto Bill Kelly scored the clincher and had an assist on the winning goal—his first points since joining Leafs from Detroit 10 days ago. Bill Harris and Gerry Ehman also scored for Toronto and Carl Brewer had assists on all three goals. Eric Nesterenko counted for Hawks'.

The high Chicago scorers broke loose Sunday, blasting 42 shots at Bower. Hull dazzled with a display of individual power, scoring on the first three shots he took.

The four goals give Hull 36 for the season and leave him only four points behind leading Bronco Horvath in the NHL scoring race.

Murray Balfour, Red Hay and Ron Murphy also counted for Chicago, with Pierre Pilote picking up three assists and Hay and Balfour two.

Bert Olmstead, Frank Mahovlich, Gerry James, Jimmy Wilson and Tim Horton scored the Toronto goals.

Minor Hockey

Fairly close games featured the action of the bantam section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association at Memorial Arena Saturday morning.

The barons anu Macs and the Leafs and Hawks battled to overtime ties while Rangers stopped Quinte 3-1; Wings trounced Trenton 5-2 and Canadiens downed Browns 3-1.

Tom Dolan with a goal and assist, and goals by Bill Leslie and Jack Boyle paced the Rangers win with Bob Hall, Jack Thompson and Don Bunnett also getting assists. Pete Mitchell helped by Bill Phillips and Ted Casson scored for Quinte.

Don Post for Barons and Al Mott, aided by Richard Eves and Rickey Denard scored in the Barons-Macs tie. Eves and the McCormick drew major penalties for fighting.

Bill Elliott's pair and Frank Farrell's goal and three assists gave Junior Golker's counter paid off for the Canadiens victory. Jerry Blakely aided by Doug Stickle got the Browns' lone tally.

Two Kings divided their goals five ways with Steve Ehlier, Wayne Spinelli, Bill Dovey, Ron Collins and Jim Maies scoring. Assists went to Ehlier, Maies, Dovey, Marvin Golker's counter and Bob Reddick. Larry Stewart and Dwight Rathwell with Fred Johnson helping' got the Bruins markers.

Tom Keary scored for the Leafs and Jim McGuire notched the Black Hawks' goal in the team's 1-1 stalemate.

Minor Hockey Playdowns Start Wednesday

City-wise the OMHA playdowns start on Wednesday night with a triple - header scheduled for Memorial Arena.

Kingston teams will be the guests of the Belleville youngsters in the bantam, juvenile and midget classifications.

However the bantam game will be an exhibition tilt since the team has been disqualified because certificates were not returned to the OMHA before the deadline date.

The midget and juvenile games will be a home-and-home series with goals to count.

The banties will inaugurate the hockey proceedings starting at six o'clock, The midgets take the ice at 7.30 followed by the juveniles at 9 o'clock.

Belleville Minor Hockey Association officials as well as the coaches are "high" on the chances of the midgets and juveniles to take the series.

Both are particularly well-balanced teams. The juveniles have been playing in the City Industrial League all season and are in perfect shape.

All that is needed is a good turnout of parents and other fans to cheer the youngsters to victory.

While no date is definite it is expected that a game or two of the series will be played in Kingston Saturday.

Irish Blank Teepees 5-0; Petes Beaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Hamilton College Buccaneers added some scoring punch to their already impressive attack to give power Sunday and blanked St. Catharines TeePees 5-0.

The Bucs scored their lowest total both in goals for and goals against in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series—140 and 141 respectively. The TeePees' have scored 186 goals, next and only to the league-leading Thorold Rockets while the club has allowed 178 against, third poorest defensive total.

The victory for St. Mike's made up for a 5-3 loss in St. Catharines Saturday night. Mike's goalie Gerry Desjardins stopped 29 shots to blanked Peterborough Petes 7-0 in Peterborough Sunday night. Hamilton Saturday, Barrie Flyers beat the Tiger Cubs 5-0.

The Mikes' new standings unchanged with Marlboros seven points ahead of Barrie and St. Mike's, who are tied for second. Toronto Marlies, Guelph Biltmores and Hamilton follow in that order.

Four World Records Smashed At AAU Indoor Track Meet

NEW YORK (CP)—Four world records fell in a breath - taking display of speed, skill and strength at the National Amateur Athletic Union indoor track and field championships Saturday.

Irvin "Ebo" Roberson smashed the world indoor broad jump record—the oldest on the books—with a leap of 25 feet, nine inches, shading the 25-0 mark established nearly 25 years ago by Jesse Owens on Feb. 25, 1935.

Later a crowd of 13,567 in Madison Square Garden let out an ear - splitting roar when Lee Thomas, Boston University sophomore, broke his own high jump record by clearing seven feet two inches. Only three weeks ago he established the world mark of 7-1½.

AUSSIE SMASHES RECORD

Pint - sized Al Lawrence, an Australian attending the University of Houston, chopped a fantastic 10.6 seconds off the world indoor record of 13:37 for the three mile run. Lawrence was also run for Australia in the Olympics. He did the distance in 13:26.4, bettering the mark established in this same meet last year by Bill Dellinger.

Hal Connolly, a 28 - year - old school teacher from Santa Monica, Calif., broke another "impossible" barrier when he heaved the 28-pound 15 feet, 7¾ inches.

Thus, just 11 years after Jim Sholtz became the world's first 60-footer with the shot put, Connolly became the first weight-thrower to get over 70 feet.

The listed world record was 66-2¾, set at this event last year by Bob Backus of New York. Backus was second Saturday with 68-2¼.

LOW WAY TO GO

Roberson, an ex - Cornell football player and now army officer at Fort Lee, Va., still has a long way to go before he can challenge Owens' outdoor broad jump record of 26-8½ which also was set in 1935.

Thomas had not been practising much all week, but he went over seven feet on his first attempt. He called it quits after the 7-3 jump.

The record will not be recognized as a world standard outside the United States because the International Amateur Athletic Federation does not pass on indoor marks. Yuri Stepanov of Russia still is the record holder with 7-4 as far as the IAAF is concerned.

Kingston Splits Weekend Wins; Wolves Beaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The underdogs won in all four weekend games played in the Eastern Professional Hockey League. Only 12 points now separate league - leading Sudbury Wolves and last-place Hull - Ottawa Canadiens in the tightening of the standings.

Both Sudbury and Montreal Royals, four points behind Sudbury in second spot, are reasonably sure of playoff berths. But with just 13 games to go in the schedule for most teams, the scramble for the last two playoff spots is getting hotter.

Sault Ste. Marie's 6-2 victory over Pets-Riviere Lions Sunday put Thunderbirds into third place, one point ahead of Lions. This one was the only change in the standings.

ALMOST EVEN

But fifth-place Kingston Frontenacs are only two points behind Lions with 24 after beating Montreal 4-3 Saturday night, and Hull-Ottawa is only one point off Kingston's pace after a 7-2 Sunday victory over the same Frontenacs.

Montreal helped instantly the seesaw battle Sunday by downing Sudbury 4-3.

The Other Day

We overheard a youngster ask another boy if it is all right to wish a Canadian flag, and we decided to consult a naval officer of our acquaintance what the official etiquette is on the matter.

Ken Pinder replied: He said "of course everyone knows the proper way flag should always be treated with respect, and I guess the generally known considerations of never allowing the flag to touch the ground or be trailed upon, or not intentionally marked are too well known to require any explanation.

"However, there may be a good many people who are not sure about the question that youngster raised. It is only natural for a flag to become soiled through use, and it is perfectly proper to wash or dry clean it to restore it to its original brightness. It is also recommended that a Canadian flag that is torn be mended, provided such mending does not alter its design or appearance."

Just as a nation's flag is its symbol of unity and devotion, the trademark or name of a business should be its pledge of loyalty and reliability. For our part we display ours humbly, while we are reminded of an old proverb, "Titles do not reflect honour upon men, but rather men on their titles."

Industrial Hockey League Results

Williams Brothers romped to an 8-2 victory over Chris' Drive-in and Ellis Printers eked out a 4-2 win over Booths TV in the second games of the Industrial League semi-finals yesterday.

Williams' victory gives them a 2-0 hold in the best-of-five series while Booths and the Ellis lies are stalemated at one win each. The teams play the third game next Sunday when Williams can qualify for the finals with a victory.

Nearly all of the Williams Bros. crew got into the points-getting act led by Doug Moreau who scored three goals. Dick Knapton was good for two and two assists as was Bert Faulkner. Al Chalmers scored the other marker.

Junior Day claimed two helpers with Jack Lucas, Wiener Walle, Gord Green, Don Bishop, Harry Cole and Duke Doran collecting singles.

Huck Reeves and Jack Gill were the Drive-in snipers with Gill and Pat Marcle getting assists.

Russians Virtually Tuck Away Winter Olympics

Only Question of How Much After 3 Days Competition; Canada in Fifth Position

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP) —To all intents and purposes Russia has sewed up the eighth Winter Olympics' unofficial team title after three days of competition. It's only a question of how big the Russian margin will be.

The Russians Sunday smashed a second record in women's long-distance speed-skating but had to share gold medal honors with Switzerland and Sweden in the three events decided.

Russia's Lidija Skoblikova, a 20 - year - old student, won the women's 1,500 - metre (metric mile) speed-skating and broke the world record by three-tenths of a second with a time of 2:25.2.

The other gold medals went to Roger Staub of Switzerland in the giant slalom in 1:48.3 and Klas Lestander of Sweden in the biathlon (cross-country skiing and shooting) with a time of one hour, 31 minutes, 22 seconds.

SWEDEN RUNNER-UP

The speed-skating triumph plus solid placings in other events boosted Russia's unofficial point score to 98½, based on a 10-8-6-4-2-1 scoring system for the first six places. Sweden's biathlon victory boosted it into second place over Germany, whose East and West sides had scored two big Saturday victories—the women's downhill and 500-metre speed-skating event. Sweden has 50 points Sunday. Third left the Germans with 39, followed by Canada and Sweden's 29. The United States picked up two points to move into fourth place with 16, ahead of Canada and Austria who have 13 each.

The spotlight shifted today to the hockey players as they lay the opening games of the six-country final hockey tournament. Canada is favored to win the first of the gold medal in the eighth Winter Olympics.

The week-long round-robin ends Sunday, and if form prevails it will be Canada vs Russia on the final day of the game for the championship, a prize that has rated about the highest in Winter Olympic competition.

CANADIAN SURPRISES

While heavily - favored Carol Heiss of the United States, four times world champion, was far ahead after four compulsory school figures in the figure skating, outsider Sandra Towkesbury of Chatham, Ont., made a surprise showing to move from 12th to eighth place.

Miss Towkesbury, a 17-year-old brunette, had a total of 521.2 aggregate points after four figures Sunday compared with 626.0 for Miss Heiss, to whom almost all the nine judges gave a near-perfect score.

Sandra, who was fifth in the 1959 North American competition and 10th in last year's world tournament, has been skating since she was 10.

Fifteen-year-old Wendy Griner of Toronto took over the 12th spot Sandra had held at the end of the first two figures Saturday, collecting 15.6 points. Wendy had been 16th after two figures.

Miss Heiss' closest rival was Sjoukje Dijkstra of the Holland Jagde with 580.5 points. There are 36 contestants.

The school figure count for 60 per cent in the final scoring. The free-skating final, which counts for 40 per cent, is scheduled Tuesday. When it comes to free skating, Miss Heiss, 20, is the greatest of them all now.

NEED EXPERIENCE

The Canadians failed to win a point in the skiing, and one of their coaches, Josef (Pepi) Zimmermeister, said they need more experience in international competition.

Anne Hegertsfi of Ottawa was a disappointing 12th in the women's downhill Saturday — the best Canadian showing in skiing so far. Her run of one minute, 42.9 seconds was 5.3 seconds slower than Heidi Biebl, the 18-year-old German who captured the gold medal with a time of 1:37.6 for the 1¼-mile course.

The best Canadian placing in the giant slalom, the big skiing event Sunday, was 24th in the field of 66—made by Verna Anderson of Rossland, B.C., despite a sore leg muscle.

Jean-Guy Brunet of Ste. Agathe, Que., Fred Tommy of Ottawa and Jean Lessard of Cooks, Que., were 26th, 28th and 31st respectively.

Tom Corcoran, Yokahama-born American resident of Stanford, field, Que., competing for the U.S., was a surprise fourth behind Staub and a pair of Austrians, Pepi Stiegler and Ernest Hinterseer.

SEEK SECOND MEDALS

Staub and Miss Skoblikova aimed for a second gold medal today, the Swiss skier in the downhill and the Russian girl in the 1,000-metre speed - skating. Five Canadians are entered in the downhill, and Mrs. Doreen Ryan of Edmonton and teammate Peggy Robb of Saskatoon will be against the Russian winner again in the 1,000 metres.

Mrs. Ryan, 28, sped over the 1,500 - metre course Sunday in 2:34.5 to earn 13th place behind the Soviet record-breaker. She had made the top 10 Saturday—the only Canadian to do it—by placing ninth in the 500 metres in which gold medal honors were won by Mrs. Helga Haase, 25-year-old East Berlin bookkeeper. Teammate Robb was 20th in the field of 23 with a time of 42.6. She had placed 17th Saturday.

GERMAN VICTOR

George Thoma, a 22-year-old West German from the Black Forest, won the 60-metre ski-jumping leg of the men's combined Sunday with leaps of 59, 61½ and 62 metres (194, 201 and 203 feet). His best two counted, for a total of 120.5 points.

The Servold brothers of Canmore, Alta., ended far down. Irvin placed 29th and Clarence 32nd.

Canada had entered Jacques Chaloult of Trois-Rivieres, Que., Gerry Gravelle of Hull, Que., and Alois Moser of Toronto, but withdrew them Friday night.

Thoma's longest leaps Sunday left him ahead of the 1956 points (426 feet) by Russia's Deniiri Lochkin last year.

Entered in the men's downhill today are Staub, Lestander, Brunet, Tommy and Don Brumski of Rossland.

Six Nations Start Chips-Down Hockey Whirl Today, Gentle Dutchmen Swamp Japs; Meet Germany Tonight

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP) —Canada today begins in earnest its bid to regain the Olympic hockey championship from Russia. The deciding game probably will be next Sunday when the two countries meet on the final day of the eighth Winter Olympics.

Six countries, including Canada and Russia, advanced during the weekend windup of the preliminary rounds, and all six see action also this afternoon and tonight when the round-robin championship gets under way.

The United States meet Sweden at 4 p.m. EST. Russia takes on Czechoslovakia at 6.30 p.m. and Canada is pitted against Germany at 9 p.m.

The championship round calls for each country to meet the five others, with each country plays a total of five games. The country collecting the highest total points—two for a win and one for a tie—is the winner. In case of a points tie, the country with the best goals-average gets the gold medal.

THREE IN CONSOLATION

The last three games of the seven-day preliminary competition were completed Sunday night. Australia, Poland and Finland were eliminated and they play in a consolation round to decide seventh, eighth and ninth places in the tournament.

Canada, Russia and the United States had 3-0 records in the preliminaries, good for wins over Czechoslovakia and Germany were 1-1.

The U.S. piled up six goals in the first period to trounce Australia 13-1 in the final preliminary Sunday night after Sweden played Japan 19-0 and Germany scored in every period to oust Finland 8-1.

Saturday night Canada's Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen took it easy against Japan but still won them 19-1. The Canadians fired a fantastic total of 88 shots at two Japanese goalies. One of them made 44 saves, shattering Russia's measure of Finland 84 and Czechoslovakia overpowered the Canadian-coached Aussies 184 in other Saturday night games.

Friday, Canada won a rough-house affair from Sweden 5-2, Russia shut out Germany 8-0 and the U.S. upset Czechoslovakia 7-5.

PROTEST FAILS

The Kitchener-Waterloo club bolstered by star forwards from Whitby Dunlops, was the subject of a Swedish protest during the weekend, but nothing came of it and Canadian officials termed the whole thing silly.

The International Ice Hockey Federation protest was filed by Arne and J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, British members of the I.I.H.F., said of Swedish charges that the officials were "anti-Canadian."

"It was a matter of judgment by the referees and you cannot protest a referee's call on a play. Too much has been made of the incident," they said.

Saturday night, Helge Bergland, president of the Swedish Ice Hockey Federation, sent a letter in a letter to the I.I.H.F. that Canada had used international hockey rules in the rough-and-tumble Sweden match, marred by injuries to two of the Swedish players and 15 penalties.

TOLD TO BE FRIENDLY

Ahearne said the I.I.H.F. had called the referees together Saturday and told them to call a friendly closer. But he said this did not imply any criticism of the officials in the Canada - Sweden match. Americans Bob Barry and Bill Haworth.

Canadian coach Bobby Bauer, the former Boston Bruins star, said of the Swedish protest:

"That's a big joke. I don't take them (the Swedes) seriously. That complaint is nothing to what the Swedish officials called our players. They used such terms as murderers."

Dudley Dudley of Midland, Ont., North American president of the I.I.H.F., said he wasn't surprised about the complaint and Wren Blair, Whitby coordinator of team personnel, said it-made him "stick and tiered" to hear such things.

ON GOOD BEHAVIOR

While Canada-drew nine of the 15 penalties in the Swedish match, it got only one of three handed out in the second Saturday night.

Coach Bauer admitted his team charges took it easy against the smaller Japanese and held back on their body-checking.

"We used more stick-checking than anything. We certainly wanted no incidents," said Bauer.

"Any sport there must be an incentive to give your hardest. The main thing we wanted was to get an early edge for the games to come."

The Canadians needed less than five minutes to get their first goal. Centre Bob Attersley banged in Gerry Slomkowski's pass and the rout was on. Period scores were 12-0, 1-0, 6-1.

Bob Roussseau of Brockville Junior Canadiens, led the Canadian charge with four goals. Eicher was the highest Canadian point-getter however, with three goals and four assists. Attersley bagged two goals and four assists. Gerry Slomkowski scored three goals while Harry Sinden and Murray Balfour had two apiece. Jim Connelly, Don Rope and Bob McKendry added one goal.

ONE GOAL FOR JAPAN

Winger Atsuo Irie scored for Japan in the second period, beating second - string goalie Don Head, who had only nine saves all night. Japan's Masaaki Tamura came up with the 66 saves, 29 in the first period.

The Japanese gave up 38 goals and scored only one in the elimination and hockey experts figure it will be several years before they can produce a team of international calibre.

Bauer said it will take five, to eight years. He said the Japanese would do better with heavier players.

Gordon Juckes, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, declared that Japanese goalies "have a natural advantage in being quick, but they're not used to it-hit (ricochet) shots."

CANADIAN COACH

The Australians, not much better than the Japanese, are coached by Bud MacEachern, a Charlottetown native.

Saturday night in against the Czechs, Aussie goalie Bob Reid stopped 64 shots. Centre Joost Wesdorp, Reid's brother-in-law, four goals and Jan Starsi and Stanislav Vlach, three each.

Former University of Minnesota star Murray Stavasich and Dickie Meredith each scored two goals to pace the Americans to their 7-5 victory over Czechoslovakia night.

The Russians used their first-string goalie, Nikolai Puchkov, for the first time against Finland Saturday night. He was backed by second-stringer Eugenie Erkin on four goals and four assists into the third period. Vladimir Yakushev and Victor Shuvalov each scored two goals for the Russians.

The Finns had little left against Germany Sunday night. The Germans took a 5-0 lead in the first period, helped by two goals by Kurt Sepp, a 24-year-old clerk.

Dogs' Three Overtime Goals Climb 6-3 Win Over Macs In Weird Wacky Sunday Tilt

By GARRY ALEXANDER

WINDSOR — Three overtime goals, one that the Macs claim never did enter the net and another that was scored into an unattended net, gave Windsor Bulldogs a 6-3 victory over a bewildered Belleville Mac club here yesterday.

Denny Boucher's goal in the dying seconds of the third period sent the game into overtime after the McFarlands had been battling back all afternoon. Three times the Dogs held one-goal leads but each time the Macs tied it. It was 2-2 at the end of the first and 3-2 for Windsor after two frames.

Irwin Gross, Windsor's big goal man with three, scored what proved to be the winner, tipping in Bob Browns pass out at Senior's feet after 1.04 of the overtime. Then came the excitement.

Joe Zorica went around a Mac defender with finesse and gunned a high, hard one that either hit a post or went into the net and right back out. Referee Frank Unisc called it a fair goal but the Macs rebelled to no end. They argued long and loud that it was not in. Finally, with Senior talking to coach Bell at the Belleville bench, play was started again and Gross scored on the open net.

The usually mild-mannered Lionel Bolly added another bit of comedy to the whole affair following Gross' goal into the open net. He skated to the referee, grabbed the puck-from his hands and heaved it high into the stands. It was a dim a misconduct. Play was stopped again when a Mac fan threw a cushion at battle field. But it still added up to Bolly's first penalty.

Bob Brown with a goal and two assists trailed Gross, who also drew one assist, in the Dog scoring parade. Gord Haidy and Dave Zerbin also scored and Tommy Walker assisted on two.

Keith MacDonald, Lou Smrke and Louis Boucher scored for the Bellevile marksmen. Assists were divided among Jean-Paul Parisien and Bob Gibbons, both whom arrived in Windsor by plane Sunday morning. Ron Muir, Ken Gribbons, "Wiener" Brown and Bart Bradley.

The losers picked up four minor penalties and the misconduct while Wayne Gross got one.

The Bulldogs twice took the lead in the second period but with Bobby Senior playing inspirational goal the Macs came back as many times in the period tie.

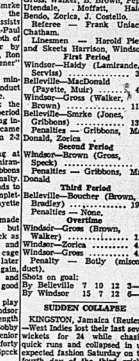
Haidy opened the scoring at 3.59 when he tipped in Lamirande's blueline shot while Gribbons was serving his penalty. Then the Macs took just 20 seconds to make it 1-1, MacDonald rapping the play, aided by Payette and Muir.

Senior, tested 15 times, made several outstanding saves but was helpless on the goal when he and linemates Walker and Brown were all around the net at 11.01. Two minutes later Smrke evened the score again, taking Jean-Paul Parisien's pass and beating Maniago with a good drive.

Belleville had the better of play in the middle heat but Windsor took a 3-2 lead at 12.03 courtesy of a first-minute goal. Bobby Brown whipped the puck past Senior from a tough angle after forty seconds-of play. Gross and Spcck assisted.

Although the boys tossed a few more shots around in the period only two minor penalties were assessed. Gribbons and Bolly in the Mac bench when the club was caught with six men moving over the Bulldog net but Senior made the seventh. MacDonald took another for elbowing at 16.11 but the Dogs power play did not impress. The Macs outshot Windsor 10-7.

It was a tight battle during the third heat and Windsor appeared to have the win in the bag. The clock read 19.20 when Denis Boucher deflected Brown's goal-



British Boxing Bd. Refuses To Allow Trinidad-Born Boxer to Fight for Title

By PAUL WESTBROOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The British Boxing Board of Control has touched off a storm of protest by refusing to allow Trinidad-born Percy Lewis to fight for the British featherweight title.

Lewis, who represented Britain in the 1952 Olympics, asked the board to make an exception to its rules and allow him to challenge Bobby Neill. The board decided that waiving the laws for Lewis would mean complete reorganization of the qualification rules.

The rule book states that to fight for a British title a boxer must have been born in Britain and be a permanent resident of the United Kingdom. Lewis has had his home in Oxford for 15 years, nine of them with the RAF.

The 32- year - old greengrocer started his professional career six years ago, at an age when most fighters are passing their best. His defensive tactics and southpaw style made him an unattractive proposition to promoters and fights were few. His win over Frenchman Gracia Lamperti in January was only his 19th paid fight.

Before the Second World War, Commonwealth fighters were allowed to compete for British titles. Canadian Larry Gains failed in an attempt to wrest the heavyweight crown from Eric Peterson. The Briton eventually yielded it to Ben Foord, a South African.

A clear indication of what would happen under the pre-war rules is given by the Commonwealth ratings, which show four of the eight divisions headed by fighters born outside the British Isles.

Lewis could have used a title fight with Neill to bolster his claim to challenge Davey Moore for the world featherweight crown. The little buzz-saw from Springfield, Ohio, met Neill at Wembley Stadium last year and took less than three minutes to put him away.

SEEKS TITLE BOUT

Percy Lewis, 32-year-old Trinidad-born boxer, has been refused permission to fight for the British featherweight title. Lewis has had his home in Oxford for 15 years, nine in the RAF, but British rules allow only native-born permanent residents of the United Kingdom to fight for a British championship. Shown here weighing in for one of his fights, Lewis last month scored a win over Frenchman Gracia Lamperti in his 19th paid fight. Writer Not Very Happy With Coverage of Olympics

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS' live coverage of the Winter Olympics has, if nothing else, destroyed one great illusion.

By careful selection of material, at least two generations of motion picture newsreel cameramen have fostered the impression among hearth-hugging Americans that nine out of 10 skiers land in plaster casts instead of on their feet.

By my count, only three out of more than 60 contestants took spills during Sunday's slalom and 60 - metre jumping events at Squaw Valley. One broke his ski but no one was hurt.

The events, however, were fascinating to watch. One's interest flagged only when the cameras turned from the slopes to the experts.

Andrea Lawrence, a champion girl skier turned CBS girl commentator, for instance, knew how to ski better than how to explain the slalom. "He's an awfully good boy," she would intone as a man flew past the camera raising a storm of snow. What a curious coincidence; I asked with his brother."

The CBS staff men on the scene acted as if they had never seen snow before, much less a ski slope. It would be more effective just to give us the vital statistics and let us draw our own conclusions about the competition.

Shadow of a Soldier, NBC's Sunday American Heritage drama, was a superficial, once-over-lightly treatment of career General U.S. Grant.

James Whitmore certainly looked like Grant. And Melvyn Douglas looked like Mark Twain and Fred Rainey looked like Abraham Lincoln. But like others in this series, this drama never seemed to get under the skin of the principal character. It was a reverent and uninspired hour.

World Wide 60 on Saturday night documented how a composer in Texas wrote a jazz accompaniment to be played during the morning service of the Methodist Church.

NBC and the producers undoubtedly realized the music might be controversial, so most of the program was reassuring—testimonials from a minister and a seminary professor doubt its devout intent.

It was written after the death of Ed Sherwin's infant daughter, product of his grief, and religious feeling. But the music, when we heard it, still was a bit shocking.

Amerks Down Springfield 5-2; Bisons Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons, emulating Cleveland Barons, have used Quebec Aces to remain in the thick of the five-team fight for the four playoff positions in the American Hockey League.

Barons knocked off the last place Aces three times last week including a 4-0 victory Saturday, to stay within one point of fourth place. Sunday night, Bisons handed the Aces a 5-2 lacing to solidify their hold on third place. Quebec hasn't beaten Buffalo in eight meetings this season.

Rochester, in second place, retained an outside chance of catching first - place Springfield by downing the Indians 5-2 Sunday night after the league leaders had beaten Hershey 4-1 Saturday. Hershey also lost Sunday, falling to Providence 4-3 in overtime.

British Open Brings Golfers From 30 Nations

LONDON (AP)—A hundred years ago, eight golfers played in the first British Open championship. There were only a few more spectators and the prize for the winner, Scotland's Willie Park, was about £5.

This year the Centenary Open at St. Andrews, the home of golf, has taken on such importance that the famed Old Course has been closed for six months to make sure it will be at its best.

That's an unprecedented step. The Old Course is owned by the town and anybody and everybody can play on it for a few shillings.

Golfers from 30 nations will be here July 4-8 to commemorate Park's victory of 1860.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Al Balding of Toronto are expected to represent Canada again.

BRITISH ORCHESTRAS

Britain now has eight permanent symphony orchestras, not counting BBC radio orchestras compared with three some 25 years ago.

Third League May Operate Minor Pool

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — If the Continental League approves a radical proposal by Branch Rickey for operating a minor league farm system, the class D Western Carolinas League likely will be the pilot club.

Rickey, the father of the present minor league farm system and president of the proposed Continental League, said Saturday he hopes to operate a minor league "pool."

His idea, he said, is to have the Continental own all of the players of a particular league, assign the players to each club on a pool basis then make them eligible through a draft at the end of the season to the Continental teams.

The clubs in the minor league would have a working agreement with the Continental, not an individual club.

Rickey, who met with directors of the proposed Western Carolinas League and league president John Moss of Shelby, said he will submit his plan to the Continental directors March 6.

Moss said if the plan is approved, the Western Carolinas League will operate this season.

NEW YORK (AP)—"All major obstacles to a return bout with Floyd Patterson have been settled," world heavyweight boxing champion Ingemar Johansson said Sunday night on his arrival by plane from Switzerland.

Elliott Runs Mile Easily In 4 Minutes

MELBOURNE (AP) — Herb Elliott, perhaps the only miler in the world who can take it or leave it for four minutes flat, did just that Saturday under a blazing sun for the Victorian championship.

The 22-year-superbly - conditioned Aussie didn't take the lead until the front stretch of the third lap, but finished 20 yards ahead of the field.

The only record the holder at 3:54.5 was hardly puffing afterward.

"It is a bit too hot to run really fast," he explained, "and when the pace is slow on the early laps, I'm just feeling myself out."

Elliott added: "Now I can settle down to really hard work to get ready for the Australian championships March 5."

On the Track

NEW YORK (CP) — Cain Hoy Stable's Bald Eagle swept past the leaders in the stretch and won the $126,000 Widener Handicap at Miami's Hialeah Park Saturday in track - record time.

A Toronto - owned horse, Victoria Park, was a record-shatter in an earlier race—the fifth—before 23,014 fans.

Bald Eagle ($4.70) ran 1¼ miles in 1:59 3-5 to shatter the old mark of 2:00. On-And-On finished second and Ada L. Rice's Talent Show third. Sword Dancer finished fourth.

Victoria Park, owned by Toronto industrialist E.P. Taylor, blazed the 1 1-6 miles in 1:40 3-5 to knock 1 4-5 seconds off the Hialeah mark held by Trollus and Greek Page. The world record is 1:40 2-5 set in 1:39, held by Swaps.

FLAMINGO FAVORITE

The victory made Victoria Park the favorite for next Saturday's $100,000 - added Flamingo Stakes.

Ridden by Manuel Ycaza, Victoria Park came from behind to take the lead from Sandy Ache at the head of the stretch.

Victoria Park's feat was astounding in view of the fact that it was the Canadian - bred's first start in more than three months.

Bally Ache was second, Curvien Relic, third.

Texas also rode Bald Eagle and had three winners for the day.

At Arcadia, Calif., Flow Line won the $58,500 San Felipe Handicap.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Tuesday, February 23

General tendencies: The morning finds you able to get everything attended that is of a practical or business, worldly or down-to-earth nature. Then a transition takes place in which it is necessary you make haste to avoid all arguments and accidents, but to make new and more modern and up-to-date arrangements for gaining your progressive goals. Be openminded now.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be sure you state to higher-ups this morning just what is required in your association. And during the remainder of the day you can come to better understanding with others in the outside world as well as personal alliances.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A M. is ideal for conferring with intelligent experts so that you know how to advance more quickly in the future. Later, be off getting credit higher, making arrangements for an excellent work or career program. See key people.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Get your bills cleared up this A. M., put monetary affairs in better order. Tonight is then very good for meeting influential people who will open your eyes to many fine opportunities in several spheres of your endeavor. Expand.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Discuss with associates what it is exactly they desire of you in your alliance. Also, deal more satisfactorily with competition. Tonight, plan more modern agencies for all of your labors and interests and you open way to greater success.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Polish off this morning all those labors you have been putting aside for some time. After lunch get through tonight as best you can. Then is ideal for being with associates and working out better plans for your activities in the future. Come to the point quickly.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Morning is excellent for taking treatments that will make you more charming, healthy, also for healthful recreation. Later you can then find just the items you need for greater expansion and efficiency in the future. Buy wisely.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — See that conditions and affairs at home are better and more harmonious in A.M. Use 5wn judgment. Later you can go out for a truly delightful day at favorite activities. Be cheerful.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — Have meetings in the morning and be sure to handle volume of correspondence. After lunch is then fine for meetings with those who want to get into new outlets that will prove more profitable and start an uptrend in your affairs.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Attend to collections and payments in A. M., as well as making repairs on property. Later in the day is then best spent bringing your fine capabilities to the attention of higher-ups. Be dynamic. Contact all possible.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — During A. M. you can certainly decide exactly what it is you want most in the future. Whittle your biggest ideas down to a workable level and take first preliminary steps in the right direction. Show imagination, too.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Thinking seriously this A. M. will reveal how to advance much more quickly and easily. Later in the day you can then work enthusiastically and cleverly so that you get what you want. Decide — then full speed ahead.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You are fortunate in having a most sensible and experienced comrade to show you how to gain your aims with facility, possibly in A. M. Later you can do research work that will be helpful, too, quietly. P. M. give to charity.

If your child is born today ... The child born today will be level-headed and of sound judgment and very good in an emergency But oddly enough, at middle age there will suddenly be an almost radical change in the nature and all sorts of chances. Maybe Dec. 5, so be sure you equip your youngster with the most practical of educations to permit of such a transition without loss of finances or character.

WINTER STORMS

on the rocks and a third was indistress for a time on the Fraser River.

Several areas of the city were blacked out for periods. Uprooted trees made driving hazardous. Police were kept busy attempting to stop looting from stores with windows blown in.

But Sunday the wind in Vancouver dropped to a mild 15 and the temperature rose into the 40s.

The Alberta - Saskatchewan storm hit hardest at Medicine Hat. There was still snow falling late Sunday in southwestern Saskatchewan, and at the Lakehead.

In Ottawa, where snow closed schools and offices Friday and smacked transportation, 24 inches of fects were reported cleared up Sunday as the city enjoyed a brisk, sterilt Sunday night.

Rural sidetoads were still plugged in Ontario north and east of Toronto Sunday, but main arteries were clear of Friday's 10-inch snowfall. Police reported at least 1,500 cars were stranded on Highway 400 north of Toronto Friday.

CONTINUING WARM — Most of Canada has above-normal temperatures from mid-February to mid-March, according to the long range forecast of the United States weather office. An area of below-normal readings is expected across southwestern Ontario.

Map also details expected precipitation during the period.

Tables give normal readings for various centres. (CP Newsmap.)

Compass Island Carries More Devices for Finding Own Way Than Any Ship in World

By JOHN BARBOUR

NEW YORK (AP)—If there's one American naval ship that doesn't dare get lost, it is the USS Compass Island.

This ship probably carries more devices for findings its way than possibly any other ship in the world.

Hardly a move the Compass Island makes in storm or calm is unrecorded or unrecorded by the super - sensitive balances in her electronic heart.

Other devices, resembling small observatories, watch the stars and listen to radio waves from the sun and moon to read the ship's position and check up on its electronic navigator.

A 504-foot converted freighter, the Compass Island is a floating laboratory engaged in the development of a navigational system that will some day allow United States submarines to travel blind and silent anywhere in the world.

SECRET HAVE spent

Unless missile subs hiding in enemy waters know precisely their own positions, they can't hope to hit enemy targets hundreds of miles away on the ballistic. All conventional methods of navigation require a submarine to break the surface at least partly to get a "fix."

The navy hopes to overcome this handicap of concealment by developing an inertial guidance system that will provide subs to "remember" where they are at all times. The system under study is a first cousin to the fantastically accurate guidance systems used in ballistic missiles.

Amidships the Compass Island carries the analog devices and computers that keep track of her every move, knowing only her starting position.

Each slight motion the Compass Island makes — each tiny shove of the waves, each turn of her screws — must be recorded, compiling a continual diary of her trip.

EVERY WAVE TALLIED

Electronic computers read out "the story" of the trip and the total of these movements should give the ship's position.

An inertial guidance system has two sections — one reporting movement and speed in any direction and the other computing this data and computing the sum of the movement.

Delicate instruments, kept level by gyroscopes, feel the ship move and measure how far the movement is and in which direction. They report this data to the computers where it is added to the story of the trip.

The Compass Island is testing two systems, based on two different sorts of computers. One, called a digital system records the movements in rapid - fire pulses of code style — something like a motion picture film, made up of many different small pictures.

CONSCIOUSNESS STREAM

The other system, based on an analogue computer, makes a continuous record—a sort of "stream of consciousness" record like a human mind.

The ship carries some 25 to 30 civilian engineers and about $25,000,000 worth of computing and navigational equipment.

The Compass Island had a tedious job. The objective is to make the inertial guidance system work more accurately for days and weeks without resetting.

But is still experimental. The navy won't say when it will works without producing major errors. Each tiny movement of the ship unnoticed or misreported grows larger with each passing mile. The trick is finding and correcting the small errors before they get big.

PANEL DECIDES

U.S. dependence on Canada, he said. "Each of us has found ourselves intervening in the other's affairs and there's no way out of it."

Turning to state-planned economy, the panel agreed government activity in business is bound to increase although many businessmen think it a dangerous trend.

Mr. Berle said he hoped big business would stop waging a rearguard war on ideas of planned economy and industrial responsibility. Most businessmen would be horrified to learn just how much planned economy is already operating in the U.S., he said.

FREEDOM LIMITED

Saturday, Herbert H. Lank president of du Pont of Canada Limited, said there is such a thing as free enterprise but many forces, including government, limitation and regulation of it, tended to limit the freedom.

Stanley Knowler, executive vice president of the Canadian Labor Congress, said there are some limitations on private enterprise but he objected to the "attitude of big business at this conference as though they had a divine right."

Dr. Burton S. Kelsteed, University of Toronto professor of economics, said the "old, weary debate between free enterprise and socialism is dead and needs to be buried."

The real problem in business today, said Dr. Kelstead, is that "we recognize inconsistent goals and we make our goals incompatible with the true ideal of a liberal society."

Saturday morning, four business men tangled with Toronto newspaper columnist Pierre Ber-

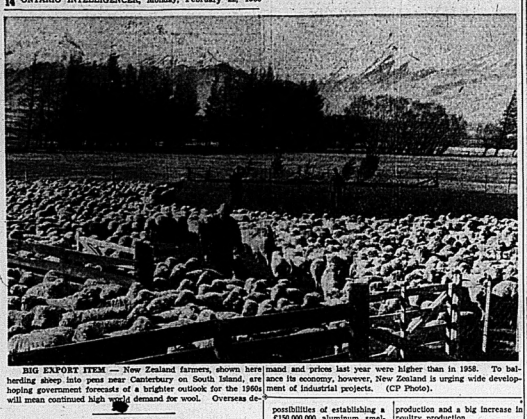
USE THE Want Ads

The Ontario Intelligencer

by Ned Riddle

"May I borrow a piece of string to tie up some valuable papers I'm taking to my boss?"



BIG EXPORT ITEM — New Zealand farmers, shown here herding sheep into pens near Canterbury on South Island, are hoping government forecasts of a brighter outlook for the 1960s will mean continued high world demand for wool. Overseas demand and prices last year were higher than in 1958. To balance its economy, however, New Zealand is urging wide development of industrial projects. (CP Photo).

New Zealand Enters Sixties On Wave of Prosperity and Expansion Not Known Before

By DEREK ROUND

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters) Help wanted: University lecturer; salary £1,100 per year.

Help wanted: lavatory janitor; £900 per year plus overtime.

These two advertisements appearing side by side in a Wellington newspaper illustrate most clearly the pages of statistics the economic mood of this British Commonwealth country as it enters the decade of the 1960s on a wave of prosperity and expansion.

In a population of 2,296,434, the latest count listed exactly 941 people unemployed. In daily scramble for manpower, wage structures have been disrupted to the point where the janitor finds himself virtually in the same income class as the university lecturer.

"BRIGHTER OUTLOOK"

The Labor Party's 77-year-old Prime Minister Walter Nash opened the decade with a New Year's message headed: "Brighter outlook—New Zealand stronger."

As they packed the roads and beaches, crowded the race tracks and filled their take-home beer jars at the hotels, there didn't seem to be many New Zealanders to disagree with him.

With an election due in November and pre - election handouts expected, many hoped that "brighter outlook" would mean further cuts in income tax and cheaper beer, now eight pence (about nine cents) a glass, cigarets, two shillings, seven pence (34 cents) for 20, and gasoline three—shillings, six pence (45 cents) a gallon.

As they banked their wool cheques—£25,000,000 up on 1958-59—New Zealand farmers hoped "brighter outlook" would mean a continued overseas demand for their wool. And dairy farmers hoped it would mean more European families eating New Zealand butter.

NARROW MAJORITY

With a shaky one-seat majority in the 80-seat Parliament, Nash is hoping the sense of plenty will arrest the decline in Labor's popularity since it was elected at the end of 1957 although recent local votes have showed a notable anti-Labor swing.

Nash is able to list some impressive pointers to a brighter outlook.

1. Overseas trade, fed by good prices for wool, beef and dairy produce, earned a £20,000,000 surplus up to November compared with a total £11,700,000 deficit for the full year of 1958.

2. By the end of November there had been a 30-point fall in food prices, mainly in fruit, vegetables and eggs though price controls were imposed to stop profiteering on meat and fish.

3. A recent five-per-cent general wage increase boosted average wages for all workers to about £14 ($37.38) a week.

INDUSTRIAL EMPHASIS

An important feature of New Zealand's present economic development is the emphasis being placed on industrialization. A strong move is under way to encourage the local manufacturing industry to go into production with the nation's agricultural earnings.

Industrial production was substantially up for 1959, despite management complaints that too much profit is siphoned off in taxes. This year's blueprint for productive expansion involves a probable capital expenditure of more than £46,000,000.

Predicting the New Zealand Herald: "The greatest boom in industrial investment in New Zealand this century could take place this year."

Some items from the investor's list:

A £20,000,000 refinery backed by six major concerns aimed to meet 90 per cent of the nation's petroleum needs.

A £10,000,000 expansion of Tasman Pulp to include installation of a second newsprint machine, boosting output to 180,000 tons annually;

A £2,250,000 aluminum-fabricating mill backed by a British firm and as an initial study, under a 99-year agreement just signed, into the possibilities of establishing a £150,000,000 aluminum smelter, also British-backed.

IRON AND STEEL

There are also plans to build factories to produce paint, gin, instant coffee, glass fibre, and steel products. Plans are under way for investigation of an iron and steel industry.

Agriculture Minister Clarence Skinner has told farmers they can view 1960 with "a fair measure of confidence."

Prices at recent wool sales have been 20 to 40 per cent higher than 1958. Prospects for dairy sales look good following the fall in American dairy surpluses and European moves to encourage consumption, though the government is concerned at the threat to primary exports from moves by European countries to combine in protective trade groups.

The outlook for meat exports is not so bright. The United States will continue to provide a good, although highly competitive market for New Zealand beef. But the outlook for lamb and mutton on the British market is uncertain, due to increased home production and a big increase in poultry production.

Meat producers, looking for new markets, elsewhere, were recently pleased to hear the Japanese were using New Zealand meat in their sausages.

TAX QUESTION

For most New Zealanders, the 1960s offer prospects of higher living standards and more luxury goods — if Finance Minister Arnold Nordmeyer can be persuaded to "go easy" on taxation. The last survey showed one in four New Zealanders owned a car and a radio and one in five had a telephone.

They spent an estimated £40,000,000 betting on horses last year and statistically each New Zealander drank about 23 gallons of beer despite laws which force hotel bars to close at 6 p.m., and prohibit the sale of liquor in restaurants—a law now due for reform study.

But one of the biggest social developments in the 1960s will be the advent of television in New Zealand. Announcement is expected soon of plans for a government corporation.

Despite Prime Minister Nash's prediction of a brighter outlook for 1960, his Labor government will have to fight hard in November to hold its ground and political pundits are predicting a victory for the opposition National-its. But whatever the outcome of the election, most New Zealanders seem to have entered the 1960s with the feeling that "things look pretty good."

THERMAL WONDER — Typical of some of the unusual attractions in New Zealand is this geyser, shooting boiling water high in the air. Posing in front, with arm raised, is guide Rangi who has concocted thousands of visitors to the country through famous geyser regions. With economic prosperity expected to grow during the new decade, New Zealand expects tourist travel to increase. (CP Photo).

Eisenhower Stops At Partly-Built City of Future

Brasilia to Be Scene For New Declaration

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — President Eisenhower and President Juscelino K u b i t s c h e k pledged their joint determination to help develop the western hemisphere materially and morally with the goal of "greater prosperity and harmony for all."

In a "Declaration of Brasilia" they expressed confidence in the success of a hemispheric crusade for economic development. At the same time they asserted their support of "the fight against racial discrimination" and their belief in freedom of thought and religion.

"Economic development cannot be dissociated from the preservation of peace and democratic rights," they declared.

The declaration was drafted in advance in exchanges between high aides to president and their foreign affairs departments. It was made public shortly before Eisenhower was due here on his 10-day South American tour.

The flight of 600 miles from Puerto Rico, crossing the Amazon and Brazil's vast hinterland to this city which is due to become Brazil's capital in 1960, came from now Wednesday Eisenhower is to get his major reception in Brazil when he has a chance to address the present capital.

The declaration is to be inscribed at a monument commemorating Eisenhower's visit to that spectacular new city on the plateau 600 miles northwest of Rio.

Eisenhower's schedule in Brasilia included a visit to the site, the unveiling of a monument commemorating his visit, dedication of the foundation stone for the new U.S. Embassy, and a dinner he will give tonight for Kubitschek.

RIO NEXT STOP

Kubitschek will return to Rio de Janeiro tonight to await Eisenhower's arrival there Wednesday. The U.S. president will visit Sao Paulo, Brazil's industrial metropolis, Thursday, and on Friday will fly to Buenos Aires.

Brazilian officials openly pleased that Eisenhower chose Brasilia as the first stop in his tour, which includes Argentina, Chile and Uruguay.

Kubitschek is expected to urge U.S. financial backing for his pet Operation Pan-America, an ambitious program of economic development for Latin America.

The Brazilian president has been disappointed by U.S. refusal to give blanket endorsement to his far-reaching proposal. The U.S. expressed wholehearted concurrence with the plan's basic goal, but insists that it must be worked out in more detail and then must be carefully studied.

SEEKS U.S. MONEY

Kubitschek is also reported anxious for more active U.S. help in Pan-American development in trade and loans.

Meanwhile in Santiago, Chile, Communists said they plan demonstrations against Eisenhower when he visits here next week. They said they would demand that the U.S. get out of the country as quickly as possible.

Chilean police said they will fight back if Communists attempt to disrupt the visit.

But Eisenhower aides said privately that Russia will sell fighter planes to Cuba if asked. But they added it is unlikely that if Cubans bought tractors. He talked with reporters at a United Arab Republic reception.

Castro Is Ready To Negotiate U.S. Differences

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government says it is ready to negotiate its differences with the United States but warns against any Washington action harmful to the Cuban economy.

Foreign Minister Raul Roa handed a note to U.S. charge d'affaires Daniel Braddock Monday announcing that Cuba would appoint a commission to open talks in Washington at a date convenient to both countries.

The note expressed "confidence this decision will be justly appreciated by the United States government inasmuch as it is directed to the examination ... of questions that have lately affected traditional relations between Cuba and the United States."

But the note indicated that negotiations would fall through if the U.S. government or Congress took steps that might conduct harmful to its economy. This was an obvious warning against any tampering with the sugar quota system under which the U.S. purchases half the Cuban sugar crop at premium prices.

A state department spokesman in Washington said there would be no comment until the Cuban proposal has been studied.

MAIN DIFFICULTIES

Matters at issue between the U.S. and Cuba government include:

1. U.S. demands for prompt and adequate payment for American property seized under Cuba's agrarian reform program.

2. Cuban complaints that the U.S. is keeping "war criminals" members of ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista's regime.

3. Cuban charges that U.S.-based planes are making bombing attacks on Cuba.

4. Severe restrictions on imports by the U.S. to Cuba.

Cuba also has been pressing for a new commercial agreement. Cuba has complained frequently that having the sugar quota applied to U.S. congressional action makes it "an instrument of political pressure" against Cuba.

Israel Denies Massing Troops

JERUSALEM (AP) — An Israeli military spokesman Monday labelled as "utter nonsense" statements by President Nasser of the United Arab Republic that Israel is mobilizing and massing troops on the Syrian frontier.

The spokesman said the U.N. Israel is "proceeding normally and peacefully" and that there have been no border incidents in the last few days.

Arrested in Bed

TORONTO (CP) — Five policemen with drawn revolvers broke into a downtown room Monday and arrested a man in bed, charging him with the robbery of the eastern branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank. He was then taken to jail.

When a long gunman escaped with $7,000.

Theodore E. Ramsay, 34, of Montreal was charged with armed robbery.

Police also arrest three others in the same building, charging them with aiding and abetting a fugitive.

THE WEATHER

FROST TO PRESS AIDING BANCROFT AND ELLIOT LAKE

Wants 2nd Nuclear Plant in Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost told the legislature Monday Ontario government will press for federal-provincial action to preserve this province's uranium producing centres.

"We are proposing to the federal government that we should have a joint action" to preserve Elliot Lake and Bancroft, he said.

"All governments should get together to protect their investment and the investments of the people who were brought there."

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer asked the government to make a "strong recommendation" to federal authorities that Canada's second nuclear energy research centre be built at Elliot Lake, hard pressed by a decline in the demand for uranium, rather than Manitoba.

RESOLUTIONS FAILED

Mr. Frost said resolutions of the Ontario government to Ottawa in recent years have not been conducive to reaching a settlement of "problems we want to settle."

The first nuclear research reactor was built at Chalk River. The federal government has announced plans to build the second in Manitoba.

John A. Fullerton (PC—Algoma-Manitoulin) said outside the House last week he would consider resigning his seat if it was established that the Manitoba site was chosen for political reasons rather than for the best interests of the country.

Mr. Fullerton was not in the house Monday, Mr. Frost said, as his absence was caused by bad weather in Northern Ontario.

Mr. Wintermeyer quoted Mr. Fullerton as saying that Prime Minister Diefenbaker is "going to pay Manitoba anything it wants for political gains." He charged Mr. Diefenbaker's decision came about because Liberal Senator Roebuck Beaubien is a Manitoulin also is Liberal Opposition House Leader St. Pearson's ruling in the House of Commons.

Cargo Platform Drops Amid Troops as Chutes Fail to Open

COLD LAKE, Alta. (CP) — A two-ton cargo platform plunged to earth like a bomb Monday when its three parachutes failed to open.

It landed — its 1,500-foot fall barely slowed by the wildly spiralling 'chutes — in a field inhabited by 150 paratroopers from the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, of Edmonton. No one was injured.

The platform, and the communications centre it carried, was wrecked.

The incident occurred during the parachute phase of Exercise Snow Chinook, a combined army-air force war operation near the Cold Lake RCAF base, 190 miles northeast of Edmonton.

The troops parachuted into the field a few miles from here to "defend" an "enemy" which invaded Canada from the north. The Enemy, a rifle company of the Canadian Army, was made up of the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, from Calgary.

The Fantastics, according to the program, captured a radar installation a few miles from the field into which the PPCLI and their equipment were parachuted.

The low-level drop went off as scheduled with no injuries. The C-119 Flying Boxcars from 434 Transport Squadron, Namao, Alta., in flights of three, came over the drop zone at about 1,000 feet.

Two equipment-bearing 'chutes failed to open. In both cases, the boggans and equipment were ravaged.

The last C-119 carried the heavy cargo platform.

It looked like a good drop for the first couple of hundred feet. Then it became apparent the 'chutes were "candling" — opening properly.

There was no panic among the troops. At the cry of "heads up," soldiers looked, judged the platline and moved. The platform hit with an earth - jarring thump, sending up a spout of snow, rocks and dirt.

Troops on the other side of a hill a quarter of a mile away said they felt the shock.

A helicopter from Cold Lake came to the communications centre's rescue after exercise umpires ordered another platform into the games. The helicopter's great blades whipping the snow into a blizzard, used cargo hooks to lift the new unit onto a truck. Then it was trucked to Cold Lake.

At the conclusion of the first day of operations — involving more than 1,000 men — friendly forces had the immediate situation in hand, but had another six days of zero weather fighting to look forward to. The Fantastics were scheduled to go down in defeat

EGGS AND HOGS LIVE ISSUES IN PARLIAMENT

Deficiency Payments Under Bitter Attack

OTTAWA (CP)—Eggs and hogs were back in the Commons limelight Monday.

The much-discussed deficiency payments the federal government substituted for support prices on the two products were the main issues in a general debate on agriculture.

The debate brought non-confidence motions from both the Liberal and CCF parties. The debate continues today.

Opposition members said the deficiency payments would create marketing "chaos". Government speakers said they were the only way to meet a situation where surpluses could no longer be tolerated.

CARDIFF IS SPOKESMAN

L. Elston Cardiff, parliamentary secretary to Agriculture Minister Harkness, said egg and hog production had continued high production despite falling prices during the last two years. Other countries had increased production and there were no markets for Canada's extra outside Canada. Further surpluses would have had to be destroyed. Instead of paying up surpluses, the government now guarantees producers a certain share of the national average price for the previous 10 years for eggs and 80 per cent of the price for bacon.

The payment is limited to 4,000 dozen grade A large eggs and 100 grade A hogs in any year.

LIBERAL CRITICISM

William Benidickson (L—Kenora-Rainy River) said the hog and egg payments had been dictated by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and the International Farm Union Council.

He said "the poor consumer could have to pay high prices for eggs because small producers would be induced to produce low prices and be unable to benefit when higher prices prevail.

Mr. Benidickson moved that the government implement "agricultural policies designed for the purpose of stabilizing prices of agricultural commodities and to provide farmers a fair share of national income."

ONLY NPs OBJECTING

Mr. Cardiff said many complaints arose because of misunderstanding of the deficiency payments program but "the only people who have complained are complaints from members in the House." Some members were "afraid the system is going to work."

The program would allow the farmer to work on his own. When the price rose he would increase production, reducing it as the price dropped.

H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) amended the Liberal motion to include "measures to support prices for various grades of eggs and hogs and deficiency payments on grain.

Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming) said the policy should be given the dairy industry in disposing of surpluses.

MERRITTON VOTES NO

Municipalities Can Finance Only Half Road Needs

Provincial Study Shows Demand Exceeds Means

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario municipalities need more help from the provincial government if they are to meet the expected demand for county, township and urban road construction in the next 20 years, the Ontario Good Roads Association was told today.

Sessions of the association's annual convention, which opened Monday, heard several speakers hammer away at the same theme: that the need for new roads, other than provincial highways, will outstrip the ability of municipalities to pay for them. They spoke in a discussion of the provincial government's "Needs Study Report."

Controller William A. Inch of Sudbury said the increase in Ontario population and number of motor vehicles expected in the years would result in an almost incredible 40,000,000,000 miles of travel per year—25 times that of today."

He said 41 per cent of the 20-year total needs is expected to be urban highway extensions, expressways and arterial roads alone.

"If spending is continued on the 1957 basis, it would provide only about 46 per cent of the needs."

Mr. Inch said the responsibility for the Toqa Palace, where he and the Akihito live.

The delivery was described as "natural," apparently meaning without artificial aid.

The young father, in accordance with tradition, waited at his home five miles from the hospital. With the news of the birth, he was presumably to ceremonial sword in an ancient ceremony symbolizing his duty to defend the nation. Then he went to hospital to see his son and his wife.

Princess Michiko Of Japan Gives Birth to Son

TOKYO (AP) — Crown Princess Michiko gave birth today to a healthy, five-pound, nine-ounce son who became second in the line of succession to the Japanese throne.

The baby is the first child born to Crown Prince Akihito and the daughter of the commoner flour manufacturer he married last April after a tennis court romance.

The birth had not been expected for another week. It came four days after a second son was born to Britain's Queen Elizabeth.

Akihito, eldest son of Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako, is 26. Michiko is 25.

BOTH WELL

An announcement said both mother and child were well.

The baby arrived after racking faint labor pains late Monday at the Toga Palace, where he and the Akihito live.

Three Firemen Die at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Fire destroyed a three-story brick building in an old section of downtown St. Louis Monday night, killing three firemen.

Ten firemen were injured as they worked in sub-freezing temperatures to extinguish the fire.

Dead are Capt. Joseph Kolocotronis, 58, and another fireman, Vernon Lee Johnson, of arson. However, Assistant Fire Chief Ray Chapman said a lie detector test indicated that Kolocotronis knew nothing about the origin of the fire.

The three firemen and another, Merle Miller, 42, were trapped when the interior of the building collapsed. Miller escaped and returned to duty after treatment of minor injuries.

Driver Killed

TORONTO (CP) — One driver was killed and another seriously injured early today when their cars crashed on a wet Don Valley parkside residential area of suburban Etobicoke.

Police identified the victim as Wladyslaw Dziewanowski, 51, of Toronto. Wesley D. Nash, 25, of Brampton, Ont., was taken to hospital in serious condition.

Both drivers were trapped in their vehicles by the crash which started a small fire in the wiring of one of the cars. Police said they needed a tow truck to get the wreck apart and used battery jumper cables and the other drivers from their seats.

No Highway Mileage Increase Needed in Ont. in 15 Years

- - Frost

TORONTO (CP) — Engineering studies of highway traffic in the next 15 years indicate no substantial increase in mileage of highways will be needed in Ontario, although about one-quarter of the king's highway system should be in a dual-lane highways, Premier Frost said today.

Speaking at the official opening of the Ontario Good Roads Association convention Mr. Frost said some 2,800 miles of king's highways should be duplicated by 1975.

The province now has more than 100 miles of dual-lane highways, which cost about $500,000 a mile to build.

Ontario's road system will by 1975 be used by about 4,00,000 motor vehicles, he said.

CHIEF FREIGHT CARRIER

Stressing the importance of highways in Ontario, Mr. Frost said two-thirds of Ontario's communities are served solely by motor transport, and more freight is carried in Ontario by highways than by all other forms of transportation combined.

Cars, trucks, buses and all other forms of motorized transport travel 45,000,000 miles a day over more than 11,000 miles of highway constructed and maintained by the department of highways, Mr. Frost said.

For the fiscal year ending March 31, provincial and municipal expenditure on construction and maintenance of all provincial highways and municipal roads will exceed $400,000,000 and the highways department's share of expenditure will approach $273,000,000.

Says Business Has Self to Blame For Free Enterprise Restrictions

EDMONTON (CP)—W. E. Williams, president and general manager of Procter and Gamble Co. of Canada Limited, said Monday some basic restrictions against free enterprise have been introduced through errors by businessmen.

Addressing a noon luncheon of the National Business Conference on Progress with Freedom and a Canadian club here, Mr. Williams said:

"It is an ironic thing that most of the restrictions about which businessmen currently complain have been introduced as a result of businessman's head by his own stupidity, his refusal to see a change in face of widespread social changes and by his basic greed."

He said the businessmen are in his predicament because they simply have not cared.

The business conference was co-sponsored by the Edmonton and the Canadian Chambers of Commerce.

The freedom of private enterprise has been curtailed in many areas by government decisions which have been detrimental to business, Mr. Williams said.

As examples he cited tariff changes and restrictions encountered by the Canadian branch which located in the Niagara Peninsula of Ontario assuming that free trade between Canada and the United States would continue.

He said he felt business has been guilty of all too frequently crying to the government for help when in trouble, resulting in legislation which may or may not be good at the moment but which eventually comes to be a part of our long-term body of restrictive laws.

Mr. Williams urged businessmen, above all, to take the standpoint of free enterprise and hard work in Canada.

Some of New Poison Gases Said More Terrible Than Nuclear Bombs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A top authority on chemical warfare today urged that American doctors be given the facts about some of the new poison gases which he said were more terrible than nuclear bombs.

Dr. Cecil M. Coggins of the California state office said the state's medical association that there are gases that will kill men "by the thousands" within a matter of minutes; gases that will make battalions out of whole metropolitan populations, and gases that will paralyze and not killed to liberate cities from military occupation.

The United States has a whole array of these gases, he said, and Russia apparently has a definite year start on developing things of this kind, presumably has had all these and may have more.

The potentialities of chemical and biological warfare remain unknown, even among physicians who would be called upon to fight the deadly effects in case of military attack of this kind, Coggins said.

"This dangerous situation in which we are expected to protect the public against weapons which are unknown to us, cannot be allowed to continue," he added. "We must become informed of the facts."

Both sides of the Iron Curtain are working on poison gases of this kind and Russia has 20,000-200 men trained and equipped for defensive against chemical and biological attack, Dr. Coggins said.

ARM FRACTURED, HIT BY BUS

Mrs. Harold Bailey, 45 McDonald Gardens, suffered a fractured right arm and a bruised leg when she was knocked down by a Bus Lines bus at the corner of Front and Bridge Streets.

Police said Mrs. Bailey was crossing Bridge street from the south when she was struck by a bus making a right turn. Driver of the bus was Russell Roach, Southview Ave.

"bus" man and said it would be "sheer folly and political chicanery" to build the research centre in Manitoba.

How could the federal government justify another expenditure of public funds when both Ottawa and Ontario have already spent millions of dollars at Elliot Lake? Mr. Wren asked.

He said the Liberal party would "welcome a byelection on this issue" and would support Mr. Fullerton into the Liberal fold if he wished.

Speaking in the throne speech debate, Mr. Wren also called for the construction of highways to investigate land transactions at the Pigeon River where a new bridge is to be built and the main highway improved.

He charged that certain groups in the United States are buying strips along the highway right-of-way to resell at a profit.

The highways department should examine the situation firsthand and not wait until it was too late as Sydney had done at Sarnia, Mr. Wren said.

LORD'S DAY ACT

Earlier in the day, a bill to amend the Lord's Day (Ontario) Act to permit non-profit organizations to stage paid - admission concerts or other entertainments on Sunday afternoons was debated by the legislature committee on legal bills.

Elmer Sopha (L — Sudbury) wanted the act to permit "good cultural" dialectal from the bill on the ground that no one would be able to define exactly what they meant. He said the bill should allow any non-profit organization to hold any musical performance.

W. B. Common, deputy attorney-general, said his department is "strongly" over the definition of good music and could not find any wording better than the phrase "artistic and cultural."

15th "B" CUB PACK

A visitor to the last Cub Pack meeting would never have known it was cold. Not a uniform was to be seen. It was Carnival night and each six appeared as a family. The Sixers were fathers, Scouters were mothers and the Seconds were up the family group, and believe us there were as many pretty girls as there were "big families" together and tried all the games — bowling, shooting, throw, bowling, curling, bombing and horseshoes. For each win a bean was given.

At halftime everyone enjoyed a cookie supplied by "mother" and then they made paper caps under the able guidance of "Bess" (Mr. Terry). Bibb Stx finished with the most beans and was rewarded with a small box of raisins each for their efforts. The Sixers are Peter Bibb, David Welch and Gary Dennis. They had to push an apple across the floor with their noses, much to the delight of everyone.

Cubmaster Wayne Mason, Colin Dyble and Ken Russell, our many thanks for coming along and helping to make a fine job. All in all it was a very successful night and a credit to Leader in the month the Pack enjoyed a toboggan party at Oak Lake under the direction of Akela G. Russell. Each six went their own way and the excellent weather combined with the high spirits of the boys made an ideal outing each time.

Thank you, ACM M. Russell for the report.

RELIGION AND LIFE AWARDS

This award is given for extra study in the Religion and Life course and requires a whole lot of study. Our padres are sticky, examining Bibles for the award and a Belleville boy who wears this badge has a right to be proud. It might be because of the time and effort required very few boys have passed the test, but on Sunday, February 21st, six boys received it. The Anglican group received this award from Padre Canon Cowley. Our excellent congratulations to Second George Fisher, Davey Athey, Peter Neal, Bert Mirrey and Bobby Hobbs and James Pickering.

1960 "TIMMY" IS A WOLF CUB

A Toronto Wolf Cub Sixer, 11-year-old Timothy Paul Phillip Minty, has been chosen as Canada's "Timmy" for the 1960 Easter Seal Campaign. Phil, who wears a knee-length brace on his left leg, is the eldest of four children. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Minty are proud that Phillip is the first Toronto boy to be chosen Timmy.

Keenly interested in sports the 1959 Cub Sixer is also a keen citizen, being able to play the piano at the Christmas concert of the Toronto St. James Cathedral Boys' Choir. For the past five years he has attended Blue Mountain Camp, one of the best camps for boys and girls Children's five summer camps. Although he enjoys all activities at camp, he particularly likes swimming and has won his Intermediate Red Cross swimming certificate.

"Timmy" originally wore two braces, but, through specialized care and treatment, has been able to discard one brace. Swimming has played an important part in his rehabilitation. He has done so well in swimming that he has been given a life membership in Gus Ryder's Lakeshore Swimming Club.

CHOIR BOYS PROTEST

OTTAWA (CP) — Wardens of Christ Church Anglican Cathedral have presented a petition under sentiment the petition handed them Sunday after evensong. It was signed by 40 choir boys who want padded kneelers in the choir stalls. The choir stalls were now looked when soft kneelers were installed in the rest of the church 18 months ago.

MUNICIPALITIES

from the government report which estimated expenditures on municipal roads and streets in the next 20 years at $4,714,640.- 00. He said that figure was greatly in excess of the municipal revenues available for such works.

WAYS AND MEANS

Ald. Jack Ireland introduced a resolution, for convention consideration later, calling on the provincial government to "investigate, take, without delay, the advisability of ways and means to provide the necessary funds to complete the work envisaged in the report . . . and required provide the province with systems adequate for the traffic needs for the next 20 years."

He said the resolution was submitted by the City Engineers Association and applies to "all municipal road and street programs." He said it has already been endorsed by a number of rural and urban municipalities.

The texts of all four addresses will be made available to the press in advance of delivery.

The speakers raise other matters of concern to road planning.

Mr. Inch said municipalities have been slow to realize "the growing danger of traffic congestion" as a result there is a "drastic shortage of qualified trained personnel on municipal payrolls."

3 High Schools Here Will Need Over a Million

This year the Bay of Quinte High School Board's budget will be over the $1,000,000 mark for the first time, Roy Dulmage, secretary of the board, said to local Rotarians when he addressed them at their regular weekly meeting yesterday noon-hour session. Mr. Dulmage offered no hope that this cost would be diminished in subsequent years in explaining where the rising costs came from. The maintenance of the three high schools and the increase in teachers' salaries, as well as increases in the number of teachers required, will contribute to maintaining a high cost of education, he said.

The Prince Edward County native, who has been a resident of this area for the past 8 years, explained that it was very hard to obtain the services of teacher specialists due to the increased need for them in the rapidly growing Metropolitan Toronto area. He cited the example of this week when Toronto could easily absorb all of the graduating teachers from Queen's this year. He illustrated the difficulty of obtaining these teachers by relating how the board was advertising for specialists with no response and had to pay $1,000 annually on two occasions last year without receiving a single reply.

He also pointed out how the high school population explosion would increase over the next few years. Based on the figure of public school population at the present time, in 1955, he said, there were 2,500 pupils in the secondary schools of the city and district. Today, 5,000 of the city students enrolled Next year an enrollment of 2,500 is anticipated with 7,500 pupils in 1965 and 3,054 in 1967.

Mr. Dulmage also pointed out that the high school board was quite unique in its formation in 1952 as it was the first organization to include representation from the rural as well as urban municipalities. He pointed out that this principle has proved very well and the Ontario Department of Education has set the official seal of approval for it which proved to be quite beneficial.

The board actually receives a higher average grant for schools in the rural area within the city than a regular municipal board would have received if each municipality were running the high school systems.

Mr. Dulmage was introduced by Rotarian Arnold Campbell, a former teacher at Trenton and Bob Lanning expressed the thanks of the club.

Birthdays were celebrated by Harry Davis, Orland Pinkston, Fred Hall, Jr. and a humorous sing-song was led by John Denyes with Neale Burnham at the piano. Guests were introduced by Ed Hutchinson. Bill Hurst was chairman of the meeting and grace was given by Brigadier Gennery.

Old Duplessis Threat Causes Fuss in House

QUEBEC (CP) — Harsh words were exchanged in the legislative assembly Monday as the Liberal Opposition piled question upon question during the course of public works estimates for the coming fiscal year.

Main item in debate: a $16,000,000 credit for the construction of permanent bridges.

Centre of the verbal storm was Hon. Antonio Talbot, minister. When he said the government's aim was possible bridge projects could serve as an instrument of blackmail, Premier Antonio Barrette asked him to explain.

Mr. Hamel refused and the opposition members teamed into the lap of Speaker Maurice Bellefeuille after the assembly voted 48-41 a ruling that he made to take back his charge.

He was asked four times to retract. When he finally did so, said he felt such an example should be made and he moved that Mr. Hamel be expelled from the assembly. The expulsion motion was withdrawn at Premier Barrette's request.

DISCUSS EXPULSION

Mr. Hamel had to stay out of the assembly while members discussed his expulsion.

The brief storm started when Mr. Hamel asked Finance Minister John Bourque whether he could say if the public works department planned to build a new bridge at Shawinigan.

The late Premier Maurice Duplessis had promised that there would be built there until Mr. Hamel was defeated in an election. Mr. Hamel was re-elected to the legislature in 1956 and the bridge is still only a project.

Mr. Bourque, speaking for Works Minister Romeo Lorraine, who is ill, said he could not say whether the government would go ahead with the project this year. Only the works minister could say this.

Rotarians Hear Supervisor Tell Of Immigration

TRENTON — Mr. J. F. Young, regional settlement supervisor of the Immigration Department, in the Federal Government, was the guest speaker at the weekly dinner meeting of the Trenton Rotary Club, held last evening in the Gilbert Hotel. Mr. Young gave his listeners a brief outline of the present immigration policy of the Canadian government. He said that the policy of the government was to foster the growth of Canada without allowing the fundamental characteristics of the Canadian people, and to do this within the absorptive capacity of the country, from an economic viewpoint.

The speaker said that the history of Canada was the history of immigration. He said that even the "original" natives of the country, the North American Indians, were immigrants to the latest theory, came across the Bering Sea. "We're all foreigners," Mr. Young stated. "I consider that the Canadian population is made up of the best part of every nation represented within our borders."

He said that the flexible immigration policy pursued by the government, while favoring the immigration of persons from parts of the British Commonwealth of Nations and the United States, also allowed for the special needs of the country for certain types of professional men and encouraged small businessmen and farmers to make their home in Canada.

SELECT IMMIGRANTS

The department trained officers to work overseas and select immigrants for admission to Canada. These officers are provided with information on the immigrant is within our borders other immigration officers go about the task of setting them in areas most suited to their qualifications. Small business men are especially encouraged to come to Canada and invest their capital in business which give employment to other "newcomers" and Canadians. In the past five years, 2,256 small business men and their families have settled in Canada, and their capital investment has been over $30 million.

Mr. Young said that this year having been designated "World Refugee Year" by the United Nations he was trying to clear out the refugee camps in Europe and Asia. The Canadian Immigration Department has made provision for between 400 and 500 persons suffering from tuberculosis and their families to enter Canada.

STRENGTHEN ECONOMY

Returning to the subject of the small businessman, Mr. Young said, "Nothing will help the economic picture of the country more than to have these people." He said Canadians had been in the field of meat and vegetable products groceries, construction, wood working plants, publishing and printing, textiles, rubber products, and many others. Mr. Young said that the government had contributed to the economic stability of Canada, providing employment and a market for Canadian foodstuffs, clothing etc.

He urged his listeners to consider the fundamentals involved in immigration on the economic structure of the country rather than emphasize the influx of newcomers as a potential threat to employment opportunities.

Mr. Young was introduced by Past-President, William House and thanked by John Tripp.

President Fred Preston read a letter from the district governor asking that delegates to the Guelph conference to be held April 24-29, register early.

Rotarians were urged to attend the special Rotary ice show in the Maple Leaf Gardens at Toronto March 16, 17 and 18th. Olympic stars will be among the many attractions.

Rotarian J. G. Gillan pinned a red carnation on John Garrett who celebrates a birthday this week. Rotarians Alec Fong, Bob Baker and Eben James were remembered by their wives have birthdays this week also.

Dreams About Community Centre Fall Far Short of Realization

TRENTON — The question of whether the Community Gardens Commission has a White Elephant on its hands and a White Elephant "without any personality" at that, was discussed by the board of directors of the commission at last night's regular monthly meeting.

The members were agreed that the fond dream the builders of the gardens had engaged in when the building was first opened that crowds would flock through its doors to every sports event arranged by the promotion committee, had fallen far short of realization.

Carl Wese, commissioner, said that there seemed to be a "mental block" in the minds of Trentonians concerning the gardens. He said that the same sports event would draw large crowds in any other place, but if held in the gardens sponsored it, the crowds were non existent. "What's wrong with it?" asked Mr. Wese. "Is there a built-in dislike Topsy on foundations of quicksand". Mr. Wese went on to urge his fellow commissioners to get over the feeling of panic about the financial situation and set about doing something constructive. "Let's not panic again, just as if we had opened yesterday and get thinking along the right lines" he said the commission was afraid to spend any money on promotion for the paltry reason that there was a deficit in connection with yearly operating expenses.

Chairman Vagn Lange said that the board had got off on the wrong start. When the people had stayed away because the building was so new, and the massive heating system had been installed, it was to be expected large insurance payments, a sprinkler system had been installed. When the building had first been erected, it had been found that there were sets of cupboards, and other necessary facilities that were lacking. They are slowly getting to the point where we have a Community Garden, one we can proudly say would put us on a sound basis financially.

OPERATING AT LOSS

After some discussion it was decided to hold a meeting of every service clube in town to sponsor one or two nights entertainment, which would be making enough money to wipe out the deficit.

Norman Banfield, secretary-manager of the commission had submitted the operating statement for the month of January. There had been a loss of $1,000.00 during the month. During the same month in 1959, there had been a profit of $502.67.

Additional expenses this year had been incurred by the employ of casual help, additional expense with the ice rink, caused due to the fact that the inlet to the well in the bay has not been kept open and the gardens were forced to use town water, and $400.00 has had to be expended on repairs to the buildings against the $1,000.00 set aside for this purpose, leaving a deficit of $60.63 for the same month.

The revenue from ice skating has been $1,000.00 this year as compared with $728.60 for January, 1959. Despite the cold weather crowds, it was decided to make up a new price schedule. From 2 p.m. until 6 p.m. adults 21 years of age will be admitted for 15 cents, students 50 cents, and for adults, 25 cents. On Wednesdays, after consultation with representative on the commission, suggested that a fall cards could be issued to teen agers allowing them free admission to the gardens. It was decided to re-awaken interest in the garden by this method.

It was decided that Gib Johnson, engineer and janitor, should be sent to Guelph for a course in refrigeration, with the Johnson Electronics Company in Hamilton Ray Ahn, but lives in San Francisco. The couple met two years ago.

Bank President No Fatalist

"James Muir, chairman of the Royal Bank of Canada, dealt with "The New Fatalism in Canadian Economic Thought" in an address to the Canadian Club at Toronto yesterday.

"The easy optimism of the post-war years has gradually given way to doubt," Mr. Muir said. "Can we maintain our current rate of growth without incurring severe penalties in the form of internal inflation or external debt?"

In the course of his address Mr. Muir made it plain that, unlike the fatalists, he did not think that economic disaster was inevitable. But, he intimated, it will be difficult to realize reasonable rates and aspirations, which we may variously identify with the 'cost-free welfare state,' 'instant expansion' or simply (even more) the 'abundant life for all'".

"Nations, like their people as individuals," he said, "cannot expect to live with impunity beyond their means." We should not attempt to do too much, too soon. We are trying to keep up with the Joneses across the border not merely in worth-while things, the essentials of comfort and culture, but in frills, junk and gingerbread, too.

Mr. Muir then dealt with the relationship between the capital inflow, the premium on the dollar, our trade deficit and high interest rates, stating, among other things, that the removal of the discount on the U.S. dollar could only be achieved by the Exchange Fund Account standing ready to buy all U.S. dollars offered at par, which "would increase the money supply and create inflation" and that interest rates, like exchange rates, could also be reduced, by the central bank buying securities instead of U.S. dollars, but at the same price, inflation.

These are questions for economists. No doubt most of them will agree with Mr. Muir, though almost certainly some will disagree at least over details, since the most noteworthy thing about economists is that they are rarely all of one mind.

One observation by Mr. Muir, though, seems to lie within the field of comprehension of the layman. He quoted David Hume as saying that "high interest arises from three circumstances: a great demand for borrowing; little riches to supply that demand; and great profits arising from commerce." "If we substitute 'saving' for the slightly archaic word 'riches', I believe we could not improve on this statement of the real forces behind the facade of interest rates," Mr. Muir said. "Moderation in demand, increased saving, or both, are necessary before the interest rate, and other returns on capital, can be reduced sufficiently so that, combined with appropriate movements in our free exchange rate, the flood of foreign capital can at last be stemmed, or reduced to easily manageable proportions."

All very interesting. Moderation in demand, increased saving or both—but what happened to Hume's third cause of high interest rates—great profits arising from commerce? Mr. Muir has forgotten to mention it, unless we consider it to be covered by the phrase "other returns on capital," in which case it has been converted from a cause of high interest rates to a form of them. Yet was not Hume right—would private firms borrow at present high interest rates unless the profits from commerce were high enough to pay for these rates and still leave a satisfactory margin of return to the borrower? Obviously not. Yet, with the present tax structure, are not corporation taxes so high that "great profits arising from commerce" are hard to come by? Obviously yes—except in the field of capital gains. And it is the capital gains field—the building of pipelines and the sub-division of farm lands into building lots to mention just two cases, that much of the demand for capital arises.

There are very sound reasons why a country such as Canada, on the eve of great expansion, should not only cripple private enterprise by imposing a capital gains tax. But we ought at least to recognize that, along with a moderation in demand for loans and increased saving, there ought to be some effort to curb the more glaring examples of speculation, particularly in those fields, as in pipelines and housing, where the government is requested to assist in financing.

John Hopkins University Bulletin

Don't overlook poetry if you want to participate in one of the most intense emotional experiences man can undergo.

All through history, whenever man has wanted to assess his place in the universe, he most often has turned to the arts — painting, literature, music, dance, poetry.

Just what is poetry? Why is it? What is it supposed to do to the reader? Is there a message in it?

Great men through the ages have asked philosophic on poetry.

Macaulay said: "By poetry we mean the art of employing words in such a manner as to produce an illusion on the imagination; the art of doing by means of words what the painter does by means of colors."

And Voltaire: "One merit of poetry few persons will deny: it says more, and in fewer words than prose."

Let's start at this point. Poems, generally, are shorter than their prose counterparts. Some are decidedly short, like famous poetic doggerel, "Candy is dandy, but liquor is quicker." With only seven words a great deal has been said and even more implied. See how much more effective three seven words are than if this had been said: "Well, you can take a box of candy to your girl friend, but I think I'll give mine a bottle."

What about serious poetry? Robert Coleman, director of the Johns Hopkins University writing seminars and a widely read poet, believes that poetry expresses man's deepest feelings about his highest inspirations.

"It is certainly the most intense form of human expression available to man," he said. It's also one of the hardest to write.

Look at it this way: Music achieves an almost immediate effect on a listener. That's why bands march in parades — and why lullabies are sung. Through history have had their drummer boys and their songs to sing. Inspiring and stimulating because it affects the ear quickly and without any particular effort or concentration on the part of the listener.

Painting, too, can sometimes achieve quick response from a viewer. Color is the key in a painting. It stimulates the eye like sounds stimulate the ear.

But how about literature, writing words which are merely thoughts in the mind represented by black symbols on white paper? There needs more concentration by the reader to understand, because there is no color or music.

Prose and poetry both depend on the imagination of the reader to create the effect desired by the writer. But poetry is a quite different dimension—that of sound and rhythm combined with meter and rhyme.

Don't read poetry if you plan to give it the effort you expend watching television—where the eyes and ears are simultaneously stimulated by pictures and sound.

Poetry must be given more of a chance. You must work to read it — but then you are sharing in the poet's emotion will be great.

Think Twice Then Don't Say It

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Any statement that begins: "When I was a boy . . ." will not be listened to by young people today, who rightly suspect sentimentality, nostalgia and distortion of the past.

Any statement that begins: "There are two sides to every question . . ." is generally an attempt to make the weaker side sound as plausible as the stronger side.

Any statement that begins: "If it were a matter of things . . ." is scarcely worth hearing out — for when we take charge of things we are interested in those who are in charge of things.

Any statement that begins: "You only live once, so . . ." is bound to be a defence of the sensual life at the cost of the rational life, and a concealed apology for irresponsibility, and not what we know to be right.

Any statement that begins: "I will never forget the day . . ." is almost always a lie, a snobbish boast, or a sentimental exaggeration.

Any statement that begins: "We've been keeping an eye on you, boy . . ." signifies that an employee is going to get a raise in wrongdoing, but not necessarily in pay.

Any statement that begins: "I want to tell you now as long as a friend . . ." will contain a piece of unsolicited, unnecessary and offensive advice that displays about as much unconscious cruelty as open friendship.

Any statement that begins: "I don't like to brag about my own children, but . . ." is a downright lie. (Personally, I enjoy nothing more than bragging about my children, when I can trap an audience in a weakened condition.)

Any statement that begins: "That's funny, I have a brother-in-law with the same complaint, and the doctor told him . . ." indicates that you have just fallen into the deepest and most boring of pits — the one cunningly dug by a "Health Bore," who has stated all the complicated and macabre diseases as his own special field of misinformation.

Any statement that begins: "If you ask me, the Russians are going to . . ." is not worth hearing by someone you would not dream of asking even what language the Russians speak.

Engineers To Be Scarce

Financial Post

If you have a son or grandson getting off soon for university, there will be plenty of opportunities by the time he graduates will very likely be in the engineering profession.

Engineers, for example, will probably be in short supply within three or four years — or sooner. By then, companies may be in the throes of the complicated red-carpet treatment production first in 1955-57 and not seen since.

Doctors, lawyers, dentists will be in short supply and their services will be in high demand. Even the teaching profession and these courses is currently smaller than it was a decade ago.

The cure of a social ill rarely is a neat example of how shortages change and how economy can produce wide swings in demand. The economy began to change in 1957. That year the big postwar classes of engineers had been absorbed and when engineer graduations were at a peak point. Hence the shortage of 1955-57 which attracted several thousand immigrant engineers to Canada. Economy in force just as the economy began to tighten.

Hence the surplus of today. Wide publicity about this surplus caused a drop in engineer registrations in 1958-59, only a few thousand will apply in short supply again in 1962-63 and thereabouts.

It won't be long now until the bumper crop of wartime babies start flooding into the labor market and the competition for jobs gets keener. The kids might as well know now where the best opportunities are likely to be.

New Battery Runs Tractor

Fort Arthur News-Chronicle

A silent, efficient electrically-driven automobile may be the car of the future. Unlike its deceased kin it will not be powered by a storage battery—the type of car that had a practical range of about 80 miles.

The Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company at Detroit has developed a tractor which has a 20 horsepower electric motor to power a field. The electricity that drove the tractor came from 1,008 "fuel cells."

The nature of gases, largely propane, fueled the cells, along with oxygen. The gases were fed to the cells through a system of tubing and, once in the cells, reacted in an electrolyte.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

LOW BLOOD SUGAR CAN CAUSE GREAT MISERY

"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes low blood sugar? — M. E."

A letter from the reader with this trouble described herself as being "the meanest person alive" when her sugar was low.

Such meanness can result from low blood sugar. In one instance a patient was on the verge of being sent to a mental institution before the low blood sugar was discovered and treated.

That case, you say, was exceptional. The symptoms more often are less severe, but all the same they add up to a very great amount of misery. Hence it is very much to the point, in certain types of cases, to test the blood sugar level.

We all have a certain amount of sugar circulating in the blood stream. It averages about a teaspoonful, but it varies widely, varies more, perhaps, than any other constituent in the blood.

The amount varies depending on our activity, whether we eat meals, and of course in relation to the amount of insulin. Insulin is essential for proper utilization of the sugar by the cells of the body. That is why diabetics need insulin.

Too little insulin, and the sugar builds up in the blood fast, and we have low blood sugar.

Why too much insulin? One cause is cancer in a tumor in the pancreas, causing production of too much insulin. The other cause is relatively common, and is known as "functional hypoglycemia". It is found rather frequently.

Sugar is necessary for energy. The brain is entirely dependent on it for energy, and so is every part. The result is that low blood sugar can cause fatigue, weakness, dizziness, and even headaches. Some victims (because of the above symptoms) are called neurotic. Apparently the problems of life, bringing tension, anxiety and other emotional reactions, are tied in with the situation. A good many people with ulcers are found to have low blood sugar. Sometimes low thyroid", says Dr. Molner.

Diet is important, too. Very — although not all important. You might think the answer would be to cut out sugar. This is not so. Eating sugar may give a temporary lift, but the excess amount stirs up greater insulin production and soon the trouble is aggravated. Rather, the best diet proves to be one that is low in starches and sugar. And this is protein, which allows sugar to filter into the system more gradually.

The basic things to remember: with suitable types of trouble, it is vital that the blood sugar level, and it may be the answer to seemingly mysterious troubles. Second, the answer isn't in eating sugar. It lies in a different diet plus treatment of other related factors.

"Dear Dr. Molner: You wrote quite a long time ago that the same trouble, and a hosiery clerk told me to get nylon hose because it prevents varicose veins. I did and have had real foot comfort. Am I fooled, Ed."

Perfectly good advice, but it won't work for everybody. I have had severe aches for the same reason. However, it's well worth a try.

R.A.M.: Yes, a nodulous abdomen can, in some cases, be corrected by surgery. But I can't give a definite reply from your case, because situations vary.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE SQUARE

Ever since we were school children we have had it drummed into our ears that "honesty is the best policy." But it's a matter of fact, honesty isn't a policy. It's just being four-square.

No matter what the circumstance, it always pays to be square. It's the right way, in the way, but in the satisfaction money. No one ever got very far by being crooked, even in politics. The man who practices these vices finds himself the worst! You can't hurt the other fellow by abusing him. The essence of The Golden Rule is to be square. Four-Square. That's all. And it's the basis of security at anything like that, but what everybody, rich or poor, or unlearned, most desires to be.

Sometimes I think the man who lives within his means is the one most misjudged. I guess this is because he is more revealing is always the most unusual these days. But never mind. He's the right man — always try your hardest to be just as four-square as you can.

Case Against Lotteries

Winnipeg Free Press

The case for a national hospital sweepstake has been argued again in the current session of Parliament. Under the provisions of the sweepstake bill, a Conservative MP from Vancouver, Mr. Goodmurphy, would conduct scheme in Canada would get established. The suggestion

The friends of government sweepstake argue that this is a painless and easy way to raise money for public services such as hospitals and rehabilitation. And the idea may have some appeal for governments which have to go to the public every year by spending more money on public services than they have money to do so.

Unfortunately — this — like most get-rich-quick schemes — is an illusion. Lotteries are, in fact, a very expensive way to raise money. According to a royal commission report in 1949, over-eighths of all the money collected in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes during the war ten held up as a shining example of what a lottery can do for hospitals) goes to help the Irish hospitals; the rest is eaten up by administration costs and prizes. In addition, the hospitals have lost much voluntary support they used to get before the lottery was set up to help them.

But quite aside from the economic futility of a lottery, the scheme there are important social and legal factors which have to be considered.

It has been the experience of countries which have operated state lotteries that the people who participate in them most often are those who can least afford them. Thus the lotteries draw money from the pockets of people who would not otherwise be gambling. Even though taxes, be required to contribute least.

But perhaps the state lottery's most corrosive effects of all are that it allows a government to escape responsibility for providing services that are needed by the people of a country and that it breeds contempts for anti-gambling laws. The private citizen can hardly be expected to believe that it is wrong for him to gamble on, comparatively, a very small scale when the government of the land is the leader in the raising of millions of dollars with a game involving millions of people. Unless they have considered the case fully, the MPs should vote against the bill, regarding that Canada has little to gain from getting into the lottery business.

Macmillan Speaks Out

London New Statesman

Unlike most politicians, Mr. Macmillan is a great learner; he learns by travelling and he learns even more by his critics; cost, to speak out.

Mr. Macmillan's position approaching Nehru's position; from Russia talking of co-existence, from Africa and Asia opposing a summit conference; in fact, he has been the author of change blowing through the continent."

In Cape Town he has proclaimed the rights of man, including black man, and his insolence of South Africans whose government denies all civil rights to non-whites. He has complained that he has been prevented from meeting the leaders of African nationalism.

Since Moscow's strongest weapon is the reputation of socialism, apartheid must breed communism. South Africa's refusal to recognize the facts of the nationalist revolution is imperilla, he says, "the precarious balance of East and West on which the peace of the world depends."

These affirmations of faith will bring hope and joy to millions who have feared that a fists draw money for Prime Minister Africa. The repercussions in East and Central Africa must be great.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BEWARE SUCH FOLK

Some people — especially extreme liberals — entertain the curious notion that love for country is a form of treason against humanity. To love one's country is supposed to mean that one loves it more than other lands. This kind of thinking inevitably leads to an international hodgepodge which eventually will get the rightfully people of the earth's population on the hook to a tom of the heap and designing rascals on the top.

It is no more treason to the human race to love one's country than it is treason to the human race to love one's home. A man does not despise womanhood because he loves one woman above all others and takes her to himself for better or for worse. Parents do not despise children because they love their own children above all others.

Patriotism has through the ages been considered a virtue, and for many of us it will cease to be a virtue only on that day when we no longer have any virtue at all. Of course we love our country. We love it better than we love other countries, and do all this without any feeling of hostility or arrogance or any sense internationalism or the loving appreciation we should all have for people of races and cultures different from our own.

Distrust those people who decry patriotism. As sure as you do they have a treason cloak up their sleeve. They are far from being friends of humanitarians they claim to be.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A Dutch friend of mine at last amassed enough money in this hard country to build himself a house. Not a new house, but one built around 1900 in an oldish section of the city. He knew the precision of values which Hollywood exhibit far more intelligently than we realize, and chose the house because its bricks had been laid with care — that is, three stretchers to one header, though he guessed that out of sixty years of paint, decoration alteration and addition, he was able to penetrate and discover that the structure of the house was sound and solid. For $2,500, he installed new plumbing, new wiring and a new oil furnace convertible to coal in case of emergency. Part of that sum went to plastering the cellar and the attic where some areas had been let deteriorate. Though not a plumber, carpenter or electrician, he was able to supervise the job with almost complete understanding, to the astonishment of the happy-go-lucky lads who came to do their jobs. He has no handicrafts himself. But he appreciates what they do. He now has a house worth twice what he paid for it, and with more than most of us can say, likes to live in it. "Why, the house has no logs!"

"Logs?" said I.

"Yes, the book", he said. "In Europe, when you buy a house, a book, a log book, goes with it telling from the start who built it, all who owned it, who was born in it, lived in it, died in it, what alterations and additions were made, with dates. A history of the house."

I am sorry to tell him that in Canada we do not think enough of houses to preserve their story. Houses are a hard sell, and the log book would be a hard one to sell. It would be a record of neglect, of slovenly workmanship, of jerry-building, of jobs done by the cheapest labor available, of jobs done by the cheapest labor available, of jobs done by the cheapest labor available

DIVISIONS EVEN

Last Thursday's parade marked the first meeting in which the new divisional system was applied to the cadets of the "Quinte." Each of the two divisions is marked on its drill, attitude, bearing, attendance and dress with a maximum of four points for each and another for quality. This allows for a maximum earning power of 20 points for a division for any parade night. Points may also be lost, however, through such occurrences as Captain's defaulters (20 points), executive officer's defaulters (5 points) and Officer-of the Day defaulters (2 points).

Both of the divisions, Howe and Beatty, came out with 14 points earned last Thursday evening. At the end of a month the total number of points will be calculated and a plaque awarded to the best division. This Tuesday's parade should see which division takes the lead for efficiency.

HOCKEY WIN

Last Tuesday's parade was a special sports night with a hockey game being held in conjunction with the Sea Cadets of H.C.S.C.C. "Trent" of Trenton. The game was well played by both teams but the members of the "Quinte" proved a bit too powerful for the Trenton lads and the final score was 5-3 for the Belleville corps. W. Clare scored three goals for the "Quinte" and L. S. Grigg and R. Batchelor chalking up one each. Jackson, McFadgen and Rose of the "Trent" scored once each. Another match is being arranged for this coming Sunday if ice is available.

12 NEW ENTRIES

Last week's classes included naval time and watches, divisional organization, and naval terminology for Thursday's parade. Twelve new entrants have joined the Corps and Area Office in Toronto has been requested to allow for a full house in the "Quinte" complement which is now overcrowded.

This week there will be band practice and shooting on Tuesday at the Armouries with the regular classes session being held on Thursday at the Sea Cadet Barracks on South Front Street.

Design of Flag For B.C. Cause Of Controversy

VICTORIA (CP)—A flag that shows, among other things, the smoketracks of British Columbia industry, may produce one of the biggest storms of the legislative session so far. Premier Bennett's Social Credit government.

It's not the idea of an official B.C. flag that promises the gale, it's the design proposed by the government.

Predominently of royal blue, the proposed emblem has cne blazoned on it: A white shield; the B.C. coat of arms; a blockcoming dogwood—official flower of the province—two fir trees, a range of mountains, a group of factory buildings and chimneys, a group of houses and wavy lines depicting the Pacific Ocean.

Bill No. 40—an act respecting a flag for the province of British Columbia—hasn't reached the debate stage in the legislature yet. But judging by reaction outside the house it's in for bad time.

John Soulis, new Parliamentary and CCF member from Alberni, was the first in the House a hint of things to come.

He said when he first heard of a provincial flag he envisioned some of our good artistic people would volunteer to help, or perhaps have a competition and perhaps even the university students in on it.

"But if we're going to have this," he asserted, holding up a newspaper picture of the flag, "then let's forget the whole thing.

"Let's add a toil bridge, some ferries, a couple of lift bridges, Bennett Buildings, pictures of the cabinet and a picture of the premier—that's what I would charge after the next election."

Mr. Soulis added: "If anyone thinks the people of this province are going to respect a flag with a chimney pot on it they've lost another think coming."

"It's a flag to be the laughing stock of Canada," said Colin Cameron, leader of the Victoria Art Gallery.

Grace Scott, MLA for Point Georges Gregory, Liberal member for Victoria:

"I like William Hills, Victoria Anglican clergyman, said the province should have a provincial coat as "a wrapper for a firm packaging salmon."

Ralph Hall, lot of odds and ends," said Dr. W.J.S. Dale, curator of the Provincial Archives Gallery.

Garnett Kennedy, director of the B.C. Provincial Institute, said "it appears a native person merely compiled data."

Attorney-General Wesley Black, whose job it was to introduce the bill, explained that the flag is merely the B.C. centennial flag with the Queen's crown replacing the numerals "1858-1958" and the word Centennial.

He recalled it was first proposed by the province's flag by Lands and Forests Minister Ray Willis at the 1949 session. It was that time the legislature endorsed a resolution recommending the government adopt a provincial flag "with such changes as may be desirable for use as the official provincial flag."

Will Examine Installers of Gas, Oil Services

TORONTO (CP)—Persons engaged in the installation and service of gas or oil appliances soon will have to pass an examination in the interests of public safety, Energy Minister Macdonald (Brantford) said.

He told the legislature's standing committee on energy a training school will be organized to implement the new program.

Dr. C. Ungerman of the Ontario Fuel Board, said a standard heating bylaw is being drafted by the government and local municipal bylaws will not come in force unless they meet safety code.

The committee discussed the act to establish an Ontario energy board which is to replace the fuel board. Later it will review the new Energy Act.

REPORT ON WHEAT

During 1949 a total of 310 wells of all types were completed as compared to 393 the previous year. These completed 100 gas wells, 12 of oil, 169 dry holes and 29 service wells.

Only five of the 100 gas wells were classified as successful exploratory wells. Four others extended the boundaries of existing fields and two were discoveries near Bradley in Kent County and near Hornby in Halton County.

A month ago an important new discovery was made near Paris, Mr. Dunlop said.

Three of the 19 oil wells were classified as successful exploratory.

Oil production in Ontario was about 1,032,000 barrels, 20 per cent more than in 1958, all from fields in southwestern counties, The Rodney field in Elgin County and the Corunna area in Lambton County were the two most productive sources.

Natural gas production in Ontario in 1959 was estimated at 16,800,000,000 cubic feet, compared to 16,100,000,000 the previous year—a gain of four per cent.

Drug Makers Deny Charges Of Profiteering

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized drug manufacturers denied before Congress today that their industry is profiteering against the public dealing in monopolistic practices.

Dr. Austin Smith, president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, contended instead that prices of new medicines are "the real bargain" for the buying public.

The testimony was prepared for renewed hearings by the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee.

At earlier hearings, the subcommittee heard testimony from some big manufacturers have received marriage of several thousand per cent on medicines sold to the public for up to 50 cents a dose.

Smith contended that singling out the price of one out of many products of a firm could mislead the public.

STRONG DEFENCE

Vigorously defending medicine prices as reasonable, he said:

"Americans would be paying a billion dollars a year more for drugs at the price of medicine in the last few years had gone up only as much as the total cost of living.

He said drug prices rose three per cent in the last 19 years while the average wholesale price of all industrial products went up 70 per cent.

He cautioned:

"Price supporting, any governmental restraints upon the healthy incentives which this free enterprise system provides for new discovery and product development will inevitably slow the flow of life-giving drugs which has benefited every American and people all over the world."

Smith said the United States leads the world in the discovery and development of new medical preparations because of interest and competition among the 1,300 U.S. firms which manufacture prescription drugs.

Lord Carisbrooke Dies in London, Ill Several Days

LONDON (Reuters)—The Marquess of Carisbrooke, 73, last surviving grandson of Queen Victoria, died early today of a cerebral haemorrhage.

A third cousin of Queen Elizabeth, Lord Carisbrooke had been ill for several days.

He was a first cousin of Earl Mountbatten of Burma and a cousin of Princess Margaret, Countess Mountbatten, who died in British North Borneo last summer.

The news of Carisbrooke's death was given to Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip at Buckingham Palace this morning.

The Queen and her family already had begun a week of family mourning for countess Mountbatten, the prince's aunt.

BY ONE DAUGHTER

Known as the businessman of the British Royal Family, the marquess is survived by one daughter, Lady Iris Mountbatten, who lives in New York and has appeared as a model and appeared on television there. She flew to London Monday night.

Lord Carisbrooke's mother, Princess Beatrice, was Queen Victoria's youngest daughter, born in 1857. Until the birth last week of a second son to Queen Elizabeth, Beatrice was the last child born to a reigning British monarch.

Carisbrooke's father was Prince Henry of Battenberg and he himself was known as Prince Alexander of Battenberg until the family relinquished its German titles at the request of King George V during the first World War.

The Battenbergs assumed the name of Mountbatten and he was created Marquess of Carisbrooke. Earl of Berkhamsted and Viscount Launceston.

Carisbrooke received no state allowance and was the first member of the Royal Family to go into business to earn his living.

He began his career in the Royal Navy in 1902 but six years later transferred to the Grenadier Guards with whom he served throughout the First World War.

When peace returned, he left the army and took a job, starting as a clerk in the offices of Lazard Brothers, bankers.

Later he became a director of several big concerns, including Lever Brothers, the Eagle, Star and British Dominions Insurance Company, and the Savoy Hotel Company.

During the Second World War he joined the RAF and was later attached to the staff of Fighter Command.

Debates Range From Pollution To Penal Reform

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Discussion in Canada's provincial legislatures Monday ranged from penal reform to pollution.

Ontario Attorney - General Sterling Lyon submitted a program of law enforcement and reform. Innovations called for in the report included radar speed traps on highways, an advisory and co-ordinating committee on youth, a judicial reform program for county court districts, an extension of the rehabilitation camp program and unification of the province's correction program under one head.

In Saskatchewan, Agriculture Minister Nollet announced that the CCF government has since 1944 spent $18,800,000 on assistance to farmers. He said farmers have received more than $6,000,000 on crops damaged in the heavy October snowfall.

Health Minister Arthur Leiser told the Quebec legislature it would cost hundreds of millions of dollars to solve the province's water pollution problem.

He was replying to a Liberal opposition motion of no confidence which charged the government with apathy in dealing with the pollution problem. The motion was defeated 59-19.

Last week Premier Barrette announced $25,000,000 has been earmarked to fight pollution.

Premier Alberto Hautcoeur was told by Premier Maurice that the development of the province's natural resources is being adversely affected by lack of markets for crude oil. The premier said the province markets only 40 per cent of the crude oil it is now capable of producing.

He criticized the federal government for not formulating a concrete policy on oil exports. The premier reaffirmed that the province intends to retain its jurisdiction over the natural gas in the province.

In British Columbia, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black announced the establishment of a board of review to adjudicate civil service grievances.

The debate on the throne speech in the British Columbia legislature will be opened today by Liberal Leader Lorne J. Robichard.

MORE STEEL, LESS COAL

LUXEMBOURG (CP) — Steel output for 1959 in the six-nation European Common Market reached a record total of 70,000,000 tons, the high authority of the coal and steel community said here Monday. This was well above the level-of-40,000,000 tons reached by France, West Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg when they formed the community in August, 1952. All the countries had record outputs except Italy, the report added. Coal production in the area last year was 250,000,000 tons compared with the 1958 total of 246,400,000 tons.

Following Military Career Roy Farran Still Making Headlines as Newspaperman

By PETER EMMORET
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALGARY (CP) — In the darkness of a Jerusalem street 12 years ago three British soldiers were shot down.

That's for Farran," cried the assailants.

In Ireland months later a parcel addressed to Roy Farran exploded when he opened it—by his brother Rex. Rex Farran was killed in mistake.

Now, following a military career on two continents and in several Middle East hot spots, Roy Farran is still making headlines as he celebrates six years as publisher of the aggressive North Hill News, a weekly newspaper.

TITLES NO PRINCESS

The soft-spoken, grey - haired 39 - year - old Englishman has been known as a lawyer, a public school board and criticized Calgary merchants.

Two years ago he fired the first shot in a civic skirmish which eventually saw happy-go-lucky Mayor Don MacKay repulsed at the polls.

"Running a newspaper isn't too different from the military," he says. "It's always walking the tightrope of controversy."

One of his interests—city wholesalers for selling directly to the public.

Some week readers are happy, the next week they're angry," says Mr. Farran. "I don't care whether they love us or hate us. It's indifference that I can't stand."

IRISH DESCENT

Publisher Farran was born in England of Irish descent and educated in India. He fought in North Africa during the Second World War. He was twice wounded, was captured and escaped. In the last year of the war he parachuted behind enemy lines in Sicily, Italy, Albania, Yugoslavia and France, chalking up a DSO, three MCs, the French Croix de Guerre and the French Croix de Guerre.

In 1947, with rank of major, he was sent to troubled Palestine as a special agent in counter-terrorist work. In a skirmish with the notorious Stern gang a 16-year-old boy was killed and Farran was charged with murder. He fled twice during his trial, but was finally acquitted, reduced to captain.

Following a stint as a laborer in England and Scotland, he spent sometime in Africa as a publisher and manager of a newspaper, newspaper syndicate in Kenya.

Here he worked for a time with the daily Calgary Herald. Then, with capital of less than $2,000, he set up the North Hill News. Married, with three children, he also published a rural weekly. He is the author of several books.

"I'm a 100 per cent newspaper work now satisfying," he says. "It's my bread and butter. But I'd like to write more books some day."

AGGRESSIVE PUBLISHER

Roy Farran, publisher of the North Hill News, a Calgary weekly newspaper, is also a writer after a military career marked by heroism, battles with death and counter-terrorist work in Palestine in 1947. Born in England and educated in India, the 39-year-old publisher started the North Hill News six years ago. He has often stirred up controversy with his attacks on personalities and actions of civic government. He is the author of several books and says he prefers that to his work as a newspaper publisher. American Mezzo-Soprano, Mary McMurray, Sings Here

By EUGENE LANG

Due in no small measure to the mid-winter walking conditions the attendance at the third program of the local Community Concert Association held in the Collegiate auditorium last evening was not as large as usual. However those who did brave the elements to attend were rewarded by a vocal recital of unusual merit by the young American mezzo-soprano, Mary McMurray, who made her local debut here before an appreciative audience.

After making her debut in Brussels in 1953 she has appeared widely on the continent in the dual roles of operatic diva and concertizing recitalist. Active in the operatic field covers the wide scope from Mozart to Verdi to Prokofieff and the American roles. Because of her extensive range vocally she has been classified both as a dramatic soprano and a contralto, so that it would not come to the conclusion so quickly. Beautiful tone done by both artists.

Three excerpts from modern American composers were also vocalized with finesse and versatility, demonstrating the many facets of her talent. She also makes up Miss McMurray's socaccompanists.

Of the five encores that were cheerfully endowed the one that especially gave her full vocal range was the colouratura styled "Non piu mesta" from the Rossini's "La Cenerentola". This is a most taxing trade for the soprano voice to sing, but she proved itself no barrier to the quality or quantity of vocal embellishments that emanated from the vocal chords of the singer.

Mr. James Craig of Toronto was the fill-in accompanist for the evening, the stated pianist not being present. Mr. Craig did admirably in nearly every number, with the exception of brushing up in the Handel and Mozart pianissimo. There were not cut as sharply from the cloth of accompaniment as were required, and could detect incisiveness in detail. Miss McMurray has a dramatic voice that portends a recognized future for her in the Hall of Song, but should not descend to the basement of her voice too much as it tends to have a guttural tinge that swords the ear.

Following this most pleasing recital the artist and members of the board of directors of the local association were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Dolan, John St.

The University Women's Club of Belleville met last Thursday evening, in St. Thomas' Parish House, the co-hostesses of the club, Mrs. F. G. Allan, of Belleville, and Miss Jean Howson, of Trenton, provided the program for the meeting.

As an agreeable contrast to the winter weather outside, Mrs. Allan showed slides of the French Canadian villages where her husband lived for some time. The Cezannes are in the equatorial rain forest of Africa, rising from the Atlantic shore to high mountainous regions in the interior.

BEAUTIFUL PICTURES

Mrs. Allan had many beautiful pictures of sunny-towns and open air markets. Some views were dominated by tufted palms or brilliant hibiscus, and as always, many showed the architecture of native children.

After the coloured slides, Mrs. Allan answered a number of questions from her interested audience.

Miss Jean Howson, of Trenton, then introduced, and spoke on some aspects of the pioneering days of the CBC, which she joined in 1936 as the first director of national publicity, Miss Howson was one of the many pioneers which later became the CBC Times.

FAMOUS ARTISTS

Miss Howson is particularly proud of her work in founding Broadcast Music Incorporated. This ensured for the first time that royalties would be paid to Canadian composers whenever their music was broadcast. Many talented musicians are still reaping the benefit of Miss Howson's efforts in this organization.

Mrs. H. T. Lloyd expressed the thanks of the meeting for an entertaining and instructive program.

The mission churches are all self-supporting and all have the same problems. All countries are becoming self-governing minded. Tips for Wives Whose Mates Shovel Snow

TORONTO — This is for women who have snow shovels and husbands to go with them. The Ontario Heart Foundation suggests that you keep these two things in mind:

1. Even if your husband's health is fairly good, insist that he take it easy with that snow shovel.

2. If his heart is not up to par check with his doctor before you permit him to shovel at all.

"Cleaning up after a snowfall," says the Heart Foundation, "should be considered for what it is — a strenuous physical exercise, especially for people not accustomed to regular exercise or heavy labor."

Shovelling heavy snow and pushing stalled automobiles out of snowbanks are among the most physically taxing winter activities. What is more, in cold weather, a person tends to work faster and harder to keep warm, little realizing the tremendous strain his heart is undergoing.

"The sudden demand for more blood from overworked muscles," says the Heart Foundation, "increases the work of the heart."

The younger person in good health who has developed muscles which exercises regularly, ordinarily will not suffer from the heart's overwork as a result of snow shovelling or by pushing a stalled car.

Here are several pointers to remember:

1. If your husband has heart disease, don't permit him to shovel snow or push stalled autos, unless his doctor approves.

2. Consider snow shovelling as you would any other exercise. If your husband is young, healthy and fit, let him shovel away to his heart's content. If he is over 40 and healthy, the rule is to shovel moderately.

3. Tell your husband it is partly your fault if he has shovel snow before and not after eating.

4. It is better for your husband not to shovel snow to the point of exhaustion. The invigorating quality of cold air can help him.

5. Lifting the shovel with the force of his entire body which actually puts more strain on his back and his legs is less taxing than having to lift many carry the entire load.

Still, hand the snow shovel to one of your children or to the boy down the street.

COLOR PHOTOGRAPHER — Alice Payne Stark, who has never taken a photograph in black and white, is charter president of the Color Photographic Association of Canada. She took up photography as a hobby when the gasoline shortage beached the family speedboat during the Second World War. Since the she and her husband, a retired furrier, have travelled through South and Central America in search of unusual subjects for her two 35-mm. cameras and plan further expeditions to the Middle East and Africa. Color Pictures Become Hobby for Orchestra Team

TORONTO (CP)—The wartime gasoline shortage is responsible for Alice Payne Stark's interest in color photography.

Mrs. Stark, the charter president of the Color Photographic Association of Canada, and her husband Wesley, had been content with a summer cottage and a speedboat but gasoline rationing forced them into a second hobby.

Cameras were in short supply, too, but they managed to buy a second-hand model and in March, 1946, they left on a trip to Mexico, their first photographic expedition.

This Easter they will make their fourth visit to Mexico and next August they plan a trip to the Holy Land and Africa, where they hope to photograph the Watussi and Pygmy tribes.

SEEK THE EXOTIC

"We like to go where the music, food, clothing and language are different," Mrs. Stark explained. They have travelled to Guatemala, San Salvador, Honduras, the West Indies, Portugal and South America in search of interesting faces to photograph.

Although the Starks would also like to visit the United Kingdom, Mrs. Stark says it's on the bottom of their travel list.

Visits to native tribes are often difficult to arrange since some are afraid of being exploited.

"The Navajos in the United States were the most difficult" Mrs. Stark said. "They would not be taken of them. She assured them she would use only her two 35 mm. cameras, taking still photos.

Mrs. Stark is a true color photography fan. She has never taken a photograph in black and white.

"Color is very exciting, very new and a lifetime study," she says.

The Starks met when they were playing in an orchestra at a summer pavilion at Lakefield, Ont., near Peterborough. They were married 35 years ago and live in Toronto.

Mrs. Stark, a former piano teacher, has won wide recognition for her photography. Her work has taken prizes in competition, and service clubs and women's organizations have shown her photographs with accompanying recordings as a means of raising money for charity. She stipulates that either all or part of the proceeds go to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind because her first piano teacher, Herbert C. Treneer, is blind.

MODERN MANNERS

QUESTION BOX

Question: When a bride's parents are planning a wedding reception for approximately 200 people, how many of those to be invited may come from the bridegroom's side of the family?

Answer: Unless this important decision is handled with great tact by the parents of the bride, it can start everything off on the wrong foot for both families. The best way to approach it is to have the mother of the bride make a basic list of those she feels must be invited. Taking this list with her she should then talk with the bridegroom's mother and ask her to do the same. Only a certain number can be asked and both sides have a right to include those they think necessary. Within reason, that is. If the final outcome is too many, then an amicable decision should be reached as to whom them as to who should be left out, and who shouldn't!

Question: Here is a little query which may be of interest to your readers, and I would be pleased to have your opinion. My wife has been chiding me because of an incident that took place in the dining room of a local club. We had taken another couple as our guests for dinner and when the dance music started I invited our lady guest to dance. Of course her husband asked my wife to do the same, I have been upbraided by my wife since then because she says that a gentleman always asks his wife to have the first dance. Who is right in this argument?

Answer: You are, It would be completely wrong not to ask a lady who is your guest for the first dance. I think your wife is barking back to the old high school days, when it was considered proper (and still is) that a young man dance the first dance with the girl he is escorting. This certainly does not apply when you are host to women guests. You dance with your wife after you have danced with them the first time.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Nora B. — My sister goes out with married men.

Harriet S. — She has a small town attitude.

Nora B. — I am a happily married woman, mother of three young children. I am worried about my single sister, who is a successful career woman in her early 30's.

Recently I spent a week with Harriet and I must confess I was pretty shocked about a lot of things. I know that Harriet is a fine person and no home-wrecker, but she has a few married men friends and thinks nothing of having dinner with them and going out every evening.

I don't know what the wives of these men think. All I know is it would be furious and wouldn't stand for it — if I knew about it.

Harriet says it's purely platonic and I am sure she wouldn't lie to me, but I worry about her reputation.

• • •

Harriet S. — My naive little sister doesn't realize that there is no such thing as reputation in this world. Nobody knows or cares whom I go out with. Occasionally when we are out, I may meet somebody who knows both me and my date, but that person could easily think we have a business engagement. In any case it's none of anyone's business.

My attitude is that I go out because it's fun to enjoy out of friendship. I certainly don't want to wreck anyone's home and the men I go out with understand that.

The fact is I find married men more interesting than most bachelors. Married men are usually more relaxed and help me relax and enjoy myself. My sister is taking this in a typically small town way.

• • •

The Council: We'll take Harriet's statement at face value and assume she is telling the truth about her motivation.

Nonetheless, she is making a big mistake in two scores.

First, she overestimates the effects of geography on people's minds. A sophisticated city dweller wouldn't be caught dead raising an eyebrow at things that might leave a small towner gasping, but that doesn't mean he doesn't think or gossip — in a sophisticated urban manner, of course.

Second, she is using married men to supply her with an imitation of the pleasure she might have through friendships with eligible men. She has even come to prefer the imitation to the real thing.

We think Harriet should recognize that the relaxed atmosphere she enjoys when she dates a married man is as much her making as it is the man's. It is possible that she feels relaxed because she does not expect anything significant to come out of the relationship. On the other hand, when she dates an eligible man, she feels challenged to achieve something important.

Despite her age and successful business experience Harriet evidently lacks the ability to be herself in a relationship with a single man. This acts as a block against her getting to really know the man.

Harriet should consider the idea that the home she may be wrecking is the one that could be hers.

CONDUCTOR ILL

SEATTLE (AP) — Sir Thomas Beecham, renowned British conductor and composer, is suffering from a heart condition and will not be able to conduct two concerts here next week, a doctor announced Sunday. Dr. Robert H. Barnes said the 81-year-old musician had not suffered a heart attack, but that a strenuous travel and concert schedule had imposed a general strain on the heart.

Appetizing Trifles

This consideration of trifles (liner stalks into 2" lengths, will give a professional appearance to your party meals.

It all started with a letter from a reader: "I have looked in vain for carrot curls and wondered if you could discuss the making of them . . . also celery . . .

There are dozens of cutting, shredding and shaping gadgets in the hardware stores that will remove the tedium from some of these fussy jobs At very low cost you may buy shredders that will shred cabbage and cucumbers and radishes paper thin; scrapers that will shred carrots so thin they may be curled; ball cutters; scalloped cutters; hard-cooked egg slicers; graduated grater; sets; apple corers; curved saw-edged grapefruit and orange knives. If you examine the supplies in large hardwares you will find more. A sharp paring knife is indispensable.

TUESDAY

CARROT CURLS:

With a carrot slicer slice the length of raw scraped carrots paper thin. Gently roll the slices around your finger and fasten with a paper clip. Crisp and set in ice water for about 15 minutes. Remove clip.

CARROT STICKS:

Cut medium or medium-size, tender carrots for sticks. Wash well and scrape; then cut in quarters lengthwise, then cut the quarter into thin strips of the desired size. Never soak strips in water. Serve immediately or wrap in a damp cloth and place in the refrigerator. Never tire longer than an hour for the freshest appearance and flavor.

CELERY CURLS:

Remove outside stalks and use for some other purpose. Cut liner stalks into 2" lengths. Slit one or both ends into narrow slashes of about 3-4". Drop in ice water. Ends will curl.

RADISH ROSES:

Cut off root end, leaving a bit of green stem and leaf for color contrast. With sharp paring knife cut thin petals from sides around to bottom, around radish. Soak in ice water to blossom.

SCORED CUCUMBER SLICES:

Cut off ends. Do not pare. Pull sharp fork firmly down lengthwise surface. Repeat around cucumber. Slice thinly. Chill.

FINELY SHREDDED CABBAGE:

We had a contest. We raced shredding cabbage halves. I used my razor-sharp Feemster shredder ($1.00) and our guest Dortha shredded her half with a sharp knife. I took three minutes, she took twenty. Now my sister objects to this shredder of mine because it is so sharp — but I wear an old white cotton glove every time because I don't want to be cut either, but I'm always in a hurry. Use your own judgment.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Chatham News sports editor Ernie Miller, who plays judo in the Western Ontario Blasters Band, gives forth with a few oomphas designed to whomp the home-town hockey brass, the OHA, and senior hockey in general.

Miller adds his typewriter tizzy to that of the Windsor and Kitchener mill-pounders, other members of the Blair-McFarlands critics' combo.

Miller's first blast-off takes his hometown sponsors to the whipping post. "There are many district hockey fans who have lost faith in the Chatham Hockey Association, Why? Their apparent lack of fortitude to tell their supporters why they favored a five-league round-robin playoff. An explanation of the reasonign behind the decision was made last Friday, but by a 'foreigner' Wren Blair. Mr. Blair is a sweet talker. Only once in his Chatham address did he produce any semblance of sound logic."

In explaining to the public the reasons behind the OHA Senior "A" council's decision to hold a round-robin playoff this year, Blair is accused of peddling it off on the Olympic games. As was quoted in this column a few days back, Blair said the Senior "A" league wanted to give the Olympic Six best players possible. The league teams wanted assurance of a playoff spot before they'd release anybody.

Miller wants to know why, when all clubs knew this was an Olympics year, and the Kitchener Dutchmen required help, didn't the senior council make plans for such a move when they met away back in September. "The answer is simple. They didn't look past their noses. And those are the brains of senior hockey!"

For Mr. Miller's information, and if memory serves correctly, the CAHA gave the Dutchmen permission to recruit 15 players from senior teams all over Canada. They got but one from the west, Cliff Pennington. Thus the onus resolved itself on the Ontario senior league.

The OHA could not foresee the outcome of the CAHA edict. Thus when the Dutchmen were forced to rely on his own league for help, what could the "brains" do but accede to the request of the member clubs?

Miller goes on: "Everybody, it appears, looks on this season as the most mixed up erroneous on record. Many fans are fed up because of the fast shuffles and double-dealing by the senior 'A' council. Now there is swinging to a return to the International League, figuring supposedly, anything is better than the patched-up raise race we're in now."

"One supporter had this idea," Miller goes on. "Return to the International League, using the players who live in Chatham the year round. Add three men from the Wallaceburg Hornets who are capable of International calibre play and there you have a budget plan hockey team. "Its a thought."

It is, and it will likely end in isolated wishful thinking. Windsor is also talking of returning to the International League. Bill Hinchey, Bulldogs' Keeper of the Kennel, has already announced that he will not enter his team in OHA senior play next season.

It seems to this corner Messrs. Butcher, et al, will think twice before next season rolls around. After all they have been legal to Dutchmen gates anywhere from 2,000 to 2,500 consistently with the OHA teams as the drawing cards.

And can anyone believe what Chatham impresarios say after their publicity-revealed financial stunt of withdrawal threat in mid-season. The club had $7,000 tucked away in a bank and were averaging 1,600 at the gate. It was one of the neatest come-on-gimmicks for fans and publicity stunts ever perpetrated.

But in passing and after reading and hearing of the western teams complaints over the round-robin playoffs, it makes one wonder what the McFarlands' stand would have been, had the situation been reversed. And if the western clubs sought the back-door entry into the playoffs?

Anyway, the Maroons are here tonight and will try, through victory, to piggy-back the absent Dutchmen and take over third spot in the league standing.

In The NHL

Outside of Hull Explosion 'Twas Lean Week for Leaders

MONTREAL (CP)—Take away Bobby Hull's brilliant stickwork Sunday night and you have a mighty lean week for the top men on the Dominion Hockey League.

The NHL's nine games produced a total of 61 goals by the six clubs, a better-than-average mark for the attacking units. There were no shutouts.

But the 10 leading men in the scoring parade collected only six goals among them. And four were scored by the fast - blossoming Hull in Sunday night's action.

Other marksmen: Montreal's speedy Dickie Moore (1), Detroit Hocket) Richard and Detroit ace Gordie Howe.

The famine in the upper ranks was perhaps a reflection of the tighter checking the more dangerous scoring threats face in the waning weeks of schedule with an unsettled playoff alignment.

But it no doubt could also be traced in part to the absence from play of Jean Beliveau and Dickie Moore of the Canadiens, a pair of big scoring guns sidelined with injuries.

Hull, the 21-year-old left-winger with Chicago Black Hawks, added an assist to his four-goal cluster and climbed over the all-ng Beliveau into the No. 2 spot in the scoring list.

Smooth-skating Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers duplicated Hull's five-point performance but it took him three games to do it—and it was all playmaking, no goals.

Hull's effort gave him 33 goals and 36 assists for the campaign. Bathgate's total is 25 and 42.

The pace-setting mark of Bronco Horvath of Boston.

The 5-foot-10, 195 - pounder from Point Anne—near Belleville—speaks modestly of his sizzling stick work.

"I'm just lucky," he says. "You can't help but do some scoring when you have guys like Red Hay and Murray Balfour laying the puck over to you."

Since this trio first joined as a unit Dec. 26, it has combined for a total of 35 goals and 40 assists for 75 points in 19 games. His pals are 9-16-25, Hay 7-18—25 and Balfour 14-7—21.

Dutchmen Romp To Easy 12-0 Victory Over Germans

Roll up Impressive Score As Russ Upsets Czechs 8-5, Americans Topple Sweden

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP) —The guys were skating better.

That was how defenceman Jack Douglas of Chatham, who scored three goals, modestly summed up Canada's 12-0 victory over German Monday night in the opening round of the Olympic hockey championship tournament.

Russia and the United States kept pace with Canada but had a much harder time.

The Russians got an exceptional performance from their powerful first-string forward line of Konstantin Loktev, Veniamin Alexandrov and Alexander Almetov. The trio scored five goals and added five assists to defeat scrappy Czechoslovakia 8-5.

The United States, led by Roger Christian, a Minnesota carpenter who scored three goals, whipped Canadian-raised Sweden 6-3.

The Canadians, skating in sports, scored six goals in the first period, another in the second and turned the game into a rout with five more in the last period.

BOTTLED UP

The Germans were hardly able to get out of their own zone during most of the game although the Canadians crowded them with a seeing good skaters.

Canada pelted 58 shots at the German goal. The Germans had 14.

The Canadians scored their first five goals in less than five minutes, and after that the only question was how high they would run up the score.

Fred Etcher, Don Rope and Bob Attersley each scored two goals and Douglas, Alexandrenko, Bob McKnight and Bob Forhan added single goals.

Etcher, 27, on loan from Whitby Dunlops, also had three assists and is the tournament's leading point-getter. The Oshawa star said the Canadians "were hot sparks" and added: "I was surprised at how good the Germans could skate, even though we outplayed them."

FRANCIS RESTMINDER

Douglas, six-foot, 188 - pound rearguard who scored in each period, said Canadian goalkeeper Don Head didn't have much of a workout, but when the pressure was on he remained cool.

The hockeyists have a day off today. Wednesday Canada meets Czechoslovakia, Russia tangles with Sweden and the United States faces Germany.

Only the opening victory of them Canadian and German athletes—turned out for the Canada-Germany match Saturday night. The evening in the partly enclosed 10,000-seat rink can accommodate 8,500.
